All the people privileged to be present will long remember the evening as one of intellectual profit, music, friendship, and fun. Contributing most to the latter was the alertness of Tail Twster, Stanley Garman. If one erred in judgment, in rendition of songs, if one violated some Lion's law (ignorance was no excuse) one was pounced upon by the Tail Twister and only one thing could placate him. It was a dime for the "Kitty." One of the most frequent transgressions was the mention of politics.

Mrs. Harriett Johnson then conducted a true or false quiz on the Bible. Mrs. Vada Wyatt gave a very interesting paper and poem on the Bible. Mrs. Harriett Draggoo read the eleventh chapter of Hebrews, which told us what faith can do. Mrs. Gertrude Borthwich gave a reading on why more people read the Bible than any other book. She also conducted a contest on different verses from the Bible. Mrs. Laura Washler and Mrs Katherine Haller sang, "In the Garden."

Miss Moore, our county demonstration agent, was with us, and gave out patterns for several articles, also gave instructions for Muck Crop Show to be held at Garrett. Next came election of officers, the same efficient ones consenting to hold over another year.

The hostess, assisted by her committee, Mrs. Mabel Welkel and Mrs. Cora Fetters, served a very delicious lunch consisting of pumpkin pie with whipped cream, doughnuts and cider. November meeting will be with Mrs. Harriett Draggoo.

Joseph Koch fell in his door yard in Auburn Monday evening when coming home from work and broke his right leg in two places. He crawled into his car and drove to the police station and they took him home and called the doctor. He is now at his home with his leg in a cast and his mother is staying with him a few days assisting in his care.

THIRD TERM MEANS WAR, CONGRESSMAN GILLIE WARNS

Congressman George W. Gillie will open office quarters in two DeKalb County cities on Saturday —at Garrett in the morning and at Auburn during the afternoon—it was announced this week at his Fort Wayne headquarters.

The Fourth District Congressman, home from Washington for a short visit, will be at the Court House in Auburn from 2 until 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. DeKalb County constituents wishing to discuss Government matters with him have been invited to do so at that time.

Congressman Gillie originally had planned to establish offices not only in Garrett and Auburn, but also in Waterloo, Butler, St. Joe, Spencerville, Ashley and Corunna. These plans were abandoned, however, due to the extended session of Congress.

Constituents in these cities, however, have been urged to take advantage of his Auburn and Garrett visits to discuss their problems with him.

Congressman Gillie plans to return to Washington as soon as Congress resumes regular sessions—probably about the middle of November.

Warning that a third term for the New Deal will mean war for the United States, Congressman George W. Gillie, Republican candidate for reelection, renewed his pledge to work for "peace through strength" at a Republican rally in Fort Wayne last evening.

Stating that the big issue facing the American people today is "the simple but stark issue of war or peace," the Fourth District Congressman urged the election of Wendell L. Willkie and Ray Willis as "insurance against involvement in the European conflagration."

Branding the New Deal party the "war party," Congressman Gillie contrasted the inflamatory war statements of President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace with the peace pledges of Mr. Willkie and Mr. Willis.

He quoted Willkie's Rushville promise that "I shall never lead the United States into any European War," and also quoted the Republican platform as follows: "The Republican party is firmly opposed to involving this Nation in a foreign war."

Endorsing these promises, the Congressman recalled his own pledge of two years ago that he would never vote to send American soldiers to fight and die on the battlefields of Europe.

"I made that promise solemnly and in good faith," he said. "I have not forgotten it. I never will."

Of almost equal importance to the war issue is the issue of the third term, Congressman Gillie declared.

"The New Dealers argue that we should violate the sacred third-term tradition because of the national emergency," he said.

"If there is an emergency calling for Mr. Roosevelt's election for a third term, it must arise from the weakness of our national defense, or the failure of the New Deal to solve the problems of relief and unemployment.

"Both of these emergencies are directly the fault of Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal. They can best be removed by the restoration to power of the Republican Party."

He also warned that "to break the time-honored custom of two terms for the President and elect him for a third, a fourth and a fifth term will launch us on a course that may lead to national destruction."

LADIES LITERARY CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. C. O. KRISE

The third regular meeting of the Ladies Literary Club of St. Joe was held at the home of Mrs. Charles O. Krise, Wednesday evening, Oct. 16.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Inez Hadsell, and the collect was read by Mrs. R. Stanley Garman. Mrs. Glen Cole, lesson leader for the evening, asked all to stand and repeat pledge to our flag, as this was Draft Registration Day. She then gave several interesting articles from the Reader's Digest. A discussion on the question, "Do the women of today tend to make our nation better,. was given with Mrs. Frank Curie on affirmative and Mrs. Leslie Wilbern on the negative.

Mrs. Frank Stevenson presented the special work on "American Citizenship." Cirtic's report was given by Mrs. Fred B. Leighty. Secretary's report by Mrs. Ralph Keeler was read and accepted. After all business was taken care of the meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. Frank Curie, Wednesday evening, October 30th for a Halloween Party, with Gentlemen Guests.

There were thirteen active and one Emeritus member, Mrs. Delora Curie, present. Refreshments consisting of Cheezits, salad, cup cakes and coffee were served.

The Choice Rests With the Voters

"The great issue of this campaign is becoming crystal clear. It is peace or war. Mr. Roosevelt and his New Dealers are the war party. Mr. Willkie and the Republicans are the peace party.

"I always feel pretty smart," remarks Leslie Meek, "after listening to some of the dumb answers on those intelligence programs."

A good politician is a fellow who holds his own and allows the people the right to hold their own.

You can buy silence and that is why we have such a thing as alimony.

The fellow who puts his foot down often finds he hasn't a leg to stand on.

All of us are born free and equal, but a lot of us abuse the privilege of the freedom end of it.

It is the pedestrian who really needs the automobile insurance.

If you don't think time flies buy something on the installment plan.

Another thing that will make it hard for Hitler to find the United States is our billboards.

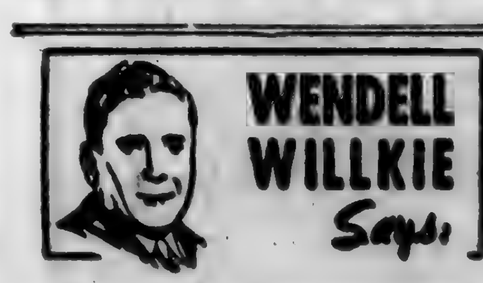
To prove we are manufacturing munition, look at the new shrapnel-sized lip sticks.

Thank heaven we are still spending more money for face powder than for gun powder.

The fellow in St. Joe who insists he runs things at his house, probably means the electric sweeper and the furnace.

A man is innocent until he is proved guilty and then he is usually judged insane.

With this movement to "go South American," it will be so that the chap who can't rumba is unpatriotic.



"In failing to establish recovery, the New Deal has failed the farmer. Factory payrolls and farm income rise and fall together. When farm income is up, farmers buy more manufactured products, and thereby increase employment. It is equally true that city workers buy more farm products when their incomes are increased.

"I have pledged myself to win recovery for America. This pledge is just as important to the farmer as it is to the business man. And I know how to fulfill it. I will, with your help, bring this nation of ours together."

Most of life is gone by the time that you become wise on how to make the most of it.

You may catch a child in his first lie, but wait until he gets a little practice.

We would never be conscious of our faults if everybody was our friend. An enemy is a necessary evil for character building.

We say we don't like flattery but there a lot of us who don't mind listening to it.

The team with the heaviest line doesn't necessarily make the most touchdowns. Strategy still plays a leading role, says R. Stanley Garman.

One thing about riding in a taxi, you don't have to worry about the fenders.

They say it will be a war of starvation. Perhaps bombing is more exciting but starving is slower.

NO CERTAINTY HERE

We are to believe that the change of a season is to be marked by a certain day, as naming a date for the opening of summer and another as the commencing of fall. Most of us have our private opinion about a certain day beginning a season for in our lifetime we noticed that Mother Nature has a way of upsetting dates and fooling prognosticators. Fall does not begin on September 23 throughout the entire country. Ask those who travel whether autumn is at the same time in Maine as it is in Mississippi. Follow the weather through the spring and see how close summer comes to June 21. The people who live in the southern hemisphere tell us that their season after June 21 closer approaches a winter period than summer. Here in St. Joe where our seasons do not agree two years in a row we are of the opinion to go by the change in underwear rather than a change in dates.

LET'S CALM DOWN

When sorely burdened with anxiety which you cannot seem to help, a friend offers the advice, "Don't worry, that won't help." Few of us who are able to shake off our worry forthwith. The chap who insists upon worrying about everything is in for a lot of grief for seeking trouble he finds it and he also forms a bad habit that is not only annoying to himself but makes him a bother to his friends. There is worry that is akin to fear and it comes occasionally and naturally to any man who is capable of deep feeling. A friend in St. Joe has worried himself into a frenzy over the European situation but he still persists in dialing the radio to every and all news broadcasts, he reads every distressing item published on war conditions. He seems to seek his worry in large quantities. We may not be able to "forget it" and it wouldn't be wise for us to do so, but we must not constantly brood over present worries, we must not be carried along by the inner turmoil but be sane and patient, practical and of good faith.

ON GUARD

Manufacture and production points that we are apt to be engaged in a sort of boom this next year due to war orders. There are still folks in St. Joe who remember another time when we "boomed." The man living today who went through it does not desire the war profits that rose, soared, zoomed and crashed. Recall how the cost of living was almost doubled and the unnatural rise in land prices which was fed upon by a fat war-purse. Even with added business and more prosperity than when our dollar value hit high from 1917 until the crash in '21, we do not necessarily have to face the same unhappy procedure. Economists, who should know, tell us that through careful control and logic in the matter of increased wages, control of prices where the demand outruns the supply, and the guarding of credit, all goes to help in not repeating the past experience.

NOT SO DUMB

The young men, recently conscripted, undergo numerous tests, mental and physical, as well as answering many questions covering their personal histories, character, background. When our country entered the World War and put the young men into service military, psychologists of that day reported the average American was about 14 years old, mentally. We suffered in silence each of us feeling this to be an insult but couldn't actually prove the learned men to be in error. Recently, when 1400 scientists of the mind, met in consultation in the East, they agreed there must be a new yardstick to measure the mind of today's young men. They are going to take a fellow's temperament into consideration. He may be smart and yet be a failure in life. It is encouraging to know that you don't have to be an intellectual in order to be intelligent.

THE NATIONAL BIRD

The hunting of duck, pheasant, rabbit, squirrel and deer, with a number of states having laws for the protection of certain birds and animals by banning the bagging of various game, gives us thought for the many states that have joined in protecting our national bird, the bald eagle. There are only seven of the 48 states who do not preserve the eagle by offering it legal protection.

Back in 1782 the eagle was designated as our nation's insignia. Despite the many stories telling of huge birds that swoop down on children, carrying them away to nests, the imagination stretched itself a bit in most cases for the eagle has been proven to carry little over its own weight. There was not much evidence offered to back up the tales. Scientists praise the hawk as a protector of crops from animal destruction. They find that the eagle is not a predatory bird and prefers dead flesh, mice, fish, snakes and rabbits for food. A few states find sport in hunting the bird by airplane due to its destruction to the livestock. However, if there is not better care taken to preserve the life of the eagle we will find ourselves a nation with an emblem of an extinct bird. The king of birds should be protected legally by every state in the union.

AN IMPORTANT DATE

On November 5, if everyone of the 88,312 voters take advantage of their right, there will be that number of voices heard in proclaiming whether or not the Hawaiian Islands will ask for admission as the 49th state of the United States. This is an election to watch for it is part and parcel of American history.

Pearl Harbor, located in the Islands, could accommodate every warship owned by Uncle Sam, and that is an item of importance. The Islands are twenty in number and are so situated that the weather is always soft summertime. They are mountainous and have about a million acres in forest reserves, while farms abound with luxurious growths due to abundant rainfall. The soil is very fertile and consequently fruits and vegetables of tropical and sub-tropical nature are easily produced. There are millions of dollars invested in ranching. You are aware that sugar cane is the chief crop and pineapples rank second. In this prolific land communication is kept open through a system of high grade concrete roads. When discovered in 1778 there was an estimated population of about 200,000 souls, but each census finds fewer of native Hawaiian stock.

This land so often pictured in story and on our screens to typify romance and ukeleles, will be less of dreams and moonlight on November 5 and more of political and historical importance.

BE SURE OF THIS

The time is ripe when all good citizens of this land, troop to the neighborhood voting booths to put down their X to make a choice. We have listened to a lot of speeches and read a lot of items that have helped us formulate our opinions. We have heard both sides in an effort to be fair. Now we are going to be honest and sincere in our individual ways by going to the polls and voting as we consider, right. And as long as we can trod down the road to our voting booth without a gun at our back, to speak our piece, then we can still give thanks for this American privilege even though 40% of American voters didn't exercise this right during the last presidential election.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Because no hamlet is so small that it remains unaffected, the heavy type newspaper topic is registration for the draft. Cribbing a line from Horace, it walks with impartial tread through the palaces of the rich and the hovels of the poor. Popular opinion has it that the palaces are likely to get off easy in the final showdown, but clearly that is a matter of mere arithmetic, there being more hovels than palaces.

Washington, D. C. came forward with 114 thousand registrants. Among them were former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, willing to serve at the age of 76: and a man of eagerly militant mind, but hampered by a wooden leg. Actuated no doubt by a desire for preparedness, General Pershing has had a thorough going over in a hospital, and is declared to be in fine shape. General Pershing did not have to register. It will be recalled that he is in the army already.

An occasional conscientious objector raised his voice, but the enrollment seems to have gone forward quietly all over the land. Loud enthusiasm was heard, but was not the major note. For the most part, the registration was attended to like any other matter of business, which, after all, is the American way of doing things.

The crowding of the campaign and the election off the front page does not indicate that the electorate has no interest in the outcome. War news simply is more snappy and interesting. The election, like the draft, will be taken care of in a routine way.

Distinctly disclaiming an intention of drawing a parallel between Communism and the spirit of the American revolution, titled foreigners probably were about as welcome in the United States a hundred and fifty years ago as an American multi-millionaire is in Russia today.

Times have changed. A Polish countess gets a welcoming hand at the railroad station in Washington, and Crown Princess Martha of Norway, and her family, find a quiet home in rural Maryland. The tempering influence of time of course has to be given weight, but the point which has to be taken most seriously into consideration is that a Democracy offers a safe refuge for anybody who behaves himself.

About a thousand Canadian business concerns of large dimensions are under the control of citizens of the United States. The Canadians do not seem to have the impression that, to that extent, foreigners have them by the throat. On the other hand, people in the States are not worried about the investments in Canada. At least, the steady advance of plans for a joint St. Lawrence River power project, shows that the nations mentioned are not especially suspicious of each other.

Canada slowly but appreciably is shaking off the mistaken notion that the United States is plotting for annexation. The obvious facts are that each country would be decidedly uncomfortable with a Nazi or Communist neighbor, held back only by a line of surveyor's stakes, and that the North American Continent, as such, has interests quite as important as those of nationalism.

The Burma road is of consequence in that it forms a highway from the sea to the Chinese capital. It has been opened, and there has been no opposition so far, but "so far" is not very long.

Despite Japanese threats of doing some bombing, the opening of the path to the ocean has raised Chinese credit literally as well as figuratively. The United States is willing to take care of a further loan to China. Out of 85 million advanced so far, the sum of 35 million has been repaid. Judging by the condition of old World War accounts, that is a good showing.

Liberation of game birds by the Division of Fish and Game and the Conservation Clubs during the present fiscal year will establish a 31-year record for Indiana. It was in 1909 that the first liberation of game birds was made in Indiana although it was not until 1930 that the first propogation farm was established. From that year when 432 game birds were released, the annual production has increased steadily. During the past fiscal year, ending June 30, 1940, 177,411 game birds were liberated by the Division of Fish and Game and the Conservation Clubs. Incomplete figures on liberations during the present fiscal year indicate that the 1939-40 year will be exceeded by several thousand birds.

DIRECTORS VOTE TO HOLD COUNTY FAIR NEXT YEAR

The 1940 deficit of the DeKalb County Fair Association amounted to $773.10, it was revealed in a financial report read at a meeting of the directors of the association Friday night in the commissioners' court at the DeKalb County court house. The fair this year was postponed just two weeks before the opening night because of public sentiment regarding the threat of infantile paralysis.

The directors voted to send a financial statement of the loss to H. M. Messenger, who stated the night the fair was abandoned that he believed a fund could be raised in the community to reimburse the fair association if the organization felt such a procedure was necessary.

By unanimous vote, the directors present voted to hold a DeKalb County Fair in 1941. The site of the next year's event will not be decided upon until a later time.

The officers for 1941 were selected Friday night. Noah Yoder of Auburn, president; Dr. F. A. Hall, of Garrett, first vice president; H. E. Hart, Auburn, second vice president, and Buster Hetrick, of Jackson Township, secretary, were all re-elected to serve for another year. Guy Myers, of northwest of Auburn, the Union Township Trustee, was elected treasurer, succeeding John Haggarty, of Auburn.

It was also decided Friday night to hold the annual stockholders' meeting at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, December 3, at a place to be announced later. At that time eight directors and one director-at-large will be elected, completing the organization for the 1941 fair.

The memberships purchased for the 1940 fair will be honored at the 1941 event and concessions will also be made to 1940 advertisers. Dr. Hall urged that all directors attend all meetings which will be held within the near future, as many important decisions are to be made within that time.

Total receipts in 1940 were $1,123,81, a large share of which was income from the premium book and deposits made by concessionaires, while the total expense was $1,896.90, making a deficit of $773.10. Telegrams alone, informing concessionaires and other persons of the cancellation of the 1940 fair, cost $15.31. Only three concessionaires, who had paid a total of $40 for a deposit on their street space, have not been located as yet.

War OR Defense

THE presidential campaign, as it grows in intensity day by day, challenges thoughtful minds more fully than any other during the last eighty years.

In the two leading contenders, President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie, we have two flashing personalities. As the campaign proceeds, however, thoughtful voters will take increasing care to see to it that the brilliance of neither of them obscures the fundamental issues at stake.

Stripped of all other political questions great and small, the one paramount issue is, "Shall this, our present form of democracy, be retained or must the nation proceed with the avalanche speed of the last few years toward a highly centralized bureaucratic government, having within itself the power to sustain itself without decision on the part of the people?"

It is apparent that men and women everywhere sense the crucial import of this question, whether they have analyzed it or not. And that explains the unusual character of the fight that is being waged in behalf of Wendell L. Willkie in every state in the union.

The Willkie Clubs have sprung into existence without political leadership or party jurisdiction. Their millions of members, for the most part, are men and women who heretofore have taken little part in politics. They are made up of independent voters, small business men and women and young people. They fear the effect of a Third Term, not because of traditions against it, but because of the deep-seated feeling that the American principle of representative government is in danger.

But not even this historic contest between Willkie who would preserve the American principle and Roosevelt who regards it as a relic of horse and buggy days can submerge another constant thought that is in the mind of every American citizen: "Will America get into the war?"

Abhorrence of war is as deep-rooted in American life as the common love for liberty. In casting his vote on Election Day, each voter is going to ask himself which candidate is most likely to avoid war. Both have said they do not want war.

Very definitely the American public has decided that the only real security against war is in armed defense so invincible that no power will dare attack us. In times of great crisis, the people have always been moved to rely with hopeful hearts upon their government. Now they are sorely perplexed. They have questioned little, if any, of the billions of dollars that have been appropriated. They remember that war clouds have been hanging heavy on the horizon for more than a year. They have accepted with traditional patriotism a law conscripting their young men. Nevertheless, they know battles cannot be fought by men alone without guns and airplanes.

Something seems to be wrong at Washington. With all appropriations available for production, purchase and expansion of armaments, progress is slow. As late as October 1st, it was found that the army and navy together have only about 500 planes suitable for first-line fighting. The remainder are training-ships or airplanes of secondary importance. At the present rate of progress, some reliable sources estimate that we will have no more than a thousand additional first-line planes by January 1st, 1942. The Army had as of Oct. 1 of this year, only about 500 tanks and one half of them are obsolete. It had 372 anti-aircraft guns, only one of which is of an approved modern type, and that is not enough to defend one city.

Voters, therefore, are asking themselves: "Can we trust the present red tape and slow-moving bureau control to get action and to get it quickly, or, in the light of past failures, is not speedy, efficient arming by the present administration merely a forlorn hope?"

Upon rapid production of implements of war, rests the hope of American fathers and mothers for the protection of their homes and the safeguarding of their sons now to be inducted into military service.

Wendell Willkie, not Franklin Roosevelt, has the experience and genius in production and in mobilization so terribly needed at this tragic time. Thoughtful voters, whether calling themselves business men or workers, want armaments now, not years hence. They want guns, munitions and airplanes in reality and not "on order."

R. H. C. CLUB DOINGS

Our president, Mrs. Gladys Hart, was hostess to the R. H. C. Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 22nd. As eight of our members have October birth dates, she planned a little surprise in their honor. All were required to enter by front door and were met by a butler, in full livery, (Florence T.) who took their cards and presented to hostess for approval. Then they were allowed to enter. Each October member was required to make a special parade following the butler into an adjoining room where they left their wraps.

The president then called meeting to order and Mrs. Eleanor Crothers read in a charming manner a poem, "October" by Frank Carlton Nelson. The response to roll call was "Our favorite cooking utensil." After the usual business meeting the entertainment committee took charge. Hazel Washler had two contests. An original Halloween story contest, which was very amusing and a "Pie Contest" which revealed the fact that the ladies were only mildly pi-us. Ruth Key had a clever punch board contest, which proved to be a stunt affair and if no response another stunt was given as a penalty. Much hilarity resulted.

Ellen Hart and Florence Trostel gave a playlet, "Pa takes Ma to R. H. Club," and much merriment met this number. Florence read an original poem dedicated to the October birthdays, followed by Ruth Key at the piano and the song "Happy Birthday To You" October born. At the close the curtains were drawn and hostess invited all into the dining room where two long tables were set for twenty. Both were tastefully decorated with flowers and each member found their initials on a lovely shell that the hostess brought from Florida and presented as favors.

At each place was also a spray of bittersweet, a Halloween napkin, table service and a plate of Waldorf salad, a nested relish. On table were also plates consisting of shredded lettuce with pickled beets and eggs, cucumber pickles, candy corn and licorice beans, after dinner mints and a huge birthday cake with "October Birthdays." The plates were served with escalloped oysters and open faced decorated sandwiches. Hot coffee was served with both courses.

The second course was brick ice cream with pumpkin centers and angel food cake. The October ladies gave the hostess and committee a rising vote of thanks and all departed feeling it was a most enjoyable occasion. There were five children present also. Next meeting November 5th with Grace Laub.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

NO CURE IS KNOWN FOR BANG'S DISEASE

Despite advertised claims, backed by testimonials, there still is no cure for Bang's disease, the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry reports to Dr. C. R. Donham, head of the veterinary department of the Purdue University Agricultural Experiment Station.

Recent tests conducted by the Bureau in cooperation with the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Station give further evidence of the inability of "remidies" either to prevent exposed animals from contracting the disease or cure those that already have it.

For these tests the investigators selected the two products believed to be most widely advertised and used as remedies for Bang's disease. The products were tried on 97 heifers.

Before the test was begun the heifers were tested several times to make certain that they were free of the disease. Then the investigators deliberately exposed the animals to the disease, and again tested them to be sure that all were infected. More than half of the animals were given one or the other of the remedies, according to the directions of the manufacturers. Some were treated before exposure to the disease, and some after exposure.

Of the 97 heifers used in the test, 94 of them lost their calves by abortion or gave birth to calves so weak they died soon after. Only three gave birth to calves that lived.

The Bureau, says Dr. Donham, analyzed one of the remedies and all it could find was brown sugar, wood creosote, and ash. The Bureau also has tested many materials in search of an effective cure, including several antiseptic dyes, carbolic and hydrochloric acids, forms of iodine, and the powerful drug sulphanilamide. Not one was effective.

The veterinarian says farmers often get the idea a product is a remedy for Bang's disease because the disease itself fools them. It breaks out in a herd, and for a year or so, cow after cow aborts and loses her calf. In desperation the farmer obtains a '.remedy" he has seen or heard advertised. He gives it to the cows and the disease seems to die out.

The tests bear out the opinion of the Federal and State veterinarians that the disease is only following its natural course, says Dr. Donham. Without treatment of any kind, the disease appears to be dying out in many instances a year or so after striking the herd.

Most of the affected cows still carry the disease, the Purdue specialist points out, and may pass it on to any new animals brought into herds and eradicating diseased animals, conducted by the Bureau of Animal Industry and cooperating States in recent years, is at present the approved method of combating the disease.

WINGS OVER JORDAN APPEAR IN FT. WAYNE NOV. 1

The nationally-famous "Wings Over Jordan" Choir of 36 Negro voices will appear in concert at the Shrine Auditorium, Fort Wayne, on Friday evening, at 8:15 P. M., November 1st., under the auspices of the Wheatley Social Center for the benefit of their Building Fund.

Wings Over Jordan is dedicated to the lovers of Negro Spirituals, with 36 voices blended perfectly, each singing with pathos, humility and courage. The story of "Wings Over Jordan" reveals the keen foresight and hard work of two men who developed this group of true natural singers that have won the praise of nation-wide audiences and critics. In 1937, the Rev. Glenn T. Settle, pastor of the Gethsemane Baptist Church, Cleveland, O., first conceived the idea of a Negro radio hour. Together with Worth Kramer, program director of the Cleveland Radio Station WGAR, he outlined the program. Mr. Kramer, a singer himself, saw great possibilities and gathered the most unusual and beautiful spirituals now sung by the "Wings Over Jordan" Choir, arranged them for choral singing and has completed an unusually fine repertoire. Recently "Wings Over Jordan" completed its 142 consecutive Sunday morning broadcast over the Columbia network and 194 concerts throughout 31 states and the District of Columbia.

Ticket prices for this recital are 50c; 75c; and $1.00 and may be secured by writing the Shrine Box Office or the Wheatley Social Center, 421 E. Douglas Ave., Fort Wayne, Indiana.

DENIES AN APPEAL OF WELFARE BOARD

The state board of tax commissioners Saturday reported to County Auditor Burley Ensley that it had denied an appeal of the county welfare board for an increase in its tax levy for 1941 from 7 cents on the $100 valuation to 10 cents.

The welfare department had set up a rate of 10 cents in its budget, but this was reduced by action of the county council and the county tax adjustment board to 7 cents. The council and the adjusters did not consider as necessary such large operating balances as the welfare board proposed. The state commissioners approved the action of the council and the adjustment board.

Other reductions were ordered by the state board as follows:

Poor funds: Butler Township, from 20 cents, to 14 cents; Fairfield, 13 cents to 11; Franklin, 60 cents to 54; and levies of 2 cents each in Jackson and Spencer Townships were cancelled.

Tuition rate in Butler Township, from 41 cents to 39.

In Concord Township, budget classification of traveling expense cut from $135 to $125, the statutory maximum.

Fairfield Township, traveling expense item cut from $150 to $125 and tuition levy decreased from 33 cents to 29 owing to underestimate of receipts.

Franklin Township, traveling expense item cut from $140 to $125; township fund rate, from 14 cents to 13; special school fund, from 67 to 56; and tuition, from 25 to 23, the reductions being made because of underestimate of receipts and high operating balances.

Grant Township traveling expense item cut from $165 to $125.

Keyser Township tuition rate cut from 46 cents to 42.

Richland Township traveling expense item cut from $135 to $125.

Smithfield Township school bond fund rate cut from 55 cents to 50.

Union Township office rent item cut from $110 to $100, the statutory maximum for this class township; traveling expense from $210 to $150; township fund rate, from 2 cents to 1; special school fund rate from 55 cents to 49; and tuition fund rate from 63 to 56.

Altona general fund rate cut from 66 cents to 62.

Ashley general fund rate cut from $1.20 to $1.18.

Corunna general fund rate cut from 96 cents to 88.

St. Joe general fund rate cut from 72 cents to 64.

Waterloo general fund rate cut from $1.50 to $1.22 owing to underestimate of receipts and error of $1,500 in budget.

Butler town general fund rate cut from 82 cents to 74.

Butler school tuition fund rate cut from 10 cents to 8.

Reductions in rates were made, according to the board, chiefly because of underestimates of receipts and excessive operating balances.

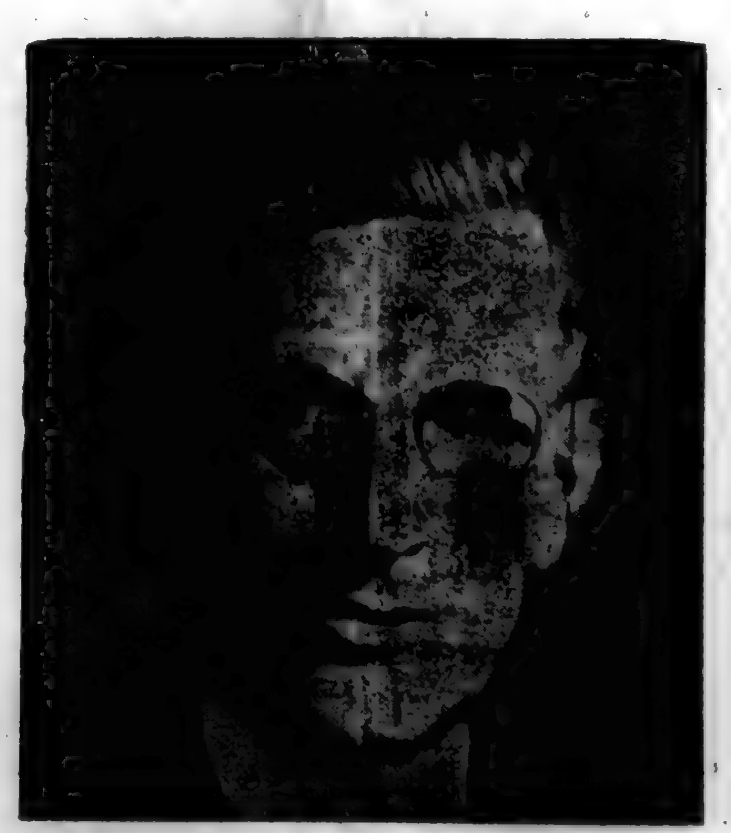
Popular Choice for Congress - - - -



Congressman Geo. W. Gillie

An overwhelming favorite for re-election at the polls next Tuesday is Congressman George W. Gillie, Fourth District Republican, whose record as a first-term member of the House of Representatives has earned him popular support. Two years ago Congressman Gillie carried every county in the Fourth District, winning in DeKalb County by a vote of 7,251 to 5,215. His margin of victory this year is expected to be as large or larger.

LAW LIMITS USE OF NIGHT-RUNNING DOGS

Night-running dogs must be kept up from sunset to sunrise for fifteen days before the opening of the trapping season which begins November 15 north of U. S. 40 and Nov. 25 south of U. S. 40, it was pointed out by Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation.

The law enacted in 1939 provides that, "It shall be unlawful for any person for a period of fifteen days prior to the open season on raccoon to run or chase any fur-bearing animal with or by use of dogs or to permit their dogs to run or chase any fur-bearing animal between the hours of sunset and sunrise."

OUR SCHOOL NOTES IN GENERAL

On Friday night, in the high school gym, St. Joe H. S. opens its major athletic campaign of the year when the local boys meet the Ashley H. S. basketball squad. No reports of the strength of the Ashley team have reached St. Joe, but since they can always be counted on to furnish stiff opposition, a hot game is anticipated.

After seeing the St. Joe boys in action during the inter-class games, some great things are expected by the local fans.

Coach Garman has not yet selected his starters for the Friday game, but they will be chosen from the following squad:

Seniors: Jack Goodwin, Marcel Pugsley, Frank Curie, Richard Davis, Chalmer Shuff, Robert Shoudel, DuWayne Haynes and Don Cook.

Juniors: Franklyn Sechler, Richard Reed, Junior Freeburn, Maurice Hurni, Harold Yeiser, George Argerbright.

Another in a series of educational programs was given Tuesday when Edgar F. Cox told stories of experiences and presented a film showing scenes taken by him during Admiral Byrd's expedition to the South Polar regions.

A number of students are planning to attend a concert for school children which is being presented by Rubinoff, with his violin, and Solito de Solis, a concert pianist in the community gym at Huntington, Wednesday afternoon, November 6.

Rubinoff is a violinist who is well known through his radio work. Solis, too, is considered an outstanding artist. Reports from other engagements are that he is remarkable "in his own right."

Though Italian, Solis' ancestors came from Spain, of an extremely artistic family. His father and two brothers are well known writers and a third brother is a gifted painter. Solis began to show musical talent at the age of four, and at ten he began his studies at Leipzig Conservatory.

When Rebinoff heard Solis he was so impressed that he invited the artist to join in his tour of 100 cities this season.

The organization sponsoring the appearance of these artists has done a worth while service in making it possible for grade and high school students to both see and hear these artists for 10c and 25c respectively.

From close-ups and long shots of the new auto picture for 1941, there is much in store in luxury and beauty and service for the owner of one of these new cars. There are shining models that grace the streets of St. Joe. As well as appealing to the eye they have added features for safety which appeals to the better judgment. Auto engineers have surely done wonders in protecting us from ourselves with the installing of greater glass area both front and sides, sealed-beam lighting for night riding, special lights for fog, extra signal lights, new widths in seating arrangements, all-steel bodies and new type frame structures, improvements in safety glass, eliminating of shock to the steering wheel, new sort of tires for wet pavements, special kind of air-conditioning and so on. We should leave much of this to some salesman who will delight in giving you the dope first handed.

FORWARD, POTATOES

As most of us already know, Germany produces almost ten times the average U. S. potato crop. Being the world's largest producer she has turned attention to utilizing this potato for something else besides eating and has put it to a test for industrial purposes. Germany consumed about 30% of the crop for food, 15% to seed, 38% for feeding live stock and 10% lossage. The remainder they are trying to use in the manufacturing end. While alcohol eats up many millions of bushels, the place of alcohol has been taken by more desperate demands for motor fuel, chemicals, medicines. Starch has long been a product as well as starch-byproducts. This holds true in our country where the manufacture of soap from potatoes has progressed. Dyestuffs and resins used in making matches are employed through courtesy of the lowly spud. Seldom do we think, as a dish of steaming potatoes graces the board in St. Joe, that there reposes in skins of brown, potential soap, starch, matches and fuel.

FOR SERVICE RENDERED

With an ache or pain today, the habit of many is to locate a specialist noted for the specialized treatment of such a complaint. In seeking this sort of medical attention and the services of large city hospitals, the small town doctor has been relegated to a back seat in some communities. There will always be those among us who recognize the ability of home town physicians, of the respect they draw and the commendable way they have served for these many years. Practicing medicine in a small town has its drawbacks. Demands are made upon the time and strength of the country doctor that the city doctor does not need to bear. The doctor who knew the family from way back, has a personal interest that calls him to unhesitantly answer. Nearby hospitals offer modern equipment to save human lives, and fast means of transportation get the sick to these institutions. The country doctor used to travel mud roads in horse and buggy, operate with badlighting due to smoky kerosene lamps, and spend hours by bedsides to save the children of parents and grandparents whom he had known and served before them. Perhaps he wasn't so methodical in his bookkeeping and a monthly statement was not prompt in the issuing. There was as much concern over a case where the doctor wouldn't receive a cent as over the fewer cases where the charge would be instantly paid. Each town and village over the contryside still have their doctors who live in the hearts of the people. A new order of physicians may have taken their place on the roster of service but no one can take from the old-time country doctor the reward he so rightly deserves. Valor for services rendered.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

A long time ago, a poet wrote the words of a song about Ireland, in which that territory was described as "the most distressed country that ever you have seen: theyr'e hanging men and women there for wearing of the green." The "they" referred to were the English.

The cablegrams have it that the Emerald Isle is ready to open its gates to British refugees. The war has resulted in a general drawing of hatchets. There is refreshment in the news that here and there one is being buried.

It took a long while for England and Ireland to become friends rather than enemies. The change from friendship to enmity was almost an over night job, so far as England and France are concerned.

Making allowance for the fact that the heat is being applied to France, the report that the Nazis are dickering for the French navy has an unpleasant sound. If France is entering into the transaction with the free will that is necessary to a valid contract, her action is an instance of the basest ingratitude that history records.

Those on the ground floor seem sure of the determination of France to save her own pet at the expense of her aforetime ally. The result looked for in connection with the conference between Marshal Petain and the Fuehrer is rumored to be a wholesale peace movement against Britain. This too may be more than a canard, of the pure blood parentage which Germany prizes so highly.

The reason why Germany should come to the front, as a large scale ship purchaser, is not far to seek. The supremacy of England on the seas is recognised by all, Germany included. Italy, never overburdened with shipping, has lost almost a dozen warships.

The Channel has to be crossed before Germany can attempt to repeat what happend on the plains of France. At present, German means for effecting a crossing are inadequate.

The first draft evader has been put away speedily and quietly, for a rest of something more than two years. He is alleged to have said in substance that there was nothing in the United States that was worth defending. A jail term will accomplish good for all of that cast of mind. There is no occasion for going into the question as to whether or not he avoided the draft.

Mr. Hitler promises a "surprise," to be sprung shortly after election day, and alleged to be of vital effect on the people of the United States. There has been so much shouting of "wolf," that bearers have become somewhat hardened and skeptical.

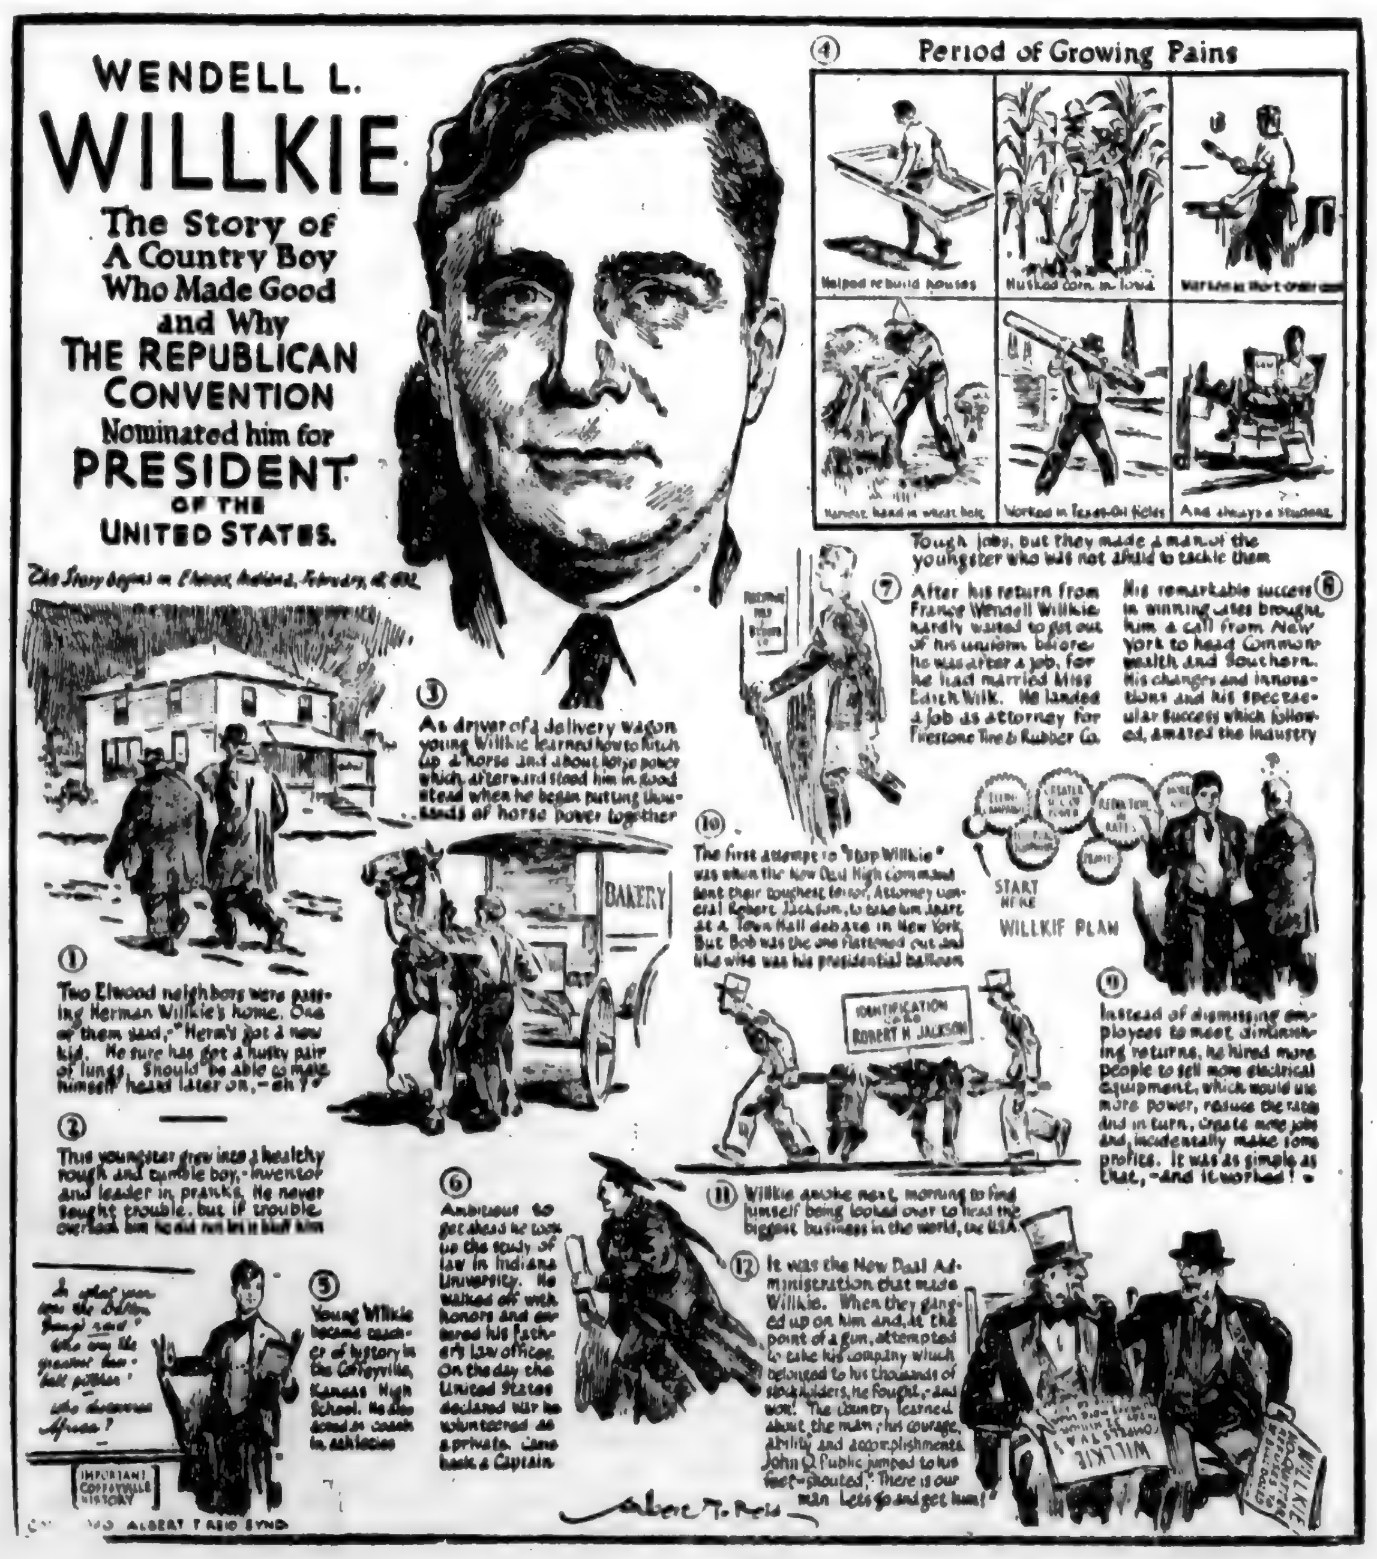
Fostered by carefully planned propaganda, the notion has come to be widely accepted that Germany can do about as she pleases. The question has been assumed to be, not what she is capable of accomplishing, but what she wills to do.

The actual condition of the Fatherland is a secret which is carefully guarded. The future may disclose that at present she is living in a house of glass.

Without relaxing vigilance, it might be a wise plan to cease to stand in awe, and to recognize the possibility that many Teutonic threats are no more than so much bunk. The Nazi government has given itself away, to a certain extent, by an open reliance on means and measures which have no utility save to spread fear.

The army soon to be assembled will be supplied with hostesses, a calling respectable and useful elsewhere, and likely to maintain its honorabe reputation under new conditions.

The War Department is in receipt of many letters from wives and mothers protesting the creation of the hostess' rank. Maybe it is the hubby and not the hostess that is under suspicion, but there seem to be some home folks who want to see to it that in the camps there will be no chance to "drink to me only with thine eyes and I will drink with mine."



WENDELL L. WILLKIE
The Story of A Country Boy Who Made Good and Why THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION Nominated him for PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.
The Story begins in Elwood, Indiana, February 18, 1892.
① Two Elwood neighbors were passing Herman Willkie's home. One of them said, "Herm's got a new kid. He sure has got a husky pair of lungs. Should be able to make himself heard later on, —eh?"
② This youngster grew into a healthy rough and tumble boy, inventor and leader in pranks. He never sought trouble, but if trouble overtook him he did not let it bluff him.
③ As driver of a delivery wagon young Willkie learned how to hitch up a horse and about horse power which afterward stood him in good stead when he began putting thousands of horse power together
BAKERY
④ Period of Growing Pains
Helped rebuild houses
Husked corn in Iowa
Harvest hand in wheat fields
Worked in Texas Oil fields
And always a student
Tough jobs, but they made a man of the youngster who was not afraid to tackle them
⑤ Young Willkie became teacher of history in the Coffeyville, Kansas High School. He also acted as coach in athletics
IMPORTANT COFFEYVILLE HISTORY

⑥ Ambitious to get ahead he took up the study of law in Indiana University. He walked off with honors and entered his father's law offices. On the day the United States declared war he volunteered as a private. Came back a Captain.
⑦ After his return from France Wendell Willkie hardly waited to get out of his uniform before he was after a job, for he had married Miss Edith Wilk. He landed a job as attorney for Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.
⑧ His remarkable success in winning cases brought him a call from New York to head Commonwealth and Southern. His changes and innovations and his spectacular success which followed, amazed the industry

⑨ Instead of dismissing employees to meet diminishing returns, he hired more people to sell more electrical equipment, which would use more power, reduce the rates and in turn, create more jobs and incidentally make some profits. It was as simple as that, —and it worked!
⑩ The first attempt to "Stop Willkie" was when the New Deal High command sent their toughest tenor, Attorney General Robert Jackson, to take him apart at a Town Hall debate in New York. But Bob was the one flattened out and like wise was his presidential balloon ⑪ Willkie awoke next morning to find himself being looked over to head the biggest business in the world, the U.S.A.

⑫ It was the New Deal Administration that made Willkie. When they ganged up on him and, at the point of a gun, attempted to take his company which belonged to his thousands of stockholders, he fought, —and won! The country learned about the man, his courage, ability and accomplishments. John Q. Public jumped to his feet —shouted, "There is our man. Lets go and get him!"

To My Friends in DeKALB COUNTY:

As you know, I am a candidate for re-election as Judge of our court on the Republican Ticket.

It has been my belief that the duties of the court should keep me here. It has, therefore, not been possible to make a campaign or to write a large number of letters, as is often done by candidates.

Rather I must depend upon my friends, who know the work I have done here.

I would not ask or expect support, did I not know that I have given my very best efforts in your behalf.

No one will say that the law has not been enforced in DeKalb County.

May I depend upon your vote and a good word to your friends?

REPUBLICAN

Candidate for Re-Election to Office of

TREASURER

(DeKalb County)

Your Vote Next Tuesday will be Greatly Appreciated.

Would You Like to:

Stop further centralization of Government. Give township, city and county officials more control of local government.

Reduce the cost of operating the State government.

Exempt no organization from the corrupt practice acts.

Repeal the so-called Weight Tax law and enact one that is fair to the people who own trucks and also to the state.

Old Age Pension laws should be changed so that old people need not be dispossessed of their property in order to receive a pension; also the administration costs should be reduced and the savings given to the aged.

If you agree with me on these suggestions your vote in November will be appreciated.

INDIANA VOTERS TO CHOOSE REPUBLICAN LEADERSHIP

When on November 5, Indiana's million and a half voters crowd to the polls, they will determine the political fate of more than one fellow Hoosier, who as a major party nominee, seeks to establish a public service residence in Washington, D. C.

This reminder of 1940 election importance is emphasized in a bulletin issued from headquarters of the Republican State Committee at Indianapolis:

"What Indiana will do for this troubled nation," predicts the bulletin, "is provide it fourteen hustling Hoosiers—all of them able, energetic and sincere. First and foremost of the lot will be Wendell L. Willkie, the Elwood executive so sorely needed at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue; another will be Raymond E. Willis, the Angola publisher, whose senate election this year will not be repudiated by a New Deal 'late count.' The dozen remaining will constitute Indiana's delegation to the House of Representatives of the United States Congress, and by a united stand behind a courageous President, this group can best translate into effective legislation the Republican program to revitalize America."

Indiana's present House membership includes seven Republicans, all of whom have been renominated. With five others chosen by primary election voters, the G. O. P. Congressional ticket is as follows:

First district, M. Elliott Belshow, of Hammond; Second, Charles A. Halleck, of Rensselaer; Third, Robert A. Grant, of South Bend; Fourth, George W. Gillie, of Fort Wayne; Fifth, Forest A. Harness, of Kokomo; Sixth, Noble J. Johnson, of Terre Haute; Seventh, Gerald W. Landis, of Linton; Eighth, Charles F. Werner, of Evansville; Ninth, Earl Wilson, of Vallonia; Tenth, Raymond S. Springer, of Connersville; Eleventh, Maurice G. Robinson, of Anderson; Twelfth, James A. Collins, of Indianapolis.

He Stands for Peace

This is how Wendell Willkie, Republican candidate for president, looked in 1917 when he volunteered for service as a private in the army one month after the United States declared war. After four months of intensive training he was commissioned a lieutenant, then spent a year in training camps in this country and served several months under fire in France.

Having first-hand knowledge of the horrors of war, Mr. Willkie has made this solemn pledge to the American people:

"If you elect me president I give you my word of honor I will never send an American boy to the shambles of the trenches of a European war."

More Jobs, Less Taxes Is Willkie's Pledge

"It is absolutely impossible," Wendell Willkie, Republican candidate for president, declares, "for a government to go on supporting a growing number of unemployed. Somebody has to pay the bill. And that bill is going to be paid by those who have jobs.

"The average income per individual in the United States last year was only $540. The average tax paid per individual was $110. One-fifth of our national income goes for taxes. And the biggest item on the tax bill, aside from defense, is relief for the unemployed. Taxes don't anywhere near cover it. So the New Deal borrows the money.

"In seven and one-half years it has borrowed $22,000,000,000. This can't go on indefinitely. The one and only remedy for this increasing public debt is jobs.

"Now what makes jobs? Business makes jobs. Little business, big business, corporations, partnerships and small companies. Under our system if we are going to have jobs we have got to have employment. Measured by the standard of our growth (1900 to 1929) we are short about 700,000 enterprises, short 700,000 employers."

"The New Deal has helped make unemployment by picking on business. Under the New Deal the employer who puts up money to make a profit has been in the dog-house. I am not interested in profits as such. I am not interested in employers as such. But I am interested in both employers and profits as a means of making jobs for those who are unemployed, better jobs for those employed."

On High Authority

A Democratic candidate for President, in an address delivered in New York on Nov. 3, 1932, said something which can hardly be improved upon as an answer to the New Deal's prize argument for the third term. "A great man," he declared, "left a watchword that we can well repeat — 'There is no indispensable man'." The "great man" referred to was Woodrow Wilson and the speaker was Franklin D. Roosevelt!

CONG. GILLIE FAVORED FOR RE-ELECTION

Many thousands of voters in DeKalb County and Northeastern Indiana will go to the polls next Tuesday to cast their votes—with more than ordinary enthusiasm—for one of the best-loved officials in the Fourth District—Congressman George W. Gillie, of Fort Wayne, Republican candidate for re-election.

Judging from the results of past elections, in which he has always led his ticket, Congressman Gillie can count on receiving the support not only of members of his own party, but of many Democrats as well.

One reason for the year-after-year popularity of Congressman Gillie (who is "Doc" to his countless friends) is that success hasn't gone to his head. He isn't high-hat. He has been described as being "as common as an old shoe" and people like him and admire him for it. They'll tell you that "Doc" Gillie is as honest as he is big-hearted.

Down in Washington, were Congressman Gillie has been representing this District for the past two years, his colleagues have come to know him as an able legislator, conscientious in his committee work and his attention to business. Following are some of their estimates of him:

"A swell Congressman"—Rep. Jack Anderson, 8th California District.

"A stalwart American and a hard worker"—Rep. Carl T. Curtis, 4th Nebraska District.

"When they make them any finer, they will be like 'Doc' Gillie"—Rep. Charles Hawks Jr., 2nd Wisconsin District.

"An able legislator and a swell fellow"—Rep. James Seccombe, 16th Ohio District.

"With George Gillie in the front ranks, the G. O. P. in Indiana is sure to go places"—Rep. Robert W. Kean, 12th New Jersey District.

"Big in body, brain and heart"—Rep. Clarence J. Brown, 7th Ohio District.

"George Gillie's sincerity is matched only by his big-heartedness"—Rep. Lewis D. Thill, 5th Wisconsin District.

Two years ago, when he ran for Congress the first time, the New Dealers said he couldn't be elected. Hadn't they carried the District three times in a row? But "Doc" went on running just the same. And he ran so fast and so far that he received the heaviest majority ever given a Congressional candidate in this District. He piled up a vote of 7,251 in DeKalb County and carried every county in the District (for the first time in history,) including Adams and Wells.

When campaign time rolled around this year, Congress was still in session, dealing with national defense problems. Times were critical. War fever was rampant in the East. Many felt that Administration policies were leading us into the European conflagration.

Believing that Congress should remain in session as a safeguard against possible war involvement, and fearing Administration efforts to force an adjournment, Congressman Gillie decided that his place was in Washington—not on the campaign front. So he stayed on the job until adjournment efforts were abandoned, coming home only a short time before the election.

On next Tuesday, voters of the Fourth Indiana District, Republicans and Democrats alike, will have an opportunity to record their appreciation of Congressman Gillie's unselfish devotion to the interests of his constituents. Indications are that they will express it with an even larger vote of confidence than they gave him two years ago.

Walter D. Stump

Candidate for the Office of

JUDGE

of DeKalb Circuit Court

Born and raised on farm in Noble County, Indiana. Principal of home High School three years. Admitted to bar in 1914 and has practiced law in DeKalb County ever since, excepting two years and three months of army service during World War. Enlisted in Company K at Auburn shortly after outbreak of World War and served as Captain of Field Artillery with A. E. F. in France. Active in social, community and patriotic enterprises. Member of Presbyterian Church, American Legion and Auburn Chamber of Commerce. Believes the Judge of our court should always strive to exemplify this ideal: "He should be conscientious, courteous, patient, punctual, just and impartial; he should be indifferent to political and partisan influences; he should administer justice according to law and consider his responsibilities as a public trust."

ONCE I COULD VOTE, TOO!

Once like you, I was a free man! A Frenchman!

Politicians made speeches to me, too!

They spoke about our impregnable democracy.

They told me what they were doing to protect my standard of living and my working conditions.

They promised my family safety through preparedness.

But they weren't even honest with me! They let me down.

I found that out when I had to give up my job to go to war—at the same time that I found out you couldn't stop tanks with bodies, that you couldn't halt bombs or buy peace with promises.

Now they are holding trials to find out whose fault it was. But I know—

It was MY fault!

I voted for the easy way.

I voted for the beguiling voice.

I voted for the politician, not the man.

I was one of a nation of free men who did not prize freedom. Today I am not free.

I repeat, it was my fault. But it was I who paid the penalty. I, with my womenfolk and my children! I, who thought I was prepared for war.

Free men of America, already you may be pledged to a conflict for which you know you are not prepared.

Remember my mistake! Weigh the man against the politician before you vote.

Do not vote for a voice—VOTE FOR A MAN.

Do not vote for a politician—VOTE FOR A MAN WHO WORKED WITH HIS HANDS.

Do not vote for the easy way—VOTE FOR A MAN WHO CAME UP THE HARD WAY.

WHY CONGRESSMAN GILLIE SHOULD BE RE-ELECTED

A MAN has to learn to be a Representative just as he must learn to be a blacksmith, a carpenter, a farmer, an engineer, a lawyer, or a doctor. * *

It is an unwise performance for any district to change Representatives at short intervals. A new Congressman must begin at the foot of the class.

No man should be elected to the House simply to gratify his ambition. All Members should be elected for the good of the country. * * *

The best rule * * * is for a district to select a man with at least fair capacity, industrious, honest, energetic, sober, and courageous, and keep him there so long as he discharges his duties faithfully and well. Such a man will gradually rise to high position and influence in the House. His wide acquaintance with Members helps amazingly in doing things. * * *

This is STILL America and THIS America Needs Men Like

RAYMOND E. WILLIS for U. S. SENATOR

Born and reared in Indiana—Schooled in the sound wisdom of good old Hoosier "horse sense"—Progressive, alert, honest, and understanding of the problems of all—In speeches made throughout this campaign, Ray Willis has definitely and clearly stated:

"We must stop traveling the road that leads to war if, indeed, we are not already at war... I want the president to stop talking war until this nation is ready to act like war."

"I join with Wendell Willkie in a solemn pledge that I never will vote to send American boys to fight on the battle fields of Europe."

"There is no place in America for the Bridges, or the Browders, or the Bunds, or the Communist party. I give my solemn pledge to use every ounce of my strength to rid America of this Red curse."

"A third term may lead to a fourth and a fifth. I am and always will be opposed to a third term in the presidency for any man."

"The Republican party will continue relief as long as there is a family in need but it will see that relief money goes to those who are in need and not to an army of white-collar political bosses."

"The Republican party stands pledged to use every resource of the nation to provide regular jobs at regular wages for those now on relief so they will not have to depend on government hand-outs for a bare existence."

"I favor collective bargaining, minimum wage and maximum hour laws, and unemployment compensation for labor. Labor must be protected against racketeers and meddlesome government interference. Labor is intelligent enough and competent enough to manage its own affairs."

"I accept the basic principles, but not all the methods of the present farm program as a temporary substitute until something better is found. I do not accept it as a permanent solution of the farm problem."

"We can never have a prosperous agriculture with ten million people unemployed. A market must be found for the products of American farms and the domestic market must be protected from the competition of peasant farmers from abroad. Farm prosperity can come only through production and not through reduction."

"We Don't Want no Third Termite"

(In the language of the common people, with no Harvard accent)

Tune: "The Old Gray Mare"

Oh, we don't want no Hyde Park aristocrat,
Third term plutocrat,
New Deal Democrat.
Oh, we don't want no charming fireside chat
In 1941.

Oh, we don't want no one man supremacy,
Fake draft mockery,
New Deal stupidity,
Oh, we don't want no sweet soap fragrancy
In 1941.

Oh, we don't want no New Deal blundering,
Treasury Plundering,
War-scare thundering,
Oh, we don't want no fourth term wondering
In 1941.

We want a man who has sweat for the dough he's got,
Knows that a dollar's not,
Picked from a golden pot,
We want a man who has worked with the common lot
In 1941.

We want a man who knows it is you and me,
Who pays the penalty,
For false economy,
We want a man who'll stop this spending spree
In 1941,

WE DON'T WANT WAR, We'll put Wendell Willkie where,
He'll use a White House chair,
He and his lady fair,
The third term's out—We'll give that bunch the air
In 1941.

—Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick.

When Election Day is Over

(Tune—"Glory, Glory, Hallelujah")

1. I can see the final out-come of the next election vote,
We Democrats are going to win, and get old Willkie's goat!
He'll have to go back to the farm and start to raising shoats,
When Election Day is o'er.

First Chorus:
Glory, Glory, Hallelujah!
We'll give Willkie-ites the "Ha! Ha!"
Nothing like a good old "Hoo-raw"
When Election Day is o'er.

2. When Willkie goes back to Rushville all his friends will turn their (backs,
They'll say "I see you got it where the chicken got the axe."
He'll expect a hearty welcome, but he'll only get "wise-cracks"
When Election Day is o'er.

Second Chorus:
Glory, Glory, Hallelujah!
That will be old Willkie's sad day,
He'll think he's found the Devil's pay-day,
When Election Day is o'er.

3. But you mustn't blame Mr. Willkie 'cause his ballots aren't enough,
You cannot make a pudding if you haven't got the stuff.
Of course he will survive it, but at first he'll find it tough,
When Election Day is o'er.

4. Oh, you must all admit it—Mr. Willkie had a gall
To think he'd ever have a chance to win this race at all!
I doubt if he'll believe it 'till he sees the day this Fall,
When Election Day is o'er.

Philip F. Smith, Saint Joe, Indiana.

Different licensing systems of the States and Federal Government dig extra dollars out of private pockets, and at the same time make it easier to secure statistics. The Department of Interior in Washington reports that women are plunging into the sport of fishing and that they increased in numbers approximately 300 per cent during the past year. The figures show that there are 220 thousand licensed women anglers. Now, wouldn't you like to know how many fish they caught?

The Real Issue—Peace or War

"The real issue of this campaign . . . is peace or war . . . I know of no well-informed Washington observer who isn't convinced that if Roosevelt is elected he will drag us into war at the first opportunity and that if none presents itself he will make one. I know of none who is not aware that if that happens we shall have a war dictatorship with 'emergency powers' in the hands of men who have constantly sought ever-increasing 'emergency' powers at the expense of our political system—and who have never surrendered a single one. They have used them all to perpetuate themselves. I know of none who is not aware that participation in a major war costs so much that it will bankrupt the United States." —General Hugh S. Johnson.

Promise vs. Performance

The 1932 Democratic Platform strongly condemned the extravagance of the Republican farm program. At Atlanta, Georgia, on October 24, 1932, Franklin D. Roosevelt added this comment: "I am going to insist that we get more service for the farmers for less money." Total expenditures of the Department of Agriculture, however, have increased from $110,000,000 in 1932 to an estimated $1,607,000,000 in 1940, an increase of 1300 per cent. The total number of permanent employees of the Department of Agriculture increased from 16,544 in 1932 to 48,697 in 1939, or 195 per cent. Total pay rolls (obligations) for both permanent and temporary employees increased from $45,971,215 to $138,036,692, or 200 per cent. This excludes the 135,890 county and community agricultural conservation committeemen who administer the farm program locally.

Spending Failed

The real test of a recovery program is whether it has reduced unemployment and put people back to work. Despite the expenditure of more than $56 billion in seven years and of more than $21 billion for relief and recovery, the number of gainfully employed workers in the United States was more than two-and-a-half million less in 1939 than in 1929. There are today more than 10,000,000 unemployed. The average unemployment for the seven years of the Roosevelt Administration is 9,402,000, or 18 per cent of the total labor force.

VOL. LV (55th YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1940 NUMBER 45

DENNIS BURLEY PASSES AT NEAR 95 YEARS

The death of Dennis D. Burley, a life long resident of Concord Township, took place on November 29 at 9:30 o'clock, following an illness of possibly ten days, but of only one day confined to his bed.

Final rites were held from the Lutheran Church, Friday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Frank Stevenson, with burial in K. of P. Riverside Cemetery under the direction of E. DuWayne Kinsey.

Mr. Burley was born in Concord Township, November 4, 1845, and was the only son of James Harper and Louisa Burley, and passed away at his St. Joe home, October 29, 1940, having attained the age of 94 years, 11 months and 25 days.

He had been a life long resident of Concord Township, and in point of time, listed among the pioneers.

Among the farms on which he resided when a mere boy, were the J. Y. Davis farm south of St. Joe, now owned by A. D. Goodwin, the Silberg farm near Spencerville, and the Engle farm which is now a part of St. Joe. He farmed every foot of the land now known as St. Joe.

On November 6, 1876 he was married to Sarah Louisa Tustison, who preceded him in death by sixteen years.

He leaves one sister, Mrs. Arline Rhoades, of Spencerville; four children, Mrs. Constance Maurer and Mrs. Mildred Wilson, who lived with their father; Mrs. Clara Maurer, of Coldwater, Michigan; Don Burley, of Princeville, Illinois; nine grandchildren and seven great grandchilden, and many other relatives and friends.

The farm one-half mile west of St. Joe was owned by Mr. Burley for many years, and here his family was reared and educated. After the passing of his wife he moved to St. Joe, where he spent the remaining days of his life.

He will be missed by everyone as he was seen daily on our streets, and was quite congenial with all who knew him.

Out of town relatives and friends who attended the funeral were:

Mr. and Mrs. Don Burley, of Princeville, Ill., Dr. Robert D. Burley, of Beardstown, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. John Maurer, grandchildren and son, Kenneth, of Coldwater, Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Lee O. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NEWS

The St. Joe-Coburntown Christian Endeavor met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Key at seven o'clock.

Members were led through a darkened hall, stumbling over stools and tables. At the end of the hall a ghost reached out and squeezed their hands leaving a sticky substance on them.

We had a backward meeting, having the prayers first. All the chairs were placed with their backs together. As the members joined in the discussion they were allowed to turn their chairs around.

After the business meeting games were enjoyed. Halloween pranksters played several tricks on us and we would like to invite them all to C. E. They are sure to be benefited by it.

Refreshments were served consisting of cider, donated by Mrs. J. R. Leighty, doughnuts and cookies.

After more games, the meeting adjourned.

DR. PRICE PREDICTS

Dr. C. R. Price, has for some time made election predictions, and Tuesday he made statement to The News to the effect that President Roosevelt would run over 300 electoral votes. When you read this you will be certain as to the accuracy of this prediction. In 1928 his prediction was correct within 2 votes and in 1932 within 3 votes.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Wilson were Sunday guests in the Earl Wyatt home at Auburn.

ROOSEVELT'S LEAD MOUNTS

Returns Give President 25 or More States—Willkie Carries 5 States

New York, Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt's big electoral college lead over Wednell L. Willkie mounted steadily today and latest returns forecast increased new deal strength in both houses of congress.

The popular vote was close. At 3:30 p. m. CST, United Press tabulations showed the popular vote divided: Roosevelt, 22,039,853; Willkie, 18,408,829.

The returns conclusively gave Mr. Roosevelt 25 states with 348 electoral votes. He led in 15 other states with 124 electoral votes. That would make a total of 472 electoral votes.

Willkie had clinched five states with 86 electoral votes and was ahead in three states with 31 electoral votes. That would give him 59 electorial votes.

Willkie, who probably will pile up the largest popular vote ever cast for a losing candidate, conceded defeat shortly after 9:30 a. m. CST. He sent a congratulatory message to Mr. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., in which he expressed gratification that such a large number of citizens had voted.

He sent a message to his running mate, Sen. Charles L. McNary of Oregon, saying he was "sorry" about the outcome of their campaign, and assured reporters that he was not bitter in defeat.

Mr. Roosevelt, acknowledging Willkie's wire, reciprocated the loser's wishes for his continued health and happiness.

McNary telegraphed the president "wishing you all grace, and administration all prosperity."

Mr. Roosevelt replied:

"Many thanks for your generous and therefore characteristic message and I know you and I will work together in the national interest. I heartily reciprocate all your good wishes."

Pres. Roosevelt planned to depart tonight for Washington, where a big celebration was being prepared on his return Thursday morning.

The new deal is in for another four years at the White House and at least two more on Capitol Hill, but Willkie appears to have piled up the largest vote ever cast for a losing candidate.

Those results of the 1940 election were indicated hour by hour last night. In more complete returns today the president's re-election became a mathematical certainty at 8:40 a. m. CST, when the United Press tabulations showed 20 states with at least 266 electoral votes had given him safe pluralities. Some precincts were missing. But the battle was over.

The new deal had broken through republican defenses in New England and in the great industrial states of the middle east. The solid south held solid and the far west went to Roosevelt although Oregon was fighting ground. The middle west proved a Willkie stronghold.

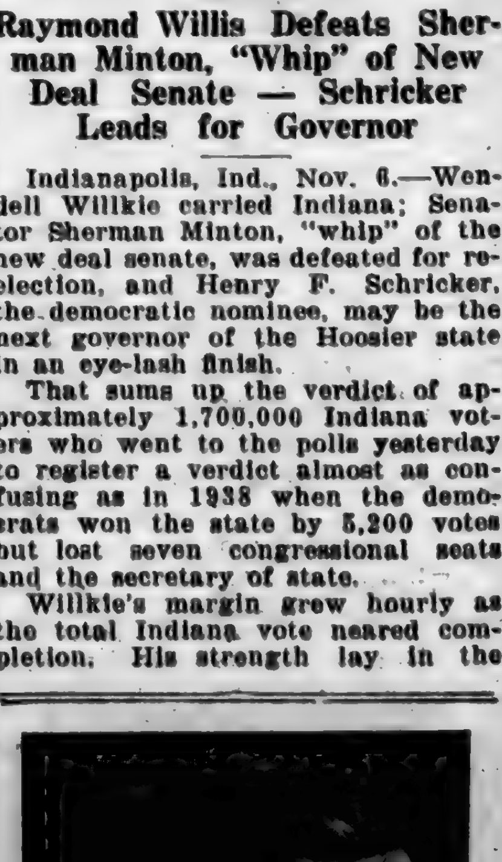
WILLKIE'S INDIANA LEAD IS INCREASED

Raymond Willis Defeats Sherman Minton, "Whip" of New Deal Senate — Schricker Leads for Governor

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 6.—Wendell Willkie carried Indiana; Senator Sherman Minton, "whip" of the new deal senate, was defeated for reelection, and Henry F. Schricker, the democratic nominee, may be the next governor of the Hoosier state in an eye-lash finish.

That sums up the verdict of approximately 1,700,000 Indiana voters who went to the polls yesterday to register a verdict almost as confusing as in 1938 when the democrats won the state by 5,200 votes but lost seven congressional seats and the secretary of state.

Willkie's margin grew hourly as the total Indiana vote neared completion. His strength lay in the normally republican areas plus the outlying rural districts which revealed a protest vote among the farmers.



Raymond Willis reported safely in the lead for U. S. Senate over Sherman Minton, democrat, with a number of precincts to report.

With 3,431 of Indiana's 3,898 precincts reporting complete but unofficial totals, the vote gave a 24,246 margin to Willkie. At that point the total vote stood:

Roosevelt—784,610.
Willkie—808,856.

The strength of the Indiana-born Willkie over President Roosevelt also carried in Raymond E. Willis of Angola over Minton by upwards of 19,089 votes. With 3,394 precincts counted in the senatorial contest, the total vote stood:

Minton 754,861.
Willis 773,950.

Schricker, present lieutenant-governor and democratic nominee for governor, alone appeared able to hold his own and turned up with a 10,894 majority with 3,399 precincts counted. At that point the vote was:

Schricker—785,025.
Hillis—774,131.

The results for other state offices were hopelessly confused and in Marion county (Indianapolis). party officials stopped counting the vote with only two precincts missing of 341, preferring to await the official canvass which was expected to reveal numerous split ballots.

Incomplete and unofficial returns indicated in a United Press survey that 11 of Indiana's 12 congressmen were re-elected. The one congressional seat in doubt was in the ninth district where Rep. Eugene B. Crowe trailed Earl Wilson, a republican of Huron, 60,682 to 59,756 with 362 of 416 precincts counted.

Other congressional races by districts included:

First—Schulte, D., 60,747; Belshaw, R., 36,028 in 138 of 171 precincts.

Second—Cox, D., 35,049; Halleck, R., 41,962 in 240 of 414 precincts.

Third—Sands, D., 69,931; Grant, R., 73,462 in 268 of 270 precincts.

Fifth—Wolf, D., 45,032; Harness, R., 59,096 in 290 of 383 precincts.

Sixth—Bauer, D., 51,094; Johnson, R., 54,208 in 238 of 361 precincts.

Seventh — Bedwell, D., 60,929; Landis, R., 66,557 in 372 of 432 precincts.

Eighth—Boehne, D., 81,701; Werner, 65,138 in 319 of 345 precincts.

Ninth—Crowe, D., 59,756; Wilson, R., 60,682, in 362 of 416 precincts.

Tenth—Ward, D., 63,515; Springer, R., 69,880 in 300 of 349 districts.

Eleventh—Larrabee, D., 72,933; Robinson, R. 66,334, in 235 of 236 districts.

Twelfth—Ludlow, D., 78,234; Collins, R., 73,298 in 191 of 192 districts.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB ENTERTAINS THE GENTLEMEN

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie entertained on Wednesday evening, October 30, members of The Ladies Literary Club of St. Joe and their husbands, at a party in keeping with the Halloween season.

The windows of the Curie home were decorated with paper pumpkins, ghosts, bats, black cats, and witches riding on brooms. A big black witch riding a broom was suspended from the chandelier. Skeletons were hanging in the archways and bouquets of Fall flowers were placed artistically around the rooms.

Card tables, covered with lovely luncheon cloths, and centered with small bouquets of flowers and Halloween napkins marking the places, were set up in two rooms. Then at 7:00 the guests all enjoyed a delicious pot luck supper. The gentlemen seating themselves in one room and the ladies in the other room.

The committee, with Mrs. Frank Stevenson as chairman, took charge of the games. "Pumpkn Face" was played with Mrs. Vernie Monroe winning high and Mrs. Inez Chapman low prize. Mrs. Frank Curie then read a very interesting story about the experiences and the people she encountered on her "Trip to the World's Fair." She saw various club members and their husbands acting in the capacity of side show barkers, acrobats, freaks, parachute jumpers, animal trainers, bare back riders, peanut venders and musical entertainers. Strange as it may seem it had all been a dream and she awoke to find herself lying beside her bed.

During the evening each person present had had a small slip of paper pinned on him or her which bore one of the following words, Witch, Bat Owl, or Cat. Each group assembled in a separate room and then put on a stunt for the benefit of the other guests. The Witches' stunt was taken from their own group's name; the Bats' stunt was entitled Autumn Leaves; the Owls' was Passing the Buck; the Cats' was Dumbells. The judges awarded the prize to the Witches with honorary mention to all other groups.

Those present were Miss Lucile Leffel, Mrs. Claude Husted, Mrs. Delora Curie, Mrs. Loretta Hull, Mrs. Inez Hadsell, Mrs. Inez Chapman, Mrs. Leslie Wilbern, daughter, Virginia, Mrs. Carl Carpenter and daughter, Patricia, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Haller and son, Allen, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Hatch, Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Storer, Mr. and Mrs. O. INJURY PROVES FATAL TO MACK HATCH

Monday forenoon the news of the death of Mack Hatch, of Newville, was received by his St. Joe friends as a great shock, because he had been well and in St. Joe frequently.

Upon investigation we learned that Mack had started to excavate for a foundation on his lot in Newville, getting ready to move the frame house from the Wm. Brandon farm north of St. Joe, to Newville, and to then remodel for their future home, so to be near his mother, Mrs. Jane Hatch, who is 86 years old.

The work was started Monday morning with a team and a slip scraper, and Mack was being assisted by Don Snellbaker. The scraper struck a root from an old stump, and when it dumped it struck Mack. He quit work and went to the house and told his wife but Mack thought nothing serious had happened. He ask for a glass of soda water and drank it, then remarked to Mrs. Hatch that he felt nauseated, and he walked out of the kitchen door. When he shut the door he fell on the back porch and was dead when his wife reached him.

Mr. Hatch was born August 21, 1883 and was 57 years, 2 months and 13 days old at the time of his passing.

He was married to Mrs. Mabel Zeigler, of Auburn, who survives him with one daughter, Vivienne, besides his mother. His brother, Clement Hatch died twenty years ago and his sister, Mrs. Rosalee Snellbaker, six years ago.

Shortly after his mariage he became employed by the county highway department and lived at St. Joe when transferred to this district. On January first of this year he was relieved of this job and he took up work as salesman for Salph Sechler and was given Ohio territory, moving to Dunkirk.

Realizing that his mother needed his care, he with his wife has just completed moving back to Indiana and had been here a week, having had completed their plans for their own home.

The funeral will be held from the Newville U. B. Church, Thursday afternoon, and the body will remain at the Kinsey funeral home until the time of the funeral and may there be viewed by his many friends here.

He was a member of the American Legion Post of St. Joe, being a World War veteran.

An autopsy Monday night revealed that death resulted from coronary thrombosis.

William Philpot and family moved from the Wade farm south of Coburntown to the Callaway farm west of St. Joe.

Thursday, November 7, has been set aside by the Conservation Club, as a time for their fall meeting at the Town Hall, St. Joe, at 7:30 o'clock. All members are asked to be present.

The advice to believe only half of what you hear doesn't necessarily mean the worst half.

It is a compliment to progress that motorists don't try to clear traffic with a motor horn, like they used to do.

There are folks who haven't time to love their neighbors for they are busy trying to keep up with them.

Opportunity doesn't knock quite as loudly as in the old days, for her hands are pretty calloused.

You know we aren't too soft from easy living, when they can still sell unsliced bread in St. Joe shops.

We learn of the number of folks that autos kill but we don't get the number of folks that autos broke.

Returns Late This Year

DeKalb county's vote was extremely heavy this year and it was also very late in being turned over to the county clerk, Carrie P. Weaver. The first precinct, Newville township, was not brought to the clerk's office until after 11 p. m. Tuesday, and the last to report was Union 3 at 6:30 a. m. Wednesday.

The tabulation of the votes on the proposed banking amendments is believed to have been one of the contributing factors to the late report, as well as the fact that the county set a new record in the number who went to the polls. Nearly 13,500 voters turned out Tuesday to take part in a history-making election. Quite a number of interested persons were at the clerk's office to hear the returns, and many others went to the party campaign headquarters.

RATIO OF GOVERNORS WILL REMAIN SAME

Democrats Expected to have 30 of State Chief Executives and Republicans 18—Dry Leader in Michigan Defeated

New York, Nov. 6.—The gubernatorial elections in 33 states apparently made no change in the ratio of state political control between the major political parties which will probably remain at 30 democratic governors and 18 republicans, incomplete returns indicated today.

In 17 states, democratic candidates were elected or leading while republicans had been elected or were leading in 16 states. Two of the democrats, Spessard L. Holland of Florida and Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, were unopposed.

Republicans were leading or elected in four states which had democratic governors. These were Delaware, Illinois, Montana and Nebraska.

Democrats, however, replaced republican governors in Connecticut, Idaho, Rhode Island and Michigan.

Former Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison won a hotly contested race in New Jersey from Republican Robert C. Hendrickson. Hendrickson held a commanding lead until late returns from Frank Hague's Jersey City and Hudson county tipped the scale against him.

One of the sharpest upsets was the defeat of Republican Gov. William H. Vanderbilt of Rhode Island by J. Howard McGrath, democrat.

In Illinois, a new deal stronghold under the late Gov. Henry Horner, Dwight H. Green, Chicago attorney, held a comfortable lead over his democratic opponent, Harry B. Hershey. The latest United Press tabulation gave Green 1,605,000 votes and Hershey 1,465,305 with 6,474 out of 8,379 precincts reported.

Michigan's crusading prohibition governor, Luren D. Dickinson, a republican, was defeated by Murray D. Van Wagoner. Dickinson held a 30,000 vote lead throughout the night but Detroit results overwhelmed him.

Minnesota's Harold E. Stassen, keynoter at the republican convention in July, assumed a commanding lead which he never lost over Hjalmar Petersen, farmer-laborite. Ed Murphy, democratic gubernatorial candidate, trailed badly.

Julius P. Heil, Wisconsin's republican governor who carried the state by a five-to-three majority in 1938, trailed his progressive rival, Orland S. Loomis, during early tabulations. However, he seemed well in the lead late this afternoon.

SEN. McNARY CONGRATULATES WALLACE ON HIS ELECTION

Washington, Nov. 6.—Henry Wallace, vice-president elect, received a congratulatory telegram today from his defeated opponent, Sen. Charles L. McNary.

McNary's telegram said:

"Heartiest congratulations. Wishing you all grace and administration all prosperity."

Wallace replied:

"Just received your gracious wire and want you to know that your fine attitude has been greatly appreciated. I know we shall enjoy working together for the national safety which comes from preparedness and for the defense which comes from a united spirit. That part of the general welfare which springs from the well being of agriculture will of course command our understanding and united support."

ANTI-NEW DEAL SENATOR IS LEADING IN ILLINOIS VOTE

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Illinois gave President Roosevelt its 29 electoral votes and a vigorous anti-new deal republican for U. S. senator, almost complete returns of yesterday's election indicated today.

Late-counted returns from Cook county (Chicago) and rural downstate counties combined to put Republican C. Wayland Brooks out in front of incumbent James M. Slattery in the hotly contested U. S. senate race.

Republicans also were given a chance on the basis of nearly complete returns to capture two district congressional seats now held by democrats and possibly one of the congress-at-large posts.

Dwight H. Green, republican, held a comfortable margin over Harry B. Hershey, democrat, for governor.

Unofficial returns from 7,962 of the state's 8,379 precincts gave for president:

Roosevelt, 2,028,121; Willkie, 1,890,970.

This was divided:

Cook county: Roosevelt, 1,152,329; Willkie, 912,398.

Downstate: Roosevelt, 875,792; Willkie, 978,572.

For U. S. senator, 8,086 precincts gave:

Brooks, 1,886,279; Slattery, 1,878,521; Brooks plurality 7,758.

This was divided:

Cook county: Brooks, 931,152; Slattery, 1,081,388.

Downstate: Brooks, 955,127; Slattery, 797,133.

NEW DEAL CONTROLS THE NEXT U. S. HOUSE

Democrats Seem Certain to Increase Majority of Forty-One that They have in the Present Congress

New York, Nov. 6.—The democratic party today clinched control of the next U. S. house of representatives and seemd certain to better the majority of 41 that they have in the present congress.

There were conclusive returns on election of 218 democratic representatives, a majority of one.

The republicans definitely had won 100 house seats. Results for the remaining 118 of the house's 435 seats were incomplete.

The republicans lost 19 seats to the democrats, but picked up five from the majority party, leaving the democrats with a net gain of 14 among the seats thus far definitely decided. However, it was believed that the democratic net gain might be whittled slightly when all returns are in.

The democrats picked up one seat each in Michigan, Delaware, New Jersey, four in Connecticut, two in New York, four in Ohio, four in Pennsylvania and two in Rhode Island. They lost one each in California, New York and Oklahoma, and two in Missouri.

A prominent republican casualty in Ohio was Rep. Harry N. Routzohn. He is a former American Federation of Labor attorney who served on the house committee which investigated the National Labor Relations board and sponsored legislation passed by the house but stymied in the senate to amend the Wagner act. Greg Holbrock, democrat, defeated him.

But in Missouri Rep. Reuben T. Wood, democrat, a four-term house veteran and president of the Missouri Federation of Labor, lost his seat to Phil A. Bennett, republican.

The biggest democratic coup was in New England, where the administration captured four republican seats in Connecticut and two in Rhode Island to make both house delegations completely democratic.

The democrats also took over two republican seats in Pennsylvania and two in New York, but lost one in the Empire state — that held by Rep. James H. Fay, who "purged" John J. O'Connor for the new deal in 1938.

Republicans surprised in two of the border states by taking Rep. Phil Ferguson's democratic seat in Oklahoma when Ross Rizley was elected, and by threatening to increase Missouri's republican representation by two or three seats. Republican Thomas Rolph picked up one for his party when he defeated Rep. Franck R. Havenner in California.

Despite personal efforts of President Roosevelt and some republican Willkie backers to defeat him, Rep. Hamilton Fish, R., N. Y., was reelected. New York picked Kenneth Simpson, former national committeeman, to succeed to the post vacated by Bruce Barton when he ran for the senate. Rep. Vito Marcantonio, sole American-Labor representatives in congress, won re-election.

REUBLICANS WIN IN MOST OF FOURTH DISTRICT COUNTIES

The republicans were generally victorious in the contests for county offices in northeastern Indiana.

With a record vote being cast in Allen county, the G. O. P. candidates took all the offices, with the republicans also carrying the county for the national and state tickets. The majorities ranged up to 10,831.

Large majorities were won by all republican candidates in Steuben county, where Raymond E. Willis, the new United States senator, lives.

A similar record was made in LaGrange county, another republican stronghold.

Wendell Willkie carried Adams county, normally democratic. The county officers are all democratic excepting three.

All offices in Noble county were won by the republicans.

A mixed county ticket was elected in Jay county.

All democratic county candidates were elected in Wells county, which is normally strongly democratic.

WILLKIE ASKS FOR UNITY IN AMERICA

Defeated Candidate Urges His Followers to Lend All Support Possible in "Completion of Our Defense Effort"

New York, Nov. 6.—Conceding his defeat by President Roosevelt, Wendell L. Willkie today called upon his millions of followers to "continue as I shall to work for the unity of our people, in the completion of our defense effort, in sending aid to Britain and in insistence upon removal of antagonisms in America—all to the end that government of free men may continue and may spread again upon the earth."

Speaking over all major radio networks after he had dispatched a telegram of congratulations to Mr. Roosevelt on his re-election, Willkie said that he accepted the voting results "with complete good will."

The popular vote shows the vitality of our democratic principles and the adherence of our people to the two-party system, Willkie said.

"I extend my thanks to the thousands who so zealously and wholeheartedly worked for my election in various organizations, and to the added millions who supported me."

His telegram of congratulations to Mr. Roosevelt, in which he wished the chief executive "all personal health and happiness," was dictated by Willkie shortly before 9:30 a. m. CST. He went on the air at 10:45 a. m. CST. from a small room on the ballroom floor of the Hotel Commodore to amplify his concession telegram.

Motion picture Kleig lights beat down on Willkie as he stood before a battery of microphones to tell the people that he accepted defeat after one of the most arduous campaigns ever waged by any man for the presidency.

Willkie told newspaper reporters after the broadcast that he "never felt better" and was "proud to have led this crusade."

"I believe deeply, if anything more deeply than ever, in the principles I preached," he said. "I think that their ultimate adoption in America is indispensable to the preservation of this free way of life."

"I end the campaign as I entered it—without any ill will or bitterness toward anybody," Willkie added.

Willkie said he would spend the next "two, three or four days here." "Then," he said, "I'm going somewhere for a vacation and some rest. My personal plans are not complete beyond that."

ROOSEVELT AGAIN SETS THANKSGIVING WEEK EARLY

President Roosevelt again has proclaimed a Thanksgiving holiday one week in advance of the traditional observance of the day. Late Saturday he fixed Thursday, November 21, for this year's observance.

Until 1939, Thanksgiving was observed on the last Thursday of November. When Mr. Roosevelt moved the day ahead one week last year, it caused a nationwide controversy in which many states had two holidays.

This year 32 states will comply with the President's proclamation; 16 will observe the last Thursday of the month.

In his proclamation, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"In a year which has seen calamity and sorrow fall upon many peoples elsewhere in the world may we give thanks for our preservation."

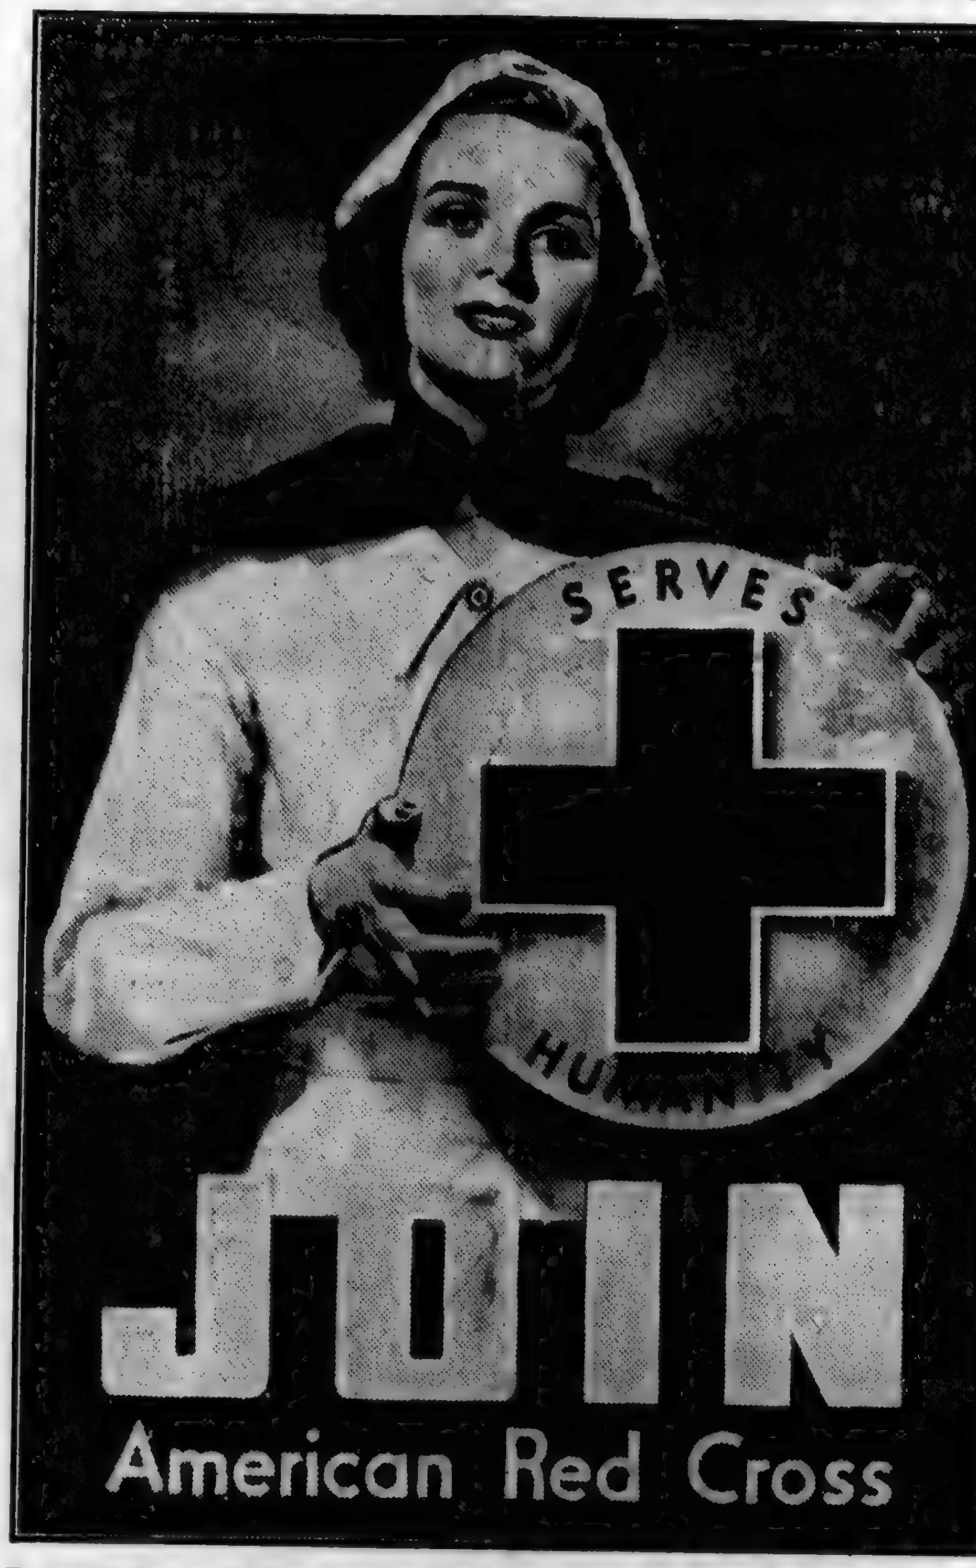
1940 Call for Red Cross Recruits



The 1940 Poster of The American Red Cross sounds the call to the nation to serve humanity within the ranks of this army of mercy.

KEEPING step with the boys called to the colors in America's new defense army and navy, will be the American Red Cross, fulfilling its mission of service to the men in the line and to their loved ones at home, Chairman Norman H. Davis announced in Washington.

"Several thousand Red Cross nurses already have been called to the colors," Mr. Davis said, "and Red Cross field directors, and thousands of Red Cross workers in Chapters throughout the nation, are ready to help America's soldiers and sailors with personal problems, just as in the 1917-18 World War period.

"Every patriotic man and woman in the United States, who wants to do his or her share in upholding the national defense of our nation, can do so by sharing in the vitally important work of the Red Cross. Join as a member of the local Chapter during the roll call, November 11 to 30, and through your support you will strengthen the Red Cross army of mercy.

"Recruits are needed not alone as members, but also as volunteer workers in the Red Cross Chapters."

Red Cross work will continue undiminished in its usual domestic program of relief in disaster; community public health nursing; safety education and promotion of the Junior Red Cross. An individual membership supports all of this work, not only in Red Cross Chapters, but in the nation. Relief to war victims in Europe is financed by the $20,000,000 war relief fund contributed by the public during the summer of 1940.

ABOUT HONEY

Serve hot toast and honey with hot coffee to make a pleasing lunch.......Always keep honey in a dark place so it won't granulate...... Instead of straining honey, cut it from frame, put in bowl and set in warm oven. The comb will melt and rise to top where it will harden when dish cools. This gives a clear honey and also a cake of beeswax.

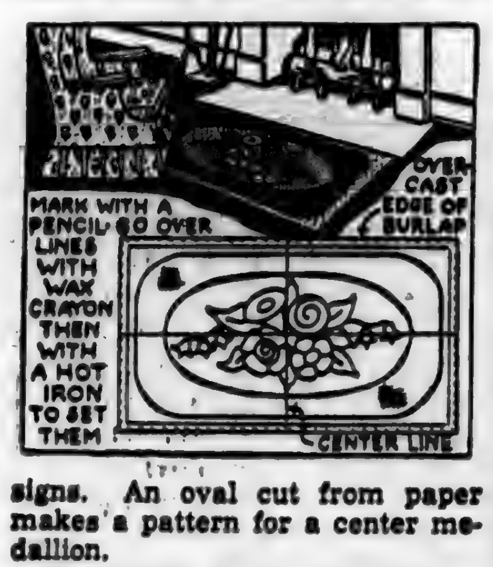
Making Your Own Hook Rug Designs

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

ANTIQUE hooked rag rugs have a special charm because their designs show so much individuality. The women who made them, marked out their own designs on burlap, planned their own color schemes, and dyed the rags. To draw a floral design, first make a circle and then a spiral line inside which becomes a rose. Two ovals with a triangle at the base become morning glories. Real leaves from plants and trees become tracing patterns for leaf designs. An oval cut from paper makes a pattern for a center medallion.



OVER-CAST EDGE OF BURLAP
MARK WITH A PENCIL-GO OVER LINES WITH WAX CRAYON THEN WITH A HOT IRON TO SET THEM CENTER LINE

When making your own hook rug designs, always leave a hem allowance at least two inches wide to be turned under after the rug is hooked, and be sure to overcast the edge of the burlap as soon as it is cut. Center guide lines through the length and the width of the burlap will be helpful in balancing your design. The flowers and leaves may be cut out of paper pinned on the burlap, this way and that. When you get an arrangement that pleases, trace it to make your pattern.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' SEWING Book 5, gives more rug hooking designs and further suggestions about how to draw your own flower designs. Also directions for a hook rug in the old-fashioned shell design. No. 5 contains descriptions of the other numbers in the series. To get your copy, address:.

No child can be sure to escape BOWEL WORMS

Maybe you don't realise how easy it is to become infected with round worms! Your child may "catch" the infection from other children, from a dog, from uncooked vegetables, from infested water.

So, watch out for these warning signals: Uneasy stomach. Fidgeting and squirming. Itchy nose and other parts. Finicky appetite. Biting nails. And if you even suspect that your child has round worms, start using JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE at once!

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE is the best known worm-expellant in America. It has been used by millions for over a century.

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE has the ability to drive out large round worms, yet it tastes good and acts gently. It does not contain santonin. If there are no worms it works merely as a mild laxative. Ask for JAYNE'S VER-MI-FUGE at any drug store.

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON Says:

WILLKIE AND LA GUARDIA

Mr. Willkie, in the campaign now closed, pointing to the mounting debts and deficits of the federal government and the trend toward price inflation if it isn't stopped said: "It's like a person paying premiums into a life insurance company that is becoming bankrupt. The premiums are paid but the principal is never called back from the bankrupt insurance company." Whereupon Mayor LaGuardia jumped up and down squeaking, "reckless, irresponsible, false."

The mayor said that, if Mr. Willkie had made such a statement in New York about an insurance company, he could have been arrested and sent to jail. He called it an insult to congress and an attempt to frighten the aged, women, children and the blind and "our government has never repudiated a legal obligation. Every one knows, that."

I would like to have Mr. LaGuardia show me the law that would put a stockholder of an insurance company in New York in jail for protesting a course of waste and extravagance inevitably leading to bankruptcy and the loss of policyholders' benefits.

It was ridiculous. There is no such law except as to false statements. We are all stockholders in this government. Mr. Willkie was completely correct and well within his rights.

CAMPAIGN HISTORY

At the close of his 1932 campaign the Republicans fired a shot that threw a terrific scare into Mr. Roosevelt's headquarters. I was there and I know. They said that, in rank violation of the specific platform, Mr. Roosevelt planned to debase the gold content of the dollar.

Public reaction adverse to Mr. Roosevelt was so alarming that something had to be done about it, "right now." Mr. Roosevelt's record for keeping promises as governor of New York was nothing to write home about. There was however, one man in our camp whose honor was so bright and his knowledge so profound that his word would be accepted at absolute par by all the people. His name was Carter Glass. He was ill, but our need was great enough to drag him from a sick bed.

After conference with the candidate, he went on the air and delivered the most devastating blast of the campaign, repudiating the Republican charge as an assault on the credit of the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt called it a "magnificent phillipic" and then proceeded to "register gravity, earnestness and sincerity in indignant denial." Words could not have been invented to make his promise clearer or more emphatic, that no such terrible thing would ever be done.

Six months after his election, Mr. Roosevelt violated the promise of his platform, the promise of Senator Glass, his own most solemn promise.

WILLKIE AND JOE PEW

During the campaign Mayor LaGuardia said that Joe Pew dictated the nomination of Mr. Willkie at Philadelphia. What are the facts?

I know and like Joe Pew. He is forthright but an Economic Royalist with the courage of his conviction. He pays the best wages in industry. He takes care of his workers in sickness and in health. His men will tell you that he is the best employer they know, but he is frankly a political reactionary.

At Philadelphia he was enthusiastic for Robert Taft. All the politicos were against Wendell Willkie. Mr. Pew actually did control the Pennsylvania delegation. When the critical ballot came, he missed the boat. After sticking consistently with Taft—on that last ballot, when Pennsylvania's time to vote came, the state passed. If Joe Pew's intention was to push Willkie over and claim credit, he certainly missed the bus. Before Pennsylvania could vote, the upsurge of popular opinion for Willkie had been so great that he was nominated before Pennsylvania voted. Every newspaper man knows the truth of what I say. Joe Pew never came out for Willkie until others had nominated him.

One reason for the defeat of Al Smith in 1928 was that he went through the Middle West surrounded on the back platform, not by those prairie roughneck neighbors of mine, but by life-long friends—New York and Tammany politicians. They may be all right but they can never click in the great open spaces. Al's answer to criticism was: "I am not ashamed of my friends. Take me as I am or not at all." That is high principle, but not good politics.

Willkie hadn't been a particular friend or familiar of Joe Pew. But when he went through Pennsylvania during the campaign Joe hopped the train and stayed. That wasn't Wendell's fault. It was just his innate sense of hospitality. He couldn't kick an ardent supporter out on the right-of-way.

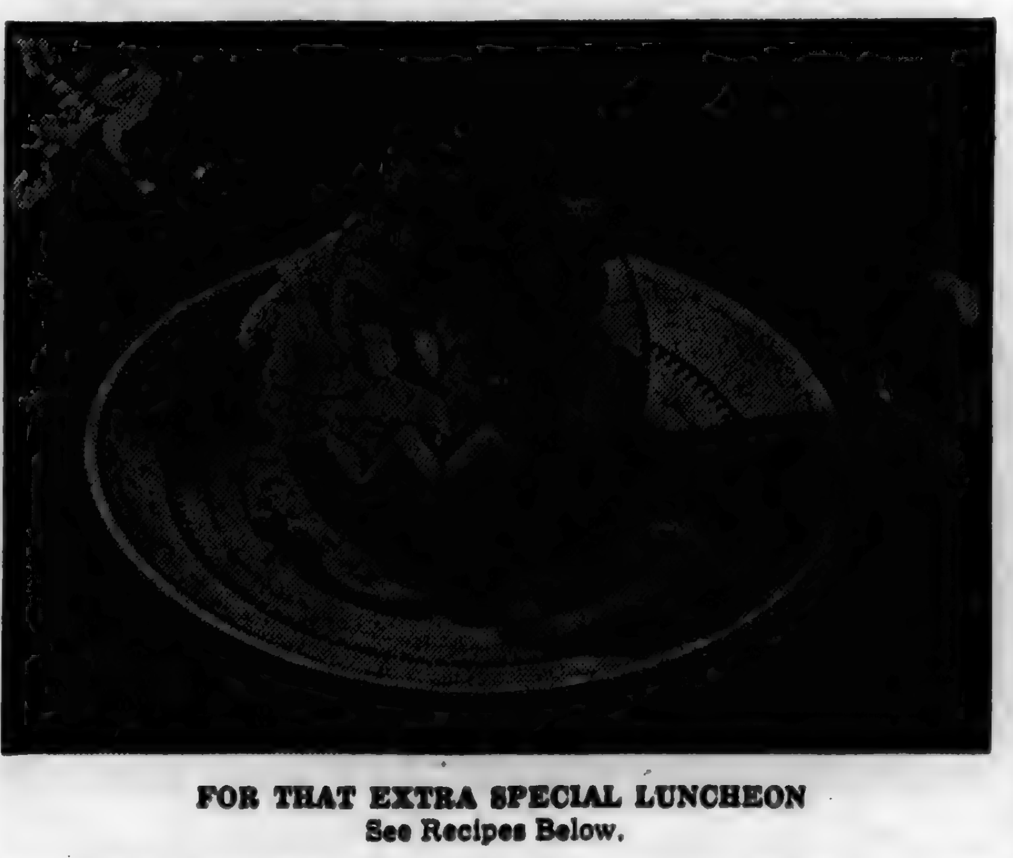
Household News By Eleanor Howe



FOR THAT EXTRA SPECIAL LUNCHEON
See Recipes Below.

When your children are in school, and your husband is at work, you find little pleasure in eating a solitary meal. And when you are rushed with household duties, you are apt to grab a quick sandwich, or a steaming bowl of soup, and then continue with the tasks that are still before you.

But, you can take advantage of the days when the family is away, and the work all finished, to entertain your friends at a one-o'clock luncheon, a dessert luncheon for the bridge club, or for just a friendly get-together. A good menu and an attractive table will give you the poise and enthusiasm necessary to serve your guests easily and graciously.

Oftentimes the most easily prepared food may be the most attractively served. A fluted orange cup makes a colorful container for many fruits, which may be varied with the season. The fruit must be cut into pieces of convenient size, free from seeds and skin, except for grapes. It should be thoroughly chilled and combined so that it is a neat arrangement. If a few pieces are crushed or wilted, the whole concoction will look careless and unappetizing. Remember, an appetizer should not be too sweet, for as the name implies, the first course should sharpen the appetite.

For the rest of the menu you might like to serve mock chicken legs, baked potatoes, crisp green salad, crescent rolls, and as an unusual dessert, chocolate mint roll.

Fluted Orange Cup.
(Serves 6)

3 oranges
1 banana
1 cup grapes
3 tablespoons sugar

With a sharp knife pierce to center of orange. Cut the orange in half, using zigzag strokes that meet to make the points of the scallops. Separate the 2 orange halves, and remove meat from shells. Cut orange meat into pieces. Peel, and cut banana into pieces. Combine orange meat, banana and grapes. Sprinkle with sugar. Chill. Serve in well-chilled shells, garnished with a sprig of mint, if desired.

Chocolate Mint Roll.
(Makes 1 11-inch roll)

6 tablespoons cake flour (sifted)
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sugar (sifted)
4 egg whites (stiffly beaten)
4 egg yolks (beaten)
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 squares unsweetened chocolate (melted)

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together 3 times. Fold sugar gradually into egg whites. Fold in egg yolks and vanilla. Then fold in flour gradually. Add chocolate, and beat gently but thoroughly. Turn into a 16 by 11-inch pan which has been greased and lined with paper and greased again. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 15 minutes. Cut off crisp edges and turn onto a cloth covered with powdered sugar. Remove paper, roll, and cool. Unroll and spread half of mint frosting over cake and roll again. Wrap in cloth and cool for about 5 minutes. Cover with remaining frosting. When frosting has set, cover with bitter sweet coating, made by melting 2 additional squares of unsweetened chocolate with 2 teaspoons butter.

Mint Frosting.

2 egg whites (unbeaten)
1½ cups sugar
5 tablespoons water
1½ teaspoons light corn syrup
Green vegetable coloring
⅛ teaspoon peppermint extract

Combine egg whites, sugar, water and corn syrup in top of double boiler. Beat with a rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, and cook for 7 minutes, beating constantly, until frosting stands in peaks. Add coloring gradually to hot frosting to give a delicate tint. Remove from boiling water, add flavoring and beat until thick enough to spread.

Mock Chicken Legs.
(Serves 6 to 8)

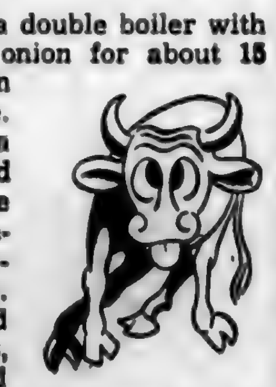
1¼ pounds veal steak
1¼ pounds pork steak
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup flour
1 egg (beaten)
Cracker crumbs

Pound meats, after seasoning with salt, pepper and flour. Cut into 1½-inch squares, and place 6 pieces, 3 of each kind of meat, alternately on a skewer. Press together. Chill for 1 hour. Dip in beaten egg and roll in cracker crumbs. Brown on all sides in hot fat in a skillet. Pour 1 cup water over the "legs," and cover. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 hour. (The liquid will all cook away.)

Corned Beef Souffle.
(Serves 6 to 8)

2 cups milk
½ cup celery (chopped fine)
2 tablespoons onion (chopped fine)
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
3 egg yolks (well beaten)
3 egg whites (well beaten)
½ cup soft bread crumbs
½ tablespoon paprika
¼ tablespoon salt
2 cups cold corned beef (chopped fine)

Scald milk in a double boiler with the celery and onion for about 15 minutes. Strain and cool a little. Melt butter in a saucepan, add flour, then the milk, and stir until smooth, stirring constantly. When boiling, add the bread crumbs, paprika, salt and corned beef. Remove from fire and add the beaten egg yolks. Fold in the well-beaten egg whites, and pour souffle into a greased pan. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees) for about 45 minutes.



Rice Butterscotch.
(Serves 5 to 6)

2 cups milk
½ cup rice
2 cups brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt

Scald the milk in a double boiler. Add the washed rice and cook until nearly tender (about 30 minutes). Meanwhile, melt the brown sugar, butter and salt, and cook for 10 minutes over low fire, until a syrup is formed, stirring constantly. Gradually turn this mixture into the rice and continue cooking until the rice is tender. Turn into wet molds and chill. Serve with cream and sugar, if desired.

The Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON & ROBERT ALLEN

Washington, D. C.

PLAN INQUIRY OF CORRUPTION

Now that the election is over you will see the justice department focus attention on certain graft-ridden cities, chief among them being Detroit.

There, a group of high-up politicians are sure to be indicted for operating a liquor ring. They will be charged with diverting funds from state liquor stores. Basis of the indictments will be sending "hot" money through the U. S. mails, an offense which the justice department used for the first time with definite success in Louisiana. Since then the Supreme court has upheld the justice department, so this new means of cleaning up local scandals will be used extensively.

Most Republicans will not believe it, but the justice department had the indictments all prepared before elections. But since some of the high Republican leaders of Michigan politics are going to be indicted, justice prosecutors decided to withhold action until after November 5. They didn't want to be accused of playing politics.

ARGENTINE GIGOLOS

The Good Neighbor policy has been promoted in many ways, from tariff lowering to flag raising, but never before has attention been given to the offending gigolos of Hollywood. Now, however, the combined good will of Nelson Rockefeller and John Hay ("Jock") Whitney is being exerted to reform the Hollywood practice of making every gigolo an Argentine.

Mr. Rockefeller, who is the government's co-ordinator of Latin-American efforts, has dispatched Mr. Whitney to Hollywood to see what the film industry can contribute to the Good Neighbor program. He will make at least one specific suggestion, namely that Argentina does not like to be represented as a nation of gigolos.

The gigolo mischief was corrected earlier with respect to France. We had a big film market over there, and when French opinion objected to Hollywood practice of making every gigolo a Frenchman, Hollywood bowed, and picked on Argentina

EUROPEAN COMMUNISM

One development you don't read much about in the cables from Europe, but which is causing plenty of worry on the part of Britain's nobility, is the rapid development of Communism in central Europe—particularly Czecho Slovakia, Austria and Hungary.

You have to remember that the Communists were strong in Czecho Slovakia before the German invasion, and that for a time they more or less dominated Vienna. Also there was a day when the Bela Kun Communist government ruled Hungary.

While these movements were stamped out, or kept under cover in the past, intelligence reports now indicate that they are making rapid sub-rosa progress again. In Czecho Slovakia, for instance, the Kladno coal miners staged such a serious revolt against German officials that the latter backed down.

Some of the communistic activity is directed against the Nazi overlords, but some is not. As a matter of fact, some of it, particularly in Germany itself, fits into the Nazi scheme of things, for Germany today is probably more socialized than Russia. Also it is always important to remember that before Hitler, the Communist party was one of the strongest in Germany. After Hitler, most of the Communists merely became National Socialists.

All of which indicates that Ambassador Joe Kennedy's dismal predictions may be right, and that Europe will witness a social and economic revolution if the war continues. However, this movement in the end probably will be the chief means of ending the war.

• • •

MERRY-GO-ROUND

It will surprise no one if some of the Latin-American military men now touring the U. S. as guests of the army will participate in the occupation of Martinique under joint Pan-American auspices. Roosevelt is anxious to make the taking over of French possessions a truly good-neighbor enterprise.

To prevent profiteering on the vast supplies of food that will be necessary for the enlarged army and navy, defense commission experts are making a survey of all food stocks in the country, while discussing plans with agriculture department officials for the purchase of farm surpluses.

NATIONAL DEFENSE LETTERS

You might suppose the army air corps spends all its time preparing the air defense of the country. But a large number of officials and clerks are engaged in the silly business of answering letters from a zealous public with half-baked ideas.

From Hoople, N. D., comes a letter saying, "I have an idea for directing bombs dropped from airplanes. Just tie a carrier pigeon to the bomb and drop it overboard." Five copies were sent to various departments. All went to the air corps.

Rising Farm Prices to Follow Defense Program Expenditures

Agricultural Department Predicts Record Farm Increase; Government Faces Grave Responsibilities as First Draftees Are Called.

By BAUKHAGE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—

Boom!

That sound you hear is not a bomb going off under the Capitol, or even the military music of the big bass drum. It's a cheerful sound heard along the city streets all over the country and its echo will soon be reverberating in the rural districts, too.

It's the business boom, already in evidence as a result of the defense program which has started the wheels of industry turning. That it is really on its way is agreed upon even by the economists who usually manage to disagree successfully about almost everything else. In fact the majority of the men whose job it is to look through the long-distance telescope at the country's economic future are beginning to worry a little for fear the upswing will go too far and they've already figured out ways to check the rise before it becomes a runaway.

However, the farmers don't need to worry about that phase of the question yet. Prosperity, like most good things, including a rural delivery package in a blizzard, usually arrives at the farm a little late. But it's coming.

Already fatter pay envelopes in the communities where armament factories are warming up are spilling a little into the farmer's hat. The dairy farmer gets it first. Figures which the department of agriculture has compiled only go through September but you can see the trend in this category:

September 1939—$218,000,000.
September 1940—$222,000,000.

The meat and animal products show a drop over this same period in the late figures, but the estimators here make confidential predictions. This is what they say:

"The rise in prices of farm products is likely to be most pronounced for commodities which are normally consumed almost entirely in the United States. This applies especially to some fruits and vegetables, and most live stock and live-stock products."

Milk, eggs and cheese seem to be the things the city people want "seconds" on, first. Then come the meat products and vegetables of course. September figures on vegetables still don't show the increase predicted partly, experts say, because the income from these products was cut down by the earlier drop in potato prices.

• • •

Experts Predict Outlook Appears Promising

Of course we have to look at wheat and cotton and the many other export products in a different light because long payrolls at home don't stop short rations abroad and American export trade today is still flourishing like a school of fishes in the middle of the Sahara, but they always benefit from a good home market, too. England right now isn't hungry for anything but war supplies and they are willing to throw a ton of wheat overboard any day for a ton of airplanes. It's the same story with cotton and we already have a reserve of that big enough to provide dresses for most of the world and have enough left over to make a Ziegfeld chorus respectable.

As for tobacco, there is a hopeful sign in the sky even if the British did drop out of the market and leave us flat when she bought up the Turkish crop as a good-will move and called on such flue-cured as she could use from her own dominions.

But the Surplus Commodities corporation is now buying up and storing tobacco equivalent to the usual British orders which we expect will come in again when the battle smoke gets out of Europe's eyes and the Englishmen come back to the kind of smoke that Sir Walter Raleigh taught them to enjoy back in the time of Good Queen Bess. They will probably have had just enough Turkish by that time.

As to the general outlook, the people down in the department of agriculture, without going too far out on the limb, are pretty optimistic. Here is what they say:

"Nineteen forty-one outlook is for improved domestic demand for farm products, smaller exports, higher general average of prices, larger total cash income from marketings. Farm income — including government payments—the total exceeding $9,000,000,000—may be the largest since 1929."

Then comes a warning. "But increased costs of commodities and services used in farm production will cancel part of the gain in farm income—1941 over 1940."

The net of the situation seems to be that the farmer, like most everybody else, is going to have more money next year—if he can hang on to it.

First Draftees Called to Service

In a very few days now the boys who held the first numbers in the draft drawing will be on their way to the army camps. And today, as a gloomy rain fell over the capital I took out from my desk drawer a handful of little blue objects. As I looked at them I wondered how Aladdin felt when he rubbed his magic lamp and out of it sprang the powerful genie to do his bidding for good or ill.

I am not wondering so much about the good or ill which the genie of these little blue capsules will do. For they will be the boys who, in a few days, will be going off to serve their country as Aladdin's spirit served his lamp. I have faith that America will see that the mission its servants perform will be an honorable one. They won't be sent off on any of the bizarre adventures the slave of the lamp undertook.

What I am concerned about is what will happen to those boys themselves—the boys whose numbers were in the little blue capsules. I'm not worried about their health or wealth or happiness but I feel sort of responsible for them. You see I drew 25 of those capsules from the big bowl myself. At the time it was more of a lark—I was one of many legionnaires who, later on that historic day of October 29 was permitted for a few minutes to play the part of blind destiny.

Draft Lottery Was Solemn Ceremony

You have read a good deal about the historic drawing of the draft numbers in Washington. Perhaps you listened to the ceremony over the air. But there was one thing you couldn't know. And that is that you people back home were represented there—you fathers and mothers of the boys whose numbers were chosen and the rest of the folks who will depend on those boys to bulwark their liberties if war should ever come to America.

Most of us who were there, I mean the newsmen, the photographers, the broadcasters and the officials who took part, including President Roosevelt, were just workmen. We were building something for you. We knew that all that was happening was going past us out over the nation.

But there were two people present who, by their spontaneous acts, represented you. One was a man and one was a woman.

The man was Clarence Dykstra, director of the selective service system. His face told a story to me as expressive as any word spoken or anything done in the whole impressive ceremony. He stood there just back of Mr. Roosevelt and when the President addressed the boys over the country whose numbers were about to be drawn I watched Dykstra's face—the bronzed cheeks, unwrinkled except for two furrows that drop from the kindly brown eyes to the strong and kindly mouth. Those eyes were filled with tears.

I knew he was thinking of the people over the country and the sacrifice it would mean to them when in a few days from now home ties are broken.

And those people of whom Dr. Dykstra must have been thinking were suddenly personalized by a woman's voice in that solemn gathering. The woman you probably read about who uttered that exclamation, clearly audible to everyone present and to the listeners to the radio, when the first number, her own son's number, was read out by the President.

It wasn't a scream she uttered. It was just the vocalization of an emotion that any mother would feel, that many mothers did feel, when that number and the others were drawn. When she came to the microphone later on she was calm and quiet, said she was glad. Like everything else that happened that day there was nothing theatrical about her conduct. Just an average under-middle-aged mother talking about her boy. But the moment she spoke, to me she became the most important person in the room because she represented all the mothers of the nation.

Do you recall how good a guess Washington newspaper correspondents made on the election?

Well, a poll of 50 of them went 27 Roosevelt. Twenty-two Willkie. That was six days before election.

• • •

The 501st Parachute battalion has been swamped with volunteers but it isn't so easy to get into this outfit even if you have the required "demonstrated soldiery qualities" plus "agility, athletic ability, more than average intelligence, and daring."

PROSPERITY

The national defense program will cause a period of great prosperity which will be reflected in rising prices for farm products, according to Baukhage. But he warns that prices which farmers have to pay will also rise. He points out that the nation assumes grave responsibilities as the first draftees are inducted into military service, but adds that there need be no fear for their health or safety.

THE Pennsylvania State Board of Censors recently banned Paramount's "The World in Flames," which is as hard to understand as their banning "The Ramparts We Watch." The official ruling—"In the judgment of the board this picture has a tendency to corrupt and debase morals, and it is not proper."

The picture is a factual record of the past 20 years, and stresses the need of our nation's preparedness. It had its first public showing in Washington, D. C., before an audience of high officials of the federal government, and received the unqualified approval of such national defense leaders as the secretary of the navy and the secretary of war.

It's news that Paramount won in the scramble to buy the screen rights to Ernest Hemingway's splendid novel, "For Whom the Bell Tolls"—the price was $100,000. It's a story of war-time Spain, with a love story even more beautiful and thrilling than the one in "Farewell to Arms." The hero's role is perfect for Gary Cooper, who's had long discussions with the author about it.

"Land of Liberty," the feature picture which was the contribution of the motion picture industry to the New York World's fair and the San Francisco exposition, will be distributed nationally by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. The picture tells the history of America from the days before the coming of the white men to modern times. Included in the list of stars appearing in individual sequences of the story are Bette Davis, Spencer Tracy, Claudette Colbert, James Stewart, George Arliss, Margaret Sullavan, Walter Houston, George Raft, and many other headliners.

It took a month for Paramount to persuade one of Detroit's huge automobile companies to let them use the interior of the plant to film scenes for "Reaching for the Sun," a story of the automotive industry. Joel McCrea and Ellen Drew are co-starred, and the cast includes Albert Dekker, Eddie Bracken and Billy Gilbert.

Just before Ray Heatherton went on the air for Westinghouse's "Musical Americana" somebody asked him who composed "Annie Laurie," which he was to sing. Somebody else piped up and said, "Robert Burns, of course." Heatherton would have won money on that question on a quiz program, for he happened to know that Burns was no musician, and didn't even write the words of the popular old song.

Furthermore, he knew its history—that it developed as the result of a romance between William Douglas, a young Scotsman, and the real Annie Laurie; because her hard-hearted father objected to the romance, Douglas went off to the Flemish wars without claiming her as his bride. The verses, composed by Douglas, were found by Lady John Douglas Scott, who was a distant relative of Annie Laurie's, and she altered the words and composed the music.

Another thing passing with the years is for grandmother to look long for her glasses that are sitting on top of her head.

STILL A FARMER

You can be called a farmer in all kinds of languages. You may be termed a farmer if you pay rental to a landlord who owns the ground, a farmer if you labor for your entire interest, but always a farmer of service to himself and his country. They call some "gentlemen farmers" who are not in the business simply to wrest a living for the family from the soil, a "sidewalk farmer" who stays awhile and then returns to the city until time for another planting and harvesting. But the job of farming has its specialists who raise all sorts of unusual products and are still named farmers. Recently we heard of an angleworm farm where is raised worms to ship to many states and countries for use in aerating the soil. Another raises frogs for eating purposes or biology students to dissect. One famer likes the idea of raising lions for zoos, while another sticks to chinchillas for milady's fur coat. Snake and alligator farms supply manufacturers with skins for shoes and purses. A humming bird farm and a skunk farm would scarcely be found in the same county but there are folks who raise them. Don't think that this business of raising potatoes, wheat, pigs and cows is what is necessary to be called farmer. Variety is the spice of life and why not a variety in farmers?

IN THE CASE OF A BEAN

The national organization of soybean growers and industrialists interested in the production of the bean from a commercial standpoint held their annual convention in Michigan last month. About 200 interested people attended. This organization was founded 20 years ago and since that time many new uses for the soybean have been discovered. There is a decline in the yield this year from the last two years but the acreage planted in this crop has greatly increased. The average yield is 17.5 bushels per acre. The acreage gain is 14 per cent over 1939. The new soybean extraction plant and laboratory in connection with the Ford factory attracts much interest for though the bean is a food its greatest valuation comes from its industrial products. Agriculture gives to this country an oriental product that was formerly Asia's own.

THEIR WAY

We do not intend to take up the subject of "conscientious objectors" except to mention in admiration the Quakers in their participation in volunteer service as their obligaton to protecting America. As most of you know, the Society of Friends believe that God commands them not to fight against their fellow men, under any circumstances. But this does not hinder them from forming a volunteer group who, paying their own expenses if possible, will spend one year in certain districts or in camps where they will do home and forest reclaiming work, help on rebuilding projects and will go abroad and aid war victims and refugees by assisting in rebuilding towns and feeding the starving. This would put a stop to any criticism of a Quaker's lack of patriotism just because they do not believe in war. For such an honest and patriotic expression of their true feelings we greatly respect this Society of Friends and wish that more Americans who talk a lot of flag waving would be as impressive in honesty and forthrightness.

Americans have made heavy donations in money to assist humanity in the war-stricken countries. Of these many represented religious groups who gave for missions and relief. A large share of Catholic contributions went to China, while the majority of Jewish gifts went to persecuted brothers in Europe. Our religion teaches us to love one another, to be a peaceful and law-abiding people, that we respect the rights of others and follow the beam. Our religious groups are indeed living up to their creeds.

WE'RE AHEAD

An ever popular subject is the discussion of the standard of living between the city and the country. Many are the opinions but we have noticed that in recent years the man who lives in the city lends a more understanding ear tor the rural dweller. Evidence of this is that so many new homes are bought or built on the extreme outskirts of the large cities. A late report of comparison in incomes of farmers and city inhabitants shows that it takes a bit more money to have the same standards of living in the city than it does in the country. A fact of which we have long been aware is that incomes in the country are less than those in the city. But this latest bit of information goes a bit further in pointing out that even though incomes are less in rural areas, the premium for living in the city eats up the difference and that the country leaves you more at the end of the year. You have to pay to live in the city!

But in all of their calculating they forgot to mention another advantage other than that of income that the ruralite enjoys—a small matter of fresher air might be taken into consideration. We don't like to overlook the quiet, the neighborliness, the picture of country acres, the beauty of spaciousness. These are a few of the advantages that are recognized.

DO IT YOURSELF

You can make your own "prepared" dust cloths in your own home. Pour 1 tablespoon of furniture polish into a fruit jar. Shake jar so sides are coated with polish. Put a yard of clean cheesecloth in the jar and let it stay there for a day. Your cloth will be as good as any of those you might buy in a store. When soiled, wash and put through the same process again.

AN IMPORTANT NEIGHBOR

We are trying to become better acquainted with our South American neighbor, to forward friendly contacts and keep in her good graces. We want no foreign power to mar this friendship. We know this southern continent is very large, that her resources are in-numerable. She has long been suggested as a "coming country" and a fertile place for a young man to find himself. It has been a continent to spell adventure to those heads bent over geography books. No wonder that our nation wants to establish more trade and better friendship with South America. Argentina is the breadbasket of Europe, Bolivia may become the only source of tin for us, Venesuela flows with the all important product, oil, Ecuador commands the southern approach to our Panama Canal, Colombia has a two-ocean seacoast and Brazil alone is larger than our entire United States. No wonder we want to be pals!

TAKING CARE

When comes a change in weather the health of a community suffers and the result is often an epidemic of colds. Schools around St. Joe can attest to this through their attendance records. Children carry colds from class to home before they are aware they have contracted the cold. School children are advised to remain at home to rid themselves of the cold rather than spread the germ through the student body. More care is used to avoid contact with the common cold. More people watch their diets to prevent the catching of a sneeze. One cannot stress too much the prateice of covering up when you cough or sneeze by using a handcerchief or your hand to stop the rush of cold germs that shoot from you at the rate of 100 miles an hour; that is if you are a hardy sneezer. This data comes from a hygiene source that will be acceptable until somebody else measures it differently. Cover the cough.

THREE VOLUNTEERS FILL COUNTY QUOTA

The county selective service board Saturday announced the assignment of the following volunteers to fill the county's first quota:

Ellsworth K. Saxer, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Saxer of one mile south of Garrett.

Bayard M. Whittig, 30, son of Mrs. Eliza Jane Whittig, of Ashley.

These three registrants, it was reported, passed the physical examinations and are now in readiness to begin one year's military training.

The board designated Thrush as leader of the group and Saxer as assistant leader. They will leave Auburn by bus Friday morning, Nov. 22, at 7 o'clock for Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, where they will be inducted into the army. They probably will be sent to a southern camp for training.

The county board is planning a farewell for the group, starting with breakfast at Auburn restaurant.

FARM RESIDENCE IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

The two-story frame farm home occupied by the Kent Provines family and owned by Mrs. Estella Welch, of Auburn, located about two miles southeast of Auburn at the end of the brick road, burned to the ground Sunday night. An alarm was answered by the Auburn volunteer fire department, who fought the blaze until about 1 A. M.

At 10:20 the alarm was sounded. The family did not discover the fire until it had gained a big start. They were sitting downstairs and almost the entire second story was ablaze when the discovery was made.

The Provines family lost all the furniture, clothing, and other contents on the second floor. While practically everything was taken from the first floor much of that which was removed from the building was damaged by mud and water. Insurance was carried on the contents by Mr. Provines and on the house by Mrs. Welch.

A storage shed near the house was saved by the firemen who also kept a large straw stack from catching fire from flying embers. Luckily, the barn had a tin roof. The firemen were seriously handicapped by the lack of water.

TALKING TURKEY:

Cooking may ruin a good bird or improve a poor one. It is better to buy a selected, high grade turkey and ones that have been drawn immediately after the kill are better in flavor. Never permit water to touch the inside of the turkey cleaning the outside before the turkey is cut. You can put your dressing between the layers of meat as well as on the inside of the bird. You can stuff and prepare the turkey a day or so in advance of the time for cooking. The dressing will season it pleasingly it will be easier to carve and the texture of meat improved if you partially cook it a day in advance of the final Thanksgiving cooking. Always grease it well keep in open pan basting every half hour with fat, roast at very moderate heat. You can put a clean, damp cheesecloth over top of turkey while cooking and this helps to give it a golden brown.

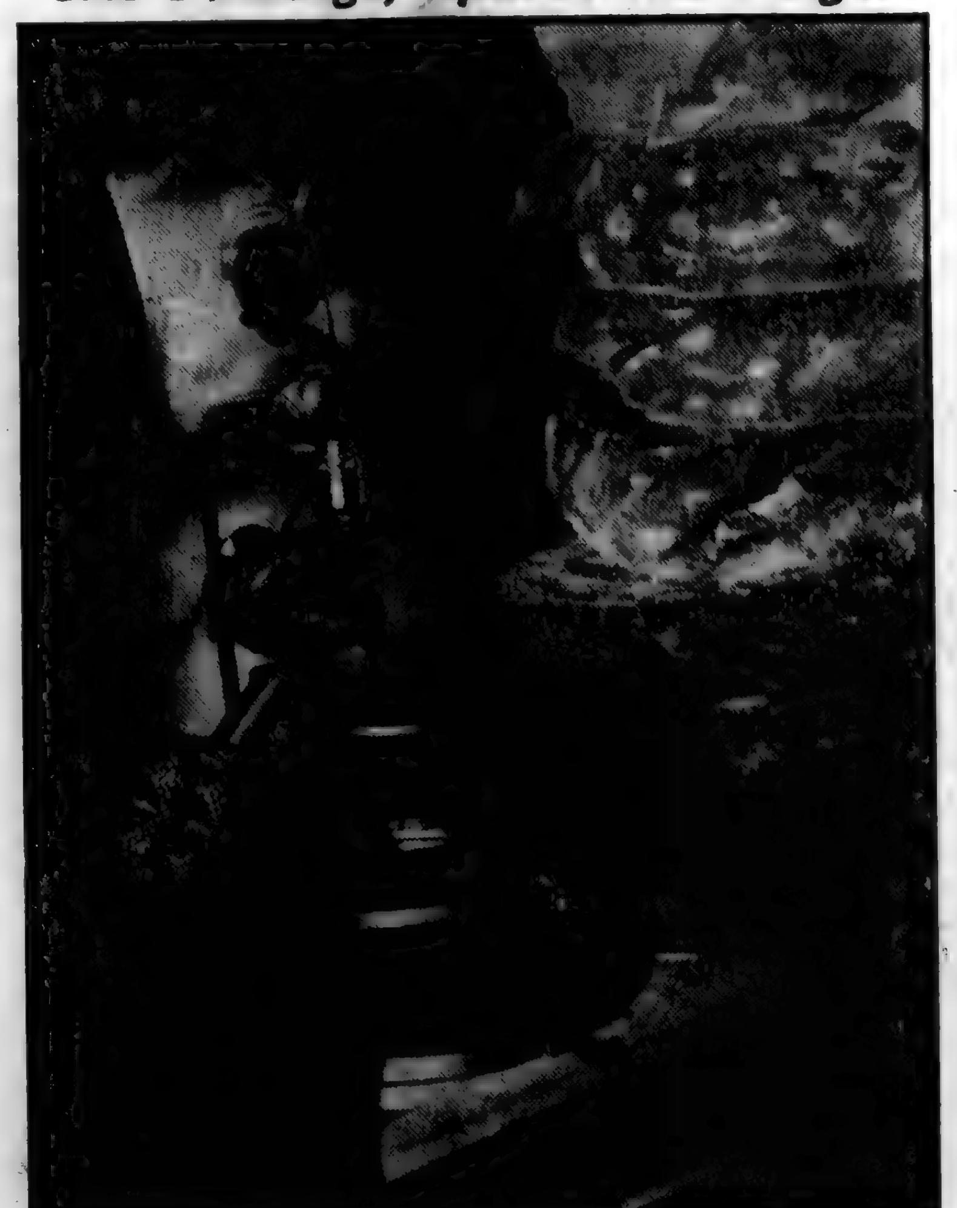
Scientist in 'Cold Storage' Phones His Findings, Spares His Fingers



Studying samples of glacial ice in a cold storage plant, Dr. Max Demorest could not make notes of his observations because his fingers quickly became too numb with cold to hold a pencil. Then he had a telephone installed in his "ice box laboratory." Now his wife writes his notes for him at home as he gives them to her over the wire, and his fingers—and hers—are comfortably warm.

In a New Haven, Conn., cold storage plant, where the thermometer never goes higher than 15 degrees above zero, Dr. Max Demorest, a geologist at Yale University, is studying the crystalline structure and "flow" of glacial ice with the aid of a telephone.

Last summer Dr. Demorest carried on his research in a hut beside a glacier on Mount Ranier, Wash. He returned east with 350 pounds of the glacier and found the cold storage plant an almost ideal laboratory.

There was just one catch. When Dr. Demorest tried to make notes in his frigid workshop, his fingers quickly got numb. A telephone was the solution. At the other end of the line, in the comfort of her home, Mrs. Demorest records her husband's dictated observations, and Dr. Demorest can keep his gloves on.

Why should a geologist, whose general field of study is the history of the earth, particularly as recorded in rocks, be interested in glacial ice? Because, although glacial ice is a solid, it flows—although very slowly. Thus it affords scientists a comparison with the "flow" of rocks far underground.

AGRICULTURAL EVENING SCHOOL STARTING

An agricultural evening school is a short, intensive course in practical farm problems conducted by the local vocational agriculture department in cooperation with the school administration. The school is composed primarily for persons who have entered upon the work of the farm as their life's work and usually covers but one agricultural subject during the duration of the school. True to name the school is conducted during the evening, usually lasting one and one-half to two hours each evening for ten or twelve consecutive weekly meetings. Any interested farmer of any age, living within the patronage area of the high school where the evening school is to be held, is eligible to attend these evening schools. The schools are conducted without cost to the community or the individual members of the schools.

Two such schools are being started in the community during the next few weeks. On Monday evening, December 2 at 8:00 o'clock, slow time, the first meeting at Spencerville will be held in the agriculture room at the High School Building. On the following Thursday night December 5, at 7:30 o'clock, the first meeting at Saint Joe will be held in the agriculture room at the High School Gym. Those nights will become the regular meeting nights for those two schools unless the group at their first meeting wishes to change to some more desirable night. Any one interested, should attend the first meeting of the school that he prefers, where discussion of the content of the course "Soil Management" will be conducted. Remember any adult farmer is eligible.

G. L. Haver, who is employed at the International plant in Fort Wayne, had quite an experience Friday when filling orders from the new building. He had a box under one arm and a gear in the other, when he started to go down stairs, workmen had left a bolt stick up in the cement and when Mr. Haver struck this with his foot, near the stairs, it threw him forward, letting his load go he caught hold of a pipe that plumbers were installing bending this pipe slowly with his weight and he dropped ten feet below onto a conveyor without an injury. He went on about his work and was able to conduct his barber business here on Saturday.

An outstanding corn yield of 63.2 bushels per acre has just won the corn growing grand championship of DeKalb County for Chas. Armstrong, Jr., Rt. No. 1, Auburn, Jackson Township farmer in the 1940 National DeKalb Hybrid Corn Growing Contest. Officials of the nation's biggest corn yield competition report that nearly 10,000 farmers from the 12 principal corn-producing states entered the contest. Armstrong's 63.2 bushel per acre crop, which is almost 2 times bigger than the national average corn yield this year, was certified for production competition and witnessed by two famer-neighbors. It will return more than 500 bushels of corn for each bushel of seed planted.

Gloria Jean Bowser, three year old daughter of Mrs. Clarence Burns, was fatally injured Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock when she was hit by an automobile in front of her mother's home one and one-half miles east of Garrett on the south Auburn-Garrett road. Her skull was fractured and she died at the home one hour after the accident. Charles Atkins, of Garrett, driver of the auto, was driving west at the time of the accident and said the child ran in front of his car. He jammed on his brakes and swerved his car to the north in an attempt to go around the child, but she continued on her way and just as she reached the ditch the bumper of the automobile hit her.

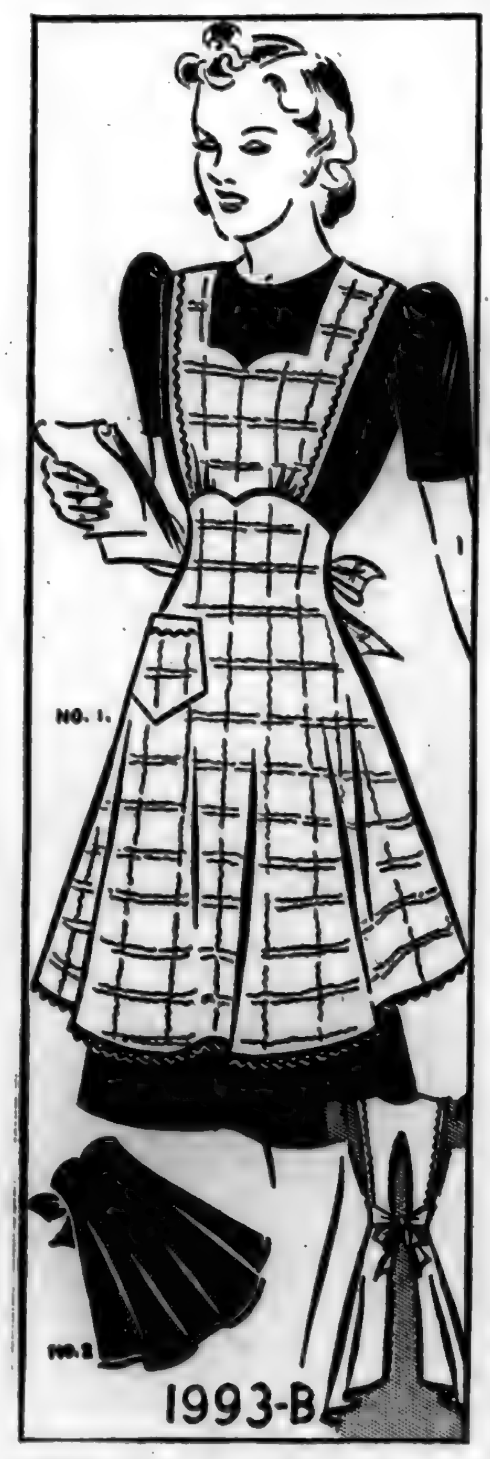
Trim Coverall and Smart Tie-Around



TWO of the most useful aprons in the world are yours in this one simple pattern (No. 1993-B). One is the all-protective type that you rely on to keep your dresses clean while preparing supper. The other is the more or less decorative little tie-around that you wear when serving afternoon tea. Notice the special virtues of the coverall. It protects the top as well as the skirt of your dress; it goes over your head and ties in a jiffy. It's so cut that it can't slip from your shoulders.

Just leave off the bib part of the coverall, and you have the high-cut, saucy little tie-around. Batiste, gingham, linen, percale and seersucker are pretty apron materials.

THE AWFUL PRICE YOU PAY FOR BEING NERVOUS
Read These Important Facts!
Quivering nerves can make you old, haggard, cranky—can make your life a nightmare of jealousy, self pity and "the blues."
Often such nervousness is due to female functional disorders. So take famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help calm unstrung nerves and lessen functional "irregularities." For over 60 years relief-giving Pinkham's Compound has helped tens of thousands of grandmothers, mothers and daughters "in time of need." Try it!

Deserving Well

Who deserves well, needs not another's praise.—Heath.

Is your child a NOSE PICKER?
It may be just a nasty habit, but sometimes nose picking is a sign of something nastier. It may mean that your child has round worms—especially if there are other symptoms, such as fidgeting, finicky appetite, restless sleep and itching in certain parts.
Many mothers don't realize how easy it is to "catch" this dreadful infection and how many children have it. If you even suspect that your child has round worms, get JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE right away! Drive out those ugly, crawling things before they can grow and cause serious distress.
JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE is the best known worm expellant in America. It is backed by modern scientific study and has been used by millions for over a century. JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE has the ability to drive out large round worms, yet it tastes good and acts gently. It does not contain santonin. If there are no worms it works merely as a mild laxative. Ask for JAYNE'S VER-MI-FUGE at any drug store.

Election Sidelights:

Both presidential candidates carried their own home voting districts. Roosevelt received a majority of 74 votes to win, 376 to 302; Willkie's native town gave him a margin of 438 votes. The count was Willkie, 4,151; Roosevelt, 3,713.

Post-election celebration kept Manhattan firemen busy after Roosevelt's victory became apparent. More than 50 fire alarms were turned in as a result of street bonfires set by celebrants.

In order to record the electoral vote the 531 presidential electors will gather on December 16 in their various state capitals and send their votes to Washington by registered mail. These letters will actually be tabulated by Congress on January 6 and President Roosevelt will be sworn in for his third term on January 20. Members of the electoral college used to get a trip to Washington but in 1934, congress decided that its duties were too routine and turned it into a "correspondence school."

Farmers Face New Problems As Use of Machines Increases

Technological Advances Change Life on U. S. Farms; Greek Nation Completely Unified in Crisis; Government Buys More Land.

By BAUKHAGE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

What's next? With the frost on the pumpkin, fodder in the shock, the world settling down to a hard winter and a long war, those of us who aren't in the first draft or just elected to office have a chance to look two ways from Christmas.

The industrial tail is about to wag the agricultural dog again the experts tell us, surplus labor is about to be syphoned off the farm which is fine for the man who has too many mouths to feed and too few acres to divide up, but not so good for the farmer who needs a few extra hands. However, if you do turn around and look back 35 years just to take your mind off present troubles you can see some interesting sights which have just been set up in sharp perspective by the inter-bureau committee of the department of agriculture.

In that short span for a man or a mule, 35 years, 10,000,000 mules and horses and thousands of men have been pushed off the farm by the machine. And, according to the prognosticators in Washington, a million and a half more mules and horses will be replaced by tractors in the next 10 years, and more than 8,000,000 acres of land now used to raise feed for work stock will be put to other uses.

Farmer Has Long Utilized Machines

We've been hearing a lot about man versus the machine, especially since the smash of 1929 that made unemployment the big issue, and again since the smash of 1940 when the Nazis with their tanks and motorized equipment went through France like a plow through loam. But the farmer had been getting machine conscious long before that. Especially since the little jack-of-all trades tractor appeared on the field, replacing the cumbersome earlier models.

Along with the tractor came a lot more "technological developments" including not only farm machinery like the combine and the corn-picker but other scientific advances such as testing and breeding and feeding of animals and plants, soil conservation, disease prevention and other things. This technology has hurt as well as helped. Besides the thousands of men who have lost their jobs on farms as well as in factories, prices have been affected and the whole social life on the farm has changed.

"It is not that these scientific advances are to be blamed" for the difficulties which have arisen, the Washington experts say, but "the troubles, if any, arise from the inequality of adjustments and responses in agriculture and industry to such advances."

Just what the advantages and disadvantages are that lie ahead is told in detail in a 224-page book, printed by the government and called "Technology on the Farm."

One thing that interested me particularly in this interesting book, aside from its excellent and detailed information, was an editorial opinion it expressed on the way the use of machines has changed farming for a living to farming for cash. There's a difference.

Of course when you have to buy a lot of machinery you need hard money but there are disadvantages in simply raising products with the one purpose of turning them into money.

Increased Investment Reduces Security

First, it reduces security. If you raise your own food you need never starve in a panic.

Then there is health:

A family with a low income and plenty of food growing right on the place is more likely to get a continuously healthful diet than one which has to buy what it eats.

Raising one's own food helps divide up responsibility for the family welfare because young children and old folks can tend a garden or feed the chickens. If the eggs and vegetables and milk are purchased, the children's interests are removed from the interests of their parents and older brothers and sisters. Furthermore, a child who helps raise its own food also gets what a city child doesn't get—a chance to learn through doing.

Another disadvantage of farming for money only, with the greater use of machines, is that it makes it harder to own a farm. The money goes into perishable things instead of into the solid title to land. The farmer tends to become a renter and if times are bad and a renter can't pay his rent he loses everything.

This is just one of the farm problems that the farmer can think over during the long winter evenings. Like many other good things machinery can be too much of a good thing. Alexander Pope's advice still stands:

"Be not the first by whom the new is tried
Nor yet the last to lay the old aside."

Greek People Wholly United

The war came close to me again the other day when I stepped on the soil of another belligerent. It was shortly after the Italians had crossed the border from Albania, and the Greeks had met this new invasion from the west as they met the Persian invasion from the east 450 years before.

I say I stepped on foreign soil because the embassies and legations of a foreign power are considered a part of the territory of that power no matter where they are located. The house which is a peaceful piece of Greece looks over Sheridan circle on Massachusetts avenue in the capital. It is really just a big private residence made into a legation where the minister, a cheerful little man with a long name, Cimon Diamantopoulos, lives and carries on the business of his country.

As I sat in the attractive cubbyhole that is his study, pouring over a map of the country he knows so well, I had a strange feeling. The walls with their artistic etchings of classic beauty seemed to fade away and I could see those tortuous passes of the ancient Pindus mountains. Mule-drawn artillery were struggling through the snow-drifts, the fierce Greek mountaineers with their kilts and tufted shoes on one side, the plumed Bersaglieri equally fierce Evzones mountain fighters on the other. I could see the attack in the blinding blizzard, the clash on the narrow roadway hardly wide enough for small motor lorries to pass, and then men and mules plunging down into the bottomless abyss.

The minister looked up. "Greece has never been as united as it is today," he said.

When the Persian hordes came to Marathon it was because their ruler hated the democratic spirit which he feared would spread to his own slave states.

History repeats.

Winter Comes To Washington

Washington in the autumn moves from a bright water-color to a soft-pastel, and then the foliage fades to a dark oil painting of rich browns. At last comes the steel engraving of winter.

We are now between the oil painting and the steel engraving. The burning yellow of the Gingkoes (the maiden-hair tree, some call it) have laid their last golden carpet on the west side of Lafayette square, that historic quadrangle of green opposite the White House.

A few sturdy oaks cling to their rich, saddle-leather brown. The Gingkoes are now bare. There are many of these attractive trees in Washington. They love cities, sharing the fumes of gas and smoke with the rest of us and flourishing on it.

I have a leaf from one planted in the city of Weimar by the poet Goethe. His city of study and reflection—the city that gave birth to the ill-fated German Republic after the last war.

That tree I hope still blooms. It does unless the Nazis have uprooted its beauty because it is non-Aryan. Nature knows no politics, and laughs at our fickle changes. The Gingkoes will bloom long after our civilization is forgotten.

* * *

History repeats but it also reverses itself. Once the American settlers were given or could buy government land. Now Uncle Sam buys 500,000 acres from his citizens.

As part of the defense program the war department through the soil conservation service has purchased great tracts for the Seventh corps army training center in Iowa; a new aircraft firing center near Hinesville, Ga.; and lands for expansion of Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont; Fort Sill, Oklahoma; Fort Devans, Massachusetts; and Fort Bliss, Texas.

* * *

From now on you'll be able to SEE American history.

In the National Archives in Washington there is the greatest collection of moving pictures of American events that exists. In a series, "See America First," you can see history (some re-made, of course) relating to Colonial days down to 1934. The later ones are news reels and among them is the only official picture in existence showing the celebration of the transfer of the Virgin islands.

FARM MACHINERY

Life on American farms is being changed by technological advances, Baukhage reports. He finds that the trend toward growing products primarily for sale instead of home consumption raises many new problems. The Greek ambassador in Washington told Baukhage that his people are now more united than ever. As a part of the defense program, the war department is purchasing great tracts of land, he reveals.

Hook Posy Pad for Chair or Foot Stool

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

LATELY I have received dozens of letters saying, "I would like to hook the flower designs for which you give directions in Book 5. Will you please tell me if I can use old silk stockings for these?"

Silk stockings may be used for hooked rugs but they do not wear as well as woolen materials. They are perfect for hooked chair pads, foot stool tops and wall hangings. All the popular stocking colors may be dyed soft green, red and brown tones, without first removing the tan color. "White dye" should be used first if bright colors are needed. After dyeing, cut a strip around and around the stocking spirally, making it from ¾ inch to 1⅛ inches wide according to how fine the work is to be. When your design has been marked as described in Book 5, draw the stocking strips through the burlap with a rug hook.

Worth the Grind

It is the climb that puts on muscle. Anything worth having is never cheap. God has no bargain-counters for even His poor or weak. It hurts to fall down, but strengthens us to pick ourselves up.—L. H. Talbot.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON Says:

United Features WNU Service

Washington, D. C.

BURYING THE HATCHET

I have been deluged by telephone calls asking if I am ready, as I promised, to eat my column of several weeks ago saying that Dr. Gallup's poll predicting this Roosevelt landslide was grossly in error. If it will please anybody, I am willing to eat that column. It would hardly give me indigestion. It is only 600 words.

But I doubt the obligation. Dr. Gallup ate it before I did. He got so jittery that he covered himself on every side and finally said that the election was so close that a breath could swing it either way. Some breath!

I am disappointed but not downhearted. After all, it was an American election. It expresses what our people think. I believe it was wrong. But I am eager to give the result all that I have to give. So must everybody. The President didn't have a more earnest supporter in 1932 and 1936. He didn't have a more earnest opponent than in 1940. But now we are on the brink of war. He is my President and yours. He could ask me for nothing that I would not give.

For the result, we couldn't have gotten a bad man, no matter who was the final choice. I know both of these men—know them as well as you know a college chum or the man next to whom you work or the guy who drops in to sit on the cracker barrel in your store, which is a figure of speech because we no longer have cracker barrels. But the simile is still the same.

I don't call Mr. Roosevelt "Franklin" any more because, somehow, you can't do that to the President of the United States. But I think he wishes people would, and I am very sure that Mr. Willkie doesn't like to be called anything but Wendell. The point is that both of these men are plain Americans. It has never seemed to me that either of them went very far astray—except as to his advisers. Maybe that was because I wasn't one of them.

* * *

There is a classic army yarn about a young lieutenant or "shavetail" just out of West Point. He reported to his captain at a western station in those days when captains were old, gruff and apt to be very wise. This one treated him so kindly that he became over-enthusiastic and said: "Oh, Captain. I can see that we are going to get along in complete co-operation."

"Yes," said the wrinkled old veteran, "and in this man's army you'll do all the co-operating."

A situation something like that surrounds the late opponents of President Roosevelt. I don't know one who, because of the danger in the world, isn't perfectly willing to forget the late and bitter political fight and join up with recent political adversaries in anything that will advance the interests of the country and cement its strength. But it takes at least two for any true co-operation.

The tremendous vote for Mr. Willkie measures the mass of protest and skepticism on some of Mr. Roosevelt's acts and policies. Any hostility or roughshod riding by this administration over contrary opinions might destroy the President's great opportunity to usher in the healthiest "era of good-feeling" and national unity that has occurred—at least in my lifetime.

I thought that kind of era would come in 1937, but some of Mr. Roosevelt's closest advisers and strongest henchmen were vindictive scalp hunters. They said they had a mandate and started out to keelhaul and purge even their own party. It didn't work so well and maybe with this much smaller majority, there won't be so much reprisal.

Old Andy Jackson was like that. He thought he had been cheated out of one election and the assaults on him had been very hateful and highly personal. It was said that he retired to the Hermitage "after having rewarded all his friends and punished all his enemies." That may be a great personal satisfaction, but it is just what the country does not need at a time like this.

* * *

Thomas Jefferson is as great a titulary deity of the Democratic party. He didn't do that. In his first inaugural, he even offended his own party by telling the people that with the election over, they were all Democrats and Republicans—or the equivalent labels of that day—Republicans and Federalists.

Abraham Lincoln didn't do it either. He appointed to his cabinet some of the strongest personal opponents in his own newly formed and hodge-podge party.

Any man who has to fight as has Mr. Roosevelt is bound to support his friends without too much consideration for his opponents. Everybody expects that. What is now needed is good will and mutual confidence among all Americans, and that is exactly what is within Mr. Roosevelt's grasp today.

But the 22,000,000 people who voted for Mr. Willkie, representing the views of almost half the population of a great nation, can't, like the young army shavetail, "do all the co-operating." Their opinions must be respected.

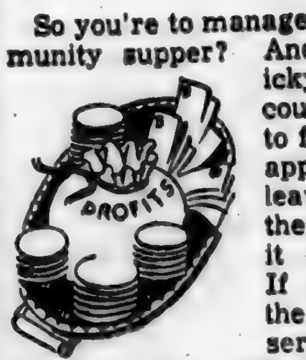
THE COMMUNITY SUPPER
(See Recipes Below)



So you're to manage the next community supper? And you're panicky about it! Of course it's a job to feed 200 people appetizingly and leave $25 profit in the treasury. But it can be done! If you must eye the nickels when serving church or club suppers, study the following eight-point program for "feeding the multitude":

(1) Pick a general chairman who can picture the job as a whole. (2) Appoint a responsible person in charge of each food. (3) Arrange the kitchen conveniently for the different jobs. (4) Prepare as many foods ahead of time as possible. (5) Have utensils ready and garnishes at hand. (6) Name a hostess to direct waitresses. (7) Plan a uniform method of serving. (8) Plan menus well ahead of time.

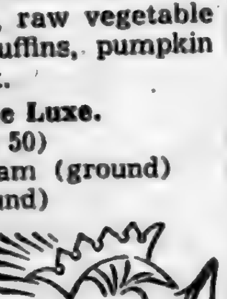
If the meat dish is different, the whole meal seems to have variety. And there's many a trick for serving thrifty cuts differently.

Take meat loaf, for instance. A ham loaf de luxe with a good mustard-horseradish sauce will "make" any meal. Beef stew can be thickened a little, ladeled into dripping pans, covered with rounds or squares or diamonds of biscuit, and when baked it appears crustily and temptingly yours. If you wish to make it more "de luxe" bake and serve in individual casseroles.

For something different, plan for meat balls with rice. You can serve buttered turnips, and a salad made of cabbage, celery, green peas and pimento which certainly sells the men this menu.

Now if pennies needn't be watched so closely and you want to do a fall or winter dinner up brown, here's a "ringer": Baked ham, raisin and cider sauce, raw vegetable salad, cranberry muffins, pumpkin pie, coffee, or milk.

Ham Loaf de Luxe.
(Serves 50)



- 5 pounds smoked ham (ground)
- 3 pounds veal (ground)
- ¾ cup green pepper (minced)
- ¾ cup onion (chopped)
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 8 eggs (beaten)
- 1 quart tomato soup (canned)
- 1 quart bread crumbs or uncooked cereal

Combine the meat, green pepper, onion and seasonings. Add beaten eggs, tomato soup, and bread crumbs or uncooked cereal. Pack into bread loaf pans and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1½ hours.

Beef Stew With Biscuits.
(Serves 50)

- 9 pounds beef round (cut into 1-inch cubes)
- 2 cups flour
- 1 cup hot beef drippings
- 3 quarts boiling water
- ⅓ teaspoon peppercorns
- 2 bay leaves
- 1 quart turnips (diced)
- 1 quart carrots (diced)
- 1 cup onions (sliced)
- Salt and pepper to taste

Cut beef into 1-inch cubes. Dredge in the flour and brown in hot beef drippings. Place in kettle and add boiling water. Cook slowly for 2 to 3 hours. Add peppercorns and bay leaves. Add carrots and turnips 1 hour before serving. Add salt and pepper. If necessary, thicken with flour paste. Serve hot with baking powder biscuits on top.

Meat Balls With Rice.
(Serves 40 to 45)

- 4 pounds beef (ground)
- 3 pounds pork (ground)
- 2 onions (minced)
- 2 cups rice (uncooked)
- 2 cups cracker crumbs
- 4 eggs (beaten)
- 4 tablespoons salt
- 1 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups milk

Combine ingredients and mix well. Form into balls. Place in shallow roasting pans. Pour over 2 quarts tomato sauce or tomato soup. Cover pans. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1½ to 2 hours, turning the meat balls several times during cooking. Add water if necessary, during the baking.

Cider and Raisin Sauce.
(Serves 12)

- 1 cup sugar
- ¼ cup cornstarch
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 quart cider
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- 6 small pieces cinnamon
- 12 whole cloves

Mix sugar, cornstarch, salt, cider and raisins together. Place spices in a cheesecloth bag and add to mixture. Boil gently for 15 minutes. Remove spice bag and serve hot sauce over ham.

Cabbage and Celery Salad With Peas.
(Serves 25)

- 4 No. 2 cans peas (2 quarts)
- 2½ quarts cabbage (shredded)
- 2 quarts celery (diced)
- Pimiento (cut fine)
- Salt to taste
- Mayonnaise
- 3 heads lettuce

Drain peas (reserving liquid for soup, gravy, etc.) and chill. Add cabbage, celery, pimiento, salt and mayonnaise, and mix well. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

Lemon Cream Scones.
(Makes 30 scones)

- 2 cups flour (sifted)
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 4 tablespoons butter or other shortening
- 1 teaspoon lemon rind (grated)
- 2 eggs
- ¼ cup light cream
- 1½ tablespoons lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon lemon rind (grated)

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and the 1 tablespoon of sugar together. Cut in butter and add 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Reserving 1 tablespoon egg white for glaze, beat remaining eggs well and add cream. Combine with flour mixture. Add lemon juice and stir until soft dough forms. Turn out on slightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll dough to ¼-inch thickness and cut into 3-inch squares, then cut each square from corner to corner, making triangles. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Brush tops lightly with slightly beaten egg white and sprinkle with mixture made of 3 tablespoons sugar and 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) 12 minutes, or until brown. Before serving, spread with orange marmalade and reheat.

Cabbage and Carrot Salad With Peanuts.
(Serves 25)

- 5 quarts cabbage (shredded)
- 20 carrots (grated)
- 2½ cups peanuts (chopped)
- 2 cups salad dressing

Mix together the cabbage, carrots, peanuts and salad dressing. Chill thoroughly and serve.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS

Add finely cut mint leaves to orange juice and chill. Just before serving add 1⅓ cups pale dry ginger ale to each two cups of orange juice.

* * *

For variety sprinkle some grated cheese over the top of raisin, apple or mince pie and heat for five minutes in a moderate oven. Serve at once.

Hail 'Stuffy' as British Savior

Chief of Fighter Command Gave R. A. F. Its Fire Power Superiority.

LONDON. — When historians get around to writing the history of this war, it may be that they will decide the man who saved Great Britain was not "Tiger" Gort or even Winston Churchill, but a tall, cadaverous Scotsman called "Stuffy" Dowding.

He is the man who in the face of great opposition finally convinced the British air council to put eight synchronized machine guns on the British fighter plane. Maneuverability, firing power, speed is his motto. He kept repeating it month after month until the air council finally gave in and the Hurricane and Spitfire were the result.

Stuffy Dowding also is responsible for the decision to place the cockpit on the Hurricane behind the engine where the pilot would have a maximum of protection. On his own initiative he worked with a firm of glass manufacturers for a year until they developed a pilot's windshield that would shed machine gun bullets.

Advantage Over Nazi.

It would be impossible to overestimate the importance of these decisions in the Battle of Britain. The reported British three to one advantage over the Germans in daylight air battles is due more than anything else to the fact that the British have twice as many machine guns in each plane as their opponents. It is not true to say British planes are superior in every way. They are slower than the latest Messerschmitts and their ceiling is lower, but as every German pilot who has come down here will tell you, when the British let go with Stuffy Dowding's eight machine guns, no bomber pilot in the world can stay in formation.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Hugh Caswall Tremenheere Dowding, now boss of Britain's fighter command, is a thin inscrutable figure in blue as he sits at headquarters directing his fighter pilots by radio. By a vast complicated telephone system he knows the position of every bomber over the country and it is his job to direct the defense to meet every maneuver of the raiders.

Warns of Air Raids.

In addition, it is his job to warn great urban centers when raiders approach. The banshees howl at his command.

Stuffy Dowding flew with the royal flying corps in the World war and his only son is a pilot today. He has served these last 28 years in India and the Near East, where for a time he had charge of the R. A. F., and even today, at 58, he still flies his own plane. Noted for his unsmiling wit, his knobby knees, his stubborn Scottish temper and his quick decision in battle, Stuffy is essentially a flier's flier.

"The life of a military aviator," he tells his men, "consists of hours of idleness punctuated by moments of fear."

In the service his junior officers idolize him. When you comment on British success in the air, they all say: "Stuffy did it."

Daughter on Watch at Joaquin Miller's Shrine

OAKLAND, CALIF.—The memory of Joaquin Miller, the good gray poet of the Sierra, is being kept alive with loving care.

Kept intact in every detail, even to a life-size effigy of the poet, which reposes in his bed, Miller's "abby" on Joaquin Miller Heights in Oakland is a shrine visited by many persons annually. Miller is perhaps best known for his epic poem "Columbus."

The "abby," a strange framework and stone structure, is where he wrote "Columbus." The quill pen with which he wrote still lies on his desk and his memory is nourished by his favorite daughter, Juanita.

Joaquin Miller had to publish his first book of poetry in London before he could win recognition in his homeland. By 1871, when his "Songs of the Sierra" were published in London, Americans were convinced of his merit.

Trumpeter Swan Staging A Comeback in the West

Its employees counted 128 in the Red Rock Lakes national wildlife refuge in Montana.

Drawbridge on Dry Land But Tender Keeps His Job

SACRAMENTO, CALIF. — Nick Schwall receives $50 a month as a bridge-tender on a bridge he does not operate.

The war department designated the Feather river as a navigable stream, despite the fact the stream has become too shallow for anything except small power boats. Not only that, the river channel has shifted until the drawbridge now is over dry land.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Congress remains in session, but its tenure of life appears to be frail, and destined to endure no longer than a week or ten days, it is alleged. The Republicans are eager for an opportunity to have their say, yet the desire to go home seems to rest on a nonpartisan basis. The President is not vitally concerned about pending legislation and has nothing new and of the "must" variety to bring forward at this time. On the question of adjournment, he remains merely a neutral onlooker. The matters in abeyance, and likely to be affected one way or the other by adjournment, include as the more important items, the Walter-Logan bill relating to trimming the power of administrative agencies, amendments to the Wagner act, and the anti-lynching measure, which has come to be a perennial hangover.

Though somewhat out of breath, neither of the major parties has laid away politics and strategy, even temporarily. The errors and omissions of the last few months are being studied, especially since Congressional campaigns are no more than two years distant. Beyond that, the plans of each side deal with relatively unimportant details of the immediate future. Mr. Willkie's desire to have the spirit of the last Presidential campaign kept alive, by means of interparty organizations, probably will be met by similar Democratic activities. President Roosevelt has issued a call for unity. The Republican view is that the sort of unity most sorely needed is one that will produce a strong and effective opposition, without which it is impossible to work out what is best for the land.

In language too pointed to be misunderstood, Mr. John L. Lewis ventured upon the cast of a die, his future as leader of the C. I. O. and the United Mine Workers. The throw did not turn out favorably to him. Although down, he is not out, nor can he be until he resigns or is repudiated by his colleagues. The position of Mr. Lewis unquestionably is weakened, and Mr. Green has taken advantage of that circumstance to argue for peace in the ranks of organized labor, a condition which the President is said to desire, and possibly to require. The breach is wide. How much the removal of Mr. Lewis from the offices he now holds, would narow that breach, is a matter of conjecture. His followers are many, and they may find new places of service for him. It is far from true that Mr. Lewis is permanently and definitely eliminated, no is it assured that if he is made to feel the full consequences of his vow, the family troubles of labor will be over.

Report has it that Italy looked for rebellion in Greece as soon as the invasion was well under way, but the expected revolt did not materialize. The result has been quite different from what was expected. Not only has Greece held herself well together, but Yugoslavia has turned a somewhat unfriendly eye on Italy, the attitude of Bulgaria being of a similar sort. Considering also that England is working havoc with the Italian navy, things do not look so bright for Italy. She had high hopes of coming in on the split, but the split still is a long way off.

Speaking of prominent men, Louis D. Brandeis, retired Justice of the Supreme Court, recently passed his eighty-fourth birthday. It has been remarked that the dissenting opinions of Messrs. Brandeis and Holmes in many instances later became the law of the land. The setting sun shines brightly and kindly upon Mr. Brandeis. The same cannot be said of the last days of Neville Chamberlain. Popular opinion sets a doubtful value upon him, but war is the uppermost thing in the average mind. Chamberlain was not essentially a man of war, nor did he stand in the front rank as a diplomat. These two considerations taken together, perhaps in the writing of the Munich pact he was confronted by a task beyond his powers, certainly one contrary to his tastes. Yet the fact remains that through the efforts of Mr. Chamberlain, Britain was given a much needed opportunity to prepare. His work can be evaluated only in a more calm and judicial future.

THE THANKSGIVING GIFT

For our bounties we join in prayerful thanksgiving. For courage, liberty and happiness, we sing a song of gratitude in recompense. In appreciation of favors received we bow our head in earnest supplication.

Each of us in St. Joe, though in his own private world suffers from sadness and worry, strike a renewed note at Thanksgiving time, the theme of gratitude for our individual blessings.

We "give thanks unto the Lord, and call upon his name," as is fitting, for whence cometh our benevolences? We must also give praise to our fellowmen who, directly and indirectly, have taken part in contributing to our benefactions. However poorer may be this other world which adds to yours and to mine, that world, though underprivileged and hard-pressed, will feel that their lot is better than that of thousands of others.

No matter how much we own, how small our possessions, the important point is how much do we enjoy what we have and do we appraise our gifts with gratitude. We must remember that gratitude has the great power of enlarging small pleasures and shrinking profound miseries.

We hear little of a modern pilgrim, for that name indicative of courage and fortitude, seems to have disappeared with the first celebration of Thanksgiving, when fifty stalwart souls poured out their prayer of praise. The sceptic, who in his discontent, derides our state as sentimental and idealistic, fails to see that being thankful is simply using good common sense. This nation was founded on gratitude by a tried people living to create a present and not daring to look into the future, but striving to found a nation daily, through being happy for those necessities which they enjoyed as they hued the wood, hunted the game, raised the grain, struggled and sacrificed for a stronghold that was to endure as a great nation of great people.

We share one deep blessing with those Pilgrim Fathers, the understanding of the Lord's goodness, the knowledge of His hand in our lives and that, through Him, the Pilgrims of today can find good cause to rejoice.

The hardest task for a man or his country, is to be prejudiced but to always remain neutral.

Republican lawmakers, who will hold the whip in the Indiana legislature in the 1941 session, say they will take a short rest before plunging into their task of mapping out legislative strategy—presumably about Dec. 1. The party holds definite control of the legislature with a 31 to 18 majority in the senate and 54 to 36 edge in the house. William Jenner, of Shoals, who was elected speaker pro tem of the senate, said that neither house had formulated any definite plans but planned to carry out the party platform "to the letter."

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1940 NUMBER 48

CARL WALTER GIVEN 2 TO 21 YEARS IN STATE PENITENTIARY

Changing his plea to guilty, Carl Walter, of Auburn, former clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, Monday afternoon was sentenced to serve two to twenty-one years in the state penitentiary at Michigan City.

Judge W. P. Endicott also, in accordance with the law, assessed a fine of $25 and the costs and disfranchised the defendant for two years. He was taken to prison early Tuesday morning by Sheriff Artus Coyle.

After four months' absence, during which time his whereabouts remained a mystery to the authorities, the defendant returned home November 14 and on the following day surrendered at the court house. He then entered a plea of not guilty, but it was anticipated at the time that he would change the plea later. He was gven his liberty on bond and trial was set for November 27.

In company with his attorney, Dan M. Link, and in the custody of Deputy Sheriff Paul Miller, the defendant returned to the court room Monday afternoon. The state was represented by H. W. Mountz, deputy prosecuting attorney. Attorney Link advised the court of the defendant's desire to change his plea and Judge Endicott then passed sentence. All that was said by the defendant personally in the court room was to give his age, 31, in response to a query by the court. He was then taken to the county jail to remain until time to leave for Michigan City.

The civil case aganst Walter and his surety was settled Nov. 19 by payment of $6,571.11 into the court by the Ohio Casualty Insurance Co.

GRIFFINS ARE DIVORCED

Iretta Griffin of Butler, secured a divorce in the DeKalb Circuit Court Saturday from Russell Griffin, who served time at the state farm for nonsupport of his family.

The family formerly resided in Michigan, but the plaintiff testified that on June 25, 1939, the defendant brought her and the children to DeKalb County and then returned to Michigan to live with another woman.

The Griffins were married August 31, 1931. Judge W. P. Endicott awarded the custody of the youngest child, Harold, 2, to the plaintiff and the defendant was directed to pay $2 a week for the support of the child. Custody of the older children, Hugh, 7, and Robert, 5, was given to the defendant's parents, Jesse and Blanche Griffin, living in Keyser Township southeast of Garrett.

The defendant also was ordered to pay $50 to apply upon his wife's attorney's fee. She is represented by C. E. McClintock and the defendant by Capt. W. D. Stump.

The Griffins lived in St. Joe and in Jackson Township prior to moving to Michigan.

ATTEND SERVICE AT DELTA, O.

Church groups from the Newville and St. Joe Churches of Christ, attended morning service, a fellowship dinner and evening services at the Delta, Ohio, Church of Christ, Sunday, where Evangelist George O'Neal, of Lexington, Ky., is conducting revival services. Milton Fronsoe, former minitser at Newville and St. Joe, is serving the church where he and his wife are both active in the working condition of the large membership.

A visible and satisfying result of harmony, in the material interest of this congregation, is the beautiful and modern church building and parsonage.

The Men's Gospel Quartet, of the St. Joe Valley, furnished music at both services, also, at funeral services in the afternoon conducted by Milton Fronsoe for William Benton Pontius, at the Kneiber funeral home.

The only efficient method to fireproof a Christmas tree, the scientists have found, is to cut off the end of the tree trunk diagonally an inch above the original cut and stand the tree in a water-filled container. This prevents a quick drying and makes the tree less inflammable.

WEATHER CONDITIONS AFFECT FUR VALUES

Weather conditions prevailing during the Autumn months when temperatures were unusually high, had an adverse effect on the price of fur being taken during the present trapping season, it is pointed out in reports received by Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation. Many trappers and fur buyers claim that the pelts taken later, after long periods of cold weather, are in better condition and as a result bring higher prices.

Trapping muskrat, opossum, raccoon, skunk, mink and fox is a profitable activity for thousands of Hoosier residents with the annual receipts from the sale of furs averaging about three-quarters of a million dollars.

OUR IMPORTANCE

When trying to dial a favorite radio program and the air is crowded with big talk and loud music that drowns out your station and twisting the dials only makes matters worse, then is when you complain that all a fellow needs these days to start a broadcasting station is a coffee pot and a length of wire.

But with all of the listed radio stations in the United States there are only twenty-one stations located in towns under 10,000 population. There are 3,048 counties in the land and of these 2,457 include NO TOWN OF OVER 10,000 POPULATION. Subtract the twenty-one and you can figure on 2,436 counties that have only one way of imparting the local news—the weekly newspaper. When you realize that 58.6% of the total United States families live in small towns or rural areas, you can appreciate why the weekly newspaper feels important.

THE ZERO HOUR

The very noble bird, the turkey, approaches the end of November in fear and trembling. The fatter the foul the greater the danger. Back in the old days, the serving of a glistening, savory, brown-skinned buzzard was not such a rare occasion. We consider it sort of a fete-day in St. Joe when the menu contains turkey, for to most tables turkey is a party dish. Our rugged ancestors lacked much in the way of cauliflower, brussel sprouts, pistachhio nuts and maple mousse, but they could certainly take their turkey as a matter of course. As enjoyable as is the sight of the bird reposing in state on the flat of its back with garnishes and accessories spread round about, there comes a time when it loses some of its appeal. A slack season in the turkey appetite when we get it sliced cold, as hash, as turkey gumbo, as turkey croquettes, and trying to fool us in a gravy.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Washington celebrated Thanksgiving Day in a more or less conventional manner, aside from the interest which was injected by reason of the fact that the city is the home and center of the Federal Government. The turkey had a hard time of it there as elsewhere, the churches were filled, and a warm and benign air tempted many into the country. For the first time in a number of years, the President was at the old Hyde Park home, above the Hudson. Personal blessings aside, he voiced the national grounds for thanksgiving as well as anyone could have done, when he said in the proclamation: "In a year which has seen calamity and sorrow fall upon many peoples elsewhere in the world, may we give thanks for our preservation."

Due perhaps to the season of the year, although Thanksgiving is an American institution, the English parliament opens a new sesson in a spirit of high optimism. The King, in the customary address from the throne, speaks encouragingly of friendly relations with the United States, although he can hardly claim that, in many other quarters, he and his land are held in such high estimation. George looks forward to an enlarged delivery of supplies from this side of the water; and perhaps a substantial loan, in the fullness of time, is not an entire stranger to his mind. Americans tinged with a Scottish thrift still wonder what is to be done about those old war debts, but maybe they will be attended to if Britain can outlast Germany in the present conflict. Certainly the money is positively gone for good is she does not.

Among those on the fence and seemingly cool toward England, Bulgaria may be mentioned. Indeed, fact, that country is said to look upon England as her prime and foremost enemy. The enmity of Bulgaria may have arrived by a roundabout trail. Bulgaria and Greece have unsettled claims against each other relating to territory. Greece is licking Italy. Italy is the bedfellow of Germany, and the feeling of Germany for England is a matter of oft repeated full page newspaper print. Rumania, another fence sitter, is alleged in diplomatic circles to be about ready to side with the axis powers. Small European countries are hardly to be blamed for anything they may do. Being kind to Germany may ward off conquest for a time. Few will be inclined to think that pro-German thinking and action will preserve for long, the autonomy and liberty of countries not large enough to offer substantial opposition.

Judged by American standards of efficiency, Hitler is entitled to more respect, or less contempt, than Mussolini. The Fuehrer told in advance what he was going to do, and has substantially made good so far. The Duce has been talking for approximately fifteen years about restoring the ancient Roman empire, and so on, without accomplishing more than taking over Ethiopia in a war that was practically a contest between air bombs and pitchforks. There is some comfort in the thought that both pests at length may go down under an error of the kind that has worked the ruin of many of their predecessors: namely taking over too much disaffected territory. Notwithstanding all the unkind language that has been said of late regarding France, it is said that French hate for Germany still smoulders, ready to burst into flame when the time is ripe. A single hard setback for Germany might be all that is needed: but the setback crop appears to be something of a failure up to the date of the present writing.

LOSS AT BOGER FARM IS PLACED AT $1,800

The fire loss at the Lester Boger farm, east of Auburn on the Newville road, early Sunday morning, was set at approximately $1,800 Monday afternoon. The seed house, constructed two years ago by Mr. Boger, who deals in hybrid seed corn, caught fire early Sunday morning, the Auburn fire department being called at 7:05 and working for an hour and one-half in an effort to save the building and contents.

After an investigation Monday, no cause for the blaze could be learned except that the wiring may have been faulty. The furnace in the building had very little fire in it at the time. The building itself had a tin roof and the outside was covered with asbestos shingles.

Fire in the two-story seed house was discovered by a neighbor, who called the Boger residence. Only the two daughters were at home at the time. Mr. Boger was in Eastern Ohio to attend the funeral of a relative, while Mrs. Boger and their son, Lawrence, were in Buffalo. The fire department was then summoned.

While the second story of the seed house was badly damaged, the first floor was saved by the firemen. All machinery was on the first floor and was undamaged. Much of the corn, which was being processed upstairs, was badly burned, although the owner saved two-thirds of it. About 250 bushels were lost, however. Loss on the building amounted to approximately $300.

The loss was fully covered by insurance carried in the Farmers' Mutual of this county.

The annual Thanksgiving meeting of the Culture Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Huldah Reasoner. The hostess, Mrs. Clara Foltz and Mrs. Clara Sible were in charge of the evening's entertainment and refreshments. After everyone had helped themselves to the carry-in lunch and the good things the committee served they were seated at one long table and two smaller ones. In the center of the long table was a large centerpiece of baby chrysanthemums presented by Mrs. Hattie Widney Stone, an associate member and was very much appreciated by those present.

Before leaving the dining room two groups were formed and sang, "I am Thankful" in two rounds. All were asked to stand and salute the flag and repeat the pledge, followed by "God Bless America." Mrs. Reasoner read a selection on the Landing of the Pilgrims and Mrs. Lulu Armstrong read the different dates given for the observance of Thanksgiving, there being an interval of twenty years until Lincoln then set the date we followed ever since until last year. Mrs. Sible gave what she was thankful for and Mrs. Foltz presented some Thanksgiving thoughts, followed by a balloon blowing contest. Mrs. Troas Carpenter's bursted like a bomb making her the winner.

A game of truth and consequences was conducted by Mrs. Foltz which proved educational as well as entertaining. The club will enjoy a vacation of one week when they will be entertained at the country home of Mrs. Troas Carpenter.

With the general belief among farmers that the 1940 corn crop is only about half of 1939, we are pleased to quote Floyd Weikel, one of Concord Township's farmers, when he says his crop is in excess of 1939 per acre. In our window will be seen four ears taken from the crib without sorting and it is remarkable as to the size and quality. The corn was planted between the 15th and 20th., and the yield is figured between 100 and 110 bushels. This is the first hybrid corn Mr. Weikel ever raised, being Pfeister 280. His own seed corn returned 65 bushels per acre.

We Need the Money

I CAN'T HELP THINKING
IT WAS MY FAULT

"We had a fire. And, of course, we had insurance. But I didn't know every policy states that a complete list of destroyed and damaged property must be supplied for settlement. I never made a list . . . and, of course, I couldn't remember after our fire. That cost us money!

"It was probably my fault for not making a list beforehand. I would have been ready. I won't make the same mistake again. I have one of those handy Inventory Booklets. It helps by listing things room by room, and suggesting items often forgotten. You can get one—and be ready It didn't cost me a penny."

MORTUARY

MRS. BARBARA MAVIS DIES AT AGE OF 65

Mrs. Barbara M. Mavis, 65, a former Auburn resident, died suddenly Friday night at 10:15 o'clock at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Odessa Bailey, of St. Joe. She had not been well since suffering a severe heart attack on June 15. Retiring for the night about 10 o'clock, she passed away soon after and without a struggle. Mrs. Bailey and her mother were alone for the night, as Mr. Bailey was away from home working.

Barbara Friend was born March 15, 1875, in Henry County, Ohio, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Friend, who were pioneers of that neighborhood. With her parents she moved to Putnam County, Ohio, where she grew to womanhood. On July 3, 1894, she and Charles W. Mavis were united in marriage.

They resided a number of years at Hicksville and Defiance and Mr. Mavis died at Defiance in 1920. She moved in 1923 from Defiance to Auburn. In early life she united with the Mt. Zion Christian Church near her home and later transferred her membership to the United Brethren Church at Defiance.

Mrs. Mavis is survived by five sons, Everett, Quentin, Karl, and Bruce, of Auburn, and Loren, of Grover Hill, Ohio; two daughters, Mrs. Odessa Bailey, of St. Joe, and Mrs. LaRue Bouten, of Defiance. One daughter, as well as her husband, preceded her in death. In addition to the children, she leaves fourteen grandchildren; one great grandchild, and three brothers and four sisters, John Friend, Andrew Friend, Mrs. Jennie Spencer, Mrs. Amelia Spencer, and Mrs. Anna Halbgewoks, of near Rice, Ohio, Adam Friend, of Oakwood, Ohio, and Mrs. Caroline Maddock, of Ayersville, Ohio.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock (EST) at the Defiance United Brethren Church, Rev. H. F. Craven, of Auburn Presbyterian Church officiated and burial was in charge of DuWayne Kinsey.

W. P. A. WORK IS FINALLY APPROVED FOR DEKALB CO.

County Highway Supervisor Wayne T. Van Auken has received word that the County wide W. P. A. project, submitted to the Federal Works Administration last Summer, has finally been approved by the South Bend office and the State W. P. A. office and is now going thru the final approval processes in Washington.

On this project the W. P. A. plans to spend $82,079 for labor and non-labor items and the county is obligated in the sum of $29,325 for the sponsor's share.

This project will furnish labor for approximately 100 men including labor and supervision and is expected to cover a period of at least 12 months with a possibility of 15 months or more.

Included in this project is widening of the Auburn-Garrett road; widening, grading and placing bituminous surface of 4.7 miles of the Belle Fountain road in Troy Township; widening and grading the Perky Mill road in Franklin Township, a distance of 4 miles; widening and grading Basket Factory road in Franklin Township, a distance of 1.7 miles; and several 1 mile connecting roads in Smithfield, Grant and Butler Townships and various other small units which need some improvement.

The County Highway Department has carried an enormous W. P. A. burden in the past four years and although a lot of roads have been improved, it still was largley "made work" and even now is regarded by the Federal Authorities as relief projects.

In view of the pick up in employment conditions, throughout the entire county, we think the project as submitted will amply take care of the W. P. A. situation in DeKalb County for 1941.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their words of sympathy and kindness shown our family in the death of our infant daughter and to Rev. Key and to Kinsey funeral home for their efficient service—Mr. and Mrs. Art Guilford and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Collins are the parents of a baby son, born Saturday night at 11:50 o'clock at the Sanders hospital in Auburn. The baby weighed eight and three-quarter pounds at birth.

Mrs. Wilson Beaber, of two miles east of St. Joe, suffered a light stroke Sunday evening, but today is able to sit up for a short time. Her right side was affected. Mrs. Oral Hughes has been caring for her daily and now Mrs. Ila Shilling has arrived to care for her mother.

Mr. Sam Armstrong was taken suddenly ill Saturday afternoon while getting his hair cut at the Haver barber shop, and when he revived sufficient, was taken home. Today he is feeling much improved and no doubt will be out cutting wood or shoveling snow, should his wife leave home long enough for him to get out. Sam really has more ambition than strength and that is a commendable (fault) indeed. Here's hoping he will be permitted to cut wood at least once in a while.

The Republican committee of DeKalb County disbursed $2,310.30 during the campaign that closed recently, according to a report filed with County Clerk Carrie Weaver by Philip S. Carper, the treasurer. Total receipts were $2,475.28 and the committee finished the campaign with a balance on hand of $164.98. Itemized receipts, including a balance of $141.10 at the end of the 1938 campaign. The list of expenditures is long, including the payment of $5 to each precinct committeeman; $100.70 for the Lincoln Day banquet; and items for telephone service, signs, printing, advertising, polling, signs, office help, postage, headquarters rent, music and flares.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell L. Willkie may hang up their Christmas stockings at Rushville, Indiana. Their plans, beyond two more weeks of vacation at Hobe Sound, are not definitely made but most likely they will go to Rushville, home of Mrs. Cora Wilk, mother of Mrs. Willkie, at "sometime" during the holidays. It is a good Santa Claus hunch that Christmas will find them eating Mrs. Wilk's turkey.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wyatt and Mrs. Minnie Kagey, of Auburn, were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson last Thursday and enjoyed their Thanksgiving turkey dinner. Mr. Wilson said they really ate more than they should, and for himself he was certain, for soon after dinner he started out the front way and when going down the steps, his turkey took a sudden notion to flop and he slid down the entire flight of steps into the yard without injury. He got up and looked around to see if it was really true. The party was a pleasant one all day.

He was paying $4 a week by order of the court, but had bought some clothing for his son and did not pay cash in full on the support order. Judge Schannen ordered the payments reduced to $3 a week.

Indiana automobile licenses and drivers' permits will be placed on sale December 5 and no extension to the December 31 deadline will be granted this year, Frank Finney, motor vehicle commissioner, has announced. The decison to close the sales according to law on December 31 means that the 156 Democratic branch managers will receive $350,000 in personal fees for the sale of plates and permits. Had an extension been granted the Democrats would have run the chance of forfeiting a part of this revenue during January and February when the Republicans are expected to assume control of the license division.

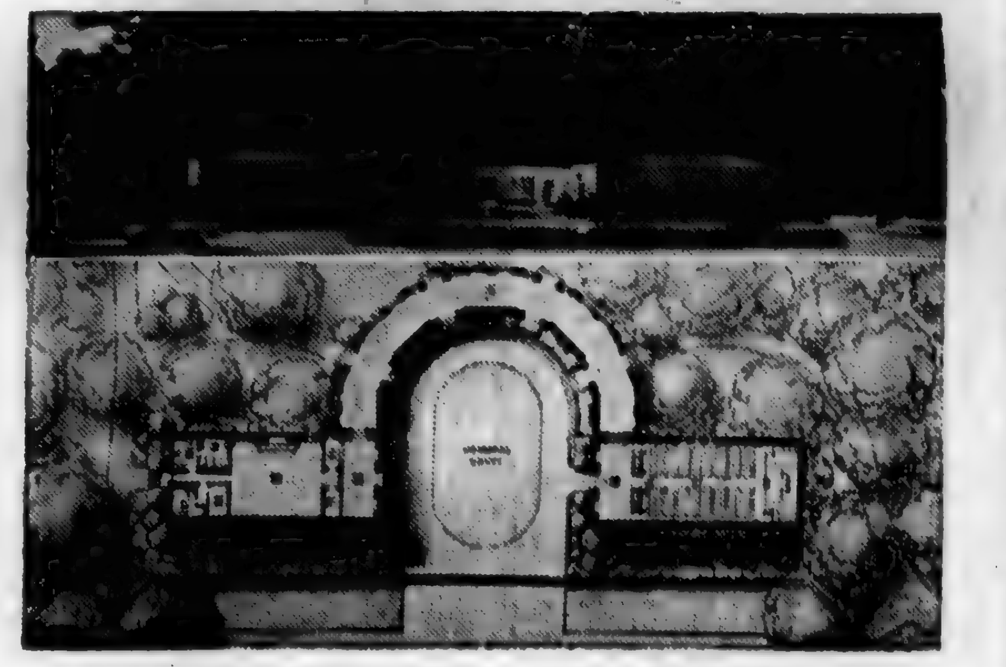
Nancy Hanks Lincoln Memorial to Complete Hoosier Shrine



Floor Plan and Exterior of Memorial Building

Completion of the Nancy Hanks Lincoln Memorial among the rolling hills of Spencer County where the Lincoln family lived for fourteen years, has been assured by the award of contracts for construction of the memorial building, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, reported today.

The low structure of Indiana limestone and St. Meinrad sandstone will include two buildings, joined by a cloistered walk. One building will house the chapel and the other a public lounge and restrooms. Scenes from Lincoln's life will be portrayed on the walls of the walk connecting the buildings. The memorial building will be located on the south side of the memorial plaza, facing the wooded knoll on which Nancy Hanks Lincoln was buried.

Construction of the memorial buildin is being financed jointly by the Indiana Lincoln Union and the Department of Conservation. Contracts have been awarded and some preliminary work done but major construction activity will be delayed until Spring with the work to be completed by November 18, 1941. Cost of the structure will be approximately one hundred thousand dollars.

The Indiana Lincoln Union was formed in 1926 by Governor Jackson to plan a national shrine at the area which included the grave of Nancy Hanks Lincoln and the site of the Lincoln cabin. This organization coordinated efforts to secure funds by public subscription for creation of the memorial and has worked in close harmony with the Department of Conservation in previous development of the area, much of which was purchased by the Union and turned over to the Department.

Construction of the building will complete the development program of the area and increase the attraction of this shrine for Hoosiers and visitors from other states. A permanent marker has been placed at the site where the Thomas Lincoln cabin stood from 1816 to 1830 but the grave has remained undisturbed—marked by a simple stone and guarded by a low iron fence that was erected a number of years ago.

Across the highway the Department of Conservation has established Lincoln State Park with an extensive picnic area, an artificial lake, hiking trails and other recreational facilities for the use of visitors.

COURAGE WITH CAPITAL C

We are convinced that the ancestors of DeKalb County residents have been the standard bearers of courage in the holding and fighting for right to establish this land of ours. The hardy pioneer of those days, who with wife and child, blazed the trail to freedom through struggle and strife, stood for courage on every history page in America. It made its impression on the softer-lived generations to come. But courage has not disappeaerd with the pioneers. We head foremost into a month that winds up a year where such courage has been displayed to call forth the admiration and respect of every living man on this old globe. The courage of the British! It isn't courage alone that has kept England alive, but it is power backed by courage that has given them the fight. There isn't enough that can be said in praise and every news dispatch brings a lesson from Britain's struggle.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

The Treasury is in need of money, a statement that has a startling tone. The reader may relax, since the country is by no means broke. All that is needed is a little more coin, to maintain the working balance at a billion dollars, just a matter of keeping lunch and newspaper change in the purse, so to speak. The Federal Reserve Banks were able to tide over. More definite relief may be available by the issue of national defense notes, made possible because the present Congress lifted the debt limit.

Congress is marking time, with not much ahead saving the day of adjournment. England admits that her production resources are somewhat crippled, and as a result, her friends in the United States are exerting pressure for liberal and helpful legislative action. The Congressional attitude seems to be substantially that the British cistern should be pumped nearly dry before water is poured into it by outsiders. Nothing can be expected at this session.

The first barrier to be overleaped is the Johnson Act, which bluntly forbids the lending of government money to nations who think that as to World War debts, it is just as well to let bygones be bygones. Even with the Johnson Act out of the way, positive remedial legislation will have to be passed. Either is too large for a Congress about to depart. Taken together, they make a task which none but a later session will have time to handle. What may happen in the meantime is a matter of conjecture.

Another piece of lawmaking which will require more attention than can be given at present, is suggested by the growing view in federal circles that something should be done in the way of putting an end to strikes, especially in time of national emergency. Theoretically considered, labor disputes should be settled by arbitration. Practically viewed, and from the standpoint of the laborer, some method other than arbitration may be more effective. He can hardly be expected to lay aside freely, an old and tried means for accomplishing a desired end. As to increased production, it may be possible to make a man work, but to make him turn out a maximum quantity, and of maximum perfection, are conditions which are hard to secure.

The average resident of the United States believes that the plight of England is worse than is indicated by the news that has been permitted to get out. Although pictures and text relate mostly to the bombing of residences and churches, it is admitted that production has been curtailed. It is safe to assume that when outside aid is sought, all is not well within.

Discounting German claim about fifty percent, probably England is concealing a mass of discouraging details, to be known only when it is all over. Food rationing does not mean much. It may be recalled that rationing was established in the United States during the World War, and this country was in no pinch at that time. When, however, it is said that food shortage in Britain is due to lack of ships, and not to a mere desire to conserve the gravity of the situation becomes apparent. The need of aircraft is a matter of common knowledge.

Notwithstanding the assurance of Secretary Wallace that the welfare of Mexico and that of the United States depend on friendly cooperation in securing a haven in the Western Hemisphere for culture and democracy, some of his Mexican hearers shouted "Down with him," and the embassy was subjected to a small amount of pelting with stones. The incident should be passed over with casual notice, since it arose simply out of questions relating to Mexican politics. In the United States, a Mexican representative selecting one candidate in the last election, to the disadvantage of the other, would have received no applause from part of his audience. To the south of Texas there exists a peppery temperament which calls for stone throwing when nothing more is meant than a disapproving "boo." Latins will be Latins, and with that the Wallace incident may be forgotten.

SWINE DYSENTERY A NEW SWINE MENACE

Swine dysentery or so-called bloody scours is the latest and most serious threat to the feeder-pig industry.

Even though a great deal of research work has been centered on the swine dysentery problem, the exact cause has not yet been identified. At least one scientist, however, claims to have reproduced the disease by feeding healthy pigs on finely ground pieces of intestine from pigs that recently died of the disease.

Dysentery or bloody scours usually appears among newly purchased pigs in from 10 to 30 days. Native pigs on these farms readily contract the trouble from the newly-purchased animals.

Affected pigs develop a high fever about 24 hours before they begin the mucoid, blood-tinged diarrhea that characterizes the disease. The death loss is heavy and pigs that recover very often spend the rest of their lives as long-haired, unthrifty, unprofitable runts. Some of these recovered pigs seem to act as carriers and, once the infection is brought to a farm, the premise is liable to remain contaminated for a long time.

In view of the widespread nature of swine dysentery, it becomes important for every purchaser of new feeder pigs to isolate these animals from his home herd just as soon as they are brought to the farm. They should be inspected at least three times daily and any animals showing wet hind parts should be immediately isolated and a veterinarian should make an immediate diagnosis.

Emaciated appearance and poor condition typical of swine dysentery.

This type of bowel disease should not be confused with the chronic condition "Necro".

Veterinary research workers have recently advanced the thought that vitamin G deficiency may have a bearing on the occurrence of swine dysentery. Hence such foods as dried milk, buttermilk, alfalfa meal and alfalfa pasture may be helpful.

SOMETHING TO THIS

One thing that American manhood will learn in military service that will prove of value later in civilian life, is how to make your bed in order to lie in it. A man bed-making is a sight for a cartoonist, the sight of a bed made by a man is a picture for the comic section. Try sleeping in a bed made by a man and you will get the general idea. Husbands of St. Joe listen well to the tips from American recruits. There is the knack of getting the center of the sheet in the middle of the bed, which sounds simple, but isn't! Start at the foot, work to the head, tuck the bottom sheet in first before you work on the top one. Calculate to have enough left over at the top to turn back under the chin. It takes a deal of plumping to puff up the pillow to entice slumber. If you are pretty clever and learn quickly maybe your wife will let you make your bed from now on!

The name of David Hogg, Fort Wayne attorney, former congressman and well known Republican leader, is the latest to be cast into the political appointment spotlight. Mr. Hogg is reported to be in line at Fort Wayne for either one of two lucrative appointive jobs which will be available January 1, 1941, owing to vacancies created by the November election. Both changes result from the present appointees mounting the bench. County Attorney Dan C. Flanagan assumes the appellate bench and Associate City Attorney George H. Leonard the superior court No. 2 bench in Allen County.

Tuberculosis in the United States, which still takes a toll of 60,000 lives a year despite a large decline in the death rate for the disease, can become a negligible public health problem within a comparatively short time, according to the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. They declare that, with the full support of the American people, the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated societies can reduce tuberculosis to a minor cause of death within the near future, and cause its practical eradication within the next two decades. The death rate has dropped 40 percent in the past ten years, so you see what your buying of seals means for DeKalb County.

CONSERVATION CLUB MAKING WINTER PLANS

The meeting of the Conservation Club held at the school house last Thursday evening, was a real success, and the boys had a good time talking over their hunting experiences.

M. E. Storer reported that the Club was in a good financial condition, with all bills paid and well over one hundred dollars in the fund. A statement was made that the raising of pheasants paid all the expenses of the venture for the first year, and that the next year brood ought to be making money for the club.

A committee of three, consisting of Walter Keesler, Vern Coburn and Walter Morr, will have charge of Winter feeding of birds in case the weather makes it necessary.

From now until Christmas the 25c membership for 1941, will occupy the attention of the club, and persons wishing to volunteer their membership can do so by calling at News office.

The pest hunt will again be launched for the holiday week with Walter Morr, of Concord, and Paul Carpenter, of Coburntown, as the captains. The hunt will start Christmas morning and continue until New Year's night, when all pests must be in at Town Hall for final counting.

The points allowed and pests to be caught are as follows:

Membership	250
Hawk	1000
Great Horn Owl	1000
Crow	500
Ground Hog	250
Rats	250
Mice	10
Sparrow	10
Starling	25
Red Squirrel	25
Red Fox	5000

This will afford a great deal of fun for the members, so everyone ought to become a 1941 member.

On January 23-24, a jamboree show will be staged by the club in order to secure funds with which to build fish rearing ponds. Watch for announcements later.

The lunch for the evening was prepared by the domestic science girls under the supervision of Mrs. Claude Husted, and consisted of pancakes, sausage and coffee. Every man spoke highly of the food and in the manner in which it was served.

AUBURN LAUNDRY IS SOLD TO ECONOMY

Mr. and Mrs. John George took possession of the Auburn Laundry Monday morning following the completion of negotiations for the purchase from B. H. Schwartz, who has operated the business for many years.

The laundry in the future will be conducted under the name of the Economy Dry Cleaning and Laundry Co. Mr. and Mrs. George recently purchased the brick building on West Fifth Street to the east of their present dry cleaning plant and they will use this for the laundry business. An addition to the east of the Economy building will be erected of cement blocks and this will join the former Hebel building. The structure will also be extended east to near the Rohm Chevrolet building.

When the new addition is completed the Garrett laundry, which is owned by Theron George, will be moved to Auburn and the business of both the Auburn and Garrett laundries will be consolidated with the dry cleaning in Auburn.

THE CHRISTMAS SHIP

Saint Nicholas is not likely to be a visitor aboard any of our warships this year, although he was formerly a welcome guest at Christmas time.

His coming was heralded by hundreds of children who lived in the vicinity of navy yards. They were invited aboard ship by the sailors and marines who gave them a feast and provided a "Santa Claus" who distributed gifts to their juvenile guests.

Today our navy yards are closed to visitors as a reasonable precaution against sabotage and espionage. What had become a well-established tradition has been temporarily abandoned.

According to Admiral Hugh Rodman, USN. (retired,) the custom started aboard the U. S. S. New York in 1915 and spread rapidly to other ships of the Navy. Funds for entertaining the children were donated by the sailors and marines who found the smiles of the happy youngsters more than an ample reward.

Two years after its first Christmas party the New York, which had become known as the "Christmas Ship," left suddenly to join naval forces in European waters. The crew had expected to be in an American port, but Christmas found them at Edinburgh, Scotland.

This sudden shift in plans did not deter the bluejackets or marines who rounded up 125 Scotch waifs, many of whom were war orphans. They brought them to the dock in buses and thence aboard ship where they were given a good dinner, toys, presents and two bright shillings—probably the most cash any of them had ever possessed at one time.

For nearly a quarter of a century our naval vessels entertained children at Christmas, and there is every reason to believe that in due time this pleasant custom will be revived.

A complaint for $1,500 damages was filed in the DeKalb Circuit Court Friday by LaVern Keener against Willis Weber. The plaintiff states that he was driving a team of horses hitched to a manure spreader on the Spencerville road and was on the right side of the highway when the defendant approached from the rear in an automobile and negligently collided with the manure spreader. It is alleged that the collision caused the team to be injured and harness damaged to the extent of $75; and that the plaintiff had his back hurt. Atkinson & Sanders represent the plaintiff.

DALE HURNI AWARDED $180 BY A DEKALB COUNTY JURY

A verdict of $180, the full amount of actual cost of repairs claimed, was returned by a jury in the DeKalb Circuit Court Friday night in the suit of Dale Hurni against Virgil Treesh.

Automobiles driven by the parties collided last June 17. The plaintiff was going south on the Rehoboth road in Jackson Township when the defendant drove onto the highway. The front of the Hurni car struck the side of the Treesh machine. The plaintiff claimed the view of the driveway was obstructed by trees and bushes and that the defendant was negligent.

Witnesses besides the parties themselves were Henry Swartz, Arden Carper, Mrs. Roy Warstler, Warren Tarney, Harry Miller, Richard Treesh and Howard Wappes. The jury deliberated three hours. Ralph Hook was the foreman.

One thing about living in a lighthouse, you don't have to be so particular about the shade being down when you undress.

After a man spends a couple of hours trying to start the furnace fire, try and convince him that it's possible to start a forest fire with a cigarette.

You don't really need a recipe for hash, all you require is an accumulation.

So we are the healthiest nation in the world, says a scientist. We must wise-crack with "you're telling us."

Have you noticed that we haven't seen Mussolini on a balcony in a mighty long time? No, because he is up in the air.

Life is a tangle, you mortgage the house to buy a car, mortgage the car to pay the interest on the mortgage on the house.

Wouldn't it be a real pleasure if we behaved in private as we do when we are out in public?

DECEMBER

Back when the Emperor Julian formed a calendar for computing time, December was the tenth month of his year, as its name implies. Since that time the calendar itself has been changed, but the name of December remained although it became the twelfth month of the year. The winding up of another 52 weeks. We usually feel the importance of January because it is starting us out on another voyage, but December is more important as it is a time of reckoning of what we have left undone, what we have accomplished in the past year. Then is when we should review our accounts and take inventory. December is so full of holiday festivity in St. Joe that we are so busy shopping and preparing for Christmas that in keeping the festive spirit alight we are closing the last page in our life's year book.

RATIONING IN REALITY

Before Germany undertook to change the economic set-up of Denmark, the Danish people were able to carry on trade in a free and profitable way. They were proficient in raising enough food for their consumption, of producing enough to supply the national hunger and that outside their country. Since the introduction of the Nazi policy, the Danes have altered their way of living and principally of eating. People of the former illustrious state of Denmark are killing one million of their pigs, which is one-third the total number, because they have nothing to feed the pigs. The former wise system of Danish housekeeping has undergone a change in papering and carpeting.

The fishing industry of Norway is crushed due to the need of oil and gasoline by Hitler's war machine. No fish to supply a hungry people because they can't run fishing boats. Poultry is scarce, eggs are a rarity and there is little flour remaining.

In the land of Swiss, where milk, butter and cheese gave the Swiss a name famous in dairy products and its herds, the influence of the Nazi hand is felt. Where there was much to spare in the country of the yodel for themselves and neighbors the Swiss now must ration their milk, butter and cream. A family of three will have one pound of butter a month and cream cannot be sold. And it goes on and on. Just bear this in mind as you sit down to your Christmas dinner table.

BILL OF RIGHTS

A mid-western university has established a course, open to the interested public, as well as for the student body of the school, in Americanism by enlightening the citizenry on subjects of the Constitution, amendments, Monroe Doctrine, governmental functions and so on. They start out the course with an interpretation of the Bill of Rights.

December marks the 151 anniversary of the adoption of the Bill of Rights. As you already know, the Constitution had no amendments when it was adopted, but later when the need for such arose, there were 10 amendments added that became a part of the Constitution legally and were known as the Bill of Rights.

The Constitution is the very body of our government, but it is remarked that the Bill of Rights is the soul of our government. They are what their name states. These amendments give the body its life, its blood, its heartbeat. After living under it for 151 years the Bill of Rights has withstood the storm and secured the staunch support of every American.

TWO BARS ON THE CROSS

The double-barred cross is strikingly symbolical of the anti-tuberculosis crusade in this country. As clearly defined as the two bars on the cross are the two main principles of tuberculosis control.

These two principles can be stated in a few words. Frist, find the person who has tuberculosis. Second, prevent the spread of the disease to others.

Two short statements are easy to make. But putting those statements into effect is not easy. However, we know what to do. We know how to do it. But actually doing it is the perpetual problem.

The first principle—Find the person who has the Disease—is not a matter of diagnosing who looks sick. Tuberculosis an insidious scourge hides behind apparently healthy looks for months and does its destructive work. Finally of course symptoms appear, and the victim is forced to seek medical help. By that time, though, the disease is entrenched in the body. The time to find tuberculosis is before symptoms appear.

Early tuberculosis can be cured. The earlier it is found, the easier and quicker it is to cure. Advanced tuberculosis is difficult to cure and requires years of inactivity and treatment. The X-ray will find tuberculosis in time to cure it.

The second principle—Prevent the Spread of the Disease to Others— is also far easier to say than to accomplish. During the months when tuberculosis is entrenching itself in the body unknown to the victim, the disease is spreading to others. Early diagnosis is imperative if we are to check the spread of the disease. Hence, the two principles become part of the same thing as do the two bars become part of the cross.

The two principles are far-reaching. Thus, we can see the extent of the fight facing the National Tuberculosis Association and its more than 1,600 affiliated associations throughout the country. Our Christmas Seal dollars are the sole support of the fight that is being waged for us—to save our lives.

When we buy Christmas Seals we are not 'giving' our money to help anyone else. We might as well face that fact. Our Christmas Seal dollars are not given to charity. They are money invested in our own health. Tuberculosis is a highly infectious disease. Thousands and thousands of persons have the disease and do not know it. No one is safe until all are safe from tuberculosis.

One-half of the taxes assessed for state, county and school purposes are due and payable on or before the first Monday in May, 1941.

The second installment is due and payable on the first Monday in November, 1941. Both installments are of like amount.

In case either installment is not paid when due, it becomes delinquent and is subject to a penalty of eight per cent. Administrators, guardians, agents, and others, who pay taxes on property in trust and persons whose taxes are complicated, such as undivided estates, etc., are requested to settle such taxes before the last few weeks, as it takes time to make divisions and the separate receipts therefor. All persons should be careful to examine their receipts and see that all property they wish to pay taxes on is included in their receipts.

THE TREASURER WILL NOT BE RESPONSIBLE

For the penalty and charges and delinquent taxes resulting by reason of any omission of the person paying such taxes to state definitely on what property, in whose name and in what township or corporation it was assessed. Persons are liable for taxes on all property owned by them on the first day of March, 1940. Property will appear in the same name for payment of the second installment as for the first installment each year.

Call on the auditor for errors or reductions claimed in taxes. The treasurer cannot make such reductions. No extensions will be given after FIRST MONDAY IN MAY, 1941, AND FIRST MONDAY IN NOVEMBER, 1941.

County orders will not be paid to anyone owing delinquent taxes; all persons are warned against purchasing such orders. The annual sale of delinquent lands and lots will take place on the second Monday in April, 1941.

Auburn, Indiana, December 1, 1940.

Auditor of DeKalb County, Indiana.

LEGION TREAT

The Walter Whitehurst Post of the American Legion will give the children of the community their usual Christmas treat on Christmas Eve, at about 7:30, following the businessmen's drawings.

AUBURN TO GET 1941 FREE FALL FAIR

The 1941 Free Fall Fair will be held in Auburn, directors of the DeKalb County Fair Association decided at a meeting in the court house in Auburn Tuesday afternoon.

Three cities extended invitations to the fair association for 1941, Auburn, Garrett and Butler. Butler withdrew its invitation a short time before the meeting because of location of the fair in that city would require the closing of three blocks on U. S. Highway No. 6, which is a heavily traveled highway connecting Eastern and Western parts of the country.

The vote for Auburn was unanimous with twenty-four directors voting.

Prior to the voting, President Yoder announced that the executive board of the fair had decided not to hold any city responsible for a guarantee. This was discussed at the meeting two weeks ago in Auburn.

Representatives of both Butler and Garrett stated in the meeting that residents of those cities will work in cooperation with the directors of the 1941 association to assure a successful fair.

It was decided to have the executive board of the association appoint a number of Auburn businessmen to work with the directors in staging the 1941 fair.

Virgil Korff, of Grant Township, was re-elected director-at-large. Romeo Richards, who was named Newville Township director at the meeting two weeks ago in Auburn, had resigned, it was announced. His successor will be named at a later meeting.

Noah Yoder, president, and Buster Hetrick, secretary, will represent the DeKalb County Fair Association at the state convention of county, district, and state officials in Indianapolis January 7-9.

CHRISTMAS GREENS

Fir and spruce are the usual greens but shed their needles quicker than the pine. Cedar makes a lovely Christmas tree. For wreaths, garlands and package decoration use hemlock and juniper, ivy, boxwood, huckleberry and sumac. You can twine berries and fruits with them and produce a beautiful effect. Pick up pine cones and acorns and burrs. You can leave them in their natural state or color them. To give the cones a glossy effect, heat them in your oven. To keep greens fresh have some humidity in your room.

DEKALB COUNTY MEN PLACED IN 1-A CLASS

Twenty-one DeKalb County registrants for military training were placed in Class 1-A Monday night by action of the county selective service board, meeting in its offices above the Auburn State Bank.

These men have all had their physical examinations and are now available to be sent to camp. Fourteen already were available as a result of previous classification, so that now the board is prepared to fill the order expected for January 2. The unofficial number to be called at that time, according to word received from state headquarters last week, is twenty-nine.

1941 HUNTING AND FISHING LICENSES PLACED ON SALE

Nearly a half-million 1941 Indiana hunting and fishing licenses are being placed on sale throughout the state this week by county clerks and their agents. Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, reported today. Shipment of the new licenses by the Division of Fish and Game was completed last week.

While the 1941 licenses do not become valid until January 1, they are increasingly popular Christmas gifts for members of the family who hunt and fish. Get them at The News office at St. Joe. This use of the license has grown in recent years, especially since the special fishing license has been issued for the feminine anglers.

Five different licenses are issued by the county clerks: The regular resident license—good for hunting, fishing and trapping during the calendar year—for which the fee is $1.50; the special women's license for fishing only during the calendar year, issued at a fee of fifty cents; the non-resident license for hunting, fishing and trapping during the calendar year, for which the fee is $15.50; the special non-resident fishing license good for 14 days only, issued at a fee of $1.00 and the non-resident license for fishing only during the calendar year, for which the fee is $2.25.

Mrs. Millie Wilson received one of those small announcements Tuesday evening from her daughter, Mrs. Geo. C. Hartman, who lives in Fort Wayne. This was the message on the tiny folder: "Congratulate us twice, we've got just twice the clothes line, and twice the safety pins, and twice the joys, and twice the noise." And on the next page, "we see it's two boys, Maurice George and Melvin Edward, each weighing six pounds and born Sunday, December 15.

ANNOUNCE CHANGE IN FEDERAL INCOME TAXES

A notice has been issued by the Internal Revenue Department in regards to the new regulations under the federal income tax law. Under the present provisions single persons with a gross income of $800 and married individuals living together having a combined gross income of $2,000 or more must file returns by March 15.

The notice of the changed basis for filing individual federal income tax returns follow:

The Revenue Act of 1940 has made important changes with respect to the liability of individuals for the filing of income tax returns. Individuals under following circumstances are required to file returns covering the calendar year 1940:

Single individuals, or married individuals not living with husband or wife, having a GROSS INCOME of $800.00 or more.

Married individuals living together having a combined GROSS INCOME of $2,000.00 or more.

The net income is no longer to be used in determining the liability for the filing of a Federal income tax return. The liability of a citizen or resident of the United States will be required to file a return for the taxable year 1940 if his GROSS INCOME in 1940, regardless of the amount of his net income, comes within the amount specified for his particular status.

A return must be filed even though by reason of allowable deductions from gross income and of allowable credits against net income, it develops that no tax is due.

If in doubt as to your liability for the filing of a return and if your employer has no blank return forms available, make request of the collector of internal revenue for the district in which you reside, or of any deputy collector stationed in your vicinity, for the 1940 individual income tax return and the printed instructions accompanying the form.

Failure of individuals, under the circumstances outlined above, to file returns will subject them to the imposition of the penalties prescribed by law.

After serving the Auburn Lutheran Church for thirteen years, Rev. O. B. Noren has resigned to take the second Lutheran Church at Richmond, Ind., beginning January 1, 1941.

Quite a few people from St. Joe attended the choral rendition of the Christmas Cantata given by the choir from the Baptist Church at Ft. Wayne, Sunday evening at Coburn's Corners. The music was beautiful and the audience was well pleased.

Here is the new, easy way to create beautiful gift packages. First, seal flaps and fold with transparent Scotch tape. Second, decorate with gift wrap Scotch Tape. A wide variety to select from at News office.

Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Indiana Department of Conservation, announced his resignation at a meeting of the state conservation advisors committee. At the same time, Kenneth M. Kunkel, of Bluffton, announced his resignation as assistant commissioner and director of the division of fish and game. Both resignations are to be effective January 15.

FORMER ST. JOE GIRL WEDS IN WASHINGTON

The Washington Times Herald, of Sunday, December 8, 1940, carried the following account of the marriage of Miss Geraldine Thornton, a former St. Joe young lady, which took place on November 30th. The full account is reproduced as follows:

"Planning to make their home here at 1630 Fuller Street, after December 17, Miss Geraldine Alice Thornton, daugther of Mrs. Frederick M. Thornton, of this city, and John Clay Hoskins, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Hollis Hoskins, of Front Royal, Virginia, were married November 30 at the Luther Place Memorial Church. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Carl W. Folkeme.

At the double-ring service, the bride wore a dress of white brocaded satin, fashioned with long sleeves, a basque waist and a long train. Her veil was of net dotted with orange blossoms and she carried an arm bouquet of large white chrysanthemums. A single strand of pearls was her only jewelry.

Mrs. Herbert E. Steele, the matron of honor and only attendant, was dressed in prairie rose velvet made with a draped bodice, full skirt and bracelet-length sleeves. Her hat was of matching color and she carried yellow chrysanthemums.

Edgar R. Rohr, of Manassas, Virginia, was the best man. The ushers included Charles H. Thornton, brother of the bride, and Herbert E. Steele.

Those assisting at the reception which took place in the parlors of the church were Mrs. A. Briscoe, Mrs. Charles Sager, Mrs. Amelia Vonderheid, Miss Caroline Eber, Mrs. Julia O. Flikke and Mrs. M. Stanwich.

Mrs. Thornton, who received with her daughter and son-in-law, was gowned in a soldier blue crepe dress with a jacket. Her corsage was of Talisman roses. Mrs. Hoskins, mother of the bridegroom, had chosen for her costume, a dress of wine velvet. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

When the couple left on a Southern wedding trip, the former Miss Thornton was wearing a traveling ensemble consisting of a three-piece dark green wool suit. Her accessories were black.

Among out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shenk, Mrs. E. R. Thompson and Mrs. L. S. Rohr, of Front Royal; Miss Ella Engel, of Philadelphia; Miss Alice C. Schock, of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, Mrs. Nan E. Dutterer, of Westminster, Maryland; Miss Walser Conner, of Manassas, Virginia, and Lieut. and Mrs. Charles Reeves, of Fort Bragg, North Carolina."

R. H. C.

The R. H. Club was royally entertained on Tuesday with the Mrs. Dora and Berniece Wilder, hostesses, at the home of the latter. After assembly of guests a sumptuous three course breakfast was served at 11:30. Lovely shell flower place cards marked each place. The menu consisted of first course, fruit juice, snacks. Second course, salad on lettuce, vegetable, meat patties, baked apples, hot rolls, coffee. Third course, ice cream with individual cakes and small candies.

Between courses Christmas carols were sung, and the scriptural Christmas story was read by Ruth Key. Mary Wilder entertained with two readings.

After the repast each member received a lovely gift, an annual feature of the club. Sixteen members and two associate members responded to "Where I shall spend Christmas." The club plans to remember, in a special way, Mrs. Minnie Gee, who has had illness in her home.

Special numbers were conducted by Pluma Hamilton and Florence Trostel. Next regular meeting in two weeks with Elizabeth Hart.

Members of the R. H. C. will long remember the lovely hospitality of the Wilder home.

GANGSTER DOG AT LARGE

Monday morning, December 9th as O. A. Blood was doing chores, having left his flock of sheep out, he chanced to see two dogs at them, he got his gun and went after them but failed to get either one, they had damaged three of them one badly.

On Tuesday morning, John Hook went to his flock and found one dead and two had been chewed at. This damage had been done some time before. The dogs, one a police dog and a smaller one were out to kill. Sheep owners keep on the look out with guns loaded. Let's get them.

The holiday season is made more glorious by the splendid musical programs we can get on radios.

The Christmas shopping makes shoppers heavy on their feet and light in their heads, though warm in their hearts.

It might be a good idea to see if we would get sick licking the back of Christmas Seal stamps.

Another thing that is all fagged out during the Christmas holidays, is the vacuum sweeper, from picking up tree needles.

Winter should be a lot prettier in St. Joe if there was some way of keeping the snow clean.

Be it ever so humble, almost every home in DeKalb County has an auto in its garage.

"One could not ask for greater happiness," thinks Roy Koch, "than to be able to sincerely say and mean, "Merry Christmas."

Give thanks that you live in a country where you aren't forced by laws, to wear the ties your wife picked out for you for Christmas.

Incentive for battle is two nations, each with a chip on their shoulder.

You can't praise a victorious nation, any more with a victorious football team, if the opponents were smaller and less powerful.

LEST YOU FORGET

We take this time to pay tribute to several chaps who so often are forgotten in the daily routine. Too many times have they failed to have verbal thanks. It is time we give some space to the faithful newsboy and share equal honors to the trusty members of our Postoffice Department. These words of recognition for services rendered in the days past we hope to remember to repeat during the new year to come. The newsboy has his followers in his satisfied customers who appreciate constancy during rain and shine, heat and cold, week in and week out. This holds equally true for the postoffice employees. Here in St. Joe there is recognition of their value and helpfulness although we overlook the gesture of putting the appreciation into words.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

We choose greeting cards without wondering just how long folks have been following this custom at Christmas. The average citizen today receives at least twelve cards at Christmas and New Years and the total number mailed is in the billion.

Charles Dickens gave the incentive with his "Christmas Carol," and an amateur artist, using some of Dicken's characters as subjects, made personal greeting cards around 1850. This started the vogue. The early cards were all signed by hand and then, as today, many folks had writer's cramp during the holidays. Today there are many who prefer to have their name printed or engraved upon their Christmas cards, which saves in strength though perhaps lacks in the personal touch. With the sentimental wording changing so drastically on the greeting cards from year to year, you never can be sure what the envelope will contain until you open it. There are so many that are so foreign to the true Christmas meaning that it makes us a bit ashamed.

A PLUG FOR HOME

There is much time and money spent in the purchasing of gifts. The sales at this time of year exceed any other. The country sees a lot of buying and St. Joe shoppers add their bit to make the total a large amount. A few local buyers feel that their home town shops cannot offer them as complete a stock as the large city stores. Others sometimes believe they can save money ordering from mail-order catalogues. Others buy from the canvasser who goes from door to door, representing outside interest. We are not condemning your patronage for our citizens know what they want, what they can pay and where they will buy it. We only ask that our town shoppers give their local business men the first chance to do fair trade with them. Spend your money where you can see it work for you.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

The happenings of the week have brought British affairs, rather than American, to the front as a topic for comment. The death of Lord Lothian, British Minister, produced general and heartfelt sorrow. Although always alert to the dignity of his position, his democratic and friendly manner endeared him to those who had the benefit of no more than a single and casual meeting. His work was done at a time when England was sorely in need of a friend. It was well done, even though diplomacy had not been the chief business of his life. Lord Lothian will be remembered kindly for the reason that made Lord Bryce popular on both sides of the water in years gone by: a thorough understanding of the American people, coupled with an administration of the affairs of his office which left no room for complaint or criticism.

Without going into the equities of the situation, or presuming to decide what is best for the United States, it must be said that the sentiment in favor of help for England continues to grow. A cabinet member favors aid to the extent of according credit, and sees no harm in furnishing anything short of men. The auction sale of fifteen ships to England is regarded as practically certain, with about fifty more to be disposed of in the same manner. Most of them have hung at anchor since the World War. Many think that if Hitler can be overcome with no more inconvenience than cleaning out the junk yards, transactions along that line are wise. The opposing view is that if anything is good enough to assist a foreign nation to defend herself, it is good enough to keep.

A German warning, allegedly from the pen of Foreign Minister von Ribbenthrop, advises the United States to work with Germany before it is too late, adding that Nazi conceptions represent the law of the coming century, which must be recognized or denied. It seems as though the threat had not been taken seriously by those whom it was supposed to frighten. Secretary Morgenthau announces that the taxable issue of defense notes, carrying an interest of less than one per cent, was over subscribed before the books were more than fairly opened. The people do not seem to think that, in buying government securities, they are putting their money in a place from which Mr. Hitler can take it away.

A cold Winter is beginning to settle over Europe. It is still recalled that Finland, the small time but good paymaster, will have to suffer, along with other conquered nations. Yet there is sound sense in the resolve of the American Government and the Red Cross to repudiate the suggestion that supplies be distributed by neutral agents in subjugated lands. The reason for lack of interest in feeding Europe is a matter of common knowledge. All the benefit that the intended recipients would get, would be the small satisfaction of smelling yankee bacon frying in Nazi skillets.

It seems to be pretty generally admitted that the defense program has slowed down a little, but who is to blame, if blame can be deposited on one set of shoulders, is a point that has not been settled. Almost any group may have to face the accusing finger. Congress, organized labor, industry, and the Administration are responsible, if all charges are true. In other words, the country is in league against itself. Add the efforts of Communism, and defense appears to have no chance at all.

It is sometimes lharged that Americans are strong on short lived enthusiasm and short on sustained interest. There might be something in that. During the campaign, both leading parties capitalized on national defense. It took on a partisan garb and went over large. With the spell binders taking a four year vacation, the public settled back on the time honored policy of letting George do it. The country simply has bitten off a larger mouthful than it can chew at noontime lunch room speed. It is idle to pass back and forth the charge that this agency or that is lying down on the defense job.

LEGISLATIVE PROPOSALS TO HAVE RIGHT-OF-WAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Looking ahead to the 1942 state and congressional elections, Indiana Republican leaders and legislators are voicing commendation of the unanimity of opinion in the party relative to the 1941 party legislative program.

Steering committees composed of members of both the Senate and House majority are being aided by a legal advisory committee, consisting of some of the leading attorneys of the state in the preparation of platform measures which will be given the legislative right-of-way when the 82nd session of the General Assembly convenes January 9.

In the proposed legislation being prepared by the steering committees, the following are outstanding:

1. Liquor control. A bill to be prepared providing for a four-member, bi-partisan liquor control board, and including heavy penalties for any person engaging in the manufacture, distribution or sale of intoxicating liquors who participates in political activities other than exercising the right of franchise. This bill would carry out the 1940 Republican platform plank promising the divorce of liquor and politics.

2. Repeal of the act which exempted the Hoosier Democratic Club (Two Per Cent Club) from provisions of the corrupt practices act.

3. Legislation to bring about reduction of governmental operating expense, carrying out the platform provision of no new taxes.

4. Legislation providing for the appointment of a bi-partisan board of control of the penal, correctional and benevolent institutions and the establishment of the merit system for appointments throughout all the institutions.

Legislators Subordinate Patronage

Similarly, the chairman of the elections committees of both houses will receive proposals on platform provisions relating to election laws.

"The unanimity of opinion and thought among the Republican legislators and the party leaders relative to our 1941 legislative program surely means better state government," Arch N. Bobbitt, Republican State Chairman, who was named chairman of the joint steering committee, said.

"This harmonious attitude also indicates a united party when the time arrives to go into the state, congressional, county and municipal elections in '42. Along with this harmonious action in the selection of legislative leaders and agreement upon a program, all have subordinated the distribution of patronage to the more important idea of framing legislation that will remedy the evils of government that have been prevalent for several years and give the people of Indiana a government to which they are entitled and of which they will be proud."

Women Look to 1942

While most eyes are turned toward the coming session of the Legislature and to the prospect of a goodly number of Republicans holding important posts in the state government, Republican women already are looking toward 1942 and 1944. In a number of cities country-wide celebrations have been held over the Republican victories in the 1940 elections. Among the women there is the unanimous opinion that the best politics is good government.

Mrs. Eleanor Barker Snodgrass of Nashville, state vice-chairman; Mrs. Grace Reynolds of Cambridge City, national committeewoman, and other women leaders of the party have been busy since the election speaking at these victory meetings. Among some of the meetings scheduled by the women are the Shelby County Women's Republican Club, at Shelbyville, December 10; the Lawrence Township (Marion County) Women's Republican Club, December 20, and the Elwood Women's Republican Club at Elwood, December 9.

Name Legislative Committees

Announcement of the personnel of important committees in each branch of the legislature was made during the past week by Charles M. Dawson, Lieutenant Governor-elect, who will be presiding officer of the Senate, and James M. Knapp, Speaker-designate of the House of Representatives. The two leaders made public the members of the committees on employing assistants during the session.

The Senate committee will consist of Senators Orville Stout of Vincennes, chairman; John Van Ness of Valparaiso, Edward J. Green of Indianapolis, Lawrence E. Carlson of Huntington, and Mr. Dawson, ex-officio. Members of the House committee will be Representatives Lora R. Tudor of Grant County, chairman; Oscar Jose, Jr., of Indianapolis, Oscar Couch of Mooresville, Glenn A. Markland of Zionsville and B. B. Mayhill of Delphi.

Members of these committees will name engrossing room employees, and clerks and assistant doorkeepers. Elective officers of each branch were named recently at caucuses.

"GI'ME ONE. ME SISTER'S GOT IT"

The Story of the Christmas Seal

A raged newsboy reached up to the marble counter higher than his head and put down his penny for one of the first tuberculosis Seals sold in America.

"Those seven words settled it. If a street kid could get the message, the messenger was the kind we needed," wrote Leigh Mitchell Hodges thirty years later when he was telling the story of Emily P. Bissell's first Christmas Seal Campaign.

One day in the Fall of 1907, Miss Bissell made her decision. The victories in the battles for life against tuberculosis going on in a little open-air shack on the Brandywine River were not to be stopped by lack of money. That small shack was to stay open.

Miss Bissell thouht of the Danish postal clerk, Einar Holboell, who a few years before had seen an idea of his grow into a hospital for tuberculous children.

Holboell, as he worked in the Copenhagen post office in December, 1903, thought, how easily the rich and poor alike could build a hospital for tuberculous children if each letter carried a small penny stamp of the season's greetings.

His idea crystallized into a plan which was readily approved by the postal authorities and sanctioned by the royal family. The next Christmas, 1904, the Danish people built the hospital through their generous response to the first nation-wide Christmas Seal Sale for a philanthropic purpose.

The Seal came from Denmark to America on a letter to Jacob Riis of New York, author, reporter, and a pioneer in the field of social service. He envisioned what the small Seal could do in this country toward the control of tuberculosis. In an article in "The Outlook," he urged its adoption here, writing:

"Nothing in all the world is better proven today than that tuberculosis is a preventable disease and therefore needless . . . yet it goes on year after year killing an army of 150,000 and desolating countless homes in which half a million men and women are always dragging themselves to graves dug by this sinle enemy. Perhaps, I feel strongly about it, and no wonder. It killed six of my brothers and I guess I know. That was in the days when there was no help for it. There is now."

He asked, "Why should not the idea be adopted here?"

Miss Bissell, of all who read his article, alone answered him when she resolved that the small, open-air hospital on the Brandywine would not close. She designed a Christmas Seal and borrowed $40 to pay for the printing of 50,000 of them.

The first Christmas Seal Sale in America opened in the corridor of the Wilmington post office on the morning of December 9, 1907. That night Miss Bissell knew the sale would be a success.

She went the next day to "The Philidelphia North American" and talked to Mr. Hodges, a columnist on the newspaper. From that day until Christmas every edition of the newspaper carried a first-page story of what a weapon the penny Seal could be in the fight against tuberculosis.

Miss Bissell had needed $300 to save the small hospital. She had $3,000 when the campaign ended.

The next year, 1908, there was a nation-wide sale. Howard Pyle, famous Wilmington artist, designed the Seal. Six thousand newspapers cooperated before the sale opened. The orders came in a rush.

The people of the United States were as quick as those of Denmark in taking advantage of the defense the small Seal offered against tuberculosis. That year $135,000 was raised.

* * *

The National Tuberculosis Association had been organized in 1904 by physicians and laymen. Education of the people in the methods of combating tuberculosis was the objective. Three points were emphasized: (1) tuberculosis is catching, (2) it is preventable, (3) if discovered in the early stages, it is curable.

This pioneer association had the support of foremost scientists and laymen, but little money. In 1910, however, the National Tuberculosis Association and the American Red Cross united to conduct the sale of Christmas Seals and the success of the tuberculosis movement was assured.

The partnership lasted for ten years. In 1920, a new arrangement was made whereby the National Tuberculosis Association conducted the Seal Sale alone.

Since 1920 the Christmas Seals have carried the crimson doublebarred cross, the symbol of the world-wide fight against tuberculosis which has been registered as a trade-mark by the National Tuberculosis Association.

The story of the Christmas Seals of other nations is a story in itself. The setting of that story would range from New Zealand to Alaska, from China to France, circling the globe. Great countries, small countries, forty-five in all, now have or have had Christmas Seal Campaigns of their own in the effort to stamp out tuberculosis.

* * *

Public health can be bought. The dollars spent by the American people for tuberculosis Christmas Seals have been an investment in health in their own communities. Continuing dividends from such investments are beyond reckoning.

Year-round activities financed by the Christmas Seal include medical and social research and—the sponsoring of public health programs. The intensive health education campaigns, paid for by the income from the Seals, have resulted in free clinics and sanatoria being maintained by governmental agencies.

The Seals, not only by their sale, but through their reminding presence, have helped to educate the people to the necessity of the passing and enforcing of health laws.

Ninety-five per cent of the income from the sale of Seals remains in the state where the sales are made. Five per cent goes to the National Tuerculosis Association which is constantly working out more efficient and economical methods for the campaign against tuberculosis which must be carried to victory.

* * *

Great though the victories have been in the last 35 years, tuberculosis is not under control as yet. Although the death rate for the entire population has been cut more than two-thirds during these years of Christmas Seal Sales, these are facts still to be faced:

Tuberculosis is still the leading cause of death among persons between the ages of 15 and 45—the most productive years of life.

Tuberculosis still kills, on an average, 175 persons each day in this country.

More than a half million people still are sick with tuberculosis.

At this moment approximately 150,000 persons in this country are developing tuberculosis and do not know it.

Only when tuberculosis is discovered early can it be cured.

Yet eight out of ten persons admitted to sanatoria are in the advanced stages of the disease.

One-half of the taxes assessed for state, county and school purposes are due and payable on or before the first Monday in May, 1941.

The second installment is due and payable on the first Monday in November, 1941. Both installments are of like amount.

In case either installment is not paid when due, it becomes delinquent and is subject to a penalty of eight per cent. Administrators, guardians, agents, and others, who pay taxes on property in trust and persons whose taxes are complicated, such as undivided estates, etc., are requested to settle such taxes before the last few weeks, as it takes time to make divisions and the separate receipts therefor. All persons should be careful to examine their receipts and see that all property they wish to pay taxes on is included in their receipts.

THE TREASURER WILL NOT BE RESPONSIBLE

For the penalty and charges and delinquent taxes resulting by reason of any omission of the person paying such taxes to state definitely on what property, in whose name and in what township or corporation it was assessed. Persons are liable for taxes on all property owned by them on the first day of March, 1940. Property will appear in the same name for payment of the second installment as for the first installment each year.

Call on the auditor for errors or reductions claimed in taxes. The treasurer cannot make such reductions. No extensions will be given after FIRST MONDAY IN MAY, 1941, AND FIRST MONDAY IN NOVEMBER, 1941.

County orders will not be paid to anyone owing delinquent taxes; all persons are warned against purchasing such orders. The annual sale of delinquent lands and lots will take place on the second Monday in April, 1941.

LEGION TREAT

The Walter Whitehurst Post of the American Legion will give the children of the community their usual Christmas treat on Christmas Eve, at about 7:30, following the businessmen's drawings.

CULTURE CLUB HAVE CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Culture Club annual Christmas party was entertained at the home of Mrs. Pluma Hamilton.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Alice Reidenbach and Helen Schonledmayer.

The entertainment committee was Mrs. Neva Hursh, Mrs. Dessie Hurni and Mrs. Edna Jenkins.

The Christmas carols were led by Mrs. Hamilton with Mrs. Hurni at the piano. Mrs. Jenkins told the Christmas story followed by a prayer. Mrs. Hursh conducted a contest on "What I am going to have for my Christmas dinner," which proved to be a good memory test. Mrs. Hurni then passed around a Christmas stocking for observation, Mrs. Lucile Lyon observed the most closely, receiving a prize. Mrs. Reidenbach won in a star contest, and Miss Avanell Kohler and Mrs. Violet Platter in the Christmas doll stunt.

Then came the Christmas exchange and after exchanging "thank you's" the guests were invited to the small tables arranged through the room with appointments in red and green and a lighted candle in the center of each table. The room decorations were a lighted Christmas tree and frosted bouquets.

The lunch consisted of heavenly bliss salad and smacks, Merry Christmas" cup cakes and coffee, with favors of Santa arranged in nut cups wrapped in cellophane.

At each plate was a Christmas greeting from the Brownies, the group is sponsored by the club.

After two weeks vacation the next meeting will be with Miss Avanell Kohler.

Mrs. Inez Chapman is at Butler, taking care of her sister, Mrs. Don Blair, who became ill last week with pneumonia. She is reported better today.

THE CHRISTMAS STORY — THE STABLE AND THE STAR

The birth of Jesus is a significant fact of history. Any historian could have recorded the event, but only a poet could have written the story of the Christ child. Poetic insight has clothed a significant fact and profound mystery in vivid beauty and winsome simplicity.

A strange and fascinating story it is. Distant and contrasted figures are brought together — angels and shepherds, wise men and peasants, a child and a manger, light and darkness, a stable and a star. The eyes of the artist saw that through the gift of love heaven was brought to earth and God to man in a new and wondrous way—that a stable and a star could become friends.

We may think of the stable as the symbol of our physical world, of the activities and relationships of mankind. The commonplace things and ordinary affairs of everyday living constitute the stable. The stable is a necessary part of life, a means whereby men live—our agriculture, our commerce, our industry, our economics.

The Judean stable was the abode of sheep and cattle and sometimes of men The American stable is the farm, the factory, the store, the office, or the kitchen where women work. The shepherd of Palestine wrested a living from an unfriendly soil; the worker of America struggles to secure sustenance from a competitive society.

Men come and go, but the stable stays on. Its strength and value are our generous human contacts, our mutual helpfulness, our common friendliness. The ugliness and filth of the modern stable are the uncontrolled passions and misguided purposes of men —the hatreds, injustices, the selfishness in personal, social and international relations. The supreme darkness of our earthly stable this Christmas in the year of our Lord 1940 is a horrible war, a grim and ghastly struggle to the death of a nation against nation and people against people. The darkness is deepened by increasing devastation of city and village, church, and cathedral, school and college, hospital and home. Death descends from the clouds; the stream of refugees move along the roads; ships are sunk at sea; multitudes huddle in subterranean shelters as the sirens shriek; impending famine and pestilence intensify the gloom. Never was life's stable so enshrouded in tragic and dismal blackness.

As in the long ago, the star of Bethlehem hovers above the darkness of our day and the blackness of our night. This star is the symbol of light and life, of the righteousness of God, of the goodness still alive in the heart of man. It typifies the beauty of the spirit. In the star we catch a glimpse of the world that might be and will be, of mankind as he can be. In the star we see faith which lights the way into the unknown future, the hope which points to a better tomorrow, a conquering love which some day will transform the earth.

Amid the sorrow and suffering of this Christmas time, we rejoice that millions of men, women, and children behold the star, understand something of its meaning, and like those shepherds and Wise Men of old, honor the King by generosity of spirit and kindness of deed. We are glad that in the star youth finds the ideals for living, adults discover the courage to carry on, and old age the strength to finish the journey.

In the physical world millions of light years separate the stable from the star. Can we not say that in a true sense infinite distance lies between the stable and the star—the stable of human life and the star of Bethlehem, the life that is and the life that ought to be, our ideals and our real characters, our profession and our practice, the will of God and the will of men, the world of peace and the world or war? What a vast gulf divides the stable and the star!

Can anything bridge this gulf? Is it possible to span the distance—can the actual approach the ideal, can the selves that we are become the selves that we want to be, can our churches and community become the realizations of our hopes for them? Can a world at war become a world at peace? Can the Kingdom of nations become the Kingdom of God?

Can the human and the divine, the natural and the spiritual be brought together? The answer of some religions of the first century was 'No.' The Eastern religions of that day saw an eternal antithesis between the human and the divine. The answer of Hinduism and Buddhism and of certain other religions today is 'No.' They say that a stable is a stable and a star is a star and ne'er the twain shall meet—that the things of earth and the things of the spirit are forever foes; that the human and the divine are eternally opposed.

But the answer of Christianity is "Yes." The story of the Christ child says "Yes." The Judean stable is glorified by the light of the star, toil is made dignified, the commonplace becomes sacred—the divine has become human and the human divine.

The stable of the twentieth century can become radiant as the stable of the first century. If we will follow the star of Bethlehem; the stable of daily routine of every individual life can shine with the beauty of goodness; the stable of aggresson and battlefield, of diplomatic intrigue, of class and national and race conflict and clash can glow with the light of good-will and peace.

The ages wait for men to make real the will of God that there be "Peace on earth, good will to men." The Father of men waits for us to believe that in Bethlehem the stable and the star have become comrades, for the Eternal Goodness has entered the stable of life.

PEACE BE WITH US

Each year some Scrooge says the universal Christmas spirit is dead, that man has come so far from the shadow of the Bethlehem manger that he ceases to reflect in its symbolic tidings. That is not true. Man thinks himself as great, is proud of his possessions, of his daring, courage, and capabilities. He boasts of worldly gains, of his advantages, of his physical and mental attainments. Man believes himself unbeatable and invulnerable, until along comes Christmas to revive the spirit of goodness, tolerance, faith and love. However base our desires, however cruel our intentions, however comfortless our natures, each year holds an event of such spiritual power that we forget ourselves and turn to God. The spell of Christmas, the symbol of star and stable, touch the human universal heart, brings remembrance and awakens within man those virtues that make him akin to his Maker.

We have come many Christmas-tides from that birthday of over 1900 years ago. We have lived a thousand years in endeavoring to justify ourselves in the eyes of our fellows. We have used wisdom and kindness, sympathy and gentleness, for in each is the capacity to be these sometime during a lifetime. But perhaps we have permitted the false god of power and wealth to over-ride our gentle traits and dim the true nature with a false face of personal greed.

Would we be where we are today if we had heeded the cry for peace and good-will? Though nation fight nation, their people oppressed and suffering, there still remains the universal spirit for Christmas. No matter what effort a country makes to keep Christmas from the boundary-line, regardless of laws against religion, the heart hangs up its stars and wreaths, the spirit sings of the light of the star, there is the odor of sweet hay, the vision of the Mother holding aloft the Christ child. You cannot blind man to the creed with which he was born or erase from his soul the inheritance from that holy baby.

As we busily bedeck the Christmas trees of St. Joe, as we purchase and as we receive, being fatigued by the material part of the holiday, let us remember the spiritual Christmas that is reverant and profound in its true meaning. Our faith promises through peace "good will among men." To deny it we reap that which is about us, war and hate and greed. So let us throw off the burden of man-made misery, hearken to the angel of peace, the star of God's guidance, the wreath of glory and the carol that sings of our great blessings throuh love and peace within us.

CHRISTMAS BAKING

Vary fruit cake this year by baking it in a star-shaped mold. Buy a new tin, bake the cake, wrap it gay with tissue and tinsel for a Christmas gift. Or use it for decorating the center of your table and surround it with holly berries..... If you don't bake your own doughnuts, buy them at your bakery and make them festive by decorating them yourself with colored icings.. ..To coat small cakes with frosting, stick a skewer into the cake and dip the cake into a deep bowl of cocoanut, chopped nuts or spiced sugars.

ADD THESE

One of the nicest things in starting a new year is to think of added features for your list of resolutions, or do you find you were so successful in overcoming last year's deficiencies that you are going to rest this year? Making New Year's resolutions isn't as popular today as it used to be, maybe it is because folks have stopped kidding themselves. This office has a suggestion to offer for a newspaper resolution that will be easy for every St. Joe News reader to keep. Read today's news with your mind open, read the story behind the headline, read your editorial page to get the other fellow's outlook and read the advertisements, buy wisely for your family.

SOUNDS GOOD

The Board of Motion Picture Reviewers has made a point of recommending films that will "stress social behavior and idealism of our youth." They desire future pictures to deal "powerfully and artistically with the challenging social problems." There is a step forward in the film field. Great strides have been made to provide the public with fine pictures. There is criticism of the number of state boards of motion picture censorship who suppress films without just cause. The picture industry has its place in forwarding movements, be they of bringing nations closer, of national defense, or influencing the youthful mind. America stregthens her home ties thru uniting people in the common bond of amusement and education.

BLOOD AND THUNDER

When we are so aware of war you wouldn't think that the reading public would choose mystery stories for relaxation. This is true, however, according to public and rental libraries over the country. The most sought after book is the one of mystery and intrigue and detectives. The earth may shiver with threats of bombs but that doesn't keep the lover of mystery from grabbing the latest edition of crime and horror. Due to increased interest in this type of story the field is drawing better writers and higher grade books. To keep the reader enthralled to the last page something beside murder must be offered, and that is techuique. Speaking of books we must have an opportunity to insert a plug for journalism. There are a couple of splendid books on the current best-selling list that deal with the country editor and the small-town newspaper.

THEY GET THERE

Our school children in the Tri-Township are fortunate in their easy access to school. They are protected by safety patrols of students in cities where there is danger in crossing the streets and highways. Signs of warning have been put up to help slow down the careless motorist. But in many districts in the United States such an easy method for the transportation and protection of the school child is not possible. Perhaps you have not considered that there are other ways of going to school besides on foot or in school buses. Some children still ride horseback despite the popular bicycle. In some of the large cities where children live far from the school parents must drive them back and forth and there is a taxi service that charges a school rate and takes the student and brings him home each day, for a considerate fee.

In some districts, where homes are scattered through the wide spaces, some perhaps 200 miles from the school, the children live in dormitories since they can't go home each day. Dog sleds, seating as high as forty youngsters, are used in some of the snow-ridden districts. Others go to school in boats. There are a few children who live across a canyon and swing to school in a basket on a cable! But so important is education that we use all manner of ways to see that our nation's children get it.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Back in the time of the World War, Congress remained in operation for 354 days, a record up to that date. The present session may be said to have got its second wind, having already run as long as its robust predecessor, with no prospect of adjournment in sight. Very likely it will die of old age on January 3, 1941. Notwithstanding a general exodus for the holidays, West Indian cruises, and so on, the chief legislative body of the land still maintains a nominal existence, which probably is entirely justified by the press of circumstances at home and abroad.

Having been married 60 years, a Montreal woman asks separation from her husband, and says that she has "had enough." The warring European powers likewise have had enough, but show no signs of a desire to leave the question to the decision of any international court. It is written that "the wicked flee where no man pursueth." The Italians must be worse than wicked. They continue to flee but are still pursued by the vigorous Greeks and Britons. A great day will have arrived when the Axis powers decide that they have "had enough." May it not be 60 years deferred!

Even though some time may pass before European trouble makers are genuinely under control, there are matters nearer home that are not being put off. The demand for greater activity may not yet have resulted in much matured fruit, but healthy green apples are appearing here and there. Having been advanced from Assistant Secretary of War to the newly created office of Undersecretary, it is expected that Mr. Robert Patterson, or those associated with him, will make extensive changes in high War Department places, with a view to stepping up armament production, especially as to procurement and the organization of industry.

A member of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs is quoted as saying, in substance, that the first thing to be done in connection with defense is to ascertain, by means of Congressional hearings, just how we stand; a suggestion which, off hand at least, seems to have a good deal of sound sense behind it. The concept is growing, both on Capitol Hill and in the lowlands, that Congress after all is primarily responsible not merely as to granting plenty of money, but as well in seeing that it is wisely spent, a view said to be held by Senator Sheppard of Texas, among others.

Without entering into the question as to whether it is a consideration that should overshadow everything else, the shade cast by defense preparation is large. The Supreme Court of the United States is being asked to deal with such fine distinctions as the difference between "affecting" national defense and "relating" to that subject. This and kindred matters must be taken care of, but they tend to "dizzy the arithmetic" of the non-legal mind, to borrow a phrase from the writings of our friend Shakespeare.

As the year of grace 1940 draws to a close, it will do no harm to recall that other years have preceded it, each sailing away beyond the horizon with its cargo of happenings. Four hundred years ago, Coronado was poking up into Arizona, by way of Mexico, and no doubt spreading dismay among the inhabitants. At that, they were better off than many in England, where the burning of witches was coming into vogue. By the close of 1640, the Plymouth Rock pilgrims had been softened by the luxury resulting from two decades of pioneer residence in New Engaind, and presumably had begun to discuss the "good old times" in Massachusetts.

By the close of 1740, Europe had acquired Frederick the Great, a Prussian by the way, whose main business was to keep Europe in a turmoil of war until everyone became tired and quit, affairs being restored to the condition in which they had been before the opening of hostilites New Year's Day, 1841 found the United States digesting the results of a presidential election. A nation wide panic had worked the undoing of President Van Buren. He was down and out, to his surprise. The White House was being set in order for the coming of William Henry Harrison, and inauguration plans were well under way.

Ancient sampans appeared in the streets during the recent flood in Shanghai, China.

OFFICIALS OF DEKALB COUNTY ENJOY A CHRISTMAS PARTY

DeKalb County officials and their families enjoyed a potluck dinner at noon Friday in the court house assembly room. Places were set for 86 persons at long tables decorated with pine sprigs and red Christmas candles. After the dinner Santa Claus distributed Christmas gifts.

Probably the most privileged to attend such a gathering was Will Franks of Garrett, who has been a member of the DeKalb County Board of Review for the last 26 years. Mr. Franks, better known as Uncle Billy, will be 81 years old New Year's Day.

After dinner Judge Wm. P. Endicott called the group to order and an organization was formed by electing Mrs. Harvey Phelps, deputy county treasurer, as president, and Mrs. Eileen Sherburn of the county welfare department, as secretary-treasurer.

HOME TALENT SHOW GOES OVER BIG

The play "Hullabaloo," presented by the St. Joe Dramatic Club for the benefit of the Parent-Teachers' Association, was well attended and was a success from every angle.

The Dramatic Club is to be highly commended for its good work, very few communities can boast of such an efficient group and St. Joe can well be proud of them. The Acrobatic Act put on by Miss April Bowser, as well as the music furnished between acts by the High School Orchestra cannot be praised too highly.

The proceeds derived from this show and from other sources will be used in promoting projects such as the hot lunch, health check-up, and a number of others in which the P. T. A. is interested.

While the putting on of a show of this kind represents many weeks of hard work on the part of the cast, yet they feel well paid for their efforts, when a full house greets their performance, and this fact is always assured the Dramatic players.

WATCH PARTY

The St. Joe-Coburn's Corners Christian Endeavor Society invites the public of Concord and Spencer Townships to a New Year's Eve Watch Party, at the St. Joe Church of Christ. The program will begin at 9:00 P. M., and will consists of motion pictures, musical numbers and humorous skits ending with a Christian Endeavor meeting at midnight. Everyone anticipates a grand evening of fun and inspiration. Come with your friends and watch the Old Year Out and the New Year In.

FOUR TO TAKE JUDICIAL POSTS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Three men and one woman, comprising the Republican judicial ticket in the November general election, will be inducted into office here in January, bringing to six the number of Republicans to move into the state capitol, which for 10 years has been peopled by Democrats.

With their inauguration Republicans will have one seat on the Indiana Supreme Court bench, two seats on the Appellate bench, and the fourth will take over the office of Reporter of the Supreme and Appellate courts.

First to be inaugurated will be Dan C. Flanagan of Ft. Wayne and Edgar M. Blessing of Danville, who will take their seats on the Appellate Court for four-year terms beginning January 1. Their inauguration will be followed January 6, by the induction as a judge of the Supreme Court of Frank N. Richman of Columbus. On January 14 Mrs. Marjorie Roemler Kinnaird of Indianapolis will assume the duties of Reporter of the Supreme and Appellate Courts.

James M. Givens of Porter, State Treasurer-elect, will take office February 10, and the last of the Republican state officials named in November will receive the oath of office March 15 when Dr. C. T. Malan of Terre Haute becomes State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Mr. Flanagan was born in 1899 at Lafayette. He is a graduate of the Frankfort High School and the Benjamin Harrison Law School of Indianapolis. A World War veteran, he served overseas, and after his discharge from the army began the practice of law at Frankfort in 1921. After three years he moved to Fort Wayne where he has been engaged in the legal practice. While in Frankfort Mr. Flanagan served two years as a deputy prosecuting attorney, and served in the same capacity in Allen County in 1930 and 1931. He was a candidate for the Appellate Court bench in 1934 and 1938.

Mr. Flanagan served as Allen County Republican chairman in the campaigns of 1936, 1938 and 1940, and under his leadership the party began its victorious march in 1938 in Allen County, the only county with a population of more than 50,000 that returned a G. O. P. victory.

Married and the father of one son, the new judge is a member of the Catholic Church, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the Knights of Columbus, American Legion, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Mr. Blessing also is a native Hoosier. He was born August 21, 1876, in Benton County, where he received his grade school education, followed by graduation from the Oxford High School, and from the Terre Haute State Normal School in 1899. He received his LL.B. degree from the University of Michigan, after which he entered the practice of law at Danville. He served from 1907 to 1911 as Hendricks County prosecuting attorney and in 1921 was named a member of the Indiana Public Service Commission, serving two years when he resigned to accept appointment as solicitor for the United States postal department. He served in that capacity until 1925, since then he has practiced law in Danville.

He is married and is a member of the Methodist Church and the Masonic fraternity.

Mr. Richman is a native of Columbus. Born in 1881, he lived a short while in Kansas, and then, with his parents, moved to Chicago, where he was educated in the public schools, Northwestern University and Lake Forrest College, where he received his A.B. degree in 1904. He spent two years in newspaper work before studying law at the University of Chicago, from which he holds the degree of J.D. He has practiced law in Columbus since 1908, and served as president of the Indiana State Bar Association in 1931 and 1932. Active in local Red Cross circles, Mr. Richman is a trustee of the Columbus Foundation for Youth. Married and the father of four children, he is a member of the Presbyterian Church, Masonic fraternity, Rotary Club and the Columbia Club of Indianapolis.

Mrs. Kinnaird, Reporter-elect of the Supreme and Appellate Courts, is a native of Indianapolis, and was educated in the Indianapolis public schools, Tudor Hall of Indianapolis, and was graduated from Vassar College magna cum laude, with an A.B. degree. She was graduated from the Indiana Law School with honors, receiving her LL.B. degree in 1932.

Now a member of the law firm of Roemler and Chamberlin, she is a member of the American Bar Association, the Indianapolis Bar Association, Indiana Association of Women Lawyers, Indiana State Bar Asociation, and the Indianapolis Women's Republican Club. She has practiced law in Indianapolis since 1932.

MRS. DAN HERRICK PASSES AWAY AT AUBURN

Mr. and Mrs. Orange Herrick and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Herrick were called to Auburn Sunday, by the sudden death of Mrs. Dan Herrick, who died suddenly at about 4:20 o'clock Sunday morning. While she had been poorly and about, able to help with the house work a little Saturday, she became worse than usual in the night so that the family was called.

She was 77 years old, and lived in Auburn during the past thirty years, moving there from St. Joe.

The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Besides her husband she leaves two children, Frank Herrick, of Ohio, and Stella Welch, of Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Quick and Mrs. Addie Patterson, of Fort Wayne, were entertained to dinner last Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sechler, all attending the play in the evening.

Mrs. Charles Collins is ill with laryngitis.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Staman entertained the Men's Bible Class of the Lutheran Sunday School Friday evening to a turkey dinner, and a delightful time was had. Mrs. Hollis Dilley, Mrs. Frank Stevenson and Mrs. F. B Leighty assisted the hostess in serving the dinner.

Eugene McBride, of north of St. Joe, fell Friday evening near his home at Eight and One filling station, striking his chest on a cement culvert, and it was thought at first he suffered a heart attack, but the doctor discovered that the muscles near his heart were injured by the fall, causing him much pain. He is out and at it again.

Mrs. Laney Gee prepared her family Christmas dinner Sunday and her daughter, Mrs. Leonard Jarrett, and family participated in its joy. A beautiful poinsetta graced the center of the table, with added corner decorations. Mr. and Mrs. George Cotrell, of Butler, called shortly after dinner. Mr. Gee, who has been quite poorly, was able to enjoy the day with the family.

Hopewell revival started Monday night and will continue for two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Slusher, of Huntington, have charge of music and he is assisting in the preaching. The Sunday School reported 70 in attendance and $3.82 collection.

The Frank Curie family will spend Christmas Day in the home of their son, Herbert Curie, and family in Garrett.

Students of the Concord Township School had a full day of Christmas Cheer, Friday. A special program was given with many of the parents attending. The lower grades having an exchange of gifts.

Mrs. Abner Trostel was reminded that Sunday was her birthday, when her two sons, Dale and Wayne, together with their wives, came in about noon with a carry-in dinner, and a delightful spread was made of all the good things, and in the center of the table was placed a beautiful cake bearing white candles. The day was enjoyed by the Trostel family.

In 1940 a total of 587 conservation clubs operated 749 electric brooders, rearing quail and pheasant chicks which were hatched at the state game preserves and delivered to the clubs. From the brooders the clubs liberated 182,133 quail and pheasants, supplementing releases made from the game preserves as a part of the statewide stocking program. It was a record year in the number of cooperating clubs, the number of brooders operated, and the number of birds produced.

After an absence of fifteen years and one week, Harry Randall has returned to St. Joe, to be with his mother. His wife, Helen, is continuing her position for a time in Chicago. During these years Harry has conducted an ambulance service, and this has been sold. For some time he has been unable to conduct a portion of his work without assistance, but now he is much improved. His return to St. Joe is made welcome, and Harry says as soon as he has his car license and operator's license for Indiana, he can again be called a "Hoosier."

Because of Christmas being on the press day of The News, it comes to you a bit early this week and possibly short of some of the news matter, but Christmas has full sway now.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie called on Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Koch, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. C. B. Jackson was a Sunday dinner guest of Mrs. Mary Betz and Mrs. Ada Berry.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ridgway will serve the Christmas dinner to the Armstrong family.

One-half of the taxes assessed for state, county and school purposes are due and payable on or before the first Monday in May, 1941.

The second installment is due and payable on the first Monday in November, 1941. Both installments are of like amount.

In case either installment is not paid when due, it becomes delinquent and is subject to a penalty of eight per cent. Administrators, guardians, agents, and others, who pay taxes on property in trust and persons whose taxes are complicated, such as undivided estates, etc., are requested to settle such taxes before the last few weeks, as it takes time to make divisions and the separate receipts therefor. All persons should be careful to examine their receipts and see that all property they wish to pay taxes on is included in their receipts.

THE TREASURER WILL NOT BE RESPONSIBLE.

For the penalty and charges and delinquent taxes resulting by reason of any omission of the person paying such taxes to state definitely on what property, in whose name and in what township or corporation it was assessed. Persons are liable for taxes on all property owned by them on the first day of March, 1940. Property will appear in the same name for payment of the second installment as for the first installment each year.

Call on the auditor for errors or reductions claimed in taxes. The treasurer cannot make such reductions. No extensions will be given after FIRST MONDAY IN MAY, 1941, AND FIRST MONDAY IN NOVEMBER, 1941.

County orders will not be paid to anyone owing delinquent taxes; all persons are warned against purchasing such orders. The annual sale of delinquent lands and lots will take place on the second Monday in April, 1941.

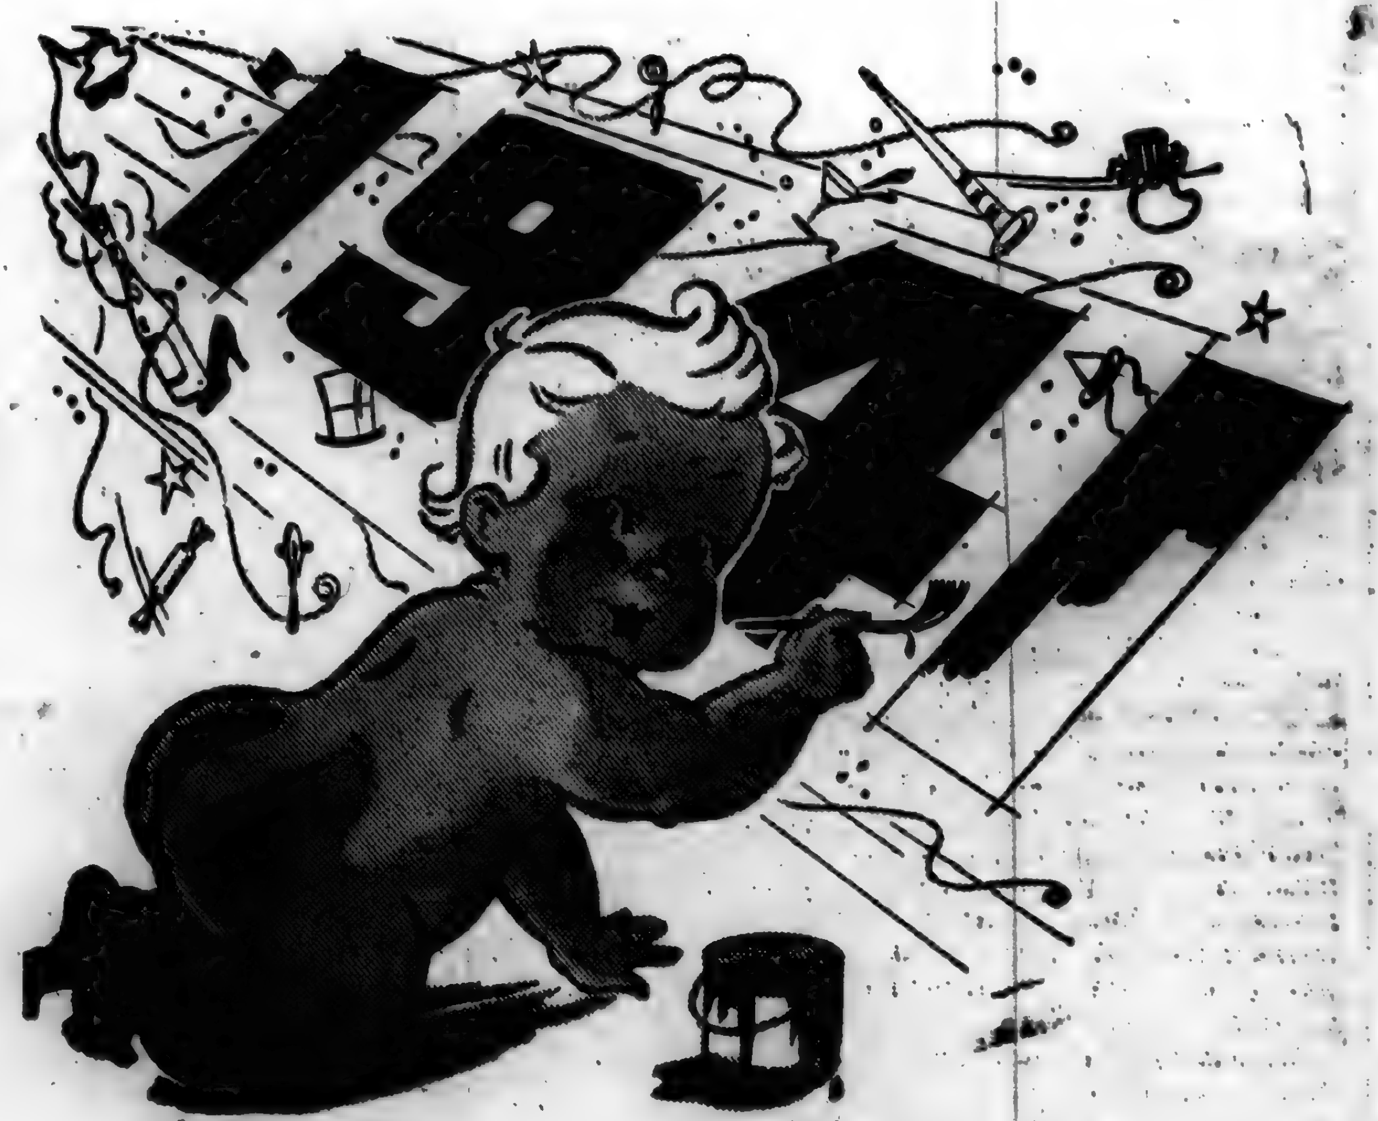
HAPPY NEW YEAR



HOW can we bear to say "HAPPY NEW YEAR" when there is so much misery in the world? Look at Europe, the Far East, at the South American countries, and at our our own country--hunger, death, war, unemployment, politics...it seems the world is mad. Yet, down the street, Mrs. Jones had her baby a few days ago, an aged resident near the one-hundred mark quietly passed on, at the holiday season a marriage took place, a new filling station will soon open on Main Street and a new Chick Hatchery will open to the public in a few weeks. Nothing can stop this progress, neither war, nor famine, nor depression; and these homely things are the stuff of which life is made...... Birth and Life; Kindness, Courage and Faith —— these things by far outweigh death and hate and cynicism, and they always will triumph. --It will be a Happy New Year!

Overheard a man say he didn't get any muffler for Christmas to hide his new neckties.

There weren't any men found with their hands frozen in their pockets, after the Christmas shopping died down.

In St. Joe they say "they will make their home with the bride's parents," and in the city editions they merely give the street and number.

ATTENTION FARMERS

Friday, Jan. 3 at 9:30

All day John Deere Meeting at the Huber Theatre. G. F. Burgoyne Sons Hardware, Hicksville, O.

Back in 1914 Germany asked only for a "Place in the sun." After all, the sun has to set!

There are a few radio programs where the advertising is a relief from the rest of the program.

All of our fuss and distress and this old world will still go right on rolling along about the same as usual.

You will see a fellow who hasn't made his farm pay, turn right around and invest all he has in a grocery store.

This war has been a splendid opportunity for Germany to display the iron cross and also the double cross.

Speaking of surplus, over-production, supply and demand, none of it has bothered the stork.

The only way to have peace is for everybody to have everything they want, without having to take it.

WHAT TO DO

Much disagreement regarding the feeding of the five small democracies conquered by the Nazi force. Many come to the defense of the starved women and children of these countries. They stress the call of a Good Samaritan. They give figures to show that if Hitler siezed every bit of the food there would be only a six day feast and we would immediately stop the supply and long before Germany could eat enough to build up her resistance to conquer England. Those in favor insist we make the effort, that our national conscience will not be shamed while the national stomach be full. The story of a helping hand that proffers in good faith.

The opponents of this benevolence insist we are defeating the purpose for which Britains are laying down their lives. We are bringing the death-cry to our own door step by permitting the confiscation of food. Starve them out, however much we loathe the thought of seeing the innocent suffer with the guilty. They say that Britain doesn't want to condemn the innocent but she is following the first law of nature, of self-preservation. England's greatest weapon against the enemy is starvation. The way to keep our own youth safe and our homes secure is to let the head rule the heart.

It is too desperate an issue to pass over lightly. It has theologians and educational leaders on both sides. Whatever, may God be with the cold, the hungry, the dying who suffer at the hands of the war machine.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

If we could only be certain that our greeting to our readers was for a really "Happy New Year!" Death and taxes can only be taken for granted as impending. A wish of happiness seems almost unattainable if world events are to be a symbol of what lies ahead. But in St. Joe we are not easily discouraged and proceed each year, at the beginning of January, to hope for joy for others and courage for ourselves to meet the responsibilities that the new year will bring. The present world is in a sorry state to promise much in the way of happiness for the universe, and consequently there isn't such a pretty picture predicted for the world of 1941. But with its uncertainties and doubts, we will be fair and give it a chance to prove itself.

Beside us are predictions for such business increase there will be a boom year ahead. Another says we've never seen a depression until we suffer the one that lies ahead in '41. After all, the reason we shall remember the old year is due to the unexpected that it held, as that is what stamps it on our minds. So will the new year have unpredicted events popping up for us as reasons to remember its twelve months as outstanding on our life's calendar. We hope that happiness is included therein!

Why should we not look forward to prosperity and progress and perhaps peace? We have been visited with these in centuries past, and to continue to pray for them in 1941 is not foolhardy. So, confidently we say it to you our friends, to your relatives and their friends, to all of those 130,000,000 souls who make up this land, and to those who are in other lands, "HAPPY NEW YEAR."

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Christmas Day in Washington was celebrated much as usual. Crown Prince Olav and Princess Martha of Norway were visitors at the White House, President Roosevelt brandishing the knife over the turkey. England had a day of freedom from bombing, although it was necessary to take a shot at a scouting plane or two. The same degree of peace did not prevail in Africa, where the Italians and English paid strict attention to air raids and counter raids.

Hitler took a look at the Channel from a patrol boat, full of hope, of course, that by another Yuletide things would be different. Paris herself pulled together and made such boulevard merriment as she could. In the United States, even the Fuehrer did not come in for his usual degree of condemnation, both newspaper comment and talk around the table being confined, so far as it related to national or international affairs, to the observation that upon the whole, we were much better off than most of our acquaintances over seas.

The King of England spoke a sobered word of confidence to his people, repeated in substance by the Duke of Windsor. A column inch in the paper served as a reminder that Japan and China are at War. Auto accidents, fires caused by the festivities of the season, and grade crossing fatalities, accounted for about 400 deaths, throughout the Union. Christmas has passed, and such are the items which charactized its doings.

Plans for Inauguration have not been crowded aside by the bustle of the holiday season. Saving on two former occasions, the Presidential Electors have met in their own states, done the actual electing of the President on the home grounds, and that was the end of it. This time, in addition, they will assemble in Washington and have a part, though not an especially spectacular one, in the inaugural ceremonies.

Fololwing closely upon the heals of Senator Tydings, of Maryland, Senator Wheeler, of Montana, urges a crusade on the part of the United States to force peace in Europe. He believes that this should be done before added aid is given to Britain. It is his view that the United States has violated the Neutralty Act. Right or wrong, the suggestion that the President bestir himself as a mediator, is not highly popular with the citizenry as a whole, and is believed to be still less so with the President himself.

The difficulty attending the settling of a peace at this time is that Mr. Hitler has announced that he will have what he wants. Although the sending of American soldiers to Europe continues to be distasteful to those having the sending to do, the feeling persists that action in the direction of peace must be liberally inclusive of projects for buying Hitler off, and that so long as he is permitted to have his way, the menace to the United States will increase.

How far the United States should strip and bleed herself to terminate the present European stress, is a matter for serious thought. The World War experience was not entirely satisfactory. It may be remarked that we do not have the territorial isolation that went with sailing ships. A Nazi Canada or Nazi Mexico is far from being an impossibility. A Hiterlized United States could not fail to produce an impossibility. Those regrets might arise out of the fact that we had tapped our resources of defense too deeply for the benefit of others. They might arise out of a failure to take the proverbial stitch in time.

URGES SAFE DRIVING DURING HOLIDAYS AS TRAFFIC FLOW GAINS

With a normal increase of five per cent anticipated in traffic on the state highway system during the holiday season, an appeal for careful driving and observance of safety markings along the state roads, was made today by T. A. Dicus, chairman of the State Highway Commission.

Weather conditions are subject to rapid change at this time of the year and thousands of school children on vacation, motorists should take extra precautions to avoid accidents which would dim the holiday pleasure of themselves and others. Special care should be taken by motorists while driving on highway routes through cities and towns where children may be playing and where pedestrians are numerous.

Research by the National Safety Council, involving accident records and comprehensive tests, has revealed that inadequate traction and obscured vision are respectively the chief causes of Winter accidents. Chains on the wheels and not in the car when driving conditions are bad with snow or ice on the highways, will cut down the normally higher Winter accident rate. Likewise, the Council recommends that drivers be sure their lights are adequate, and that windshield wipers and defrosters are in working order to provide clear vision when needed during a snow storm or severe cold snap.

Safety of the motorists traveling the state highways has become one of the major activities of the State Highway Commission in the design of roads and bridges and in maintaining the ten thousand miles of roads. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are spent annually in marking the highways with caution signs, in maintaining the centerline and the reflectorizinf of yellow lines which designate no-passing zones, in cleaning snow and ice from the pavement and in other operations.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB HAS CHRISTMAS PARTY

Mrs. Carl Perkins was hostess Wednesday evening, December 18, for the annual Christmas party of the Ladies Literary Club of St. Joe.

The Perkins home was beautifully decorated with Christmas wreaths at the windows, silver and blue bells on chenille rope were entwined in the chandeliers. On the radio was a small light in the shape of a Santa Claus and a small lighted tree in one corner of the living room around which the members placed their gifts.

Card tables, covered with lovely luncheon cloths, and small Christmas tree favors and Christmas napkins marked each place, were set up in the living room and dining room. All enjoyed a delicious pot luck supper at 7.

The following program was then presented:—Christmas carols led by Mrs. Carleton Shull with Mrs. Fred Leighty at the piano; reading entitled "Santa Claus" by Mrs. O. K. Shull; solo by Mrs. Carleton Shull; Christmas playlet with Mrs. Frank Curie, Mrs. Stanley Garman and Mrs. Fred Leighty; solo by Shirley Jean Perkins, accompanied by her mother; closing with the singing of carols.

The committee, composed of Mrs. Ralph Keeler, Mrs. Stanley Garman, Mrs. Leslie Wilbern and the hostess, then took charge of the games. Christmas tree contest won by the Odds received a cellophane sack of candy; Christmas quiz prizes won by Mrs. Frank Stevenson and Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser; candle contest won by the Evens received a cellophane sack of candy; contest to see how many words could be found in the word Christmas, prizes going to Mrs. Frank Curie, Mrs. Frank Stevenson and Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser.

Following the Christmas exchange the members departed to meet with Mrs. Florence Husted, Wednesday evening, January 8.

There were nineteen active members, one emeritus member, Mrs. Delora Curie, and two honorary members, Mrs. Carleton Shull and Mrs. Mabel Hatch, present.

THE PECAN CROP

Come the new crop of pecan meats to a tasty public, a market with an appetite for goodies. With this crop comes the news that it will be the second largest one in our history.

As in other lines the machine has replaced a great deal of the hand labor that used to shell these pecans and if the worker was quick he might shell 12 pounds of nuts in a 10-hour day. In one plant where machinery is used 145 pounds can be shelled in 8 hours. It used to cost 16 cents a pound for the entire operation when the shelling was done by hand while today it can be done by machine for five cents. As elsewhere, there is always hardship and unhappiness where the machine replaces labor, but the pecan grower is alive to the problem and is working out the issue in a most helpful way. With this increase in the pecan crop many a home will have a delicacy for pies and pralines that they have not had too frequently in the thinner years.

MORTUARY

BEABER

Amelia (Milliman) Beaber was born January 4, 1863, and died January 3, 1941, having reached the age of 77 years, 11 months and 29 days. She was the first of seven children born to Mortimer and Marie Milliman, and of this family but one remains, John Milliman, of Alvordton, Ohio.

Amelia united in marriage with Edward W. Beaber December 24, 1885, and to this union one son and two daughters were born: Dewey Beaber who died in young manhood, Mrs. Iva Clouse, of Los Angeles, California, and Mrs. Ila Shilling, of Auburn, Indiana.

There are also seven grandchildren and seven great grandchildren in the larger family circle.

Early in life Amelia united with the Church of Christ at Coburntown where both of her parents were revered members, and where her father for a long period might well have been called church historian. She kept the faith of her church inviolate until her death.

In the local schools of her childhood Mrs. Beaber was a good student, and at Newville, where then was offered for teachers, she qualified for teaching, but never taught.

In the several capacities of our common lives Mrs. Beaber served well: she was a good wife, a good mother, and a good neighbor. She met the ever shifting circumstances of life with perfect good-humor, and contributed to the common good as richly as her limitations allowed.

The funeral was from the Coburntown Church of Christ, Monday, January 6, at two o'clock, and was conducted by the Rev. J. N. Scholes, and assisted by Rev. Richard L. Key, minister of the church.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our neighbors and friends for their many kind acts and expressions of sympathy, in the death of our wife and mother.

LOG
of the
UNITED STATES
MARINES

TEST OF COURAGE

Cautiously making their way thru the trackless jungles of a Central American republic, a small detachment of United States Marines and native guardsmen were on the trail of bandits in May, 1928. Underfoot they were hampered by hidden rocks and a tangled undergrowth; overhead a dense tropical foliage blotted out the sun.

Every step of the way there was danger of ambush, for in guerrilla warfare the enemy has the advantage of selecting his own time and place if he chooses to attack.

Suddenly a blistering fire from bandit rifles blazed into the little group. Captain Robert S. Hunter, in charge of the patrol, carried a machine gun forward to a position from which to deliver an active and effective fire on the enemy's position. A bullet struck him in the neck.

There was another burst of fire and Captain Hunter was struck in the chest. His last words before lapsing into unconsciousness were: "Don't go back; go ahead."

Twice the patrol was attacked by an seen foe which, it was learned later, outnumbered them about two to one. A marine and native guardsman were killed and a marine wounded. A number of the attackers were killed.

A marine aviator finally located the group and dropped medical and surgical supplies. Captain Hunter was carried by his men to a nearby village where he died five days later.

This skirmish was typical of scores of others fought by the marines in remote countries where they have landed to restore law and order. On this occasion the Navy Cross was (posthumously) awarded their courageous leader.

WHO PAYS FEDERAL INCOME

Mr. Will H. Smith, U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue, for the District of Indiana, has advised that the Federal Income Tax returns would be mailed to all taxpayers of record on January 3, 1941.

Under the changes made by the Revenue Act of 1940, many thousand new taxpayers will be added to the list of those filing in the past. The Federal Income Tax Law now provides that single individuals, or married individuals not living with husband or wife, having a gross income of $800 or more, or married individuals living together having a combined gross income of $2,000 or more, must file returns.

The net income is no longer to be used in determining the liability for the filing of a Federal income tax return. The liability of a citizen or resident of the United States to file a return is dependent upon his status as a married or single person, and the amount of his GROSS INCOME. Therefore, every citizen or resident of the United States will be required to file a return for the taxable year 1940 if his GROSS INCOME in 1940, regardless of the amount of his net income, comes within the amount specified above for his particular status. A return must be filed even though, by reason of allowable deductions from gross income and of allowable credits against net income, it develops that no tax is due.

Form 1040-A should be used for GROSS INCOME of not more than $5,000 derived from salaries, wages, interest, dividends, and annuities. Form 1040 should be used for GROSS INCOME for salaries, wages, interest, dividends, and annuities of more than $5,000; or any part of your income is derived from other than salaries, wages, interest, dividends, or annuities, Form 1040 should be used regardless of the amount of your income.

While returns must be filed on or before March 15, 1941, with the Collector of Internal Revenue for the District in which you reside, it is urged that they be filed as soon as possible after January 1.

Assistance in preparing the returns and information concerning the Federal Icome Tax Law may be secured by either writing or calling at the office of Mr. Smith, third floor, Federal Building, Indianapolis, or by calling at the branch offices located in the following cities: East Chicago, Gary, Hammond, South Bend, Fort Wayne, Logansport, Lafayette, Marion, Anderson, Muncie, Terre Haute, Evansville, New Albany Vincennes Lawrenceburg, (Kokomo and Columbus, after January 15, 1941.)

This service is free and taxpayers are cordially invited to use the same.

YOUNG FARM LADY SEVERELY BURNED FRIDAY

Mrs. Huber Carr, living at the O. H. Herrick farm, west of St. Joe, will be in bed for six weeks, as the result of severe burns, last Friday.

She stood near the heating stove changing shoes and stockings for her son, Harold, leaning over her dress must have touched the stove and ignited. When discovered by her mother, she ran to the bedroom and there pulled the bed clothes around her and smothered the flames.

Dr. DeMuth was called and found that her back and legs were severely burned, but today we learn that she is resting easy and is able to sleep.

Because of the extreme misfortunes of Mr. Carr's family during the past year, and the illness of Mr. Herrick for many months, the farmers of the community turned out and husked corn and cut wood for them, for which both families are very gracious and thankful. The men who played the "Good Samaritan" were Jay Fetters, Paul Fetters, Fred Ulm, Ned Shull, Stanley Means, Carl Perkins, Ervin White, and Lloyd Draggoo.

NINETY COUNTIES SHOW G.O.P. GAIN

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 1. —Only two Indiana counties failed to show a substantial gain in the percentage of Republican votes cast in comparison to the total vote of the county in the November 5 general election, figures made public by the research department of the Republican State Committee revealed today.

In figuring the percentage of the Republican vote the total vote cast for the two major party candidates for President of the United States was used. Wendell L. Willkie, native Hoosier, carried Indiana over President Franklin D. Roosevelt by 25,403 votes, out of a total of 1,773,529 votes cast for the two nominees.

The two counties which failed to show an increase in Republican strength were Delaware and Lake counties. However, in the total vote cast for President in the entire state, the Republican candidate had 50.7 per cent as compared to 49.3 per cent for the Democratic nominee.

G. O. P. Strength Grows

The percentage of Republican strength in the 1932 election was only 44 per cent, and in 1936 was 42.5 per cent, an increase of 6.7 per cent in the total vote in 1940 over 1932. In the same period the Democratic percentage dropped from 56 per cent to 49.3 per cent.

There was a difference of 5.4 in favor of the Republican Presidential candidate in Delaware county in 1932, but in 1936 the Democratic nominee held an advantage of 4.6 per cent. In the 1940 balloting Willkie held 45.8 per cent of the county's total Presidential vote, to 54.2 for Roosevelt.

The Republican percentage in Lake county decreased from 48 per cent in 1932 to 38.9 in 1940.

On the other side of the Republican ledger, however, Marion county increased its Republican percentage from 47.9 in 1932 to 50.6 in 1940.

With things so unusual these days, it is rather comforting to have the weather act up as usual.

There are some men in St. Joe who have already started worrying about next Spring's housecleaning.

It wasn't so long ago that all Germany wanted was Paris.

If you always follow the crowd, all you see is their backs.

"Making dress-shirt vests of this glass preparation," says Harry Kees, "makes me wonder if it is easy to wipe off the gravy."

The birth rate is falling. Art Lyon remarks that you can't blame the younger generation for side-stepping present conditions.

Thank heavens we haven't had to have lessons in putting on gas masks so far.

If you want to know what characteristics a man is covering up, ask his mother-in-law.

This time of year we feel kindly to Germany for spareribs and sauerkraut.

One thing that seems to work better today than in the years past, is the cigarette lighters.

No sadder moment for mother than to see her son perform the first shave.

Just because your porch is full of hand-bills doesn't mean that you have to read them.

The idea of old-age pension rankles when you are paying for it, but sweet when it is providing for you.

With the unpredictable happening in Europe, human nature still remains unchanged.

Each side is always convinced it is destined to win the fight for right, to end intolerance and put a stop to all wars.

IT'S OVER NOW

Fortunately there was no need of urging every non-citizen living within St. Joe to comply with the law of the U. S. which required every alien within this nation to register and be fingerprinted during a four-months period. That drive has ended and those who failed to obey are subject to a thousand dollar fine. Surely there would be no reason for over looking this law, as wide-spread notice as was given concerning it. If a man should very deliberately keep from registering, then we are anxious that he be hunted and punished, for the advantage of securing the protection of Uncle Sam is premium enough for the small amount of inconvenience of registering at the nearby postoffice. The non-citizen who cares so little for his country should not have a claim upon it. The total number of registrations is slightly over 5,000,000 and far surpasses all estimates. America is truly a haven for all nationalities.

"THANK YOUS"

It helps to instill a sense of appreciation in the young by having them write "thank you" notes to aunts and uncles and cousins. Few children like this and will think of many excuses to avoid doing it, in fact don't we all? But we oldsters in St. Joe appreciate receiving these notes and cherish them as a mark of progress of this youthful member and marvel at such handiwork at such an early age. We tuck the note away and welcome the opportunity of showing it off to our friends as an example of how smart the children are, in our family. But if we want to impress upon the childish mind the fact that receiving of gifts calls for notes of appreciation afterwards. we must first set them an example!

A REVERED LEADER

With the names pronounced in this present war, hurled upon the heads of the many leaders, we begin to think that all conductors in battle are disliked by the opposing side. We remark of the respect accorded Robert E. Lee, a general of a lost cause, a military genius, a Christian, a gentleman who fought steadfastly for what he felt was spiritually right. His name lives in both the North and the South and it stands in both in esteem and honor. There will be always, though the bitterness of the war has subsided, the observance in the hearts of Americans, the birthday of Robert E. Lee, on January 19.

BEN FRANKLIN

February is celebrated as a month of birthdays, but January 17 is an anniversary of a figure that is perhaps as noted as Washington and Lincoln. This man was Benjamin Franklin and like Lincoln was a self-made character. He achieved the heights in the scientific and inventive world, was a noted humorist and through his tactfulness. served his country as a diplomat in England and France. His name is linked in each American school child's mind with the famed Constitution of the United States and the issuing of the Declaration of Independence. His hand in these was to calm and smooth the differences involved over the formation of both. Franklin as a legislator had his own ideas for a government. He sponsored a plan, in the beginning, for a seven-year presidential term with no re-election and also, no salary for the office of president. He was for one legislative chamber. These facts of Franklin's political life are perhaps not as well known as his "Poor Richard."

He did not stir his people with speeches as did Lincoln, but he issued great wisdom in proverb form that is quoted as befitting modern life as was true many years ago. "It is hard for an empty sack to stand upright" and "If you want to know the value of money, go and try to borrow some" represent the man Franklin, who knew people, for he was one of the masses.

MANY MORE BIKES

With many automobile factories turning to the manufacture of war materials, there comes into conversational circles the subject of transportation and from there we hit upon the topic of the increasing revival of the bicycle. As many St. Joe residents realize, more bicycles are manufacturd today than in the days of the tandems. But back in the gay 90's they didn't have the present day traffic problem to cause such a disturbance and commotion. In fact, there is such inconvenience in some cities over the bike that they enact laws to govern the situation. Ohio has two large cities trying to iron out traffic trouble by making ordinances that permit children under 14 to ride on the sidewalk. The older cyclists are ordered to remain in the street within five feet of the curb, except when passing vehicles. They must move in single file in the direction of traffic. Cyclists must observe traffic laws that also govern the auto driver. There are schools that instruct the bike rider in road conduct that will later improve their auto driving conduct. This sort of school is effective in reducing accidents. There is a court which tries bicycle cases and sentences offenders. Parents are often called in to impress them with their responsibility in the cyclist traffic problem.

THE GLASS AGE

Perhaps some of the men in your family received a glass belt, glass wallet or glass suspenders for a Christmas gift. To think we would ever live to see this! It was the previous trial of making bathing suits of glass that startled the discreet. However, the feat of utilizing the glass into practical and lasting apparel seems to be accomplished. The transparency and elasticity is each given its place and so we have glass belts, watch bands, pens, wallets, suspenders and so on. The way that science works there are probably a number of new ideas in their collective heads for additional products. Men of St. Joe who wipe dishes, hope that the future will bring a glass, elastic tableware which can be easily run through a wringer attached to the side of the sink. This will save wear on the cotton towel that may be glass by next Christmas.

NOT SO MANY

A News reader recalls that when radio came into being there was the general question concerning what would become of the piano. Many felt that nothing could ever replace this instrument in American family-life, and although the piano was an expensive article, it was felt to be a necessary piece for pleasure and education. A piano that sold then for $500 has been reduced to less than $200 today. It may mean that more people may afford them or it may herald the passing. We know that there has been a recent revival of the phonograph and the records for talking machines are selling in increasing numbers monthly. Perhaps the piano too will return to grace the front parlors as an American institution that is not lost.

If weather has anything to do about Sunday School attendance, you would think that the rural schools would suffer, but Hopewell school in Jackson Township reports an average of 64 for 1940, and 16 pupils are reported as having a perfect attendance. Is there any other rural school that can exceed this record? Write in and tell The News about it.

Indiana's open season for rabbit hunting will end at midnight Friday, (January 10) Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, reminded Hoosiermen today. Taking rabbits after the expiration of the open season is a violation of the state fish and game laws. Since the opening of the hunting season on November 10, reports have indicated that rabbits were plentiful in many areas but relatively scarce in others. The season has been marked by comparatively few violations of the hunting laws or the statute prohibiting the possession of more than 20 rabbits at any one time.

"DOLLARS CANNOT BUY YESTERDAY"

A journalist, looking back upon the year which has just closed, finds an infinity of matters about which to write. A great war, which is in essence a titanic struggle between two irreconcilable philosophies of life, has steadily spread. A whole continent has felt the boot of a new conqueror with a plan for world dominion as vast as that of Napoleon. The world's economy has undergone violent change, and stability has been replaced by chaos.

Here in our own country we have recently gone through the most tradition-shattering election in our history. The great issues of that election were three-fold. First, whether to elect a president for a third term. Second, how to keep America at peace, while aiding England with all steps short of war. Third, how to best build a military and naval establishment in our history.

The second and third issues are the most vital this country faces today. They are not partisan issues.

It is obvious to anyone not blinded by false and baseless optimism that the great plans of last Summer for building an impregnable defense at once are not being realized. It is easy to appropriate gigantic sums of money. It is easy to make blueprints of tanks and airplanes and fighting ships. It is easy to have a great defense establishment "on order." But dollars and blueprints do not worry potential invaders. The forces which have again brought the world to Armageddon have respect only for perparedness. The weak are given no quarter. Moral principles, Christian teachings, are scoffed at. That is not pretty. But it is true.

This America we know cannot be sure of existence unless it solves the problem of how to swiftly build our defenses—and to build them in keeping with the democratic tradition which they are designed to protect and to save. All the productiveness of this nation is needed now—of capital, of industry, of government, of labor. The industrialist who seeks outrageous profits; the official who plays politics in time of danger; the labor leader who foments unjustified strikes in vital defense industries—cannot be tolerated. We must never forget that we can be destroyed from within no less than from without.

The American people cannot accept failure from any man—whether the man who fails holds a great title or is a lowly worker in a factory. There is no excuse for failure. No nation in the world is potentially so productive as ours. None has a tithe of our riches—riches of manpower no less than riches of wealth and of natural resources. In this crisis, we shall really learn the calibre of our people and our public men.

It is said of France that, in preparing to resist aggression, her government, her industries and her workers did "too little—and did it too late." We too are doing too little. But let us hope that we correct our errors before it is too late. When the head of our Navy observed that "dollars cannot buy yesterday," he stated a grim truth that every American must realize.

In this great national effort there can be no failure. The thought cannot be tolerated that Democracy here has fallen on such evil days that it cannot compete with the dictators. In England we have a magnificent example of what free men, fighting to retain that freedom, can accomplish against heartbreaking odds.

It was Winston Churchill who said on taking office that he could offer his people nothing save sacrifice and sweat and toil. Here we must absorb an ample measure of that spirit. No one else can make our sacrifices for us. The responsibility for the perpetuation of our way of life falls squarely and irrevocably on the shoulders of us all. No one can avoid it.

To say that we have now entered on the most critical years modern Western civilization has even known, is to simply state the obvious. We do not know how much time we will have to make ourselves secure to guarantee peace in the only way possible in this disrupted modern world, which is by making ourselves so strong that no aggressor or possible combination of aggressors will dare to try our strength. We do know that time, most precious of all elements, must no longer be lavishly wasted.

To stay at peace—to become strong. Those are our national objectives. We have the great industries—we have the men—we have almost limitless resources. To attain those vital goals demands the full and friendly cooperation of government, of labor, of industry, of agriculture, of all. We must not be tried and found wanting.

ONE MAN RULE TO END UNDER G.O.P. PROGRAM

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 1.—Carrying out 1940 state platform pledges, the Republican legislative program decentralizing government and eliminating one-man rule in Indiana practically is ready for submission to the General Assembly.

Prepared by the joint steering committees of Republican members of the House and Senate, headed by Arch N. Bobbitt, Republican state chairman, the decentralization bill has been passed upon by a committee of outstanding Indiana attorneys named by Mr. Bobbitt as an advisory committee.

Announcement was made also that the entire Republican legislative program is in an advanced stage and will be ready for early submission to the legislators. Members of the steering committees are seeking to have the program introduced early to give ample time for debate and to give the public opportunity to become acquainted with their provisions.

Briefly the Republican legislative program calls for:

Reduction of the present eight departments of the state government to five, with each department to be headed by two elective state officials and the Governor.

Elimination of politics in the management and operation of state institutions, with restoration of bi-partisan boards and a merit system for employment of personnel.

Make Attorney General Elective

Removal of the power of the Governor to name the state Attorney General and replacing that office on the ballot in the 1942 election.

Revamping of the control of the state welfare department which calls for its operation under a bi-partisan board of four members, two to be named by the Governor and two to be named by the Lieutenant Governor.

Absolute divorce of politics from the operation of the Alcoholic Beverages Commission and the state police department.

Under the bills tentatively sanctioned, control of the five departments of government will be divided as follows:

Executive—The Governor.

Department of State—The Secretary of State, Lieutenant Governor and the Governor.

Department of Audit and Control—the Auditor of State, the Lieutenant Governor and the Governor.

Department of Treasury — The Treasurer of State, the Auditor of State and the Governor.

Department of Works and Commerce—The Lieutenant Governor, Treasurer of State and the Governor. (The third member on each board is tentative.)

Control of four of the five departments will be vested in two Republicans and one Democrat, with the Governor representing his party in all state departments.

Provide For Merit System

Carrying out further the state platform pledges the legislation will call for a merit system to select employes and attendants at the state penal, benevolent and correctional institutions to determine their fitness for positions. All elective officials will have complete control over their own departments and will make their own appointments.

One of the chief aims in the preparation of the legislation was to eliminate the oft-repeated charge in the past eight years that bi-partisan boards were that in name only. No announcement has been made as to what divisions will be grouped in the various departments, but it was understood the state police, the alcoholic beverages section, the adjutant general and the clemency commission probably will be left with the executive department.

A separate bill has been prepared to replace the office of Attorney General on the ballot. The measure will provide that effective upon its signature, the Governor, Secretary of State and the Auditor of State, or a majority of them if they cannot agree, shall name an Attorney General to serve until the second Monday in January, 1943. An Attorney General would be elected in the 1942 election, for a period of two years, and upon the expiration of that term the office would be again a four-year tenure.

Attention was being called, during the week, to a suggestion by Mr. Bobbitt in which he advocated joint sessions of the majority and minority leaders in both branches of the Assembly with the appropriations committees and the state budget committee, to consider appropriations for the educational and other institutions of the state. It is imperative, Mr. Bobbitt said, that these appropriations be agreed upon in order not to hamper operation of the institutions and to prevent their appropriations being caught in a last minute legislative jam or political controvery in the Assembly.

ALVA GROGG NAMED AS SUPERINTENDENT

Alva Grogg, who lives at the northwest edge of Auburn, will return to his old job as superintendent of the county infirmary March 1, succeeding Samuel C. Morr.

Mr. Grogg, a Republican, served as superintendent from 1915 to 1917. Mr. Morr, a Democrat, was in charge of the asylum for the last eight years, having been appointed for two four year terms. The salary of the superintendent, by order of the county commissioners, remains at $100 a month. Mrs. Grogg was appointed matron at a salary of $50 a month. The present matron is Mrs. Nora Rogers, a former resident of Garrett.

Reappointments made by the board include Charles T. Miser, of Garrett, as deputy county surveyor at $100 a month and Dr. W. W. Swartz, of Auburn, as county health commissioner. The latter's remuneration is based upon the county's population and is now $115.46 per quarter.

The organization of the county highway department was completed by the reappointment of Robert Potter as bookkeeper; Major Baldwin, of Butler, as chief mechanic; Ernest Stewart, of Spencerville, as assistant chief mechanic; Elmer Johns, of Wilmington Township, as assistant county superintendent; and the following as district supervisors: Pierce Ayers, of Ashley, Frank Carpenter, of Butler, Roy Rickard, St. Joe and Walter Tyndall, of Spencerivlle, Perry DePew and Howard Dilley, of Garrett, and Albert Thrush, of Butler Township.

The board increased the wages of employes of the highway department in the lower brackets, raising those previously rated at 35 cents an hour to 37½ cents and the 30 cents an hour men to 35 cents. Regular time employed is nine hours a day and five and one-half days a week. The complete schedule of salaries and wages follows:

County attorney, $400 a year; physician, $190 a year; custodian of court house, $100 a month; night janitor, $75 a month; two firemen at heating plant, $70 a month each while plant is in operation; highway department bookkeeper, $90 a month; court house matron, $30 a month; chief mechanic at garage, $110 a month; assistant, $100 a month; assistant highway superintendent, $120 a month; district highway supervisors, 40c an hour; all other truck drivers, 40c an hour; assistant truck drivers, 37½c an hour, and laborers, 35c an hour. Regular employes are to have ten days vacation a year with pay, including holidays.

The district highway supervisors are to be reimbursed for their telephone rentals.

A "vocal intelligentsia" is leading the United States into war, despite the people's wish to remain at peace. The rally was called by Dr. Dennis to afford an opportunity to protest President Roosevelt's Sunday night speech. About 300 persons attended. Granting the president's "good faith," he declared that the present U. S. policy is "war, limited to be sure, and undeclared, but none the less war."

NEW "MAMA AND PAPA BED" SHOWN AT FURNITURE MART

Mama and papa are getting special attention at the national home furnishings show, which opened Monday in the American Furniture Mart with 850 exhibitors.

Featured is an entirely new idea known as the mama and papa bed, which has a single head-board, but two mattresses and two foot-boards.

A gadget at the top makes it possible to swing the two sections apart and provide twin beds, or a reasonable facsimile thereof.

It is also handy if papa gets tired of having mama hog all the covers.

Having decided that women like to sit up straight and men like to sprawl, designers have carried out the mama-papa idea in chairs. There are sets of two chairs, identical in design and fabric, save that papa's has an adjustable back for sprawling.

There is also an extra-long footstool, matching the chairs, intended for mama's joint use.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVI (56 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, JANUARY 16, 1941 NUMBER 3

Conservation Club Panning for Hilarious Time Next Week.

"A Hillbilly Wedding" will be presented on Thursday and Friday evenings, January 23 and 24, 1941 at the Concord Township Gym. The show is sponsored by the St. Joe Valley Conservation Club and promises to be one of the outstanding comedy treats of the year.

"A Hillbilly Wedding" will bring the country people of this entire community together with the business men of St. Joe on the same stage and in the same show. The old songs will predominate, old friends will be brot together, and new friends will be made. It is an old time Barndance and Show, all rolled into one.

The plot of "A Hillbilly Wedding" concerns old Captain Henry of the Showboat Dixie Bell, who is coming home to be married after being away for thirty years. He is met at the levee by all of his old friends with their fiddles, accordions, guitars, and bass drums, but at the last minute his bride............But that would be telling.

Included in the cast are musicians, singers, dancers, black face comedians, and last but by no means least, a gorgeous Wedding Party, made up of a host of our most prominent business men dressed in silks and satins, laces and frills, lipstick and mascara, perfumes and powder puffs, as well as guitars and harmonicas will be much in evidence on the stage on the evenings that "A Hillbilly Wedding" is performed.

The advance adult tickets will be sold at 20c; general admission at door 35c plus 3c tax; a reserve section for each night will be sold for in advance at 25c plus 3c tax. All children of school age will be sold tickets at 15c at the door and free of tax.

OUR SCHOOL NOTES IN GENERAL

A misunderstanding between referees and timekeepers brought about the rarity of a tie basketball game here Friday night as Pleasant Lake and St. Joe each scored 32 points. Yockey, Pleasant Lake forward, tossed the ball in the basket just as the third quarter ended. Officials Smuts and Woods thought he had shot before the end of the period but both timekeepers ruled that time had run out before he fired.

Floor officials ruled Pleasant Lake the winner, 34 to 32, at the close of playing time and the teams left the floor. After checking their timekeepers and consulting the rules book, the decision was changed to a tie game.

Both teams gave an exhibition of good basketball, and at no time did either team have a lead of more than a couple points.

Pugsley was high point man for St. Joe, scoring a total of 11 points, closely followed by Curie who scored 10 points.

Following is the line up and summary:

St. Joe

	G	F	T
Pugsley, F	5	1	11
Curie, F	5	0	10
Goodwin, F	0	0	0
Fetters, C	2	1	5
Davis, C	0	0	0
Baker, G	2	1	5
Shuff, G	0	0	0
Sechler, G	0	1	1
Totals	14	4	32

Pleasant Lake

	G	F	T
B. Yockey, F	5	0	10
Penick, F	3	1	7
Mieras, C	3	1	7
VanAuken, G	1	0	2
D. Yockey, G	1	4	6
Totals	13	6	32

The second team lost a close, hard fought battle to Pleasant Lake Seconds by a score of 19-17.

Spencerville furnishes the opposition to the Tigers at the High School Gym Friday night. St Joe hopes to even the score with their opponents, having lost their first game of the season at Spencerville.

New bleachers are being erected on the south side of the gym. Because of the large crowds at ball games recently, a need for the bleachers has been evident and a group of patrons are working with the P. T. A. to make possible the added bleachers. It is expected that they will be up in time to be used at the game Friday night.

Pictures which were taken recently of various classes and groups in the school have arrived and have brought forth much favorable comment. Groups taken besides the grade rooms include the following: Band, chorus, verse choir, basketball teams, Concordiers, and each of the junior and senior high school classes.

REVIVAL MEETING AT NEWVILLE CHURCH OF CHRIST

A two weeks revival meeting closed at the Newville Church of Christ on Sunday evening, January 12th, with William D. Nice, the minister, doing the preaching, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Phipps, of Cincinnati Bible Seminary. Special delegations attended nightly from churches in surrounding territory and some of the visiting ministers gladly added to the success of the meeting by bringing the message of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Phipps led the music each evening, sang solos and duets and conducted a prayer service prior to the evening service each night. Mrs. Phipps also conducted the Children's Bible Drill and led the Kiddies in a splendid program on the last Friday night of the meeting. In addition to this work they assisted Mr. and Mrs. Nice with the calling in the homes of the community.

The visible results of this revival were as follows: Sixteen additions to the church (fifteen of these were by baptism and one by letter-transfer; there was a total attendance of 2,397 and an average of 158 per night; total number of Bible chapters read throughout the two weeks was 3,359, or a reported daily average of 240 chapters.

Some say that this was the very best meeting held in the Newville Church for many years. The morale of the church and the faith of the membership have been greatly up-builded. Much credit belongs to the local membership in their faithful work in the services and in the calling, praying, and continual consecrated work for Christ and the Church.

Only two offerings were taken during the two weeks revival services and the expenses were more than raised at that time, with no stress put on the offerings. God has certainly blessed us in this meeting beyond our fondest expectations; the weather and all were most favorable. We are very grateful to all who helped in any way to make the meeting one that God in Heaven sanctioned with His favor. Especially do we thank the many in whose homes we were invited and entertained at their bountiful tables. We can truly say that it was "a great meeting in a great community at a great church." Now let's "keep on keeping on."—Contributed by William D. Nice, Minister.

DEVELOP A LONG-TERM WILDLIFE RESTORATION PROGRAM FOR INDIANA

Inauguration of a statewide wildlife restoration program in which landowners, conservation clubs and the Department of Conservation will co-operate for the next four and one-half years to benefit all wildlife species, was announced today by Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation.

The program developed by the Division of Fish and Game and approved by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, provides for the establishment of two to ten-acre tracts of uncultivated land which will be developed as feeding and nesting areas of birds, rabbits, squirrels and small furbearing animals. The program will be financed co-operatively—one-fourth provided by the Division of Fish and Game and three-fourths provided by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service from Indiana's share of funds available under the Pittman-Robertson Act of Congress.

This restoration program wil supplement the statewide wildlife survey which was started six months ago under a similar co-operative agreement between the Division of Fish and Game and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. That survey in which Purdue University is also co-operating, is to compile data on wildlife conditions and wildlife populations under existing land-use and agricultural practices.

Under the new program, the conservation clubs will secure agreements from landowners for the use of designated tracts of land, varying from two to ten acres in area, over a five-year period and renewable for a second five years. Materials for fencing and planting the tract will be furnished from project funds with the labor provided by the clubs. One-third of the selected area will be planted in wildlife producing grains and plants of the annual species such as buckwheat, soybeans, millet, rape, mile, maize, sunflower and lespedesia. Another third will be planted with tree and shrub transplants such as black walnut, black maple, persimmon, wild rose, elderberry, white dogwood, chinese elm, red haw, wild cherry, hazelnut and osage orange. The remainder will be left unplanted as a nesting area. Each area will be closed to hunting as a wildlife and escape area.

Areas selected will be portions of land (usually non-arable land such as stream banks, pot holes and wooded or brushy land) which have not been closed to hunting previously and provision is made for the rest of the farm being open for hunting. All areas will be subject for approval by the state director of the project who will be in charge of all operations, with the assistance of six different supervisors.

This program is regarded as one of the biggest advances made in Indiana during recent years for the improvement and continuance of favorable wildlife conditions and a consequent improvemet in hunting. In the past the efforts of the Division of Fish and Game and the conservation clubs have been directed toward improved hunting through more extensive stocking. That has been accomplished through development of two modern game farms and the co-operation of conservation clubs which operate brooders for the rearing of quail and pheasant chicks furnished by the Division of Fish and Game. This program reached an all-time record in 1940 when approximately two hundred thousand game birds were liberated by the conservation clubs and the Division of Fish and Game.

While that program will be continued, it is anticipated that the restoration project which will get under way within the next few weeks will have a broader, long-term effect by creating conditions more favorable for natural propagation of birds and other desirable species of wildlife. It is felt that through the development of the feeding and nesting areas, Indiana can be assured continually improving hunting without any interference with agriculture or other land uses.

The Cost of Personal Appearance—
$1,383,000,000. A YEAR*

CONTRIBUTING to the witchery and charm of American women and the smart appearance of American men are barbers and beauty shops, cosmetics and perfumes, and other lifts to looks, that cost the Nation over a billion dollars yearly, or almost twice as much as domestic electricity. Of the total amount spent annually for "personal appearance," cosmetics alone mount up to $229,000,000.

Well worth it, you say . . . Consider, then, how worth while are the services of ELECtricity at such relatively small cost.

POPCORN

Nothing so much can stir a man
As popcorn in the thick-greased pan.
The snowflakes stab the window's stream
And dart by on the steady gleam;
But here we talk and laugh and shove
The black pan on the patient stove.
The bowl of sky may overflow
With the swift popcorn of the snow.
A better one is here inside—
Popping and salty, butter-fried.
And into bowls we blithely pour
While snowflakes pop upon the door.

LUNG DISEASES DANGEROUS TO SWINE

The most vulnerable spot of present day swine is their lungs.

Specialized breeding and the phenomenally rapid growth of modern swine exert a terrific strain on lung capacity—and the lungs of our porkers are not nearly as large as those of wild pigs of the same weight.

All too often the bedding ground of swine becomes covered with a deep layer of powder-fine dust. As pigs sleep with their nostrils close to the ground, they very often inhale large amounts of this barnyard dust, laden with germs capable of causing pneumonia.

Both swine influenza and germ-borne pneumonia act very much alike. In flu, however, a large number of animals in the herd usually sicken within two days time and there is a typical deep, hollow-sounding and frequent cough. Hogs are also more depressed and prostrated by outbreaks of flu than in most cases of pneumonia due to bacteria. They also recover more quickly, and the death loss is ordinarily not as heavy in flu outbreaks as in herd pneumonia.

One germ, the swine plague bacillus, can cause quick death, blood changes, and pneumonia in pigs and hogs. It is commonly seen in herds that have been devitalized by shipping, chilling or other adverse factors. It is very similar to the disease of cattle known as shipping fever. Another germ which closely resembles the human diphtheria bacillus, known as a diphtheroid, can cause heavy losses of a pneumonic type characterized by water-logging or so-called oedema of the lungs.

The real secret of blocking heavy losses from pneumonia, flu or other quick-spreading lung diseases of swine is to get an early diagnosis from a skilled veterinarian. For treatment must be shifted according to the nature of the complaint, and quick action is absolutely vital.

Proper ventilation and sanitation of hog houses are also good insurance policies against such trouble.

LOG of the UNITED STATES MARINES

MARINE CORPS FIFERS WERE PROUD OF SKILL

Buglers are rapidly becoming more effective than alarm clocks in awakening young men recently called to the colors. Thousands of them are now responding to the familiar "Can't get 'em up" of Reveille.

Our rapidly expanding branches of the service could scarcely get along without these instruments although the keyless trumpet, or bugle, was not adopted by the naval or military services until long after the United States won its independence.

Fifes and drums were the first instruments of the United States Marine Band. They were used to rally patriots during the Revolution and they furnished martial music for our troops until several years after the Civil War.

About the time of the Franco-Prussian War, formations of troops were changed from closed to extended lines and their movements became too complicated to be controlled by voice alone. The shrill-toned fife was too feeble and trumpets could be heard above the din of battle.

Fifers, or "whifflers" as they were called in the old days, fifed with many a thrill and flourish in the Marine Corps until 1881, when orders were issued to subtsitute bugles for fifes. It nearly broke the hearts of the old fifers to make the change, but orders were orders.

For a while there were no precise regulations governing bugle calls, the men assembling for drill, work, mess or other formations to the tune of some popular melody. In 1892 the Navy issued instructions making all trumpet calls uniform and standard.

Today, even though fifes are as rare as muzzle-loading muskets in the Marine Corps, drums are still as popular as ever. It seems likely that they will furnish the rythm for marching feet down to the end of time.

TRAPPERS HAVE EIGHT DAYS TO COLLECT PELTS

Hoosier trappers have only eight days in which to collect muskrat, raccoon, opossum, and mink pelts since the trapping season ends at midnight, Friday, Jan. 31. Frank N. Wallace, Acting Commissioner of the Department of Conservation, pointed out today.

The trappers have five days after the close of the season to dispose of the untanned hides but licensed furbuyers may possess the untanned hides for sixty days after the close of the trapping season.

Varying reports have been received from trappers in different parts of the state since the season opened in November, some indicating an abundance and others a scarcity of fur-bearing animals. In the 1939-40 trapping season, reports showed 1,707,161 pelts purchased by the licensed fur-buyers. More than a million of these were muskrat hides and nearly one-half million were opossum hides.

Mrs. Irvin White, of west of St. Joe has undergone another operation and this time for adhesions. She has had several operations previous to this one.

Merritt Sechler went to Springfield, Ohio, Sunday and will spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Patterson. Mr. Patterson is ill with heart trouble.

TWO SERIOUS ACCIDENTS OF THE PAST WEEK

Last Wednesday proved to be a very unfortunate day for some of St. Joe residents.

When the Kinsey ambulance was called to the Messenger home west of St. Joe, to remove Mr. James Ervin to the Hicksville hospital, Harry Hursh had been called to accompany Mr. Kinsey with the ambulance. After they had started to Hicksville, Mr. Hursh, who was riding with the sick patient, discovered that the side door was not latched, and was letting in cold air. Without warning to Mr. Kinsey, Harry proceeded to open the door, thinking he could suddenly pull it shut. No sooner had he released the latch and the door swung open with such force that Harry was pulled out of the ambulance, striking his head on the pavement, and severely bruising himself. He was given medical attention and was very sick for a few days, but he is now about the house with his head bandaged. In another column is an article written by Philip Smith concerning the accident.

The second and very serious accident of the day was that of Mrs. Lulu Armstrong, when she was returning home from a club meeting about 10 o'clock. The entire earth's surfare was covered with a glare of ice and one was in danger any place when walking. At the walk in front of the Rude and Akins homes, Mrs. Armstrong fell, and it being late, no one was about. She called for help but without avail for an hour or more. Finally Mrs. Rude was aroused by her calls and she with her son went out and found Mrs. Armstrong helpless on the walk, and in a serious condition due to the exposure.

Frank Akins was called and they proceeded to get her on a hand sled and in this manner get her home. Dr. Shook was called and after some time was able to discover that her leg or hip were not broken. They decided to remove her to San ers hospital where it was revealed by X-ray that the hip was badly jammed or pushed up about an inch and a half. They were unable to de anything for her right away txcept relieve her as much as possible.

She will remain in the hospital for several weeks at least according to Mr. Armstrong, who is now home. Every comfort possible is being given her there.

WORK CONTINUES AT THE RIEKE PLANT AT AUBURN

Work continued at the Rieke Metal Products Corp. factory in Auburn Tuesday without violence on the part of pickets who are still stationed at the entrances of the plant. Officials of the company reported that from 75 to 100 were on duty Tuesday. Women who remained in the plant after the first violence Saturday morning spent Monday night at their homes and reentered the plant Tuesday morning. There was no violence on the part of the pickets but it is reported that threats were made. The men employes of the company are still remaining in the building.

NO SCHUTE FOR HARRY!

I used to think that, when a guy
Was starting out to learn to fly,
He had to follow certain rules,
And take a course in Flying Schools.
There he'd be taught, by certain men,
The way to fly, and land again;
And, if his progress seemed to suit,
They'd teach him how to use a 'schute!

Well, we've a man, right here in town,
Who, when he wishes to come down,
Don't bother with a plane or 'schute,
But simply dives out on his snoot!
He doesn't care to win renown,
Nor wear a Master Pilot's crown;
He doesn't want his Mug or Name
Suspended in the Hall of Fame!

He takes no plane, just the reverse:
He does his stunts out of a hearse!
Just picks a spot upon the street,
And "bails out" on the hard concrete.
A man like that must be a "Hick,"
Or else his head's extremely thick!
Perhaps he's frantic with pain and worry
To leave a hearse in such a hurry!

Yet, he should not be blamed at all
For taking such a way to fall;
Let's hope it's had no bad effect,
When it could easily break his neck!
And I think he's not such a chump
To take that way to make his jump;
For he at least has something there—
A novel way to comb his hair!

ST. JOE SCORES VICTORY OVER SPENCERVILLE

In a game marked by the steller defensive playing of Junior Freeburn, the St. Joe Tigers won a hotly contested battle from Spencerville last Friday night in the local gym by a score of 31-21. Spencerville took an early lead making two baskets soon after the opening whistle. St. Joe soon overcame that lead and at half time were ahead 18-12. Except for a short-lived Spencerville rally in the last quarter, this lead was never threatened and the lead was extended to 10 points at the final gun, the final score being 31-21.

Freeburn's defense held his man scoreless until late in the game, and at the same time he scored 12 points for his team mates. Webb and Paul Crothers tied for scoring honors for Spencerville.

Dick Reed lead his team mates in winning the preliminary by scoring 6 of his team's 21 points against 11 for Spencerville. The games were played before a capacity crowd.

P. T. A. SCHOOL NIGHT WELL ATTENDED

More than one hundred patrons of the Concord Township school attended the class sessions which were a feature of the opening meeting of the P. T. A. Tuesday night. The school busses made their regular route, bringing the parents to school.

A short business meeting was held in the assembly room, during which committee reports were given. The members voted to pay a share of the new bleachers, and upon recommendation of the project committee, voted to purchase a set of supplementary reading texts for each grade room.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Wilbern took charge and opened school with the pledge to the flag. Then "students" heard a talk regarding graduation and college entrance requirements and made out their entrance cards. Four classes were held during which teachers listed objectives of the various courses and discussed his work with the parents. During the social hour a "wholesome hot lunch" of doughnuts and coffee was served.

The affair proved most enjoyable both to the parents and teachers and a fine school spirit was manifest. At the close of the meeting the "students" were given a copy of the following quotation which Mr. Wilbern said expresed his aims for the school:

"Teach reading, writing, and arithmetic, of course, but not as fundamentals, except as in the learning, one is taught to read fine things, to write beautiful thoughts, and to know that in the fundamentals of life, the sum of one's happiness cannot be obtained by subtracting from others, and that the way to multiply the value of one's possessions is to divide them with others, especially with those in need. Teach geography, but only that to world knowledge may be added to world sympathy and understanding and fellowship. Teach history that against its gray background of suffering and sorrow and struggle we may better understand the present and may project a fine future. Teach civics to make strong the ideals of liberty and justice, and to make free, through obedience, the citizens of a republic. Teach science, but always as the handmate of religion, to reveal how the brooding spirit of God created the world and all that is therein, and set the stars in their courses, in accordance with the eternal laws that He himself had ordained. Teach music and art and literature. Reveal beauty and truth. Inculcate social and civic ideals.

"Teach that which gives intelligence and skill, but forget not soul culture, for out of this comes the more abundant life bringing forth the fruits of the spirit. These are the real fundamentals in education, for character is higher than intellect and the soul shall never die."

MORTUARY

ERVIN

James Evin, one of the pioneer residents of Concord Township, died at the Community Hospital, Hicksville, O., on Thursday morning, after suffering a stroke, on Tuesday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ada Messenger, two miles west of St. Joe, where he had made his home for the past five years.

He was born June 9, 1859 and was 81 years, 7 months and 7 days old. He lived his entire life within a close proximity of his birthplace which is marked only by a well, and that being on the farm owned by Curt Watt.

On September 11, 1800, he was married to Ella Hull and to this union two daughters were born, Blanch Daily, dying in 1922. He is survived by his other daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Messenger, one grandson and one great grandson.

The funeral was held from the Kinsey funeral home Saturday afternoon, with Rev. Clayton officiating, and burial in K. of P. Riverside Cemetery.

Card of Thanks

We extend our thanks to the many friends and neighbors for their kindness shown in the sudden death of our Father.

Mr. and Mrs. John Messenger.

This suggestion comes from a subscriber and is a good one! In sewing snaps on clothes, always sew the one-half of them all on the one side first. Then brush them with chalk and press against them the other side of the garment. You will have the chalk marks to show where each half is to be sewn.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

ALTHOUGH it's ancient history now, a review of the official 1940 election returns for the Fourth Congressional District reveals many interesting things. Two records were shattered for example: More persons voted than in any other election history, and the Republicans polled the largest vote either party has ever cast. Approximately 138,000 Fourth District voters marched to the polls in November—80,000 of whom voted the straight Republican Ticket.

WE'VE been mulling over the records of Presidential election in the Fourth District for the post-World War period and have come to the conclusion that, if voting is an evidence of intelligence and good citizenship Northeastern Indiana voters have made vast strides in the last 20 years. Less than 100,000 District citizens voted in the Harding-Cox election in 1920. The total vote increased to 113,000 in 1924 (Coolidge-Davis.) 118,000 in 1928 (Hoover-Smith.) 130,000 in 1932 (Roosevelt-Hoover.) 131,000 in 1936 (Rosevelt-Landon.) and 138,000 in 1940 (Roosevelt-Willkie.)

THE FOURTH DISTRICT, incidentally, lost any claim it may have had as a political barometer of Presidential elections last November—just as Maine did four years ago. It was the first election since the war that the District failed to cast the majority of its votes for the winning candidates.

THE DISTRICT is still considered by Democratic leaders the darkest corner in Indiana. Republican voters here provided the balance of power which elected Republican state officials and bought an end to the McNutt-Minton-McHale machine.

SEVEN of the eight counties in the District shattered total vote marks in the 1940 election. Only LaGrange County failed to surpass its previous high record of 5,900 votes, established in 1932. New records for other counties, based on Congressional returns, were: Allen, 70,000; Adams, 9,500; Wells, 10,000; DeKalb, 13,500; Noble, 12,500; Steuben, 7,500, and Whitley, 9,500.

THE SMALLEST Fourth District vote since the war was cast in the off-year Congressional election of 1926 when only 83,000 persons took advantage of their suffrage rights. The largest off-year election vote—125,000—was cast in 1938, when Congressman Gillie defeated former Congressman Farley.

INDIVIDUAL vote-getting honors among post-War Congressional candidates are largely in the possession of Congressman Gillie as a result of his record victories in 1938 and 1940. His 1940 majority of 32,000 votes is the highest ever received by a candidate of either party. Closest contenders are former Congressman Fairfield, who won election in 1920 by a majority of 18,000 votes, and former Congressman Farley, who was elected in the Roosevelt landslide of 1932 by a 16,000-vote margin.

A BREAK-DOWN by counties reveals a similar picture. Congressman Gillie holds vote-getting records in five of the eight counties of the District. His 1940 vote totals in Allen County (41,000,) DeKalb County (8,000,) Noble County (7,400,) Steuben County (5,100,) and Whitley County (5,300) are the highest on record for a Congressional candidate. Fairfield holds the record of 3,900 in LaGrange County, established in 1920, and Farley holds records of 5,500 in Adams County and 5,700 in Wells County, both established in 1936.

ON THE basis of the last eleven Congressional elections, the strongest Republican counties in the District are Steuben, LaGrange and Noble. All three have gone Republican in every election except the Roosevelt landslide of 1932.

THE NEXT strongest Republican counties are DeKalb and Whitley, both of which have gone Republican eight times, Democratic three. DeKalb County slipped into Democratic column in 1932, 1934 and 1936. Whitley County went Democratic in 1922, 1932, and 1934—but by slim margins of only a few votes in '22 and '34.

ALLEN COUNTY, largest in the District, could be classified as "on the fence." It has been in the Democratic column six times, the Republican five. Its closest election was in 1926 when former Congressman Hogg lost it by 620 votes. It was Democratic from 1930 through 1936, but has returned Republican majorities of more than 10,000 votes in the last two elections.

STRONGEST Democratic counties are Adams and Wells, which were added to the Fourth District in the reorganization of 1932. Both Adams and Wells counties have unbroken Democratic records until 1938, when they gave majorities to Congressman Gillie. Adams repeated in 1940 while Wells reverted to the Democratic column in a close election.

CONCORD HOME BUREAU

The Concord Township Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. Katie Storer Friday afternoon, Jan. 17th. The meeting was called to order by the president, Millie Shull. Opening song, "When You and I were Young, Maggie." Mrs. Shull gave a report of the presidents' meeting at Auburn. Secretary's report was read and roll call was responded to with "What we can do to help our Club for 1941," by sixteen membesr.

Installation of officers was in charge of Mrs. Clara Sible. Mrs. Mable Welkel gave a very interesting report from the Purdue Conference. The hostess, with her committee, Mayola Kinsey and Anna Hursey, served ice cream, cake and coffee. The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Krise.

MARINES

DESCRIBED EARLY MARINES

Tales of the American Indian have been admirably told by J. Fenimore Cooper whose stories have delighted untold generations of Americans from 1821 to the present day.

Yet, few persons know that the author of "The Last of the Mohicans," "Pathfinder," and "Deerslayer," and other stories of the American aborigines was also familiar with the sea and the sailing ships which were once the pride of the U. S. Navy.

Cooper's experience as a seaman on a merchant vessel and as a midshipman in the U. S. Navy gave him a wealth of seagoing lore which occasionally may be found in his writings.

More than a century ago he described the U. S. Marines of that period as "Strictly infantry soldiers who were trained to serve afloat; and their discipline, equipments, spirit and character and esprit de corps are altogether those of an army."

Harking back to still earlier times Cooper wrote in part: "At no period of naval history of the world is it probable that the marines were more important than during the war of the Revolution. The history of the Navy abounds with instances of the gallantry and self-devotion of this body of soldiers."

The author of the Leatherstocking Tales had ample opportunities to note the deportment of the sea soldiers, as he served in the Navy from 1808 until 1811. His fame as a writer came several years later.

Most men can find the most time to read when their wives are trying to tell them something.

Europe can't finance a long war, they said. They couldn't finance one about 25 years ago but they had it just the same!

Americans compose and copyright 800 songs a week, but you wouldn't think so after listening to radios.

Folks have stopped asking what we are coming to and only want to know—when.

We insist upon knowing the facts, and then refuse to believe them.

Many a parent is held down because of what their children might say.

One of life's disappointments is to come face to face with a man of fame and find he looks just about like every body else.

GROUNDHOG DAY

Along comes "Groundhog Day" and many of us are wondering if he'll see his shadow on February 2. Of course with such modern methods of weather predicting, you may not be of the old-fashioned school who give any thought to the groundhog theory. In fact, we can't tell an inquiring News reader just where this groundhog business really originated. We know that the belief goes that if he comes out and sees his shadow, he returns to his hole for another six weeks for Winter weather. If the day is dark and the groundhog fails to see his shadow, you are supposed to get out the seed packets, do a bit of spading in the flower beds, dust off the screens, for according to groundhog predictions, Winter is over. Do as you like at your house, we are waiting awhile over at our place!

HAVING OUR DOUBTS

A scientist who made a report on alcohol before the American Association for the Advancement of Science, surely made a distressing statement with the conclusion that folks who think drinking can be controlled by will power, resolutions or abstinence pledges, are wrong and that the people are laboring under a delusion and "popular misconception." According to science, perhaps there is need of physical treatment to have a sure cure, but there are many here in St. Joe who know of cases where liquor addicts were able to be cured of the habit through their own will-power and tenacity. Many a person has been helped to overcome the drinking habit through pride for self and family. Religion has brought many drunkards to a right-about-face. We still believe it isn't all in medical and scientific treatment!

OFF TO THE STORE

The estimate gives the total expenditure of a family making $1,236 a year, as making more trips to the grocery store than any other place of business. We spent one fourth of our income at the grocery store, during the past year. The general merchandising stores came in second, apparel and shoe stores were third, household furnishings and radios next, followed by automobile and accessories, filling stations, restaurants, building material and hardware stores, drug stores, and miscellaneous ones trailed in last with $124 of our money. This points to the fact that the family in St. Joe still cares for the appetite first. They build up the body with food, then clothe it and place about it the comforts of living. There has been a lot of grocery advertising this past year and you can't blame your editor for wondering if that might have something to do with this.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

February 1 is the official birthday of this nation's famous third branch of government, the Supreme Court of the United States. It is 51 years old this year and still going strong! Back in 1790 when New York City was the seat of our government, the first meeting was called to order and presided over by Chief Justice John Jay, with three Justices present. After the adjournment President Washington entertained them. In those days the court did not hold the great power invested in it in our day. Although Washington realized it as "the keystone of our political fabric," it still could not persuade the nation of its power and force. That came later.

The court has played an important role in the influencing and progression of this nation. Even though its justices are not permitted to create and legislate laws, they interpret and they so believe and desire. There are they so beileve and desire. There are a number of rulings that bear personal views, are declared by the opposition to be unconstitutional and un-American! But whatever the interpretation given our laws, the Supreme Court will protect our land and our liberties, for this is what makes up a democrary and the Supreme Court is a part of the democracy. We wish you a "happy birthay" and add that we hope and pray you have innumerable ones to come!

A GEOGRAPHY LESSON

We are brought more forcibly in touch with geography today than since we left the little red school house. These people who are anxious to keep up, to ascertain facts and statistics, are people who get out the atlas, the geography and follow boundary lines and find cities in spots all over the globe that are entering into print and the public eye at the present. We marvel at the size of many of the countries, in proportion to the size of various of our states. We think of the great difference in temperament, race and creed, so closely adjoining in land but so far apart in other ways. Here in our country where instead of a division finding a country, the boundary line finds a state. This line is only a map mark for there is little to make a wall between our neighbors. We have no bars in our way as we journey back and forth, no passports to show as we cross the state lines. It is all home.

From our census figures of last year we can see that people shift about from one state to another for settling. There are a number of the resort states that have added to their population figures. The older people seek the weather favorable to their health, to settle for the latter years where the sun keeps the blood warm. The dust-bowl states have lost in population but they are building larger farms and bigger ranches out there for they know the secret of adjustment now.

How glorious to live where no restrictions demand that you remain within one state, where we flow freely over boundary lines as just going from one home to a similar one.

Southern Rhodesia has started aid raid percautions measures.

DECENTRALIZATION BILL EQUALIZES OFFICIAL CONTROL

INDIANAPOLIS — The 1940 Republican platform pledge to destroy one-man control of government in Indiana and prevent opportunity for one official to build up a personal political machine through the use of patronage, is carried out in the decentralization bill presented to the Indiana General Assembly during the first week of its 82nd session, it was asserted here today by G. O. P. legislative leaders.

In a statement issued by the Republican joint legislative steering committee, through Arch N. Bobbitt, state chairman and chairman of the steering committee, attention was called to misunderstanding or misconstruction of the bill in certain quarters to the effect that greater powers have been conferred upon the Lieutenant Governor than upon other elective state officers.

"Attention is called," the statement reads, "to the fact that each of the four Republican officials named in the decentralization bill act upon two of the four boards to be created. Since all boards are composed of three members it would seem to be clear that the distribution of assignments in the main is equal. No one officer is given any authority over the other. The right of appeal to the courts is also provided."

The steering committee's statement also called attention to the fact that the boards of the four departments are charged with the appointment only of the personnel of the subordinate boards, commissions, administrators, directors and other officers allocated to their particular department of government. The boards of the departments are prohibited, under the bill, from appointing subordinate employees, from discharging them except for cause, after a hearing on written charges, or from suggesting any person for appointment by the subordinate board.

"Attention is called, also," the statement continues, "to the provisions of the bill covering the future operation of the state penal, correctional and benevolent institutions. The committee gave serious consideration to the platform measure proposing that these institutions be as far removed from political control as is possible under the existing governmental set-up in Indiana. It was unanimous in the opinion that bi-partisan boards, strictly bi-partisan, would best attain this objective. To obtain strictly bi-partisan control the committee set out in the bills that boards of four should control each institution and that the Governer, of one political faith, and the Lieutenant Governor, of another, make two appointments each, the appointees to be of opposite political faith. The result, the committee believes, will be bi-partisan boards in the strictest sense of the word.

"The committee would call attention to one important factor in the discussion of its program.

"During the last eight years, with one man control, the minority party in this state has had what amounts to no representation in government. While in some instances Republicans have been appointed to boards and commissions, in fact they had no authority since all appointments were controlled solely by the Governor of the state. This applied to institutions of all kinds as well as to the general governmental agencies.

"The committee sought to correct this condition and believe it has done so in a thorough manner if its recommendations are accepted by the General Assembly.

"The institutions, under the bills, will have equal representation of both parties—which is a step in the right direction.

"The minority party will be represented on every state board of control under the departmental structure. The Governor himself controls other important divisions of government. In some cases boards of five, having heretofore had a political preponderance in favor of the majority party, are made bi-partisan boards of four. An example of this is in the board of the important department of public welfare."

G. O. P. SOLONS PUSH PLATFORM PROGRAM AHEAD

INDIANAPOLIS.—With the House of Representatives having already passed a bill repealing the McNutt state government reorganization act of 1933, the Republican platform legislative program decentralizing state government advanced rapidly in the Indiana General Assembly during the second full week of the 1941 session.

When the House sent the repeal bill to the Senate Monday for further action, it paved the way for rapid action on the companion bills which comprise a 10-point program of the Republican majority. This program consists of the following legislation:

Elimination of political control of state institutions.

Abolition of one-man control of all state government.

Provision for adequate checks and balances in state government.

Provision to give state boards and commissions responsibility for work allocated to them.

Establishment of a comprehensive merit system to protect state institutional employees.

Removal of unfair provisions in the gross income tax law relating to retail and service groups.

Adoption of adequate defense measures.

Increase of maximum allowance for old-age assistance from $30 per month to $40 per month.

Elimination of rackets in the liquor traffic control and better enforcement of the law.

Re-establishment of the anti-nepotism law.

The entire Republican legislative program, designed to decentralize the state government and return authority to constitutional officers, can be put into practice with added efficiency and possible reduction in the cost of government, Republican leaders pointed out in the legislative chambers during discussions on the platform measures.

Successfully resisting the apparent attempt of the Democratic minority to "talk to death" the Republican platform program, leaders in both branches have advanced the bill setting up bipartisan boards to operate the state's penal, benevolent and correctional institutions, the repeal of the act exempting the Two Per Cent Club from the corrupt practices act, and other measures to the point where by adjournment this week-end it was expected each house would have passed the bills originating in its own chamber, making them ready for final action in the other branch.

An important revelation was given during the week when Representative Frank T. Millis, House majority floor leader, revealed that a total of 1,473 officers and employees of state institutions were "shaken down" by the Democratic state committee during the 1940 campaign for contributions to the Democratic campaign chest.

In a public hearing on the Republican institutions bill, Mr. Millis showed that these 1,473 employees had contributed a total of more than $5,400, in individual amounts ranging from 25 cents to $135. Every state institution in Indiana was represented in the list revealed by Mr. Millis, taken from the report of the treasurer of the Democratic state committee.

The bill to re-establish an anti-nepotism law in Indiana will cure a situation that has existed since 1937 when a Democratic Legislature repealed the old law to protect M. Clifford Townsend, who, when he became Governor, appointed his son as head of the livestock licensing division. The present bill would prohibit a husband, wife, son, daughter, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, niece or nephew from holding a position in state government or institutions who is related in that degree to any member of a state board, institution, commission or head of a department where such person is employed.

In addition to the other Republican platform bills, the present week was expected to see measures relating to school textbook adoptions and reorganization of the state board of education introduced and started along their legislative path toward becoming laws.

When you heard Mr. Roosevelt take the oath of office at the Inaugural ceremonies Monday, did it ever occur to you to wonder how the President of the United States gets paid? He is the one Federal employe who has never received a salary check like the other 1,100,000 Government workers. Technically, the President has to file a claim with the General Accounting Office for services rendered. However, the GAO automatically prepares a claim at the end of each month entitling the President to "not more than $6,250 from the U. S. Treasury." The Treasury Comptroller and Treasurer of the U. S. A. sign it and a special messenger takes it to the White House—$75,000 in the course of a year. Government wouldn't be Government without red tape, and the reason for this choice bit is that the President has no superior officer in the Federal service....and all payrolls are supposed to be certified by superior officers.

HILLBILLY WEDDING DRAWS LARGE CROWD

It was just one of a crowd from practically all sections of our county who attended the home talent production of the Hillbilly Wedding at St. Joe on last Thursday and Friday evenings. Many had to brave the snow and cold on Friday, but they were there in good number.

Even long before the doors were open on Thursday night, enthusiastic patrons began to arrive at the community gym, and the crowd was indeed a record breaker which took nearly every available seat among the chairs and the two bleachers, to see and hear the special numbers chosen from the local and surrounding community.

There is really no need for comment on the individual appearaces on the program because they were all "Ace-High," and the public in general has been voicing favorable comment ever since the show. And after all a satisfied customer is the best advertisement, while you expect the newspaper to say the favorable things.

The purpose of the show was to start a fund for the construction of a fish rearing pond hereabouts, and our community is always ready to support local projects of most any nature when backed by a local sponsor.

The men who served on the local promotion committees are extremely gracious for the fine response to their efforts from everyone locally and for the splendid advertising from the merchants in the surrounding towns.

In completing the tabulation of receipts the club had $84.00, but it became necessary to expend some for those appearing on the program from a distance, so the committee is making a like offer to local talent in order to satisfy all, and the final balance of receipts cannot be determined until this is completed.

The 1940-1941 officers shared in the responsibility of the show.

SENATOR RAYMOND WILLIS TO ADDRESS EDITORS

INDIANAPOLIS. — The annual mid-winter banquet of the Indiana Republican Editorial Association, besides being the first opportunity for the G. O. P. editors to honor one of their own members, Raymond E. Willis, as United States Senator, will also be the first time in ten years that Hoosier Republicans have had the chance to celebrate a real victory love feast.

"Having carried Indiana last November, the leading Republican men and women of the state will gather in the Riley room of the Claypool hotel in Indianapolis Saturday evening, February 8. It will be an occasion to celebrate the recent changes in state administration and to hear the state and national conditions from those whose direct responsibility it has become to carry out the Republican principles in government," James E. Montgomery of New Albany, president of the association said.

Senator Willis will be the principal speaker. This will be his first visit to Indiana since becoming its Junior Senator. He is expected to bring to his Hoosier friends and supporters a first-hand report of things as he finds them in Washington.

Several state leaders will be asked to speak briefly on the conditions in Indiana and report on the progress being made in the legislature to put into effect the G. O. P. platform promises to reform the state government after eight years of the McNutt style.

In issuing a general invitation to all Hoosier Republicans to join their editor friends in greeting Senator Willis, Mr. Montgomery urged all those desiring to attend to secure their tickets as soon as possible, either through their local members of the association or by remitting direct to Secretary Neil D. McCallum, 718 Claypool hotel, Indianapolis. The price of the banquet has been set at $2.00 per plate.

RED CROSS QUOTA IS OVER-SUBSCRIBED IN COUNTY

All areas in the DeKalb County Red Cross membership drive that began Nov. 11 have reported their collections, the final total amounting to $1,609.79, according to Harry Casebeer of Auburn, Red Cross treasurer. The quota was $1,520.

Fifty cents of every membership payment will go to the national organization and the balance will remain in DeKalb County for financing first aid work, life saving instruction and maintenance of a Red Cross nurse. As many memberships brought more than a dollar the county probably will retain at least two-thirds of the total, Mr. Casebeer said.

Here is the complete list of collections:

Auburn, $706.18; Garrett, $350,71; Waterloo, $106.70; Butler, $82.60; Franklin Township, $73.49; Ashley, $47; Richland Township, $37.07; Spencerville, $32.69; Corunna, $32.50; Wilmington Township, $30.40; Stafford Township, $27; Concord Township, $24; Keyser Township, $19.80; Jackson Township, $15.75; Butler Township, $11; Troy Township, $9, and Union, $3.

DAZED BY FALL ON ICY SIDEWALKS

Fred Jenkins was picked up Friday in an unconscious condition caused by falling on the ice in front of the Inez Chapman home. Bert Jackson was the only eye witness as he was in front of the Buckingham home when he saw Mr. Jenkins fall. Bert hurried, calling Roy Wade for assistance and they rushed to the aid of Mr. Jenkins and found him unconsious. He was raised to his feet and the two men walked him to the Wade Inn, where in about 20 minutes he rallied and was able to go home alone. He had marks on his right cheek and side of his head. No ill effects of the fall are apparent at this time.

LOG
of the
UNITED STATES
MARINES

WANTED SEAFARING MEN

Landsmen who attempted to sign up with the American Marines of Revolutionary days were not given a very cordial reception, even though drummers and trumpeters were parading the streets of Philadelphia on a sharp look-out for recruits.

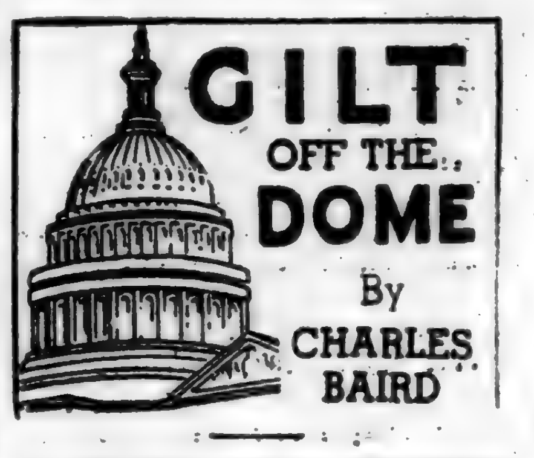
Only men who were familiar with life aboard ship were wanted in those days, although such a qualification is no longer required. In fact, many modern marines never had even a glimpse of the sea before they were enlisted and assigned to some shore station.

While authorizing the formation of two battalions of marines in 1775, the Continental Congress resolved: "That no person be appointed to office, or enlisted into said battalions, but such as are good seamen, or so acquainted with maritime affairs as to be able to serve to advantage by sea when required."

Why Congress demanded seasoned mariners for its soldiers of the sea is difficult to undertsand. Except in some emergency, when they volunteered to perform tasks ordinarily given to seamen, American Marines have always been strictly military men.

George Washington is known to have been dissatisfied with land troops who were ordered aboard ship to serve as marines, and this may account for the "seagoing requirements" in the marine resolution of 1775.

Even today, U. S. Marines could by no means be called "land-lubbers" when they first go aboard a battleship or cruiser. They are trained at sea schools ashore in preparation for such activities.



A LEADING topic of conversation these days, among Indiana Congressmen is the reapportionment program now under consideration by the State Legislature. Under the law, Indiana's 12 Congressional Districts must be reduced to 11—which means the elimination of one district and the addition of counties to most of the remaining districts.

THE PLAN most discussed provides for the elimination of the Eleventh District (Hancock and Madison Counties and part of Indianapolis,) now represented by Congressman Larrabee, a Democrat. Under this plan, Larrabee's home county of Hancock would be added to Congressman Springer's Tenth District, and Madison County would be added to the Fifth District, represented by Congressman Harness. This would force a showdown fight in the 1942 election between Springer and Larrabee—with Springer, a Republican, having the edge.

IF THIS program is carried out, one or two counties probably will be added to the Fourth District. Possibly Huntington County to the West or Jay and Blackford Counties to the South. All three are now in the Fifth District. Huntington County is traditionally Republican, and Jay and Blackford Counties lean the other way.

IT ALSO might result in the loss of one or two of the Northern Counties—although this is improbable. LaGrange County, and perhaps Steuben County, might be added to the Third District, represented by Congressman Grant of South Bend. These are blue ribbon Republican counties and their loss would be opposed by Fourth District GOP leaders.

THE STATE was last redistricted 10 years ago, when Adams and Wells Counties (both Democratic) were added to the old Twelfth District to form the present Fourth District.

A fact is a fact until it happens to disagree with our own personal opinion.

To be safe regarding the weather in St. Joe, repeatedly use the word "unsettled."

One youngster remarked that Franklin wasn't as smart as Lindbergh, for all he did was fly a kite!

Never inform a man that he is fired, and enclose the word in an envelope that says "Return in five days."

Many a man will listen attentively to what you are saying and he doesn't care two cents about what you say!

That same fellow who was so bighearted he would give you the shirt from his back, now hasn't a shirt.

We have come to a lot of things but not so far as to put up signs in restaurants, "No Dunking Allowed."

For England to win this war is what we want, but having it happen in the ninth inning is hard on our nerves.

This Winter will be the lonliest for the man who has not done something in some way, to help someone over there.

The reason some motorists honk their horns, is so they won't have to listen to the honking of the cars back of them.

You might think that America enjoyed the past wars more than anybody else from the amount of money it cost us to see them.

Inspirational

How great are his signs! and how mighty are his wonders! his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and his dominion is from generation to generation.—Daniel 4: 3.

BE QUIET

An acquaintance remarks, "so many people dying of heart trouble." We comment and forget all about it as we hurriedly go on with something or other. Always there is something or other and pretty soon the tired body and exhausted heart just stops doing something or other and we go into print as a lesson for someone else who won't heed the warning. Why can't we relax and take care of this inner self by allowing it a quiet time once in twenty-four hours. Surely we can commune with ourselves once a day for a brief interval. Our hearts wouldn't be so overworked and weary if we would take some time to pay attention to this inner self. They tell us our pace is so rapid that our heart isn't able to withstand the strain. How anxious is the business man to keep his office in running condition. The housewife works to keep her home in order. We all wash our bodies that we may be clean and all the time fail to keep order within ourselves. Being so busy doing something or other we haven't time to just sit and think. Let us begin tomorrow to give ourselves a quiet time and if we want to sit and think of courage for the day, blessings to be wrought or just not think at all—that will help the heart and the spirit of man.

TOO ANCIENT

Today when anything adds a few years to its age, it becomes an antique and off it goes! The old-fashioned round dining table was sent to a cousin although it was just as good as new. Mother admitted "they used to make furniture in those days," even though she was awaiting a new suite where the table was so narrow you had to serve the plates in the kitchen. You trade in an auto, not because it is worn out but because you want to run a shining new model into the one-car garage. The electric shaver put the old mug on the back of the shelf, until something went wrong with the motor and then out came the shaving brush and lather. According to stylists every seven years sees a return of a vogue, so why give away the carpet sweeper when you see the vacuum sweeper pass into the attic. Many a home pays a price for an antique to place in the corner to be admired, and then they junk the wooden butter bowl.

A GOOD SCOUT

When Lord Baden-Powell died just recently, the organization that stands for good citizenship in the rising generation, lost a true friend. For the last 30 years this nobleman who retired from the British army in 1910 and began to form the Boy Scout movement, has furthered peace through the advancement of international understanding. One who has read the Boy Scout oath respects the teaching of Lord Baden-Powell. A character himself that would appeal to a lad thru his feats of daring, courage and humor. He was a descendant of Pocahontas and perhaps it is this strain that brings the quality for fame as resulted in his holding a fort in Africa during the Boer war against all odds, thru fake cannon, fake breastworks and fake reinforcements! He was also a noted military intelligence operative during his lifetime. Here passes the founder of both the Boy and Girl Scouts, a man who understood and loved the youth of all nations.

A REAL FIGHT

"America makes war continuously, year in and year out, that will never end. We each take up arms in this battle, to defend against an enemy to man. The army marches with eyes on their goal. Each town as St. Joe and her neighbors, fights the good fight against the ravager called" disease." There is no let-up in the push to conquer infantile paralysis, cancer and tuberculosis. There is need of armaments against this foe if we wish to preserve a people. Rally round the flag of service to brothers! Each year through the country, on the President's bithday, balls are held from which proceeds go to fight infantile paralysis. At Christmas time seals help to fight tuberculosis. April is named as cancer month to forward knowledge and concern to fight this most horrible of disease. America marches on her private wars.

WHO TO BLAME

When you overhear someone remark that so and so "always gets the breaks" or "he is born to luck," bear in mind that chap believes that a man hasn't a chance if he doesn't have pull behind him. It is probably true that there are some people right here in St. Joe who seem to have a long run of misfortune which is termed as bad luck. There are other folks around St. Joe that seem to be especially blessed, whatever they undertake. But to become so disillusioned that you feel you have no chance, that you have been unsuccessful because of lack of backing by influential people, that your life is just a gamble anyhow and you seem to lose however you place your bets, then comes the time to take personal inventory and find out what is wrong inside of oneself to have such a false conception of values. Go over your list of acquaintances and figure who are the popular ones, those liked by everyone around them, who seem to get everything out of life, can tackle any job and conquer any situation. They always have kindness heaped upon them, and yet they give away in the community so much of the good within themselves. There are all kinds of us. There is the one who is always on time, and the other who is always late. This chap looks like he stepped from a band-box and that one as though he just got out of bed. Some you can trust in polite society and others are better off at the kitchen table. This one cares for his home, his church, his yard. That man raises twice the crops on half the space as his neighbor. So what is the explanation except it be found within oneself, and who better to find it than oneself.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

The public debt limit now is set at forty-nine billion dollars. The final "nine" somehow reminds one of the $1.98 bargain sale ads. Forty-nine billion sounds as though it were a great deal less than fifty billion. The psychology of figures does not seem to be troubling Congress at present. It is said that within a week, the first monetary step in the direction of large scale defense will be taken. It will be grounded in a bill advancing the debt boundary to sixty-five billion, and those who contemplate the purchase of Federal securities issued hereafter, should not expect that they will be exempt from taxation.

The lend-lease bill, at first said to be due for a quick passage, may have to be patient for two months, it is reported. The hearings continue, with such celebrities as Secretaries Knox, Stimson and Hull, Col. Lindbergh and General Hugh Johnson voicing their views pro and con. Col. Lindbergh's opinion that this country and England together could not whip the Nazis, and that the United States is in no danger of invasion, was accorded a cool reception. Some stated openly but politely that he did not know what he was talking about. Others, without going into the correctness of his views, were inclined to rely upon Scriptural advice to the effect that "if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle?"

Col. Lindbergh's decline in popularity with the masses, whether just or unjust, cannot be denied. As a baby-kissing politician, of the kind the masses like, he would make a flat failure. On the other hand, the masses more than once have sized up a man correctly. In any event, personal abuse may well be suspended. One thing is certain. No one can accuse Col. Lindbergh of suppressing his convictions in order that he may head the parade.

It used to be that mothers were embarrassed when their son's shirttails would sneak outside the pants.

A HAT BOX

A subscriber suggests a handy way to take care of large hats in large boxes. She has a rather high shelf where she keeps the box. She slit one end of the box at each corner, top to bottom. The pushing up of the lid permits the front to drop down and you can withdraw your hat without removing the hat box. Paint a design on the front piece and you have a decorative accessory.

For Protection

There are many uses for discarded pieces of cellophane. One subscriber tells us that she has found it is fine to keep silverware from tarnishing. She wraps the silver in the cellophane after having the silver thoroughly clean to start with, and she reminds us that you can easily see what is in each roll.

DEMANDING $10,000 FOR WOMAN'S DEATH

A demand for $10,000 is made in a complaint filed in the DeKalb circuit court Tuesday by Morris Lee Chapman, administrator of the estate of his wife, the late Violet May Chapman, against Roscoe Walter.

The parties live at Spencerville, the defendant being engaged in the undertaking business. Mrs. Chapman lost her life as a result of an unusual accident, according to the complaint. She was injured Jan. 31, 1939, and died the 8th of the following month, leaving four dependent children.

The plaintiff states that he employed the defendant to take his wife from Spencerville to Hicksville, O., in an ambulance. She was placed on a cot that was carried into the ambulance and her husband says he sat on a wooden box beside the cot. He states that there were no safety devices to anchor the cot and that an iron crank was placed on the floor between the cot and the back doors of the vehicle to keep the cot from slipping about.

The complaint sets out that the catches and locks on the back door were out of repair and that a leather strap was used to keep them closed. A person sitting on the wooden box would hold the strap to keep the doors shut, says the plaintiff. He states that the defendant, with himself and his wife in the ambulance, drove from Spencerville north on Road 1 to Road 8 and then east a distance of 6 miles. The road was level, but there was snow on it. The speed of the ambulance was about thirty-five miles an hour, the complaint states.

Suddenly, according to the plaintiff, the ambulance spun around and struck the north side of the road. Mrs. Chapman was thrown out and was on her back in the center of the highway when her husband reached her. She was placed back in the ambulance and removed to a hospital, where she died. The defendant is charged with negligence. The plaintiff's attorneys are Earl D. Lytal and Karl A. Koch, of Fort Wayne.

The R. H. Club was very pleasantly entertained Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Hazel Washler. The president, Mrs. Gladys Hart called the meeting with Dora Wilder giving the opening number. Thirteen members responded to roll call. Two children, Mary Wilder and Richard Key, Jr., were guests.

A short business meeting was held, and names were drawn, each member adopted a "mystery pal." For special numbers Mrs. Edna Jenkins read a missionary short story entitled, "Wicked Wing Lu." Berniece Wilder conducted a contest which tested our wits and spelling.

Next meeting in two weeks, Mrs. Crothers hostess, with Leona Mason for opening number, Hazel and Gladys special numbers. The hostess served a tasty lunch, which was enjoyed by all at the close of meeting.

GOOD RECORD MADE IN THIS ROAD ZONE

The Fort Wayne district has the lowest per mile maintenance cost of any of the six districts in the state, according to the annual report of the state highway commission, released recently. The figures were compiled by highway department statisticians.

Each district in the state is divided into six subdistricts and that in Goshen under the direction of Walter Atwater, superintendent, led the entire state. The Bluffton subdistrict which has the largest sub-district mileage in the state, was second under the superintendency of O. D. Baker of this city while the Warsaw subdistrict under E. E. Ragan, superintendent, was fifth.

R. S. Thomson is maintenance engineer for the Fort Wayne district and directs maintenance operations in all the subdistricts.

The above was taken from the Bluffton, (Ind.) Evening News-Banner, under date of February 4th, and we are pleased to report to The News readers the success of our friend O. D. Baker a former St. Joe resident.

DeKalb county residents, at least those who believe in the groundhog tradition, prepared for spring today. Now that we are settled upon the groundhog prophecy, here comes an inquiry from one of The News readers concerning the caterpillar. Fred Hart reports that he saw a caterpillar crawling along at a lively gate Sunday at the home of his son and he would like to have some one tell him what this means.

THE FARMER AND HIS JOB

The following poem was received by Roy Harper and family from Clara Bell White, of Amarilla, Texas, a niece of Mr. Harper. Miss White visited the Harper home last Summer and since her return home, she has been pondering over the tasks connected with farm life. Last week the following poem came as the result of her deliberations and it really depicts the hustle and bustle of a live, wide-awake farm home.

Down on the farm, 'bout half past four,
Slip on my pants and sneak out the door.
Out to the yard I run like the dickens,
To milk ten cows and feed the chickens;
Clean out the barn, curry Nance and Jiggs;
Separate the cream and slop the pigs;
Work two hours, then eat like a turk,
Then, by heck, I'm ready for a full day's work.
Then I grease the wagon and put on the rack,
Throw a jug of water in the old grain sack,
Hitch up the horses, hustle down the lane;
Better get my hat, for it looks like rain.
Look, over yonder, as sure as I am born,
Cattle's on the rampage and cows in the corn.
Start across the medder, run a mile or two,
Heaving like a windhorse, got wet clear through.
Get back to the hosses, then for recompense,
Old Nance got a straddle the barbed wire fence.
M' joints all-a-achin' and muscles in a jerk;
I'm fit as a fiddle for a full day's work.
Work all Summer till Winter is nigh,
Then figure up the books and heave a big sigh.
Worked all year, didn't make a thing.
Got less cash now than I had last Spring.
Now some folks say there ain't no hell.
But they never farmed, so how can they tell?
When Spring rolls 'round, I'll take another chance,
While the fringe grows longer on my old, gray pants.
Give my s'penders a hitch, 'n' my belt another jerk,
Then, by heck, 'm ready for a full year's work.

ON FAITH

When the birthday of Abraham Lincoln comes next Wednesday, pay especial tribute to the man for his great faith in his country. He believed so in the union of the states that he gave his life in the cause that the nation might be preserved as a unit. Today, with the amount of feeling against defiling the institutions handed down from the early years, when human liberty seems to be at stake, when freedom lies on the alter of sacrifice, then indeed do we need to reflect upon the faith of the man Lincoln. Lincoln was torn apart within himself by war, his spirit was for peace while he watched a nation seeth and rage as it struggled for a cause. He withstood the abuse and curses that were heaped upon him, threw them off and forgave as he tried to unite in friendship state with state. Lincoln thought deeply, and never jumped to conclusions, never passed over thoughtlessly or made an excuse for an action. He was never easy on himself. The deed was done, he faced the issue and consequences. He did not applaud his triumphs nor did he attempt to hide his failures. Such traits found in Lincoln would be helpful traits in present day statesmen.

IN HIS MEMORY

Thomas Edison obtained 1,150 invention patents and his influence in science and industry has since been felt though he passed from this life years ago. Those patents included the electric light bulb, the first dynamo and power and lighting system, the motion picture, the phonograph, the principles of the radio tube. Rather an influence in our lives, was he not?

Born on February 11, in a small town Edison lived to give the world such a contribution that his discoveries cover an investment of over $35,000,000,000. His direct inventions give employment to about 6,000,000 people. well might we salute his name on his birthday as that of one of the world's greatest benefactors to humanity.

SWEET NOTES

Hearts and flowers, lace and verse, seep through the mails on each Valentine day, to gladden the heart of sweethearts around St. Joe. Don't be a husband who wouldn't send his wife a Valentine Day remembrance, for fear you might start a precedent! Don't say she would rather have a gift of worth than a dime verse. From tips you gather here and there, you will find that every woman is flattered and pleased when she receives a sentimental rhyme that teems with cupids and arrows. Get sweet this year and find the most affectionate poem possible with hearts and flowers abounding on its front and in your own script pen "To One I Love." There is no excuse for being too busy, not having a dime, couldn't find a suitable one. Get the valentine spirit and please the lady fair. The News can furnish the valentines so just come in and see them.

JUST IMAGINE!

A goodly number of years ago George Bernard Shaw wrote love letters to a lady who was then a leading figure on the stage and prominent in the eyes of the adoring public. She left the letters to be published after her death so that the whole world could enjoy the beauty of the messages of Shaw. But he refuses to permit the publishing of them. Many a man in St. Joe would feel mighty foolish if love notes of his other days would ever reach print and the public. Imagine the jests and guffaws that would come from around us. You are unnerved even just by thinking about it. We could deny we were the author, swear we were being framed, that we weren't in the state at the time, and go into hiding until the whole thing would blow over, if ever. No, we can't say that we blame Mr. Shaw.

COMMON GROUND

An admiring note stressed in a foreigner's conception of the American way, is our common ground of fellowship. The Old World finds such a difference in class that the wall between high and low is almost insurmountable. The man born to the lowly, the very poor and uneducated, finds the space so broad that he cannot cross to the other side. In our country, there are various classes but the line is not drawn so decidedly, the boundary not impassable, the feeling of rank not so distinct. Wherever you go you will find distinctions in breeding, wealth and eduaction, but in America the highest positions can be attained, the loftiest pinnacles in society scaled, by the man that comes of lowly birth

The present war has had its effect on the class feeling in England where there was such a pronounced difference in class. It seems that disaster brings men together and they meet on common ground when grief and disaster visit them. Where trouble brings title to the side of peasant, where a cockney peddler aids my lord, the chorewoman is lifted by my lady. A family will consist of 4 children who grow up to differ in temperament, intelligence and diligence. They wander far away to greatness, poverty, disgrace and normalcy. Comes grief to the parental roof and from afield return the four to stand intact and united in the common sorrow, on common ground. A blessing in England from out the smoke and debris.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Washington's thrills consist for the most part in being startled, enlightened, angered, or pleased, by the reports from the White House or the doings on Capitol Hill. The President's Birthday Ball, spread over the city and attended by more than forty thousand, offered relaxation to a community somewhat satiated by red hot war news and speculation as to what we are going to do about it. A touch of romance was given the celebration by the case of a girl from the West Virginia hills, lured to the city by a forged invitation to dine with the President, and later introduced to all the festivities of the occasion.

Although Washington lent itself liberally to gaiety and romance, the let up was of short duration. Mr. Hitler's latest hemorrhage of threats soon turned thought into channel. As might have been expected, the whitewash brush was applied liberally to the Fatherland, followed by the assurance that, if necessary, all Europe would rise in its own defense against alleged oppression by the American continent, a sentiment no doubt shared piously by the Poles and Finns.

Perhaps the most ominous note in Hitler's remarks was the notice that ships bearing aid to England would be torpedoed. With the United States apparently committed by sympathy to help Brittain, and likely to be committed by definite legislative enactment, the consequences of launching a single Nazi torpedo are unpleasant to contemplate.

The Washington Times-Herald is entitled to credit for a suggestion which, regardless of its correctness, is ingenious and probing. In the old days of secret diplomacy, a nation indulging in rash talk could back down and still save its face. Nowadays, matters of diplomacy and international policy are spread world wide by radio, and having once put the hand to the plow, it is not easy to turn back.

Hitler's seeds of warning seem to have fallen upon stony ground, so far as Congress is concerned. The House Foreign Affairs Committee has given its sanction to the Lend and Lease Bill, with a few qualifications which the Administration is said to approve. Relief ships shall not be conveyed by naval vessels of the United States. Reports to Congress shall be made at least every three months. The powers conferred on the President shall be terminated on June 30, 1943. No means of defense shall be disposed of unless specified army and navy heads have been consulted.

It is said that defense aims include the speedy construction of a navy capable of handling matters in both the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. The Senate has passed a bill making more than nine hundred million dollars available for the building of several hundred warships of the lower classes, and for the promotion of shipbuilding. That the trend of thought, and indeed of action, is in the direction of getting a navy together as quickly as possible, is indicated by the rumor that the United States is willing to dicker for the ownership of the battleship on which Lord Halifax, the new British Minister came to this country.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House has approved plans to raise the debt limit to sixty-five billion dollars. As to the way in which the money is to be collected, future issues of government securities at present exempt, will have to bear a tax. Recalling satisfactory expedients of the World War days, bonds and certificates of indebtedness may be issued. Even the man with a good heart full of good will and a quarter in his pocket, can do his part, since savings stamps of twenty-five cent denomination can be had for the asking, of course plus the quarter.

Turning from the arts of war to the arts of peace, which have not been quite extinguished after all, the Post Office Department has set a rolling a ten ton truck, fitted out like a railway mail car, in which letters will be sorted as the vehicle proceeds along the highway. Fast working crews will see to it that a letter posted on the truck in one village, will be dropped off a few minutes later, at another fifteen or twenty miles away.

LEGISLATION AIMED AT CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT

INDIANAPOLIS — Republican bills submitted to the present General Assembly are designed to carry out platform pledges which the people accepted by their votes and are "sound in policy and 100 per cent constitutional," Arthur L. Gilliom, former Attorney General of Indiana, asserts in a statement to the G. O. P. joint legislative steering committee made public by that body here today. Mr. Gilliom is chairman of the legal committee assisting the steering committee.

"Let no patriotic legislator be dissuaded from his bounden duty by false cries of 'unconstitutionality' and ridiculous walls about 'stripping' the Governor of the unwarranted powers heaped on him by the reorganization act of 1933," Mr. Gilliom said in his communication. "The Republican bills do not touch a single power given the Governor by the constitution and do, indeed, confer on him considerable power by statute on top of all the powers and duties fixed for him by the constitution.

"Few realize how completely the Legislature abdicated to the Governor in the reorganization act of 1933," the statement continued, "or the extent to which power was lodged in the Governor in that act. Most people, including the present Democratic Governor, know enough about it however, to realize that the public interest required that the act must be repealed; that the Legislature must resume its own constitutional functions, and that there must be a redistribution of administrative power and responsibility."

The statement recounted how the 1933 act "vested in the Governor for the first time in the history of the state the power to hire and fire at will each and all of the thousands of appointive officers and employees of the state," and how it permitted the chief executive to shift boards, departments and commissions at his whim.

"In many instances the effect of these assignments and transfers was to put the administration of the many hundreds of named statutes under someone other than the Legislature itself had named for their administration," Mr. Gilliom said.

"This was a palpable device to make the Governor supreme and to meet the contingency that might arise if one of the two-year constitutional officers on any of the boards of departments might become Republican," when he could over night "transfer everything from them to other departments or all to the executive department where he alone was king.

"There is nothing comparable to this one-man rule scheme in America—not even Louisiana under Huey Long went that far. Under this dictatorial set-up flourished favoritism, Two Per Cent corruption, graft, waste and personal political ambitions of Governors.

"It is this pernicious and un-American act that the Republican platform bills promise to repeal. It is to guarantee that repeal and a safer distribution of administrative power that nearly 900,000 serious voters last November marched to the polls and elected Republican majorities in both Houses of the Legislature and all but one on the state ticket.

"The Republican party is now responsible for the kind of laws Indiana is to have. These laws must be properly administered to produce good government. To insure their proper administration the responsible party must take over a substantial part of the legislatively-created offices and jobs.

"This is not sordid patronage; it is simply equipping the party with the necessary tools to give the promised decent and good government."

THE Importance of Having Fun . . . the belief that light-heartedness is a balance wheel—this is the American Way of Living.

Annually, the Nation spends nearly one billion, six hundred million dollars for theatre and other amusement admissions, or twice as much as the domestic electric bill . . .*

And no one begrudges the money.

Interesting, too, to compare these two American essentials this way: For every single dollar spent in the homes of the Nation for Electric Servants, on the job day and night at the snap of a switch, we spend two dollars for amusements.

ELECtricity is indeed Cheap.

LOG of the UNITED STATES MARINES

TRAGEDY OF THE MAINE

Twinkling lights flashed fitfully over the waters of Havana Harbor where the U. S. S. Maine lay peacefully at anchor on the night of February 15, 1898.

Over the quiet reaches of the harbor came the musical notes of "Taps," destined never again to be sounded by the young marine who was performing one of his last official duties for the day.

Suddenly a terrific explosion all but disintegrated the vessel. Death, agony, horror, flames, smoke, gas and water took their toll as the forward part of the ship catapulted upward in a searing flame. More than 250 men lost their lives.

In the moments that followed, discipline was superb. Every able-bodied member of the crew did his part in rescuing those not fatally injured, even though threatening flames and minor explosions still hararssed the warship.

Private William Anthony, of the Marine Detachment, at the time of the explosion was the orderly of Captain Charles D. Sigsbee, who was in his cabin. The lights were instantly obscured and the compartment filled with smoke. There was immediate and intense darkness.

Although he knew that the ship was about to sink, Anthony groped his way through the darkened passage of the doomed vessel to find his captain. Instinct urged him to seek his own safety. The call to duty proved stronger.

Eventually he stumbled into Captain Sigsbee in the darsness and said: "Sir, I have to report that the ship has been blown up and is sinking." He remained at the captain's side until the ship was abandoned.

Small wonder that Captain Sigsbee wrote later that Anthony's action was a noble one that he considered an honor to call to the attention of the Navy Department.

WELFARE BILLS PROVIDE ADDED HELP TO NEEDY

INDIANAPOLIS — In vigorous support of its program concerning the present welfare set-up in Indiana, the joint legislative steering committee of the Republican majorities in the General Assembly today issued the following statement:

"The program which is now in process of passage in the Indiana General Assembly greatly strengthens the state department of welfare and its services to the aged, to the blind and to the children of this state who are in that class of unfortunates coming within the welfare laws of Indiana.

"In the first place our program provides for the selection of a strictly non-political board. The program maintains all the present good provisions of existing welfare laws. We are providing for an increase in the limit allowable for old-age assistance. We are transferring into the welfare department, where such duties rightfully belong, such important agencies as those handling the selection of people who receive federal money from WPA, the Civilian Conservation Corps and the National Youth Administration. We are transferring to the one agency best equipped to handle these federal funds such important duties as the distribution of surplus commodities and providing ample funds therefor.

"In short, we are consolidating all relief matters except those now being well handled by township trustees to one great agency where duplication of effort, double investigations and other unsatisfactory conditions can be ironed out to the benefit of both the state, the federal government and the recipient of assistance and aid."

MARINES AND MUSKETS

Accuracy of rifle fire has always been a specialty of the U. S. Marines, who have won their full share of prizes for skill on the rifle range and elsewhere.

But it is a far cry from the modern high-powered infantry rifle to the old-fashioned muskets which also were used to good effect by the sea soldiers sailing frigates.

A wide variety of small arms were used in the early days of the last century, including the musket, pistol, boarding-pike, cutlass, bayonet, knife, dirk or tomahawk. Each weapon had its use in the days when war vessels often fought at close quarters.

The musket however, was the weapon of the marines. It was usually of the flint-lock, muzzle-loading, smooth-bore type and fired a ball of from one to two ounces. It was fairly accurate at 100 yards, could inflict a fatal wound at 200 yards, and had diminishing degrees of effectiveness up to a quarter-mile.

While loading a musket the sea soldier had much more to do than to insert a cartridge clip and manipulate the bolt, as is the case with most of the infantry weapons today.

In those days he had to bite off the bullet from the top of the cartridge so as to expose the powder. He then sprinkled a little of the powder into the pan of the gun snapped the pan to, dropped the cartridge down the muzzle rammed it home with the bullet on top, and then took aim and fired.

There were numerous occasions when the musketry fire of the marines proved to be an important factor in the winning of sea battles. Their marksmanship was highly praised by J. Fenimore Cooper and a number of other naval writers.

OUR SCHOOL NOTES IN GENERAL

The St. Joe High School basket ball team journeyed to Mulberry, Indiana last Friday where they defeated the Mulberry team by the lopsided score of 49-26.

St. Joe held their opponents scoreless during the first quarter, but scored only six points themselves. During the second quarter Curie and Fetters each scored several times from the field bringing the score at the half up to 23-11. During the last half Baker scored a total of eleven points which with fifteen additional points by his team mates lengthened the lead to 49-26 at the final whistle. While Curie, Baker and Fetters led in scoring, their team mates played a fine defensive game.

We are kept busy this month acknowledging famous birthdays and on February 22, we again ring up the curtain on the anniversary of a man who achieved greatness through a forceful energy and a sweeping personality, who persevered with patience to win freedom for his native land. Such a man was George Washington. As historians have pointed out, this was a character who grasped the oportunity to build and design a structure that developed into a glorious nation. He led an army of unprepared men, but instilled in his followers the principles of erecting a firm foundation upon which to build the house "America." With his foresight for the future and his appreciation for the grand scale upon which the men of his age had to work, came forth this superstructure.

Washington was only a youth when he served as Commander-inChief of Virginia's army. He had lived his life with a code of morals and manners fixed by himself, and this served to aid him in the guiding of his fellows at such an early age—21 years. Washington was a self-taught man who led a colorful life. He fought Indians in the backwoods, was a surveyor who pioneered in the new land and a man who later became the president who overcame problems which tested his ability but found him worthy of the great office. George Washington is recognized in the history of the making of our land as one of the bulwarks of the United States.

The next home game will be played Saturday night with Hamilton. St. Joe meets Woodburn at Woodburn Friday night.

Mr. Donald Stanley of Indianapolis, has been hired to fill the vacancy caused when Miss Lucille Leffel resigned here to accept a position in Chester Township, Wabash County. Mr. Stanley has taught in the school at Greenwood, Indiana, and prior to coming to St. Joe had been employed as laboratory technician in the Superior Laboratories at Indianapolis.

On Saturday Mr. Wicoff took the boys on a tour of the Purdue University Campus. They saw the experimental farms, the dairy barns and were conducted through the creamery by the man in charge who explained in detail the various processes of manufacture of butter and ice cream. At the armory Mr. Wicoff explained the various mechanized war pieces there. After visiting the Purdue airport the boys went to the new Music Hall where they tested the unusually fine acoustics of that building. With no electrical amplification, an ordinary voice is heard clearly in the last row of the auditorium. which has a seating capacity slightly larger that Music Hall Radio City. The athletic and recreational activities of the large field house were of particular interest.

On Saturday evening, the boys saw Chicago U. basket ball team make the supposedly superior Purdue team come from behind in both halves of the game before they finally won the game.

CHICKEN PIE SUPPER

Make plans now to attend the Chicken Pie Supper at the Spencerville Methodist Church basement in honor of Washington's birthday Saturday, February 22. From 5 o'clock on. 7t2.

The Home Economics Class of the local school served the Lions Club dinner Mondey evening to fourteen members and they did splendid. A Washington program is being planned by Dale Wicoff, head of the program committee.

AMONG THE SICK FOLKS OF ST. JOE THIS WEEK

There seems to be a great number of our citizens on the sick list the past week or so and The News is trying to report the latest on all those we know of.

Miss Ruth Ann Hart, 4½-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hart, is in the Sanders hospital recovering from an appendix operation on last Thursday night. She had been ill a few days and was thought to be suffering with a bowel infection but later developed into appendicitis. When they operated they discovered the appendix was ruptured. Her mother is at her bedside caring for her.

Mr. Laney Gee, who has been poorly for some time, remains weak and is not recovering as desired.

Sam Armstrong has been suffering with dizziness but he is improving. His wife, Lulu, remains in the Sanders hospital where she has been for several weeks being treated for an injured right hip as a result of falling on icy sidewalk in St. Joe some weeks ago when returning home from a meeting of the Culture Club. Sh is getting along as well as can be expected.

Mrs. William Randall is feeling fine again after being confined to her bed for the past two months. She sits up a portion of the time and is able to eat at table and more than that, she jokes in her usual manner, and that means she will soon be running the household again.

Mrs. J. P. Buckingham has taken the past week off and has demanded the close attention of Mr. Buckingham who seems to know just what to do in the case of her serious attacks, she has suffered a great deal but is now feeling able to sit in a chair for a short period during the day. She will not be down long because her ambition will force her to be about, at least we hope so.

Mrs. Mary Shuff remains about the same and is being cared for by Mrs. John Hart at the Donald Hart home, during the absence of Mrs. Hart.

Orange Herrick is imporving fine from his stroke some months ago. He was in town Tuesday and is feeling good and hopes he will improve with the coming of Spring.

Mrs. Malinda Shilling is reported as some better although only up long enough to eat her meals. She has been with her son, Howard and family for the past three weeks.

Mrs. Constance Maurer is assisting in the care of Mrs. Ernest Johnson at her home north of Concord. Mrs Johnson is slowly improving and her friends all hope she may have a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Elnora Blue was able to return to her home here over Sunday but is very week as yet. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wade called on her in Fort Wayne Monday and found that her trip to St. Joe did not do her any harm.

Mr. Reuben Koch of north of Concord is reported on the sick list.

MRS. CHARLES COOK DIES AT 42 FROM PARALYTIC STROKE

Mrs. Nellie H. Cook, lifelong resident of DeKalb county died early Sunday afternoon at her home, two miles north of St. Joe, from a paralytic stroke suffered on Friday night of last week. Born April 17, 1899, in Jackson township to Mr. and Mrs. Clement Evard, Mrs. Cook spent all but one of her forty-two years in DeKalb county.

She was a member of the Newville Church of Christ. Mrs. Cook was married April 4, 1920, to Charles O. Cook, who survives.

Also surviving are her mother, Mrs. Clement Evard of New Haven; six sons, Walter Cook, Auburn; Robert Cook of near St. Joe, and Wayne, Donald, Carl and Fred at home; three daughters, Violet, Joyce and Mary, at home; three sisters, Mrs. Jessie Clack, Auburn; Mrs. Belle Anderson of Waynedale and Mrs. Fay Nodine of one-half mile east of Auburn and three grandchildren.

Services were held at 1 P. M. Tuesday at the home and at 1:30 P. M. at the Church of Christ, Newville. Rev. Nice officiating. Burial was made in Scipio cemetery, ten miles south-east of St. Joe.

CONSERVATION ACTIVITIES OUTLINED AT MEETING

The Conservation Club met at the Town Hall Thursday evening and reports of interest to club members were made. The treasurer reported a total balance of $189.77 with $69.81 being from the fish rearing pond fund. A special committee composed of H. H. Squires, F. E. Johnson, and M. E. Storer were instructed to choose sight and make reports to the club.

The 1941 pheasant rearing committee is composed of Walter Keesler, Jack Sechlar and F. R. Leighty.

The club voted unanimously against Bill No. 65 which would allow all persons over 60 years to be exempt from purchasing hunting and fishing license.

A fox drive will be on next Saturday and four captains were chosen namely, Paul Carpenter, Robert Sechler, Leoral Hart and Milo Frain. The hunters will carry guns, meet at St. Joe Saturday morning for 9:30 start, and here will be divided and instructed as to plan of operation. Territories have been chosen and everything is set. No children will be allowed as in former drives.

Mrs. Helen Baughman and Mrs. Walter Cook and children spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. Foster Gee. Gerald Gee returned to Ft. Benjamin Harrison Thursday afternoon after a short visit here with his parents.

Mrs. Ruth Davis spent several days visiting friends in St. Joe on her return from Mount Vernon, Ohio, where she attended the Capping Exercises of the student nurses at the Mount Vernon Hospital-Sanitarium training school where her daughter, Minta, is enrolled, as a student. It was a very lovely and impressive ceremony ending their three months probation period, and beginning their regular nursing activities in their new caps and uniforms. Mrs. Davis reports that her son, Arthur, has a good position as chemist for an oil company in Chicago, and is planning to attend college at night, and that Dick is in Michigan on a farm. While hese Mrs. Davis slipped on the ice and injured her ankle and was laid up for several days which accounted for her not being able to see all of her friends, as she was due at Logansport for a short visit with relatives before returning to La-Grange, Illinois.

There used to be a few fellows in St. Joe who wouldn't have their hair cut in the Winter for fear of catching cold.

More people than ever realize the truth in "There is no place like home."

One man says the reason he won't go to church is because he was married in one and it would upset him too much.

Have you noticed how many fellows can put in a whole day's work in the morning if they know they will get the afternoon off?

Electric COOKERY IS FAST

With all the lays we have to memorize, you can understand why a man forgets some of them now and then.

A St. Joe man says he has overcome superstition and would like to own a bunch of $2 bills.

The older a man becomes the more he stresses his ailments and the less he speaks of his past pleasures.

One of the funniest and yet the saddest of suggestions, was for the United States of Europe.

"Boneparte declared his defeat was due to bad luck—the eight of spades," says A. E. Coburn, "and many of us would like to see somebody stack the deck on Hitler."

THEY'LL LIKE IT

Many proclaim New York City to be an over-grown country town, others say it is a hick town in spite of its population. Anyhow, the big city is going to really go country this next September, for they are now making plans to bring to New York City a real old-fashioned country fair, with all the trimmings! It will be held in Madison Square Garden and there will be awards for produce, side shows with all the back drops used in country fairs all over the nation. Since this big city hasn't had a fair of this type since 1897, they will be putting on a show that will be different than anything happening in that area for some time. It will be an event for the younger generation, many of whom have no idea of what we mean by science displays, 4-H Club displays, blue ribbons for pickles and pumpkins and pigs, juggling acts, hybrid corn and handwork contests. Those city slickers will get a thrill over something we have to enjoy in DeKalb county each Fall.

THEY COME FORTH

We don't want to be put in the position of a southern editor who, at the age of 70, recently published an editorial on the front page of his paper, appealing to his subscribers to pay up all indebtedness to him in order that he might undergo a needed operation. Not having the required amount for the surgery but with enough outstanding which would meet the bill the editor made his plea. He used his pen to pay for his operation. That is the way all editors pay for their grocery bills rent and taxes. The subscriber pays his bill. Thank heavens this editor doesn't need to call for money for an operation. We feel if it were necessary many of our subscribers would pay up their past due accounts with us. Folks around St. Joe may be careless and forgetful, but they are on hand if the call comes.

NEEDLESS CASES

The woman who shot her husband because he worked her as a horse to the plow, brings to mind other killings that were for even less grounded reasons. Some are imagined grievances, others are real. A slaying because a roommate used his toothbrush and comb, comes the question of why so many guns are lying around ready for use in quarrels and disputes. When temper arises a gun seems to always be at hand to settle the issue. Our courts of justice are perhaps too lenient in many cases and lead the public to believe that paroles and laws are easy attained or sidestepped. We live in a peaceful community here in St. Joe, but even in our town there is romance, love, jealousy and hate, and where there are emotions there is danger of loss of control. Work on your emotions, the courts work on the laws for the guilty and the cutting down of guns in the possession of civilians.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

A hundred years ago, news travelled so slowly that battles sometimes were fought after peace had been declared. In such remote times column writers and commentators had a chance to render a substantial service, and could put something in print with reasonable certainty that if they missed fire, the reading public would forget their mistaken surmises and prophecies before the ultimate truth became known. Those days have gone, never to return. A decent respect for matters of deep and universal concern demands that reference should be made to the Lend-Lease Bill. Prudence restrains comment to the remark that Congress has handled no more important affair in a quarter century. The kaleidoscopic changes on the Lend-Lease front make the commentator's wisdom of today the foolishness of tomorrow.

Federal housing got a good start at the post, but slowed down considerably in the back stretch. It is alleged that although appropriations were made for 68 thousand homes, less than two thousand have been completed, about 35 thousand being under construction. The delay may have been caused by internal discussions as to which agency of the government should have the say regarding the building. In any event, the lack of progress became a thorn in the President's side. It is said that the White House has called for a report on the entire situation, weekly statements as to what is being done, and periodically issued lists of the names of those government organizations which are lukewarm or leisurely. In all probability hereafter the sound of the saw and the hammer will be heard more loudly in the land.

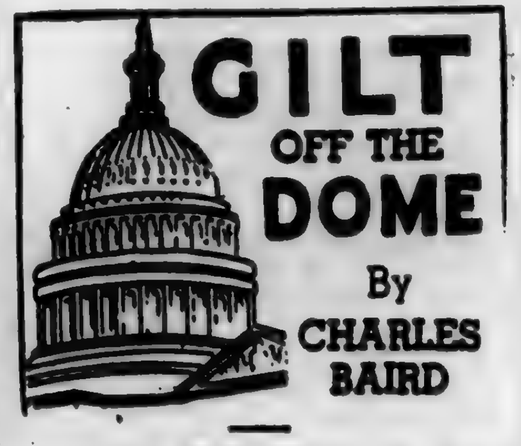
Last Spring, the Walter-Logan Bill took a trip from the Capitol to the White House, and returned with a veto. Its purpose was to provide a tribunal having power to review the rulings of bureaus of the government. More definitely, and in the language of a Representative: "The greatest need is to have somebody a complaint can be made to, aside from the superior of the person complained about." To furnish a measure which will accomplish the desired end, and at the same time stand in no danger of having its head lopped off by the President, is a task which Congress has laid out for itself during the present session.

In the whirl of events, the Dies Committee has been almost forgotten. Having gone broke a few weeks ago, it may be said to be living, but not in the best of health. The Dies investigation, though not without bitter opponents, made a general and popular appeal. In most quarters there will be satisfaction concerning the report that un-American activities are to be looked into for another year at least, even though an expenditure of a hundred and fifty thousand dollars is involved.

Scotland is supposed to be a country in which money is made to go a long way. A dollar spent by Greece has to give a good account of itself also, it seems. The Greeks politely decline to consider a tender of planes by the Navy of the United States, on the ground that none but the latest and best machines are desired. No doubt the Greeks intend to pay for what they get, and really may do so, but the incident somehow reminds one of the bad manners that result in looking a gift horse in the mouth.

The operator of a Nazi plane reports that dive bombing put him under no particular strain, a piece of reassuring information which England no doubt will be glad to hear. When a boy spearing frogs with a pitch fork on the bank of a stream was asked what he was doing, he said: "Having fun." To which the questioner replied: "It may be fun for you, but it's hard times for the frogs."

A good deal of sympathy has been dedicated to the King of England. Poor old Petain, taxed at the sunset beyond his strength, and perhaps beyond anyone's strength, presents a saddening spectacle. Prejudice aside, the Duce has strongest claim upon pity, in that, added to all else, he has made a fool of himself. Virtually brushed out of Africa, and reduced to a Man Friday for Hitler, and an inefficient one at that, his talk about restoring the ancient Roman empire sounds even more ridiculous today than it did when his chief claim to military prowess lay in the fact that Italian guns were too much for the clubs of Abyssinia.



GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

CAPITOL CHIT CHAT: The House Office Building has a ministerial shoeshine boy. His name is the Rev. Johnson Jones and he sings hymns as he travels slowly down the corridors seeking business. The unusuality of his approach and his ministerial appearance inspired a reporter for the Washington Star to give him a story recently, duly embellished with his photograph as he worked away at a pair of Congressional shoes in the House barber shop.

THE BARBERS are colored in all the shops connected with the Capitol, House and Senate office buildings. The charwomen are Negroes and do a first class job of it keeping the offices neat and tidy. They begin work as early as 5 A. M. and by 8:30 when offices are supposed to be open have completed their sweeping, moping, vacuum cleaning and dusting.

WASHINGTON is a cosmopolite city. People from every part of the globe are here. The legations represent a wide variety of thought language and appearance. It is a colorful sight on Massachusetts and Connecticut Avenues where the Flags of Nations flutter in the vagrant and, just now, chilly breezes. Those who have attended say an ambassadorial party looks for all the world like the multicolored panoply of a circus performance. They must be a grand and glorious sight.

BACK HOME in Indiana the month of January is sit-by-the-fire season. The foung folks usually are worn out from the Christmas and New Year's celebrations, and the old folks go into hibernation to read that book they've been intending to for years. Or so it used to be.

JANUARY in Washington, however, is the most brilliant social month of the year. Congress goes into session. White House and diplomatic receptions crowd one upon the other. Screen and stage stars come by plane and train to share in the publicity of an inaugural or a Birthday Ball. Every night is Saturday and every morning is the "morning after." At least this is what the society writers would have you believe. We can't say for sure because we're still sit-by-the-fire Hoosiers, and all we know is what we read in the papers.

THE INAUGURAL grand stands in front of the Capitol are still in the process of being torn down. Built at a cost of several thousand dollars, the stands were two months in the building. They were used on Inaugural Day for exactly thirty minutes. Now they're offering large quantities of second-hand lumber for sale—cheap. First come first served.

THOSE 100 bright new cars which were used in the inaugural parade by State Governors and their parties also are being offered for sale—at a reduction of $125. "This is an opportunity that comes only once every four years," the advertisement reads. The souvenir inaugural license plates are thrown in as an added attraction.

HERE is a salutation to end all salutations. It appears in a letter from a Fourth District citizen: "To Congressman George Gillie and Raymond Willis, greetings in Jesus Dear Name and for His Glory, and to all the Congressmen and Senators, and Representatives, and all others concerned." Guess that just about takes in everybody.

BEFORE the end of 1941, four boys from the Fourth District will receive appointments to the Naval Academy at Annapolis—the largest number ever appointed in a single year. One will enter the class in 1941, while three will begin their training in 1942.

USUALLY a District has but one Annapolis vacancy a year. The Fourth District however, has three Midshipmen in the 1942 graduating class, which means that three vacancies will be created at once. In the name of national defense, Congress has just voted to enlarge the Naval Academy by alloting an additional Annapolis appointment to each Congressional District. This special vacacy must be filled within the next six weeks.

A CHALLENGE is raised by this unusual situation. Are there four young men in the Fourth District, between the ages of 16 and 20, mentally and physically qualified to pass the stiff Annapolis entrance requirements. Congressman George W. Gillie hopes so, because it will be his responsibility to see that the vacancies are filled. Get your applications in now boys. Congressman Gillie will send you all the necessary information.

MORE EFFICIENCY ONLY AIM FOR G. O. P. PROGRAM

INDIANAPOLIS—Expected passage by the Senate by the end of the third full week of the 82nd General Assembly of the House measure repealing the 1933 McNutt government reorganization law will have paved the way for enactment of the most comprehensive government decentralization program in Indiana's history.

Veteran legislative observers and students of government, in expressing approval of the G.O.P. platform measures, all of which have now passed at least one house of the assembly, predict that operation of the laws will provide a smooth-running governmental machinery with a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of partisan politics.

Repeal of the McNutt reorganization act, basic bill in the Republican decentralization program, was accomplished with no political fireworks. Both parties were agreed the 1933 law was fundamentally unsound, and its repeal was advocated by Governor Henry F. Schricker in his first message to the Legislature.

Following repeal of that law, the Republicans centered interest on the institutions bill which takes their control from one man—the Governor—and lodges operation of each institution with individual bipartisan boards of four members. Two members each will be named to the individual institution boards by the Republican Lieutenant Governor, Charles M. Dawson, and the Democratic Governor. The individual boards, in turn will employ the immediate directing heads of the institution and will be responsible for the appointment, with approval of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor, of all employes. These two officials are prohibited from naming employes in the institutions or suggesting employment. Observers have pointed out that the division of appointing power for the boards assures real party representation, through high-grade men and women, in the operation of the institutions.

Set Up Four Departments

One important effect of the institutions act, it was pointed out, will be removal of possibility of repetition of "cracking down" on institution employes for contributions to party campaign funds. It was revealed recently in the report of the treasurer of the Democratic state committee that more than 1,450 employes in 17 state institutions had been forced to contribute to that party's campaign chest in amounts ranging from 25 cents to $135.

What might be termed a companion bill to the repeal act is the decentralization bill which replaces the present eight departments of government with four major departments. They are the department of state, department of treasury, department of audit and control and the department of works and commerce. All divisions of government excepting the state highway department, the executive, the state police and the welfare department, will be operated under these four departments.

Evidence that the decentralization bill is in no sense a "ripper" or "patronage grab" measure is given in the fact that minority representation is given in the board of each department, Governor Schricker having membership on each of the four boards. The other members are the four elective state officers, each of whom holds membership on two of the four boards. Operation of this law will restore authority in government to the elective officers, which means elimination of dictatorial one-man rule and return of government to the people.

The method by which the decentralization bill was devised leaves no doubt in the minds of its supporters as to its ability to withstand attack in the courts—action which has been threatened by partisan opponents. An array of outstanding legal talent was retained in an advisory capacity by the Republican joint legislative steering committee, all of whom agreed the measure is not only workable but constitutional. Among those attorneys who aided in its framing were Arthur L. Gilliom, Fred C. Gause, Joseph J. Daniels, Albert Ward and Frederick E. Matson, all of Indianapolis, and Denver C. Harlan of Richmond and Eli F. Seebirt of South Bend.

Leave Governor Powers

Another bill which restores power to the people is that which returns the office of Attorney General to an elective post. A 1933 law took the election of that office from the people and made it appointive by the Governor. Republican legislators are of the opinion that an important office such as the attorney general, whose opinions have the effect of law until tested by the courts, should be chosen by the people themselves. Under this bill an Attorney General would be elected in 1942 to serve two years, and in 1944 the officer chosen would serve four years concurrently with the Governor's term. In the interim an Attorney General would be chosen by an appointing board to act as legal counsel for the state.

In the introduction of an anti-nepotism bill Republicans seek to prevent repetition of the practice in the past eight years of filling public payrolls with members of an entire family. Indiana's anti-nepotism act was repealed in 1937 after M. Clifford Townsend was inaugurated Governor and appointed his son as head of the state livestock licensing division, in violation of the act. A Democratic Legislature promptly repealed the law to legalize the Governor's action.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

ADVERTISED SEED MUST BE TESTED AND TAGGED

The Indiana Seed Law requires that all seed sold for seeding purposes in Indiana shall be tested and tagged with official seed analysis tags when sold by seed dealers and by farmers who advertise their seed for sale or who deliver the seed away from the farm where it was grown.

Farmers are exempt from labelling their seed only when the seed has not been advertised for sale by newspaper or circular and when it is sold on the premises of the producer according to H. R. Kraybill, state seed commissioner, with headquarters at Purdue University.

The Indiana Seed Law, now going into its 20th year of operation, is designated to provide the buyers of agricultural seeds with accurate analysis of the lots of seed offered for sale in Indiana. Farmers who produce seed are only partially exempt from the labelling requirements of the law since those who advertise seed for sale or who deliver it off their farms are regarded as "vendors of seed."

In a few instances farmers have had the mistaken idea that they cannot sell seed if they advertise it or deliver it away. Mr. Kraybill points out that anyone can legally sell seed at any time and place if it carries proper official Indiana seed analysis tags completely and accurately filled out to describe the seed.

Attempts are made to evade responsibility for labelling seed under the Indiana Seed Law by declaring in an advertisement that the material is "suitable for seed" or some such statement. The wording in the seed law covering this point reads as follows: "Except as otherwise provided—every lot—of agricultural seed containing one pound or more which is sold offered or exposed for sale FOR SOWING OR SEEDING PURPOSES—" shall be labelled. The purpose for which the seed is to be used, therefore, determines whether or not it should be labelled. If the advertisement mentions anything indicating seeding purposes labelling is necessary.

Bill to Give Local Control of Alcohol Beverage

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 10—Carrying out a 1940 Republican platform pledge and granting complete local autonomy in the control of the alcoholic beverage industry, a bill was introduced in the General Assembly today completely overhauling Indiana's liquor control laws.

Aim of the bill, its authors assert, is to decentralize alcoholic beverages control as called for by the Republican state platform and to divorce the alcoholic beverages industry and politics from each other. The bill repeals the present statute on liquor control, terminates the tenure of all officials and employes of the present alcoholic beverages commission, and presents new legislation on the entire subject, setting up a new administrative system in line with the 1940 G. O. P. liquor plank.

All oustanding permits are continued in force, under the new bill, for the periods for which they were issued, subject to the revocation and suspension provisions of the new measure. It provides that a person who ever has been engaged in the alcoholic beverages industry is ineligible to any job created by the bill, and no person who has an office or job under the bill may engage in the business.

All definitions used in the present law are incorporated in the new bill.

Dealing with retail control of the liquor industry, the bill provides that in all counties except Marion county, retail permits are to be issued by county boards of three members to be appointed by the county council, and all permits are subject to suspension and revocation by the county board. Compensation of the local boards is the same as under the present law.

The bill provides that if a permit is issued or denied on a divided vote of the county board, either the applicant or five citizens of the county may appeal to a state board which is set up by the measure. Action of the state board on the appeal is final, and all hearings on the appeal are to be conducted in the county seat from which the appeal is taken.

Retail permits in Marion county are to be issued by the state board, to be known as the Indiana Alcoholic Beverages Control Board. No county board is provided for in Marion county.

Retail permit fees are to be distributed to school taxing units and to cities and towns on the same basis as under the present law, but in all counties but Marion they will be distributed by the county treasurer, and in Marion county they will be paid to the state and distributed back to the county as under the present law.

The bill retains the provision of the present law which prohibits selling hard liquor at retail in cities and towns under 5,000 population unless permitted by ordinance, and gives authority to county boards to make regulations carrying out that part of the bill pertaining to retailing of liquor.

Drinking places outside of incorporated towns and cities are prohibited except in case of clubs or hotels, but retail permits to sell malt beverages by the package may be issued to stores in unincorporated territory, and spirituous beverages may be sold by the package by drug stores located within a mile of cities of the first or second classes. Fees for retail permits remain the same as under present law, excepting for a lowering of the fee for retailing beer by the package. Present fee is $200 to $150, and the new fee provided is $100 to $25, bringing them in line with present fees for selling spirituous beverages by the package.

Provisions of the present law relative to retailing of alcoholic beverages are strengthened, some of the new provisions prohibiting dancing in rooms where alcoholic beverages are sold by the drink unless a special permit is obtained, permitting dancing under rules promulgated by the county board. The new bill also prohibits women working behind bars and another provision prohibits women being served at bars while seated on stools or other seating devices.

A feature of the new bill is that retailers are given the right to purchase from manufacturers or wholesalers, and discrimination by manufacturers or wholesalers against retailers who wish to purchase for cash is prohibited. Bonds are not required from retailers, but retailers are made liable for damages to anyone who sustains injury or property damage through unlawful acts of the retailer or his employes and a lien on the retailer's property is provided where a judgment is obtained.

The state board will issue permits to manufacturers, wholesalers and salesmen as well as industrial alcohol, dining car and boat permits.

The state board will be composed of four members, one of whom must be a resident of Marion county, two to be named by the Governor and two by the Lieutenant Governor, at annual salaries of $5,000. The board may suspend or revoke permits issued by it and its action is final.

The state board would name an excise administrator, at an annual salary of $5,000, who would be an ex-officio member of the board, with a vote only in case of a tie. He would be charged with collection of state excise tax and enforcement of the tax provisions of the law. Should the four board members fail to agree on an administrator appointment, then he would be named by a board consisting of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor and the State Treasurer.

Permit fees charged by the state board and the excise tax remain the same as under present law, with the fees going to the state general fund. Present law requirements which were labeled monopolistic, such as minimum financial requirements, are eliminated.

The bill would permit wholesalers to handle malt beverages, or malt beverages and vinous beverages, or spirituous beverages, or spirituous beverages and vinous beverages.

Carrying out a platform pledge, the state excise enforcement division is eliminated, and in its place is established not less than six nor more than twelve investigators to be appointed by the attorney general, whose duty it would be to travel the state for law enforcement purposes and to report all law violation to prosecutors, the attorney general or to appropriate boards. Their salaries would range up to $3,600 a year. All peace officers, including the state police, are charged with reporting law violations to prosecutors, and county boards are authorized to suspend or revoke permits, with judicial review provided in case of revocation.

New offenses created in the bill are: discrimination by manufacturers and wholesalers against retailers who wish to purchase for cash; contributions by anyone in the alcoholic beverages industry for political purposes and solicitation of contributions from anyone in the industry, for political purposes. Persons holding public or political positions would be prohibited, under penalty, from representing applicants for permits.

Provisions in the bill granting greater authority to local communities carries out two pledges of the Republican platform—that of decentralization of liquor control and greater home rule.

Another feature of the bill is the elimination of the 1 o'clock closing hour on Saturday night. The bill would require all places selling alcoholic beverages to close at 12 o'clock midnight each day in the week, and opening hour would be 6 a. m. All such places would be required to close on Sundays, Christmas day, and election days from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. Communities operating on daylight saving time would follow that time.

Greater representation by the people of the county would be given in the appointment by the county council of the county board members. The council would be required to consider all recommendations made to him by any civic or other organization or association in the county, and the appointees must be at least 30 years old, a freeholder in the county, a resident of the county for ten years last past, and of good moral character.

Those who aided in the preparation of the bill and others interested in the control and regulation of the alcoholic beverage industry predicted the act, when administered, would be a model of non-political, temperance regulation laws.

YOUNGSTERS ENJOY VALENTINE BIRTHDAY PARTY

On last Friday evening a birthday party was held for Jean Ulm at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ulm, west of town, when her Sunday School class with their teacher were invited to spend the evening.

At 5:30 a fine carry-in supper was enjoyed by all the guests, and plenty of ice cream and cake were served.

Games and contests were the entertainment for the evening and a valentine exchange was a feature. Before leaving each guest composed a valentine verse in honor of Miss Jean. All present had a jolly good time. Jean received several nice gifts besides a number of valentines.

Those present were: Marlyn and Margaret Wade, Carroll Wade, Nancy Monroe, Charles Freeburn, James Kinsey, Kenneth Roberts, Lynn Lake, Mary Ann Wiers, Jackie Zonker, Virginia Wilbern, Leona Mae Drake, Virginia and Jean Ulm, Mrs. Garth Shull and children, John and Geraldine, Mrs. F. B. Leighty, and the host and hostess and daughter, Rhoda Lee.

Mrs. Leslie Wilbern and Mr. Leighty furnished transportation and the class says "thank you" to both.

AMONG THE SICK FOLKS OF ST. JOE THIS WEEK

Mrs. John Gablick has been on the sick list for the past two weeks and is just now able to be about. With her old people to look after the Gablicks have had quite a task.

Mr. and Mrs. Thad Brown of east of of Newville are about again after a couple of weeks battle with the flu.

Earl Hodges of east of St. Joe has been laid up for the past three weeks with sciatic rheumatism, but is now able to be up a part of the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Delvin Armstrong and children, of Auburn, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ridgway and children, also of their father, in the same home. Mr. Armstrong is much improved this week also. For several days he was seeing green due to a kidney ailment but things have now returned to their normal color and Sam is out again. Mrs. Armstrong, who is confined to the Sanders hospital is improving although is compelled to remain on her back constantly, and will possibly be there for two weeks before returning to her home. Readers will remember that Mrs. Armstrong fell on the ice and injured her right hip.

Mrs. Hollis Dilley has been suffering the past several days from erysipelas, but has been reported as improving.

Mr. Clinton Lucas, who has been ill for some time, is now able to be about the house some with the aid of a chair for support.

Henry Benner is able to be out again after two weeks confinement to his home with influenza. Mr. Benner is foreman of Wabash track men.

Mrs. J. P. Buckingham is recovering slowly from her illness of the past two weeks, and is up some but without an appetite. This is unusual for her says her husband.

J. R. Shilling is reported as holding his own, and is not confined to his bed all of the time.

HATCHERY OPENING PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Last Saturday marked the opening of the Gerig & Son Chickeries in St. Joe, in the former garage building next to the building now owned by W. W. Zonker.

A complete remodeling of the building has been made and the installation of modern machinery for the grinding and mixing of their feeds.

In order that one may see to what extent the new owners have remodeled this place, one ought to call, as it is a delight for them to show you about.

Saturday started off with sunshine and continued all day making it possible for people from a great distance to be here at some time during the day. Everything had been planned for the pleasure of the guests even to a lunch at noon, pictures during the day, and men present to answer all manner of questions concerning the housing of chicks, brooding, treatment of diseases and the feeds.

The News bespeaks for the Gerig & Son Chickeries unbounded success in this new field.

SPENCER TWP. HOME BUREAU

At a late morning hour the president called the meeting to order and "The Agriculture outlook for 1941 and its relation to war abroad and defense at home," was given by Mrs. Zona Abel. At the noon hour all enjoyed a carry-in dinner.

The meeting proceeded by singing, "My Faith Looks Up To Thee." Roll call, "Something interesting about Lincoln or Washington." The secretary report and the song of the month, "I've Been Working On De Railroad." An interesting account of their trip to Purdue was given by Mrs. Ruth Baker and Mrs. Gladys DePew.

Twelve members, three visitors and two children were present. Two new members were added, Mrs. Mary Passnater and Mrs. Alva Hoover.

The next meeting will be held March 12, at the home of Mrs. Ila Kline.

Lanier Memorial has Growing Attraction for Indiana Tourists

LANIER MANSION AS SEEN FROM THE OHIO RIVER

The Lanier Memorial at Madison, one of six historical places maintained by the Department of Conservation as state memorials, has a growing attraction for tuorists, Frank N. Wallace acting commissioner of the Department of Conservation, reports.

Recognized as an outstanding example of the architecture of nearly a century ago and an authentic example of the furnishings of cultured homes of the period the Lainer Memorial is visited annually by scores of architects and writers interested in the furnishings. The mansion already has been included in a number of books about historic homes and the subject for many descriptive articles.

The stately three-story home was designed by Francis Costigan, a leading architect of the period, as a residence for James F. D. Lanier and was built about 1843. Lanier, a banker and public-spirited citizen already had served his adopted state in various capacities at that time. Twice he placed his personal fortune at the disposal of the state in times of financial stress and preserved its credit. The later years of his life were spent in New York.

The mansion became a state memorial in 1926 and has been restored and refurnished with many of the original possessions of the Lanier family. Like many of the homes of the period in Madison and other cities along the Ohio, the house faces the river with a columned porch overlooking a sweeping lawn, and forming an impressive sight from the decks of the river boats which still transport passengers and freight up and down the Ohio.

During 1940 as in the past years the visitor's register at the Memorial carries the signatures of residents of almost every one of the forty-eight states and from every part of Indiana. Total attendance during the past year was 13,608.

P. T. A. NEWS

The February meeting of the P. T. A. was held on Tuesday night. This program was made to conform with Americanism week, which is being observed throughout the United States at this time.

The American Legion and the High School Band assisted in the program. Walter Stump, well known Auburn attorney, gave the Americanism talk of the evening and stressed the fact that, the first thing a dictator government did was to destroy Christianity, thereby destroying the individual's rights.

Owing to the cold weather a small but appreciative group was in attendance.

SOME LOCAL BRIEFS

Letter paper and envelopes at News office.

A bill moving the driver's license deadline to March 1 from January 1 was advanced to second reading by the Indiana house of representatives.

The fox chase Saturday turned out to be a water haul. One captain, Paul Carpenter and his men failed to materialize thinking that this week was the time, hence the drive was a three-sided affair. Anyway they did not see any fox. Better luck next time, and may we hear from Paul next Saturday.

FIREMEN AND WIVES ENTERTAINED AT AKINS TEA ROOM

The members of the St. Joe Fire Department, and their wives, enjoyed Monday evening at the Akins Tea Room. At 6:30 o'clock the party sat at tables beautifully decorated with American flags. A delicious and abundant three course banquet was served. It demonstrated why the Akins cuisine is so favorably known for many miles around.

When the after dinner coffee was served the chairman of the entertainment committee Mrs. Frank Curie, called the meeting to order and announced that we would have reminiscences by the firemen. She first called on Frank Bowman because he had recently tendered his resignation from the Fire Department to the town board.

Mr. Bowman explained he had feelings of deepest regret on leaving the organization but he thought he could best serve the company by making room for a younger and more active man. He gave a brief history of the organization as follows:

"I am a charter member of this Fire Department which was organized July 31, 1914 and I have been secretary for six years. The first officers were:

Fire Chief, Henry Hathaway.
Asst. Fire Chief, Grover Curie.
Secretary, Merritt Barney.
Treasurer, Harry Kees.
Hook and Ladder Co., Bert Jackson, Captain; L. B. Meek, J. Sechler, Roy Kinsey, Leon Sechler, Harry Shuff, King Patterson, O. Lawhead.
Engine Co., O. Reese, Captain; Chris. Sailer, Aud. Harter, Frank Meese, Ward Woodcox, Elmer Hart, F. R. Bowman, E. R. Kinsey.

Mrs. Curie next called on her husband for remarks because he too would soon be leaving the company to move to the country. Mr. Curie said: "My wife is moving to the country but I have not yet decided to leave the Fire Department."

The Fire Chief, D. B. Ridgway, gave a short talk on the work of the department, the friendship of the men and the inspiration of the ladies' auxiliary. The past chief, Roy Wade, expressed his pleasure in the organization and the "baby" of the company (DuWayne Kinsey) made a few remarks. Then each man present contributed something from his memory of events and the history became most interesting. In fact one man became so enthused with the success of the whole affair that he made his second speech and was promptly fined 50c for talking too much.

The balance of the evening was spent in playing games. When the hour came for all to return to their homes there were many expressions of thanks to the committee for a most enjoyable evening.

OUR SCHOOL NOTES IN GENERAL

Woodburn and Hamilton were responsible for double defeat of the St. Joe Tigers last week end. In the game at Woodburn, the home of the Allen County Champions, Woodburn won by a score of 46-29. During the first half, the two teams battled on almost even terms, although at the close of the half St. Joe was trailing by 6 points 21-15. During the last quarter Woodburn scored a total of 16 points while holding St. Joe to 6 points the game ending 46-29.

On Saturday night, after leading Hamilton for 3 quarters of a slow game, in which the St. Joe boys failed to live up to the reputation they have made for themselves this year, the Tigers allowed Hamilton to score 4 field goals in the closing minutes of the game and win 22-20. The score at the half was 12-9 for St. Joe. St. Joe scored on only 2 out of 14 chances at the free throw line.

The Tiger Cubs defeated Woodburn Seconds by a score of 33-17. On Saturday the St. Joe Jr.-Hi's defeated Hamilton Jr.-Hi 18-14.

POWDER FOR SENTRIES BIG PROBLEM IN 1803

The neatly trimmed locks worn by the U. S. Marines of today make it hard to believe that powdered pigtails were once worn by them and that every man appeared at dress parade and elsewhere with his hair neatly whitened and braided.

Yet, such was the custom of Revolutionary times up until after the War of 1812. During the intervening years the locks of the leathernecks glistened under a liberal sprinkling of flour which was commonly used for hair powder.

In those days both British and American Marines used flour to whiten their cues, while the bluejackets of both navies were single twisted braids which were tied with a bowknot at the neck. Sailors, however, did not powder their hair.

Sometimes the marine flour barrel was empty and officers complained that they had no flour to "powder the sentries." When the flour barrel failed on the U. S. S. Philadelphia in 1803, a marine lieutenant wrote to his commandant that he would be willing to buy the flour himself if he had the cash.

Estimates computed in December, 1807, include $150.00 for "flour for hair powder," apparently considered a sufficient sum to keep the hair of approximately 1,000 men properly whitened.

Powdered hair became obsolete among service men as well as civilians early in the last century, and long locks are no longer considered to be good form.

Today, Marine Corps regulations require that the hair shall be closely trimmed around the edges and that it shall not be over two inches in length. Even shaved necks are strictly taboo.

IT WAS BOUND TO HAPPEN

Those who are bewailing the way in which the Republican majority in the General Assembly unscrambled the McNutt dictatorship in state government should take time out to consider what would have happened if the Republican nominee were in the position of Governor Schricker. Suppose Glen Hillis had been the only Republican elected, that all the other state officials and a majority in both houses of the Legislature were Democrats. What would have been sure to happen?

Does anyone believe a Democratic Lieutenant Governor and a Democratic majority in the Legislature would sit with hands folded while Mr. Hillis fired all the Democrats in the departments and appointed Republicans? They would not, and nobody would have expected them to do so. What they would have done to a Republican Governor, under such conditions, probably would be mild compared with the reorganization bills now on the way to become laws, despite gubernatorial vetoes.

The McNutt program was a mistake. Its end had to come. Maybe it would have been better, from the standpoint of partisan politics, if a Republican Governor were the lone representative of the G. O. P. in the state house and legislators of the opposition had had to undo what their party did in 1933. Governor Schricker is tolerant and broad-minded. He is not to blame for the plight in which he finds himself. The lawmakers are not aiming at him personally, but at the set-up he inherited and of which he does not wholly approve. — Indianapolis Star.

JOB FOR A CLAIRVOYANT

The present plan is to keep the United States out of War. Nevertheless a large part of the American Congress is very much in doubt whether the United States will remain at peace. Some overt act, such as Hitler's threat to sink ships carrying food and arms, might touch off the American fireworks.

In the meantime it is just as well to make up one's mind that matters have gone so far that the future is beyond predicting by man.

SEED CATALOGUE

On the shelf of homes beside the family Bible you will probably find an almanac and a favorite mail order catalog lined up alond side. But on hand with this other literature reposes the seed catalog and it is being given a real work-out at this time of year. The color appeals to the young and the choice vegetables and flowers in many varieties appeal to the oldsters. Most family round-tables have a busy time deciding whether to try for out-size potatoes in last year's petunia bed or give lettuce a chance where formerly blossomed the daisy. This yearly thumbing of the seed catalog is an important part of the American picture. If the planting is done on a large scale where the backyard is small and gardening plots are limited, there is great interest in the seed catalog. Always have the children in on it by allowing them a small amount of garden space to call their very own. There comes a deep appreciation for new life and an understanding of birth, of the slow and deliberate survival of a small seedling, of the care to cultivate and coax. This is all good for children to see and understand. Discuss vegetables and flowers with them, make them take an active part in developing the garden by work in it.

A friend says he never gets spring fever in the spring but it hits him right in the face when he picks up the seed catalog. He believes the best medicine for distress is to see prize strawberries and tomatoes and waken up the red corpuscles that a cantaloupe and a canterbury bell should mellow the turbulent and if that isn't medicine what is it?

IT STUMPS YOU

A subscriber tried to straighten out the various committees to aid America, the number of them, their purpose and the minds back of them. Naturally he had a job on his hands for there have been over 200 committees on various subjects relating to the war formed within this past year! Add this number to those already in existence and you have a list. In many cases the names are similar, in a few cases the purpose is not quite clear, but the attitude of each one toward war seems to be that America is best served by staying out of it. Most of these committees favor aid to Great Britain. Famous names make up the list of directors in many groups and the membership is generally open to all. Their means of support is usually through contributions and enrollment fees. Here is an idea of the thing you are running up against when you try and cover just a a few of those names that you so often see in the public print those days. Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies.... The Committee of 30 Million, Inc..... American Peace Mobilization....American Defenders of Freedom.... America First Committee....League for Human Right, Freedom and Democracy.. ..Council for Democracy....National Defense Alliance....No Foreign War Committee....World Peace Foundation.

CUTTING DOWN

Most people realize that rural America is the biggest percentage of the country that is strongly dry. The fact that distillers of intoxicating drink have, in the past, tried to promote advertising in the rural districts because that was the field to be "educated," is the testimony that rural America is dry. There has been a growing sentiment against liquor throughout the country and we are all glad to hear it. Finding out that liquor isn't necessary to social prominence and business success, shows that drinking is not good common sense. Due to industry being opposed to liquor when it interferes with production in business, and it always does interfere, this will tend to bring a drop in the sale. Rural America knew it was right in the first place!

FEWER AUTOS

Comes the word to St. Joe that automobiles are going to take a back seat in production before many months and that 'those in the know' are buying cars while they can. There is the rumor of a government tax, of a lack of steel and especially since so many plants are undertaking defense work will there be reduction in pleasure cars. A subscriber says we haven't seen a stream-lined auto until we get a view of those models that will be exhibited before September as the 1942 motor car. Maybe we are not going to have a shortage of autos and perhaps this is all salesmanship as folks will say, but we do know that the national automobile show in New York this year has been cancelled. So you can believe there is something to the story as it stands.

WEDNESDAY, before some of you will have received the next issue of this paper, we shall have entered into the Lenton Season of the Church Year once more. In the forty (40) days (plus six Sundays) beginning with Ash Wednesday and ending with the joyous Easter Day, the Church throughout the world will focus the eyes of all true Christians on the closing days of Jesus' life,—on His Passion,—which reaches its climax in His crucifixion for His bold insistence on the whole truth. In what we know of Jesus during this real test of His life, we can most clearly see the heart of His Gospel and the fundamentals of the Christian life for all time, yes, even for today!

Some people know only two days in the Church Year,—Christmas and Easter—; so to them the Lenten Season will mean nothing. Others will observe Lent but will see it only as an unfortunate time which hinders them in what they want to do, they will look at Lent as a 'necessary evil'. But those who will profit most, physically and spiritually, will be those consecrated Christians who in spirit 'Go up to Jerusalem' with Jesus their Savior. To them the Lenten Season will be a time so filled with thoughts of God and other persons that self-interests will be crowded out,—that is true "self-denial."

Before we can share the JOY OF EASTER we must first share the SELF-SURRENDER OF LENT.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

The first of March is not far away, yet the hopeful predict that by the date mentioned, the Lend and Lease Bill will have become a part of the law of the land. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee distinguished itself by vigor and promptness in passing the measure along, with limitations which keep expenditures within the control of Congress to a greater degree than the original text contemplated. Aid is to be given only to those nations which are attacked or in danger.

It seems to most readers that the Lend-Lease Bill has a strong flavor of the smoke of battle, but the Committee assures the Senate that it is not a war measure. The report points out further that "the United States must strive in all ways reasonably possible to stay at peace with all the world; and the United States must, in its own interests, supply effective material aid to those countries whose defense is vital to our own defense."

General opinion in Washington is that the bill cannot afford to pass. Editorial comment perhaps is not quite so tempered as it should be. The friends of the bill are "warmongers" a statement which is offset by the assurance that those who are inclined to let England pull her own chestnuts out of the fire are a "crew of conventional mediocrities dull and stupid when not malicious." The fur surely is flying.

The suggestion that the United States turn over more destroyers to Britain finds support in many quarters, Mr. Willkie being reported as setting the number at from five to ten per month. Secretary Knox as quoted thinks that the United States cannot part wisely with any more vessels of that class. Out of the pros and cons there arose rumors of a "destroyer row," among those who at this time should be on the best terms of brotherly love. The President declared the "row" to be non-existent, and gave his hearers to understand that the destroyer transfer was not an urgent matter.

About thirty ships belonging to the Axis powers are interned in American waters. Local brokers are said to be in touch with Italian and German owners, offering to purchase, with no attempt to conceal the fact that the property may be turned over to England. Business is nothing, if not hopeful. Anyhow, it does no harm to try. Any German or Italian attracted by the poposal had better get his person and all his worldly goods in a safe and accessible place before signing on the dotted line.

Leaving unsettled the question as to whether shipping should be kept or sold, there are shortages along other lines. Secretary Ickes believes that "power," in a mechanical sense, is not available for defense purposes, to the degree that it should be, particularly in the Pacific Northwest. Authorities on the subject of national defense believe that the facilities for transporting oil from inland wells to the Atlantic coast are inadequate, and turn a friendly eye on more pipe lines.

When Mr. Mussolini and General Franco met for a conference in the balm of the Riviera, it was stated that the Duce went thither to solicit Spanish help. Censorship in Italy is as tight as the proverbial bark on a hickory tree, and Spain is not what one might call loose-mouthed. Report therefore has to be relied upon. According to that source of information, Spain was not asked to go to war. On the other hand, it is said that the Duce pleaded and General Franco refused. One thing is certain. They did not meet to discuss spring planting or to arrange a horse trade.

Exchanges of views between the United States and Canada deal largely with airplanes. The Dominion would like to have flying machines passed more rapidly across the border, especially to facilitate the training of her pilots. Liberal Canadian offers are made in the direction of providing a string of air bases from the American boundary to Alaska, a matter of no small moment, since Alaska is about the only continental possession of the United States which remains an isolated jumping-off place.

An element in our "LAND DEFENSES"

To aid the national defense is the duty and desire of every loyal person and institution in the country.

It is a great satisfaction to 200 capital stock* fire insurance companies that their normal nationally-organized fire-prevention services are a vital element in the "land defenses" of the nation.

Through these public services, people and plants at work on government contracts are kept safer from fire; fire departments and water supplies are more dependable; apparatus and appliances devoted to defense are themselves more firesafe; and firebugs and saboteurs are more promptly caught.

Important in peace-time, these public services take on even greater importance in these troubled days. As in 1917, they have been volunteered for unlimited duty in the national defense.

Your local insurance agent is proud that his companies are able to provide a unique and vital element in our "Land Defenses" . . . an element made possible by your purchase of capital stock company fire insurance.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

VOICING the sentiments of a goodly number of Fourth District citizens—expressed in hundreds of letters, telegrams and petitions—Congressman George W. Gillie spoke out sharply against the President's Lease-Lend Bill during the closing hours of the historic House debate on this measure. Warning that its passage would be a step towards war and dictatorship, Congressman Gillie urged that the bill be amended to retain war-making powers and control of the purse in the hands of Congress. Some excerpts from his speech follow:

"THE PROPONENTS of this bill state that its principal purpose is to provide aid to Great Britain in her life-and-death struggle with totalitarian powers. They assert that we must pass this bill now, without further amendment, in order that we may immediately throw our great productive strength behind the British Empire.

"MY SYMPATHIES naturally lie with Great Britain for I am a native of the British Isles and even now bombs may be blasting my ancestral home. If I believed that this bill actually would bring immediate aid to Britain, without weakening our own defenses or robbing Congress of its constitutional powers, I would be the first to vote for it.

"BUT WILL it do this? The answer, according to military experts, is no. Only yesterday the able minority leader of the Naval Affairs Committee pointed out that this bill will not get a single extra airplane to England. It will not make available a single gun, a single tank, a single ship—unless we strip our own defenses to provide for them.

"WHAT, then, is the purpose of this bill? If it is simply to provide financial aid to Britain, why is it necessary to grant these dictatorial powers to the President? Why cannot Congress, retaining control of the purse and the sword, appropriate a fixed sum to be spent in the financing of British purchases in this country. Would this not be the sensible way to proceed?

"I HAVE followed the hearings and the debate on this measure very closely and have yet to hear a single, convincing answer to the question of why it is necessary for Congress to abdicate in order to provide aid to Gerat Britain.

"SUPPORTERS of the bill argue that the emergency demands it. I contend that there is no emergency here that Congress cannot deal with in its own way. There is nothing that the President can do to aid Britain, within the Constitution and without weakening our defenses, that Congress cannot also do. The President is using aid to Britain as a smoke screen behind which he hopes to wrest from Congress complete blank-check control over the destinies of a free people.

"IT SHOULD NOT be necessary to remind members of this body that they were elected only three short months ago on pledges to keep America out of foreign wars. These pledges were made in the platforms of both political parties and were repeatedly enunciated in the campaign speeches of the Presidential candidates. They should constitute a solemn covenant between the people and their elected representatives.

"AS FOR ME, I made that pledge to the citizens of the Fourth Indiana District in 1938 and 1940 and I renew it now. I shall vote against H. R. 1776 because serious study of its provisions has convinced me beyond question that its passage would lead to one-man Government and war.

"IF WE ARE to preserve democracy at home and prevent American participation in a disastrous war abroad, we must do it now by defeating this dangerous, un-American proposal. If we fail in this solemn hour, 'tomorrow may be forever too late.' "

20,000 COWS ON TEST IN INDIANA DAIRY HERDS

Sixty-three cow testers place more than 20,000 dairy cows "on the spot" each month in Indiana. For the 12 months ending November 30, the monthly butterfat production per cow varied from the low mark of 24.9 pounds in November to 38.4 pounds in May. All cows in the herd each month are included in making this average, G. A. Williams, dairy extension man of Purdue University reports.

One of the important factors influneeing these montly averages is the number of dry cows. Some owners pay far too little attention to this phase of herd management. Indiana Dairy Herd Improvement Association records indicate that herds returning the greatest profit usually have cows dry six to ten weeks. Only 8 per cent of all cows on test were dry in May but 20 per cent were dry during November. Other months varied from 13 to 18 per cent.

"No grain for the dry cow" is an unwritten law in some herds, but few more harmful practices can be imagined Williams says. Some grain fed while the profitable cow is on vacation pays a larger dividend than at any other time during the year, according to experience of some highly successful Hoosier dairymen.

For a period of several weeks after the high producer freshens she secrets more nutriments in the milk than her digestive tract can possibly produce from the feed she consumes. Her body stores are in the red. Live weight declines; milk production falls off, and herd income diminishes. A liberal ration later does not meet her needs completely. It is more profitable to keep the cow in good milking condition all the time than it is to let production drop and then attempt to bring it back.

Plenty of good roughage, especially hay or pasture is important while a cow is dry, but silage in large amounts should be avoided. The grain ration early in the dry period may contain a high proportion of corn but as the calving approaches a mixture of 100 pounds of ground oats, 100 pounds wheat bran and 50 pounds of linseed oil meal makes a good ration. Daily consumption usually runs from 3 to 7 or 8 pounds, although as much as 10 pounds per cow daily is favored by the owners of some high producers. The last three or four days before calving two or three pounds of bran in a pailful of warm water with hay at will is very satisfactory. The oats-bran-linseed ration is satisfactory for a short time after calving. The corn allowance should be curtailed until the inflammation has left the udder.

More cows freshen during February than in any other month. Dairymen not faced with the rush of spring work which follows can avoid much costly udder trouble and get high producing cows away to a good start by a little extra care during the dry and calving period. As much as 100 pounds of butterfat may be added to a single lactation record in this way, Williams has found.

War Dictatorship Means Farm Ruin

Write Congress Demanding Bill Be Killed, Wood Committee Urges.

Farmers more than any other class in America will suffer if the war dictatorship bill now before Congress is enacted into law, because the measure will lead us into war and that will inevitably bring inflation, the America First Committee warned today, urging all citizens to write both to their Senators and their Congressmen demanding that the bill be killed.

Experience from our part in Europe's last war has taught agricultural America, including those who deal in farm produce or who sell to the farmer, that while wars are fought on battlefields their lasting effects are wrought on barren farms.

With war comes inflation of all prices, including those for produce, farms and labor. The last war taught us that conclusively, as anyone will remember who bought a farm in 1917 or 1918 and later ever tried to realize on his investment and labor. Another will bring the same inflation of all values and the farmers again will be left bankrupt, the America First Committee predicted.

But not only will the farmer suffer from an inevitable post-inflation depression, the America First Committee pointed out, while he has been riding the wave of wartime inflation prosperity he will be confronted with a new high cost of labor.

Under the dictatorial powers granted in the proposal introduced for the administration by Sen. Barkley and Rep. McCormack, the President could rule farm youths no longer are exempt from being drafted into the Army and Navy. Sons could be taken from their farm homes, put in the armed forces and again shipped overseas to fight on foreign soil in a war which in no way threatens or affects America.

Farmers will turn to hiring farm hands to replace the sons who helped on the farm. But with the highly competitive labor market in defense industry in the cities, which will be able to afford much higher wages, farmers will have to pay salaries far beyond their normal means to attract labor to the country.

That this country already has been started down the road to war by the incessant barrage of interventionist propaganda was vividly demonstrated by the President's belated announcement that he had traded 50 destroyers of our battle fleet to Great Britain in exchange for 99-year leases on Naval bases off our eastern coast.

Then, after an intensive campaign of propaganda trying to frighten the American people into the war by using such bogies as the possibility of an invasion attempt, these same forces had the war dictatorship measure introduced.

Well-remembered is the President's "flight schedule" address with which he tried to frighten the nation into thinking it was on the verge of being invaded by an air armada that, supposedly would fly over 3,000 miles of ocean and meet no resistance from our own army, navy and air forces.

Certainly we want to aid Britain, the Committee statement continued, but not at the price of our own defense. Not by shipping to the English isles all our sorely needed armament production. Let's aid to the limits of the Johnson and Neutrality Acts, which have been ample in the past and which may be extended even further and remain within the laws, not give away all that we make, nor strip our under-equipped army and navy of their arms and ships.

With the scare campaign of interventionists, movements were inaugurated to repeal the Johnson Act, which prohibits bankers from making loans to any country in default on a debt to the United States; and the Neutrality Act, which requires that ammunition purchases be made on a cash and carry basis and which prohibits American ships from entering war zones and combatant countries from financing their war through bond issues floated in this country.

Then, at the peak of the campaign, the war dictatorship bill was introduced into a startled congress. The bill is the last step to war. To defeat it is to keep this nation from the conflicts of Europe. Its passage not only will embroil us and make this nation a battlefield susceptible to attack but at once will establish a dictatorship in this country.

General Robert E. Wood, acting national chairman of the America First Committee, said that the tragic irony of this bill is that it seeks to protect democracy in Great Britain by abandoning democracy in the United States. General Wood was Chief Quartermaster at the construction of the Panama Canal and Acting Quartermaster General of the U. S. Army during the World War.

"We would lose the fight before it began," General Wood said. "The President is not asking for a blank check; he wants a blank check book with the power to write away our resources, our man power, our laws and our liberties."

G.O.P. PROGRAM IS STEP TO RETURN PEOPLE'S POWER

INDIANAPOLIS—Voicing commendation of the Republican members of the General Assembly for their steadfastness in enacting the G. O. P. platform legislative program in the face of vigorous and bitter opposition from thousands of Democratic officials and job-holders, Senator William E. Jenner of Shoals, and Representative Frank T. Millis of Campbellsburg, majority floor leader in the Legislature, declared here today that Indiana's example may be the entering wedge in the elimination of one-man, dictatorial government throughout the nation.

"Members of the Legislature have experienced, within recent weeks, all the pressure that could be brought from thousands of Democratic officials and job-holders in every part of the state to prevent enactment of a program approved by the people in the last election," the two legislators said, adding the Republican majority may "be relied upon to continue the fight for what they believe to be right."

Senator Jenner and Mr. Millis said:

"The Republican program takes full and complete cognizance of the rights of the Governor, as head of the Democratic party and as a constitutional officer. It has done so from the beginning. Quite the opposite of the spirit displayed by the Democratic party in its forced enactment of the McNutt super-government act of 1933, the Republican program gives full recognition to the rights of the minority party. It did so when the program was developed weeks ago.

"We wish to point out the appointments which are placed at the will of the Governor, as head of the Democratic party in Indiana. They are:

"1. Appointment of the two Democratic members of the four-man boards of control of the following institutions: Five state hospitals for the insane; Indiana Village for Epileptics, Indiana State Sanitarium, Southern Indiana Tuberculosis Hospital, Indiana State School for the Deaf, Indiana School for the Blind, Fort Wayne State School, Indiana Boys' School, Indiana Girls' School, Indiana Women's Prison, Indiana State Prison, Indiana Reformatory, Indiana State Farm, Indiana State Soldiers Home, Indiana Soldiers and Sailors Childrens Home and others. Two Republicans are named by Republicans on each board. Boards have full authority to employ and dismiss employes.

"2. The Governor is given power to name the two Democratic members of the Indiana State Department of Welfare, a four-man board. Two Republican members are named by Republicans.

"3. Provision is made in all liquor bills for the Governor to name the two Democratic members of the board.

"4. The Governor is empowered to name the two Democratic members of the four-member state police board.

"5. The Governor is empowered to make all the appointments in the following departments under his direct supervision and control—the land and naval militia, the adjutant general, the armory board, the state commission on clemency, the state probation department, the state fire marshal and others.

"6. The Governor will represent his party in making appointments to the following boards and commissions: the highway commission, a four-man bi-partisan board under the Republican program; the public service commission, the unemployment compensation division, state board of tax commissioners, the department of financial institutions, a six-man bi-partisan board under the Republican program; the state athletic commission, the industrial board, the state board of health. Many other boards and commissions of lesser importance are included in the departments.

"There is little need for referring to what happened to Republicans when the McNutt reorganization act was placed in effect. Bi-partisan boards became a nullity. Individuals and departments were shifted about at will. Employees were hired and fired at the will of one man.

"The rub comes now in the loss of jobs, position and political influence. The Democratic state organization is unwilling to return to a fair basis, without a fight.

"The republican program will provide better government."

TWO LETTERS FROM OESTERLEN HOME

Jan. 31, 1941.

Dear Reverend Stevenson,

I received your letter and was certainly glad to hear from you. I didn't have anything to do tonight, so I thought I would write to you. There has been plenty of snow here. At first we weren't allowed out, but since the flu has gone away, we have been outdoors every afternoon. We really have a lot of fun. The big driveway out in front of the home has been our coasting place. Mr. Laybourn was out to take our pictures Thursday. All the big boys and girls had their pictures taken. My girl friend, Ruth Specht, was on the sled with me. The first time we went down, I sat on her back. That was O. K. But when we started off again we went "Ker smash." But we got up laughing for it didn't hurt a bit.

We havn't been going to Catechism lately as Rev. Recher has been down with the flu......

Well, exams are over and I sure am glad. I think I passed everything but Latin. So I expect to go on to 9A (second semester freshman.) Miss Notter, our Latin teacher, said that our test was the hardest one ever given in 9B and that it was a lot harder than 9A's. She said she didn't expect anyone to pass it......

We changed schedules last week. I did have the locker room but now I have the sewing room and I take care of the birds......

Two girls have been transferred from the little girls' department to our department. There are also three new children in the home now. One girl is in the 3rd grade, and is ten years old, the other little girl is five years old and the little boy is six.

Well, it's rolling around to eight o'clock and I'll have to be getting ready for bed. Bobby and Cleo are already in bed. But before I close, I think I have a few more things to tell you. Mr. Young (the superintendent of the home) told me that maybe I could take piano lessons. He asked me if I would want to. I was sure happw as I always did want to play a piano. I told him I sure did! I sure hope I get to. I can read notes and I know how to read the keys on the piano. I can read sharps but I can't read flats very well. But it won't take long to learn.

Well, I guess this will be all for now—hoping to hear from you soon, and best of wishes to you and Mrs. Stevenson.

Sincerely yours,
signed : Doris Chapman.

Dear Pastor:

Doris, Cleo and Bobbie are looking forward to the vacation next summer......

I am sure that you will be surprised when you see these children. There has been no greater change in any children during their stay here than in these three. Doris and Cleo show it more than Robert. They are lovely children; the kind we shall be proud of when they are ready to go out into the world for themselves.

Sincerely yours,
Signed: Dora L. Young, Matron.

ELECtricity in the HEN HOUSE is a PROFITABLE INVESTMENT . . .

YOU will be more successful in your poultry raising when you apply modern electrical methods. Electric brooders provide the pure air so necessary to growing chicks. Electricity assures pure heat with no fumes, and there is no open flame to use up the oxygen in the air, so essential to life and growth. A properly designed electric brooder gives automatic, well distributed heat regardless of the weather.

The use of electric lights in the hen house to lengthen winter days to about thirteen hours increases egg production in the months when prices are highest. Electrified experimental farms have demonstrated that the cost of electricity in poultry houses for large flocks, as well as the provision of electrically heated drinking water, amounts to about 2 cents a year for each hen.

Electricity will work for you . . . Give it a chance in your Hen House!

G.O.P. PROGRAM CONSTRUCTIVE SAY LEGAL ADVISORS

INDIANAPOLIS — Backed by unanimous resolutions of support from various Republican and nonpartisan organizations voicing approval of their program, members of the G. O. P. majority in the Indiana General Assembly were pushing their platform measures calling for decentralization of "one-man" government to enactment this week.

Most of these measures will have been passed by both branches of the assembly by the end of this week and made ready for presentation to the Governor for executive action.

With the passage by both houses this week of H. B. 18, key measure of the entire Republican platform program, members of the Republican joint legislative steering committee, through its legal advisory committee, has issued the following statement in support of the program and contradicting the claims of opponents of the bills that the G. O. P. program "strips" the Governor of his powers:

"The Republican legislative program is a constructive one designed to redistribute administrative power and responsibility, with proper checks and balances based on the Republican platform of 1940.

"In order to carry out the Republican platform, it was first necessary to wipe out the present dictatorship by repealing the McNutt act of 1933. Nothing good could be made out of it by amendment. That act has been repealed over the Governor's veto, effective May 1, 1941. The constructive legislation now on the way to passage is to take effect on the day when the repeal act goes in effect. There will, therefore, be no hiatus in state government.

"The key bill in this reconstruction program is House Bill 18, which has passed the House and Senate. This bill shows due regard for the office of Governor, and it expressly provides that in addition to all powers and duties imposed by the Constitution on the Governor, he shall have the additional powers and duties conferred on him by that bill and by other laws that will be in force after the close of this session. The only "stripping" of the Governor that this bill does is to "strip" him of some of the excessive dictatorial powers that were conferred on him by the legislature—not the Constitution—in 1933 and since. That bill and other bills in the program confer many important powers and duties on the Governor which the legislature would not need to confer on him and which are quite enough when added to the duties specifically imposed on him by the Constitution to tax quite fully the executive and administrative capacity of the average Governor if he is inclined to give good administration rather than merely to establish a sordid patronage system in aid of further personal political preferment.

List Governor's Powers

"This key bill places under the Governor the land and naval militia; the state police to a large extent; the state fire marshal and armory board; the state commission on clemency; the state probation department and commission; and it leaves to him alone the appointment of the membership of numerous special boards, commissions and agencies as provided for in numerous statutes passed in the last many years. Moreover, he is made a member of the four boards of departments provided for by the bill. Still further, in other bills of the program he is given the power to appoint one-half of the membership of some 20 boards and commissions which are set up on a bi-partisan basis, such as the 22 state institutions, the state welfare board, the merit system board, etc.

"This key bill then sets up four administrative departments around the four other constitutional officers whom the Constitution places in the executive, including the administrative department created by the Constitution itself. They are as follows:

"1. Department of State, of which James M. Tucker, Secretary of State, is the chief administrative officer on a board of department on which also are the Governor and the Auditor of State. To this department the bill assigns 21 boards, bureaus, commissions and offices. Their members are appointed by the board of department and they in turn appoint those under them.

"2. Department of audit and control, of which Richard T. James, Auditor of State, is the chief administrative officer of a board of department on which also are the Governor and the Secretary of State. To this department are assigned 11 boards, bureaus, commissions and offices, whose members are likewise appointed by the board of department, and who in turn appoint those under them.

"3. Department of Treasury, of which James M. Givens, Treasurer of State, is the chief administrative officer on a board of department on which also are the Governor and the Lieutenant Governor. To this department are assigned seven boards, commissions, divisions and offices, whose members are appointed by the board of department and who in turn appoint those under them.

"4. Department of public works and commerce, of which Charles M. Dawson, Lieutenant Governor, is the chief administrative officer on a board of department on which also are the Governor and the Treasurer of State. To this department are assigned 12 boards, commissions, divisions and offices whose members are appointed by the board of department and who in turn appoint those under them.

Hold Four-Year Terms

"The members of the boards, commissions and offices placed under these four boards of departments are to be appointed for four-year terms and may be removed only on the grounds specified in the bill after a charge is made and a hearing had.

"All tenures of office and employment are terminated on May 1, and no one may continue unless again appointed. This key bill is so written that no hitch or gap will occur when the transition takes place on May 1, and every function of the state government will be performed under the Constitution and under this new administrative machinery, except only that the state institutions and certain departments are set up independently on a bi-partisan basis.

"There are several of the present boards and commissions, such as the state board of tax commissioners, public service commission, highway commission, etc., being abolished and recreated and placed under one or another of the four departments provided in the key bill.

"The state institutions bill provides for bi-partisan boards of four, two to be appointed by the Governor and two by the Lieutenant Governor, except that when the Governor and Lieutenant Governor belong to the same party then the Governor appoints all board members. The same is true of the welfare department. These boards in turn appoint the superintendents, directors and heads of the institutions. Below that rank the officers and employees will be under a merit system as provided by the merit system bill, which includes also the unemployment compensation division, employment service, state board of health and the state library. The purpose is to put the personnel in these institutions, etc., on a merit basis and remove them as prey for a patronage hungry Governor.

Offices are Grouped

Boards, commissions and offices of the state government are grouped in the four departments as follows:

Department of State — Motor vehicle bureau and the various licensing agencies of the state.

Department of Audit and Control—Bureau of public printing, department of insurance, teachers' retirement fund, chief oil inspector, budget committee, athletic commission, board of certified accountants, state year book, gross income tax and motor vehicle fuel tax.

Department of Treasury — Inheritance tax administrator, unemployment compensation division, including state employment service; state board of tax commissioners, department of financial institutions, board of depositories, municipal loan board, and division of state publicity.

Department of Public Works and Commerce — Department of conservation, state highway commission, board of public buildings and property, state memorials, division of labor, including industrial board and its departments; livestock sanitary board, pollution hearing board, central purchasing bureau, Wolf Lake park commission, state board of health, public service commission and board of public harbors and terminals.

Snow Transforms Pokagon Park Into Popular Winter Playground

Pokagon State Park—Indiana's Winter sports capital—is a center of activity for thousands of Hoosiers and visitors from other states who are enjoying skiing, tobogganing and sleighing over the snow-covered hills and on the frozen surface of Lake James.

Week end attendance at Pokagon since the Winter sports began this Winter frequently has exceeded attendance for any week end during the vacation months. On February 9 there were more than four thousand Winter sports enthusiasts in the park, many of them coming from Northern Ohio and Southern Michigan. Among the visitors were forty-four members of the senior class of Western College for Women at Oxford, Ohio. Several members of the group are pictured above as they prepared for a ski trip over the park and others as they sped down the new double-track toboggan slide.

It is only in recent years that Winter sports have been developed at Pokagon. The first toboggan slide was erected four years ago and ski trails were marked at that time. Both received an enthusiastic reception. The original slide was improved and has since been replaced with a double-track slide, lighted for night use. Skiing has been increasingly popluar with easy trails for the beginner and more difficult routes for the advanced skier. Skating, hockey, and ice-boating on the frozen lake are other activities in which many participate. The old Scottish game of curling has been added to the outdoor sports program this Winter.

Depending upon weather conditions, the Winter sports season at Pokagon will extend over anothe, two or four weeks.

YOU'LL HAVE NO FEAR

By H. H. Hackett

The New Year comes fast and fast is fleeting.
They come and go with scarce a greeting;
The months like days, the days like a minute,
The hours don't count, they're hardly in it.
Each minute still has sixty seconds
In which our deeds must all be reckoned;
The things you think and the deeds you do
Must be done in the moment passing you.
So don't you fret as the years speed past,
You can do good work 'til all years have past;
And as each day passes you may know
Your sun will set in a golden glow.
So live each day that when night approaches,
You'll have no fear of the world's reproaches;
Your years have gone with making and giving,
And life is better for your long living.

LOG

UNITED STATES
MARINES

SWORDS OF TRADITION

Mameluke swords are the traditional blades worn by officers of the Marine Corps. Today they are seldom used in battle, as the use of automatic pistols and changing methods of warfare have made them nearly obsolete.

But the Mameluke still remains as a side-arm of the sea soldiers and is used for parades or ceremonies and on formal occasions. The fighting Mamelukes, after whom it was named, were prominent in Egyptian affairs more than 500 years ago.

Tradition as well as sentiment accounts for scores of blades of various types in the museum of the Naval Academy at Annapolis. Some of them were used by naval heroes in actual warfare; others were gifts made to commemorate some outstanding episode in naval history.

Swords carried by John Paul Jones in the stirring days of the Revolution, by Stephen Decatur, hero of our war with Tripoli, and Isaac Hull, gallant commander of the fighting frigate, "Old Ironsides," are in the collection. Others belonged to either Oliver H. Perry, George Dewey, or some other naval leader.

At the close of our war with the Barbary States early in the last century, Lieutenant O' Bannon of the Marine Corps, returned from the shores of Tripoli with a handsome sword of the Mameluke type, and many believe that his heroic exploits helped to make the sword popular with the Marines.

Distinctly oriental in type the sword has a grip which is fashioned somewhat like that of an old-style duelling pistol, a straight cross guard, and a slightly curved blade about 32 inches long. The name of its owner as well as the words, "United States Marines" are usually inscribed on its blade.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

DELIVERING a speech before the Senate or the House of Representatives during debate on as intensely a controversial measure as the lease-lend bill is a challenging experience, which tests the nerve ,the wit and the oratorical ability of veteran members of Congress. It's no picnic to get up before a group of 100 or more hostile members of the opposition party and present under fire of frequent shouted questions, arguments for or against a bill.

There are several reasons why speaking before Congress is more nerve-straining than other types of speaking, and why it requires unusual poise and self-possession.

Immediately above the speaker are the press and radio galleries, filled with reporters ready to convey to the whole world anything news-worthy in the speaker's remarks or to feature any bad slip of the tongue or errors in reasoning as legitimate comedy relief from what may have been a drab day of serious debating.

While it might be bad enough to be exposed to every major reporting service in America in every speech, there is something worse! Every word spoken in either the House or the Senate is faithfully recorded by official stenographers who supply the copy from which the Congressional Record is printed. So each speaker addresses not only his colleagues and the country but his remarks are bound in the permanent record of the Government and once they are printed in the Record they can never be removed. It does not contribute to peace of mind to realize that what may be spoken extemporaneously is being written permanently in the book of records.

But there is something still more stimulating. Both Houses follow the practice of permitting members to interrupt all speakers by requesting that they yield for questioning for refutation, for correction, and for challenging. Hence speakers are often interrupted by members with opposing viewpoints who seek to trip up the man holding the floor—and on most issues a speaker has from 50 to 200 members in disagreement with him and eager to disprove his argument or disrupt his chain of evidence.

All in all, with galleries full of spectators watching their legislators like goldfish in a bowl, speaking in Congress is a challenge even for experienced legislators and speakers. A few years ago, Walter Reed hospital attendants made "before and after" tests of men speaking in Congress and found in some instances the experience increased the count by more than 100 points.

DISTRICT FACTS: The eight counties of the Fourth Indiana District had a total population of 288,062 in 1940, according to official census figures. This compares with a population of 275,523 in 1930. According to figures compiled before the census was completed, the District population is divided among city and rural residents as follows: Adams County—city, 7,039; rural, 12,918. Allen County—city, 116,648; rural, 30.095. DeKalb—city, 12,403; rural, 12,508. LaGrange—city, 1,640; rural, 12,140. Noble—city, 8,611; rural, 13,793. Steuben—city, 3,124; rural, 10,721. Wells—city, 5,074; rural, 13,337. Whitley—city, 6,002; rural, 9,929.

NO CHANGE: Reports from the Legislature at Indianapolis indicate that no change in the Fourth District is contemplated in the plan to redistrict the state and eliminate one Congressional District. Reports were current that GOP officials of the Third District (South Bend) had their eyes on LaGrange County, which is strongly Republican, but Fourth District leaders asserted that they would never approve this change.

UNUSUAL HONOR: The Fourth District was unusually honored recently with the election of Mrs. George W. Gillie, wife of the Fort Wayne Congressman, as president of the Congressional 76 Club, comprised of wives of Senators and Representatives who were first elected to the 76th Congress. Mrs. Martha Taft, wife of Senator Bob Taft, of Ohio, presided at the election. The Club, which has approximately 100 members, holds regular luncheon meetings and arranges educational tours through the various embassies, government departments, and near-by historic sites.

DEMOCRATIC SPREE RESPONSIBLE FOR FINANCIAL WORRY

INDIANAPOLIS — Members of the Indiana General Assembly charged with finding a solution to the financial problem confronting state government for the coming two years are studying the report of the legislative budget committee and statements of the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee as a basis for their task.

All are alarmed at the prospects of a huge deficit that is imminent and both agree that an eight-year policy of paternalistic spending and expansion of governmental services have brought the state's treasury to a point where somebody today must "pay the piper."

Close study of the budget committee report to the Governor and to the General Assembly indicates a prospective state deficit of almost $16,000,000 at the end of the next two years. Pointing to rising costs of both commodities and personal service in all departments and institutions of state government, the budget committee has reported the total of independent funds for appropriation at this session of $49,653,730, compared with the 1939 appropriation of $31,932,270. The sum total of general fund requirements for the two years ending June 30, 1943, the committee reported, will be $84,272,782.

With this situation existing members of the legislative committees handling state finances are studying every means of keeping the state out of the "red," and of fulfilling the G. O. P. pledge of no new taxes, and other economy pledges of the 1940 platform. Sharp reductions in the budget bills were the first consideration.

"The usual financial dilemma that always is inherited by Republican Legislatures following a Democratic administration faces the General Assembly today," Roy J. Harrison of Attica, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said. "It is up to us to figure out a budget that, according to all indications, will be about $8,000,000, at least, out of balance, during the coming biennium. The state faces the problem of spending about $84,000,000 with a prospective income of about $75,500,000.

"Many new governmental services have been added during the past eight years, practically none of which can be dispensed with. Buildings have been added at our institutions entailing added employees to care for the additional wards being housed. Food and material costs are mounting rapidly and repair costs alone are no small item. Population is on the increase in the institutions and there is no knowledge or information now as to what the cost will be for Indiana's share in the national defense plan."

Seriousness of the financial situation is set out in the budget committee report in the following:

"We are again confronted with the problems of meeting an obligation $8,075,682 in excess of revenue anticipated to be collected during the biennium. However, a further study indicates an estimated unencumbered cash balance on July 15, 1941, of $5,116,235 after the state shall have discharged in July, 1941, obligation to tuition support, leaving a net estimated deficit July 15, 1943, of $2,959,774.

Those acquainted with the state's financial picture estimate the budget now pending in the Assembly, will result in an $8,000,000 deficit in the coming two years, with another estimated reduction in revenue, if the gross income tax for retailers is reduced to one-half of 1 per cent, of $8,000,000.

Representative Harrison believes state revenues will be boosted approximately $4,000,000 because of the defense boom, and with the possibility of clipping about $2,000,000 from the appropriation measure, the estimated deficit could be reduced, he believes, to about $10,000,000 instead of a projected $16,000,000.

BATTLE OUR OLD AGE ASSISTANCE BILL

INDIANAPOLIS — Democratic members of the House of Representatives in the General Assembly proved their "friendship" for assistance to the aged and other features of the social security program of the state when they forced the amendment of the public welfare bill which in effect would have reduced the amount of old-age assistance which may be granted.

Under the pretense of fixing a mandatory minimum of $40 per month for old-age assistance, the Democrats in the House would have brought an added expenditure of $16,000,000 by the state for that purpose. But at the same time they would have eliminated the payment by the federal government of its share totaling approximately $8,000,000 which goes for assistance to the aged. The federal government, because its social security program is based on actual need of the recipient, will not participate with a state which fixes a flat amount of assistance, regardless of the need of the recipient.

So, while the Democrats were making a play on the pretense they were giving added assistance, they, in reality, were forcing an added expenditure on the state of approximately $16,000,000 and bringing a loss of about $8,000,000 of federal funds for that purpose which flows to the state.

A bill introduced in the Senate by Senator William E. Jenner of Shoals, Republican floor leader, will permit the state to pay up to $40 a month for old-age assistance, an increase of $10 over the present limit.

FORMER SUPREME COURT JUSTICE SAYS G.O.P. REORGANIZATION ACT CONFORMS TO THE CONSTITUTION

INDIANAPOLIS—Fred C. Gause, former judge of the Indiana Supreme Court and former president of the Indiana State Bar Association, today made public the following open letter to Samuel B. Pettengill, former Representative in Congress from the Third Indiana district, in reply to a letter Mr. Pettengill addressed to Indiana attorneys February 15, attacking constitutionality of of the Republican legislative program:

February 18, 1941.

Hon. Samuel B. Pettengill,
301-309 Union Trust Building,
South Bend, Indiana.

Dear Friend:

I am one to whom was sent your letter enclosing your article relating to the right of the legislature to create a statutory office and provide for the manner of its filling.

You state, that "In my judgment, this act attempts to deprive the Governor of the power vested in him, and in him alone, by the people of this state under the Constitution of 1851 under which we have lived happily for 90 years."

You also state, in reference to the appointment of appointive officials, the following, "The responsibility for appointing them is under the Constitution, the responsibility of the Governor and not the responsibility of the state legislature or any other official of the state."

You also quote what you say the State Supreme Court has "held explicitly." That quotation states that the power to appoint to office is an executive function and "is lodged with the executive (which includes the administrative) department of the government."

That quotation also says that the legislature may create offices, but has no power to appoint officers, except where the Constitution provides otherwise. That quotation does not say that the legislature cannot provide for the appointment to statutory offices by administrative officers, and does not say that such power must be conferred upon the Governor alone. The only question involved in the case where your quotation appears, was whether the legislature after creating an office could itself make the appointment.

You do not state in what case the above quotation is found.

Not Court Opinion

It is not the expression or holding of the Supreme Court in any opinion of that court. It is a quotation, not from the opinion of the court, but from a separate opinion of one judge, Judge Berkshire, in Hovey Governor vs. State ex rel, 119 Ind. 395, in which the court held that the Governor could be mandated to issue a commission to a person appointed by the legislature as a member of the board of trustees of the Indiana Hospital for the Insane. In that case the Governor took the position that he alone had the power to appoint to office, but the Supreme Court pointed out that merely because he was granted the executive power, did not vest him with power to appoint to office.

If the above case is an authority on the subject at all, it is an authority against your contention.

The State Supreme Court has, however, expressly decided the question you discuss.

You should first read Sec. 1, Art. 15, of our state Constitution, and then the cases wherein the proposition you state is expressly repudiated.

The above section of the Constitution provides that:

> "All officers whose appointments are not otherwise provided for in this Constitution shall be chosen in such manner as now is, or hereafter may be prescribed by law."

Not Constitutional Office

Of course the office of member of the State Board of Tax Commissioners is not provided for in the Constitution, and by the express terms of the Constitution the legislature, being the law making branch, may provide how such officers may be chosen.

In the case of State ex rel vs. Gorby, 122 Ind. 17 (25), the question involved was as to whether the Governor could be deprived of the right to appoint the head of the department of geology.

The Governor claimed there that he was the only one who could appoint to a statutory appointive office, but the court pointed out that the legislature had created many offices and boards which were not provided for in the Constitution, and as to whether the Governor was the only one who could be given the power to appoint such officers, the court said:

> "It is within the power of the General Assembly to provide by law that such offices be filled either by election or by appointment; and when filled by appointment it need not provide that such appointments shall be made by the Governor. Such appointments, if the law so provides, could doubtless be made by the Governor of the state, or by any one or more of the administrative state officers."

Case In Point

I submit that here is a case in which the court "has held explicitly" that the power to appoint to statutory offices is not vested in the Governor, "and in him alone."

The decision in the above case of course refers to Sec. 1, Art. 15, of our Constitution, quoted above.

In the case of State ex rel vs. Hyde, 129 Ind. 296, the court had before it the question as to whether the legislature could deprive the Governor of the power to appoint a state supervisor of oils.

The court said:

> "The appointment to office being generally the exercise of an executive or administrative function, the power must be conferred upon some executive or administrative officer, but the State Geologist is an administrative state officer elected by the people (at that time).
>
> "The appointment to the office in controversy here by the State Geologist is certainly a manner or mode of selecting an officer for whose appointment no provision is made by our Constitution.
>
> "Nor does such mode of selection in any manner infringe upon the prerogatives of the Governor of the state."

I submit that this is another case in which the court "has held explicitly," that the power to appoint to statutory offices is not vested in the Governor, "and in him alone."

In the case of French vs. State ex rel, 141 Ind. 618, the court had before it the question as to whether the Governor alone must be given power to appoint boards of prison directors, or whether that power could be given to the Governor, Auditor, Treasurer, Secretary of State and Attorney General, and to a majority of them.

Easy To Change View

In that case again the Governor claimed that he alone was vested with the power to appoint to office, since he was the chief executive. (Strange how easy it is for a person elected to office to view any change in the law as an invasion of his inherent and constitutional rights.)

The court in this case referred to Sec. 1, Art. 15, of our Constitution and held that in a case of an office created by statute, the legislature was not bound to confer the appointing power on the Governor, but could confer it upon one of several administrative state officers and could make the Governor a member of the appointing board, along with other state officers.

The court listed 17 different boards and commissions of which the Governor was a member with other state officers for the purpose of either making appointments or conducting the administrative affairs of the state.

The court pointed out that in 35 other states there were similar laws under which the Governor was a minority member of from 1 to 12 boards like the one in question.

I submit that this is still another case in which the court, "has held explicitly" that the power to appoint to statutory offices is not vested in the Governor, "and in him alone."

It is of course legal to give the Lieutenant Governor executive or administrative power.

The Constitution provides that the executive branch of the government includes the administrative, as is pointed out in several of the above cases which hold that power to appoint to office may be given to administrative or executive officers.

Kentucky Provides Example

In the case of Armstrong vs. Townsend, 8 Fed. Supp. 958, Judge Baltzell held that the Lieutenant Governor was an executive officer, provided for in that part of the Constitution creating the executive department and that Lieutenant Governor Townsend could be given executive and administrative power and cites cases from several other states with similar constitutions holding that executive and administrative power may be conferred upon the Lieutenant Governor. As an example, in Kentucky, the Supreme Court sustained a law which conferred upon a board composed of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General, the power to appoint members of the State Highway Commission.

I know that you would not intentionally mislead the public as to what the settled law of our state is, but evidently you had not had an opportunity to study the decisions on this question. If you had you would certainly not have made the statement which has a head-line implying that to give to boards of administrative state officers, of which the Governor is a member, the power to appoint to statutory state offices would constitute, "overthrow of constitutional government."

The Constitution authorizes what is done in the act you refer to and our state Supreme Court has repeatedly upheld such right. The Supreme Court of Indiana has never held in any case, that the power to appoint to a state office created by the legislature, is a right conferred upon the Governor alone by the Constitution, but has uniformly held, whenever the question has been before it, that it could be conferred upon, "one or more of the administrative state officers," and, "nor does such mode of selection in any manner infringe upon the prerogatives of the Governor of the state."

If you will read the provision of our Constitution referred to and the cases cited above, I feel sure you will want to withdraw your statement that the act in question would constitute "overthrow of constitutional government," and most certainly you will not want your statement to stand that an act which provides for the appointment to a statutory office by administrative state officers "attempts to deprive the Governor of power vested in him and him alone."

Merely because an act may be deemed unwise by some, does not render it unconstitutional.

You have shown so much courage and ability in opposing some of the things which have been proposed in recent years, that I regret to see you misled on a matter that you evidently had not had time to investigate for yourself, and I am writing this as your friend and admirer, and for the purpose of informing you, and not to criticise you.

With kind personal regards, I am,
Very truly yours,
FCG:J FRED C. GAUSE.

MONEY RAISED TO FIGHT INFANTILE PARALYSIS

A total of $1,105.52 was raised in DeKalb County during the recent campaign for funds to combat infantile paralysis, County Secretary C. E. Trainer, of Garrett, announces. "This is the largest amount ever raised by the county for this noteworthy cause," he said.

Auburn led all other towns, with $407.60. Contributions from other communities were: Ashley, $8.70; Corunna, $28.61; Butler, $63.70; Garrett, $107.01; St. Joe, $41.74; Spencerville, $61.80, and Waterloo, $83.21. Money raised by the postmasters' association of the county was $80, and miscellaneous funds received totalled $135.

DeKalb County is soon to have a permanent infantile paralysis chapter operating under the laws of Indiana and reporting direct to the National Foundation in New York. Application for a chapter is to be made in the next few days.

This permanent chapter will have charge of all funds in the county and will administer them as it sees fit. There is approximately $750 in the county fund at the present time, which is to be used for the purchase of an iron lung. The county medical society will recommend the type to be purchased."

B. & O. SPECIAL TRAIN TO Visit St. Joe All-Day, March 12

OUR SCHOOL NOTES IN GENERAL

Overcoming a five-point half-time lead, the St. Joe Tigers battled their way to a 39-38 overtime decision over the Ashley Aces at Garrett Friday afternoon only to be blasted out of the night session of the sectional tourney by an inspired Pleasant Lake quintet.

A field goal by Sechler with seconds to go sent the St. Joe-Ashley contest into an extra period after the locals had trailed 22-17 at the half-time.

Freeburn looped in a long one to put the Tigers ahead at the start of the frenzied overtime session but Conrad of Ashley connected from under the basket to even things up. He was fouled and converted to put the Aces ahead 38-37 with less than a minute to play. But again Sechler connected to give the fighting Garman 5 victory by a one-point margin as the final buzzer sounded.

Hubert Bleeks was the offensive star of the game with 18 points. Both Baker and Curle were lost in the last quarter via the personal-foul route.

GOOD NEWS TO OLD AGE ASSISTANCE APPLICANTS

Under the watchful eyes of a Townsend club gallery the house of representatives Friday passed a bill to abolish the old age assistance "lien clause."

The vote was 77 to 10 and the bill was sent to the senate for further action.

The measure would do away with a requirement of the public welfare department that oldsters, to be eligible for old age assistance, must pledge any real estate they own to the state as a means of recovering part of the relief payments. Rep. H. E. Evans, author of the bill, explained that under the constitution nothing could be done for persons who had pledged their property in the past but that only those applying for relief in the future could come under the act.

AUTO ASSESSMENTS TO BE HIGHER THIS YEAR

"Assessment of automobiles will be greater this year because more new ones have been bought," County Assessor Charles E. Miser stated Saturday after the township assessors and their deputies had called at his office in the court house to get their supplies.

The assessors began their annual canvass Monday morning and will make their final report in May. They were directed to record values of automobiles in accordance with the car dealers' appraisal book and other personal property is to be assessed at its market value. As the legislature is taking no action on the proposal of the state board of tax commissioners for a general assessment of real estate this year, no such work will be done by the assessors. However, individuals may have their real estate reassessed by filing petitions with the county assessor by March 15.

The township assessors are the following: Union, E. O. Likens; Keyser, S. D. Johnston; Franklin, Dode Houlton; Stafford, Eugene D. Webster; Butler, Russell W. Housel; Jackson, Lewis E. Freeman; Concord, Samuel Mumaw; Spencer, Clyde Rectenwall; Newville, Romeo E. Richards; Wilmington, Walter Mutzfeld; Richland, Jay W. DeWitt; Fairfield, Ora E. Rowe; Smithfield, Lee R. Wise; Troy, Byron Campbell, and Grant, Fern A. Morr.

APPROPRIATIONS REDUCED IN STATE BUDGET

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Presenting a concrete fulfillment of a Republican platform pledge of governmental economy, members of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives have effected a reduction in total appropriations for the two-year period ending June 30, 1943, more than $7,000,000 less than the amount appropriated for the 1939-41 biennium.

Dividing the appropriations into three divisions, the committee presented late Thursday the budget measures for state departments, for penal, benevolent and educational institutions and for federal fund-participating agencies.

Total of the three bills is $75,985,333, exclusive of highway funds, and is a reduction of $9,287,449 under the recommendations contained in the report of the legislative budget committee which totaled $84,272,782.

In addition to these economies in government it was reported the Ways and Means Committee will seek to limit appropriations of highway funds to specific appropriations. Heretofore the highway department has been permitted to spend whatever money came to it for highway purposes.

As the budget bills were presented to the House they carried a total of $15,657,000 for federal-fund-participating agencies; $24,288,550 for state institutions and schools, and $8,222,183 for departments, a total of $48,117,733, which, with $27,800,000 for teachers' support, $17,600 for additional budget committee appropriations, and $50,000 deficiency appropriations, brings the biennial total to $75,985,333.

SAM MORR RETIRES AS SUPERINTENDENT OF INFIRMARY

A change in the management of the DeKalb County infirmary, northwest of Auburn, took place Saturday, when Samuel C. Morr was succeeded by Alva Grogg as superintendent and Mrs. Grogg became matron instead of Mrs. Nora Rogers.

Mr. Morr's second four-year term as superintendent expired Friday and the county commissioners appointed Mr. Grogg in January. Mr. Morr and Mrs. Rogers moved out Friday. Mr. Morr will make his headquarters at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Hulda Hile, in South Bend and will leave within a few days for a stay of several months in California. Mrs. Rogers, who formerly resided in Garrett, went to Chicago the first of the week to live with her mother, Mrs. Mary Hogue, and her brother, Dr. W. E. Hogue.

Mr. and Mrs. Grogg were superintendent and matron of the infirmary for two years, 1915-17. They have been residing at the northwest edge of Auburn, near the county farm. There are now 37 inmates of the institution. The farm contains 320 acres of land.

COUNTY CHAIRMAN URGES COMPLIANCE WITH '41 PROGRAM

Compliance with the corn acreage allotments of the 1941 AAA program is more important to DeKalb County and all Corn Belt Farmers than ever before, according to Arthur Lautzenhiser, chairman of the county AAA committee.

Because of the European War and the national defense program, abundant allowance was made for emergency needs and the 1941 allotment for the commercial corn area was kept at the 1940 level, Mr. Lautzenhiser declared. Under normal conditions, the provisions of the AAA Act of 1938 would have brougth about lower allotments in order to balance supplies with actual needs.

"Holding allotments at last year's levels is a safety measure for the Nation, but it also carries some risk for corn farmers," he pointed out. "If many farmers stay out of the program or if yields are above normal, we are almost sure to produce more corn than we need. If we continue to produce more corn than we need, the security of Government loans will be threatened," he warned.

United States farmers in 1940 produced nearly 250,000,000 bushels of corn above the 2,200,000,000 bushels which would have been enough to keep corn supplies at a desirable level. The United States corn supply at the beginning of the present marketing year was 3,150,000,000 bushels—nearly the largest on record. Including other feeds, the Nation has a record feed supply on hand—enough to produce more meat and livestock products than the American public has ever consumed in any one year.

WALTER STUMP TO ADDRESS WITTENBERG BROTHERHOOD

The March meeting of the Wittenberg Brotherhood will be held next Wednesday evening in the St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Auburn. Walter D. Stump will be the speaker of the evening. The church ladies will serve a dinner at 7 o'clock. Following the dinner there will be a number of short talks, with Frank Nicolai acting as toastmaster. All men are invited to attend.

The heirs are the daughter and one son, Joseph Franklin Herrick of Halethorpe, Md. Mrs. Welch filed $300 bond, with Ray C. and Jay W. Dilgard as sureties.

ASSESSORS TO CO-OPERATE IN SPOTTING EVADERS

County and township assessors were commended today for their "splendid cooperation" in securing answers to the interrogatory on the 1940 property tax assessment sheets, "Did you pay any gross income tax to the State of Indiana with respect to your gross income for the preceding calendar year?" in letters addressed to those local officials by Gilbert K. Hewit, director of the state gross income tax division, who stated that the information which the tax division so gained contributed much toward spotting tax evaders and the collection of many thousands of dollars of delinquent tax.

Asking for equal diligence and complete cooperation of the local tax officials in obtaining the answers to the gross income tax interrogatory during the approaching 1941 assessment period, Mr. Hewit expressed his confidence that the assessors would again welcome this opportunity of rendering a distinct service to the honest taxpayers of their communities by aiding the gross income tax department in locating tax evaders.

The addition of the gross income tax interrogatory to the property tax schedule was provided by the 1937 Legislature as an additional means of checking and locating persons liable for gross income tax. The township assessor is mandated to obtain the answer to the question under oath. The law states that, "if any township assessor or deputy assessor shall fail or neglect to require the answer to such interrogatory under oath, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction, shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty dollars ($20) for each case of such omission or neglect."

AUTO DRIVERS MUST SHOW RECEIPTS FOR PERSONAL TAX

Indiana residents applying for automobile, drivers' and chauffeurs' licenses will be required to show personal as well as poll tax receipts under terms of a measure signed Tuesday by Governor Henry F. Schricker.

At the present time only poll tax receipts are required for issuance of these licenses. The law also applies to persons seeking licenses to practice trades or professions for which a permit is required by law.

Non-state residents, persons not required to pay poll tax and corporations are exempt from the measure.

The governor also signed a bill allowing members of the state budget committee to prescribe $8 a day as the maximum for traveling expenses of state employes.

MARCH

Back on the old Roman calendar March was the first month of the year. They were a smart people, those Greeks, for surely the month of March signifies a beginning of a new year in new life. March overcomes January in growth and its wind tempers itself to being mild and often balmy, the song of the bird seeps thru March days and a few persevering crocus and tulips push up their heads to proclaim that the Greeks had the right word for it. Days begin to lengthen and darkness gives way to more daylight for man's work in St. Joe. March does have a way of dampening our enthusiasm as she causes her winds to chill our glow, her storms to stamp on our sentiment. But we remain true to our faith in her as the forerunner of spring and feel that indeed does March herald in a new year.

NO KITCHEN POLICE?

Army life ain't what it used to be! This is proven by the description of the new mess hall of one of the army camps erected in the East. From the angle of potato peeling and dish washing the days of the kitchen police are of the past. The present mess hall in one of the camps is a thing of beauty and a joy forever, in chromium and enamel. All of the equipment found in the kitchen of the most modern of hotels. There are the automatic meat and bread slicers, huge ovens for baking, electric mixers and dish washing machines with the automatic potato peeler to lighten the task for any kitchen policeman! Of course there will still be the task of mopping the floor and emptying the garbage.

OFF TO BERMUDA

You wonder what will be the reaction of the Britisher of Bermuda to the establishing of Americans on their island. This is one of our new defense bases and Uncle Sam is sending about 6,000 soldiers, sailors, marines and their families to establish residence. There is a prediction that although it will be difficult for a native Bermudian to change from his allegience to Britain with the establishing of homes and places of business that the American influence will be great enough that in time the islands will become completely American. Remember that America is given a 99-year lease on this island and that is a long enough time to prove some theory or other. There has been a report that already there were words between the American soldiers and the British over who won the last war! Sounds sort of like us.

Perhaps that it is well for the defense base to be located on a group of the small islands at the end of the country furthest from the exclusive clubs, beaches, shops and hotels which are managed by the British. Of course American businessmen will follow to this 10 square miles of tropical Eden. Time will iron out the difficulties and after all it was a blow to the Bermudian that his little empire was turned over to Uncle Sam. They will do business with these Americans who bring in new life freshness, pep, push and money, but underneath their sentiments are British and it will take years of living on the islands to work out the problem.

NEW MAIL SERVICE

A new United States Highway Mail Service is to be inaugurated in a short time to accommodate that part of the country where railroad postal service does not extend. These mail busses will answer more of the problem than the rural mail service as we now know it. They will carry postal clerks who will cancel and sort mail on route and if any mail is addressed to stops on the road it will be dropped off as they do on the railroads. They will carry stamps, make regular stops and conduct usual postoffice services. This is expected to become a very useful institution after it gets under way.

The original idea for this motor postal service was first put into effect in Sweden about four years ago. They used carriages to reach isolated villages in the mountains where railroads did not travel. Then came the postal bus to replace the carriage method and was designed and equipped the same as the postal car on the train. In Sweden they have special stamps, postcards and special cancellation to show the delivery service was by auto. We may get this later on if our system proves as satisfactory.

It all goes to prove that we are today a widespread land and that with all of our progress we are still isolated in areas from the railroad line of communication. Here in St. Joe we will await the outcome of this new idea.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

The spirit of the anti-Hitler movement in the United States is indicated briefly but forcefully in a few sentences from a recent address by Secretary Ickes:

"There is a widely disseminated and ably conducted movement in this country that draws together such  as would sacrifice democratic ideals and Christian civilization to alien economic and social predispositions. There are those who believe that we ought to bow our heads meekly to the scourge of Nazi-ism, accepting it as something inevitable, as those of the Middle Ages accepted the Black Death."

Most persons who are lukewarm toward the Lend-Lease Bill, or openly hostile to it, will maintain that the Secretary's indictment does not apply to them. The faults of the Nazi doctrines are recognized, and there is no disposition to abandon democracy. It is felt, however, that there are other matters which should be carried in mind.

The first of those considerations, quoting the remarks of a Senator on the floor, is that the passage of the bill would result in "the degradation of Congress, a presidential dictatorship, and entrance into the war." Moreover, there is the view that, after all, it is England's ox that is being gored. Here, again, the Senate furnishes the text. "We are beginning to move our battle fleet and make threatening gestures only now that British imperial interests in Asia seem to be threatened. The minute British imperial interests were threatened, then we began to talk war and act in warlike ways."

It is to be regretted that copyright limitations prevent a liberal use of an article by Leland Stowe, entitled "Scandinavian Twilight," appearing in the Washington Star a few weeks ago. Having spent about six months in Finland, Sweden and Norway, Mr. Stowe reaches the conclusion that after a long period of peace, during which too much effort was spent on social betterment and the settlement of purely domestic problems, Sweden has gone soft; and that although the territorial borders of that land remain intact, a somber twilight is settling on freedom there. Mr. Stowe thinks that in all this there is a lesson for the United States.

In old times, the doctors attacked almost every disease by bleeding the patient. Science has provided better remedies for the individual, but the physician in international affairs who can lay aside the lancet, is yet to appear. War is abhorrent. Probably the doctrine that a nation needs a blood-letting now and then is a falsity. Yet out of all the commotion abroad, there comes the haunting impression that the price of liberty and freedom in the United States may rise in the days that lie ahead.

Taking it for granted that defense is necessary, and that the defense program must go forward, it follows that strikes and labor disputes can be permitted to be an impediment no more than can be a refusal by industrialists to do their part. Nothing can be said in condemnation of a "strike" considered as a protest against existing conditions. How far strikers may go in making the protest effective, when national defense and the common safety are involved, is a much more complex affair.

Germany extinguished strikes in northern Holland by imposing martial law. That would not do here. Realizing this, the work of the Conciliation Service is to be supplemented by that of a board about to be created in the Office of Production Management.

In a court action, which may have far reaching consequences, a number of Washington medical men are charged with violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, and it is alleged that some hospitals have been aiding and abetting. It is claimed that the members of a medical group are attempting to throw a monkey wrench into the machinery of the Group Health Association.

Many have benefitted by the hospitalization plans of the government. On the other hand, there is a kindly feeling toward the individual free lance doctor, whose calming presence can be had in the sick room by a word over the phone. A decision therefore cannot be based on goodwill and friendship. Nor can it be based on the facts. After two weeks or more of testimony, some of them remain to be brought out.

NOT ON YOUR ..., YOUNG MAN

You think your parents do all the work of keeping you safe. Well, sir, they do everything they can, but . . .

In that hospital where you were born, could your daddy have arranged to make danger from fire almost non-existent?

He's a big man, but all by himself could he have got the church where you were baptised and the school you're going to attend built under improved building codes?

And could your mother have fixed it that none of her electric appliances would be a threat to the safety of your home?

Needed for jobs like these are 200 capital stock* fire insurance companies, working together through their national organization, The National Board of Fire Underwriters. They can make your young life safer . . . and they have. You have 200 bodyguards you've never even seen.

Tell your dad you want your home and other family possessions protected with dependable, economical capital stock company fire insurance.

CAPITAL STOCK COMPANY INSURANCE Standard protection

CAPITAL STOCK COMPANY FIRE INSURANCE provides sound protection at a predetermined price, without risk of further cost. GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

SUBSTANTIAL Republican gains over 1932 and 1936 were registered in each of the eight counties of the Fourth Congressional District on November 5, a study of official returns of the last three national elections reveals.

The 1940 Republican vote in the Fourth District was 15 per cent larger than the GOP vote in 1932, and 13.1 per cent larger than the 1936 vote. Largest gains were made in Allen, LaGrange and Steuben counties, although substantial increases were recorded in each of the other counties.

The figures reveal that the Fourth District, which returned heavy Democratic majorities in 1932 and 1936, turned a complete somersault in the third-term election of 1940 and ended up at the top of the Republican column. As a result of the 1940 election, the district is now regarded as one of the strongest Republican districts in the Nation.

IN ORDER to give our readers a graphic picture of the 1940 Republican "revolution" in the Fourth District, we have prepared two tables of statistics, comparing the November 5 Republican vote with the GOP votes in 1932 and 1936. The percentages are based on the returns of the Congressional contests, which pitted Hogg against Farley in 1932 and 1936, and Gillie against Corbett in 1940. A comparison of the Presidential vote for these years would produce similar figures, with slightly larger Republican gains shown. The tables follow:

GOP Vote—1932 and 1940

County	1932	1940	Gain
Adams	39.1	52.7	13 6
Allen	42.5	57.9	15.4
DeKalb	47.1	59.2	12.1
LaGrange	41.9	64 9	23.0
Noble	46.6	59.7	13.1
Steuben	50.6	67.8	17.2
Wells	39.5	48.7	9.2
Whitley	45.7	55.7	10.0
Average	43.6	58.6	15.0

GOP Vote—1936 and 1940

County	1936	1940	Gain
Adams	38.7	52.7	14.0
Allen	42.2	57.9	15.7
DeKalb	48.6	59.2	10.6
LaGrange	53.2	64.9	11 7
Noble	50.9	59.7	8.8
Steuben	55.7	67.8	12.1
Wells	40.7	48 7	8.0
Whitley	43.4	55.7	12.3
Average	44.5	58.6	13.1

UP UNTIL 1940 the Fourth District followed national election trends very closely. In the 1920 victory of President Harding the district returned an 18,000 Republican majority. Republicans carried the district for Coolidge by 12,000 votes in 1924 and gave Hoover a 10,000-vote edge in 1928.

The Democratic trend began in the off-year election of 1930, when Congressman Hogg won re-election by a very scant margin. It reached its peak in 1932, when the Democrats carried the district by 17,000 votes, retarded in the off-year election of 1934, and almost matched its 1932 peak in 1936.

THE REPUBLICAN trend started in the off-year election of 1938, when the Republicans swept Congressman Geo. W. Gillie into office by 20,000 votes and carried every county in the district. It continued in 1940 when Gillie won re-election by 22,000 votes and Willkie carried the district by a 20,000-vote majority.

MANY observers in the history of eight-year political cycles—that once a political trend has started, it is likely to last for at least eight years. If this theory holds true in the Fourth District, it would indicate that the Republican trend is likely to continue until 1946 before another Democratic trend makes its appearance. This is only a theory, however, which Democratic candidates probably will not take very seriously in 1942 and 1944. No man was ever elected on a theory. It takes votes—lots of 'em.

Watch the paper next week for our announcement.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX AS IT AFFECTS FARMERS

Among the many inquiries received by Will H. Smith, U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue for the District of Indiana, concerning Federal Income Tax, there is a very noticeable increase in those from farmers. (Of course, with the reduced exemption, thousands of farmers will be subject to filing a return for the first time.

The law now requires that every single person having a gross income of $800 or more, every married person not living with husband or wife and having a gross income of $800 or more, and married persons living with husband or wife having an aggregate gross income of $2,000 or more, must file a Federal income tax return for the calendar year 1940. The net income is no longer used in determining the liability for filing Federal income tax returns.

The filing period began January 2nd and ends at midnight March 15th. Early filing of returns insures the taxpayer of avoiding any penalties which might be asserted for the returns being filed after the due date.

In order that an accurate return may be filed, the taxpayer should first read carefully and understand the instructions accompanying the forms. It is suggested that a work sheet be made out and checked with the instructions before filling in the forms.

In every case taxpayers should not omit any explanation or information that is essential to a complete audit of the return. Don't overlook any items or schedule on the form which is required to be completed. They are all necessary to the exact computation of the income tax.

If there is any doubt about any items on the return, call at the Internal Revenue Office on the third floor of the Post Office Building, Indianapolis, or at any of the branch offices located in the following cities: East Chicago, Gary, Hammond, South Bend, Fort Wayne, Logansport, Lafayette, Marion, Anderson, Muncie, Terre Haute, Evansville, New Albany, Vincennes, Columbus and Kokomo.

A farmer reporting on the basis of receipts and disbursements (in which no inventory to determine profits is used) shall include in his gross income for the taxable year, (1) the amount of cash or the value of merchandise or other property received during the taxable year from the sale of live stock and produce which were raised during the taxable year or prior years, (2) the profits from the sale of any live stock or other items which were purchased, and (3) gross income from all other sources.

The profits from the sale of live stock or other items which were purchased after February 28, 1913, is to be ascertained by deducting the cost from the sales price in the year in which the sale occurs, except that in the case of the sale of animals purchased as draft or work animals or solely for breeding or dairy purposes and not for resale, the profit shall be the amount of any excess of the sales price over the amount representing the difference between the cost and the depreciation theretofore allowed (but not less than the amount allowable) in respect of such property as a deduction in computing net income.

Amounts expended in the development of farms, orchards, and ranches prior to the time when the productive state is reached may be regarded as investments of capital. Amounts expended in purchasing work, breeding or dairy animals are regarded as investments of capital, and may be depreciated unless such animals are included in an inventory.

The purchase price of an automobile, even when wholly used in carrying on farming operations, is not deductible, but is regarded as an investment of capital. The cost of gasoline, repairs, and upkeep of an automobile if used partly for business purposes and partly for the pleasure or convenience of the taxpayer or his family, such cost may be apportioned according to the extent of the use for purposes of business and pleasure or convenience, and only the proportion of such cost justly attributable to business purposes is deductible as a necessary expense.

U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue
District of Indiana.

CHANGE BRINGS INCREASED BENEFITS TO UNEMPLOYED

INDIANAPOLIS.—Amendments to the Indiana unemployment compensation law approved by the Republican-controlled General Assembly will bring increased benefits to unemployed persons in Indiana totaling almost $1,500,000 and at the same time reducing tax payments by employers by a similar amount on basis of the present law, a study of the act revealed here today.

The new unemployment compensation act greatly liberalizes the old law. The employers' reserve fund on January 31, 1941, reached a total of $49,154,075 and Republican leaders believe this to be sufficient where employees may receive added benefit and the tax on employers reduced without injury to the fund.

Maximum weekly benefits are increased in the new act from $15 to $16 and the maximum duration of benefits is increased from 15 to 16 weeks, with the waiting period reduced from two weeks to one week. These three changes in the present law, those familiar with its operation say, will mean increased benefits, on the basis of last year's experience, of approximately $140,000.

While the bill liberalizes the benefits to the unemployed, paradoxically it also benefits the employer in several instances. It postpones taking effect of penalty rates on employers with depleted reserve accounts from January 1, 1941, to January 1, 1943, and reduces reserve fund requirements for tax rate reductions.

Under the present law where the employer's reserve fund was 7½ per cent of the previous year's payroll, his tax rate was 2.3 including federal and state tax; 11 per cent of the previous year's payroll, 1.3, and 15 per cent, the rate is .435. Under the amended act the reserve fund requirements provide a tax of 2 per cent at 7½ per cent of the previous year's payroll; 1 per cent at 9 per cent, and .435 at 10½ per cent of the previous year's payroll.

These changes will mean reduced tax payments by employers of approximately $1,400,000 on the basis of the present law, and in addition the bill conforms to changes in the federal law exempting the amount of each salary payment in excess of $3,000 from the tax, and exempting newsboys, insurance salesmen and others from the act.

The new act also removes from rights to benefits employees who leave their employment to get married or because of marital reasons, and employees discharged for proved dishonesty.

An American Mind

Our Weekly Amateur Contribution, Send in Your Lines

This life it's not so hard—for you and me,
With happiness, freedom and justice,
Behind love and health and liberty,
Daily hardships strike most of us.
At the time they seem so tough,
But a little courage and strength and prayer
Will conquer any trouble, or even a bluff
May bring assurance to beat that dare.

Let us meet the sun with a gallant stride,
A hearty laugh or an occasional smile,
To pass the time of day, and there abide
With friends and conscience in our file,
Of greater spirit made happier,
Through an absence of cruelty,
Shall we travel about with fear?
Of course, for we are of equality.
This land, this sea a gift to man,
Producing peace and preserving security,
Be thankful for you're an American.

Now, down deep in your heart,
Aren't there a few honest understandings,
Sufferings—little of which we are a part,
Where today God's way is revealing
The truth of horror, a maniac of war,
Bringing about an eleventh commandment,
Also for the happiness within mankind,
Among people I pray, bravery you'll find,
To face the day with an American mind.

LOG of the UNITED STATES MARINES

MADE SUPREME SACRIFICE

It is a long time since the echoes of the first World War rolled away, but in the voluminous records of the War Department stories of gallantry and self-sacrifice are still being revealed. In such cases some appropriate recognition is made, even though more than a score of years have passed.

More than twenty-two years ago United States Marines were holding tenaciously to the gains they had made in Belleau Wood, France. An intense enemy bombardment of high-explosive and gas shells wounded many members of the company.

One badly wounded marine had his gas mask shot away, yet disregarding his own safety and knowing full well that the effects of the gas would be fatal to him, Gunnery Sergeant Fred W. Stockham insisted upon giving his gas mask to the wounded man.

Then, with undaunted courage and valor, Stockham continued to direct and assist in the evacuation of the wounded in an area saturated with gas and swept with artillery fire, until he collapsed from the effects of the noxious fumes. His exposure to the gas caused his death a few days later.

When a review of the War Department records several months ago revealed the heroism of Stockham, he was posthumously awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor by direction of President Roosevelt. Rarely have the records brought to light a story more replete with nobility of character, human interest and self-sacrifice.

B. & O. SPECIAL TRAIN TO Visit St. Joe, on Wed. March 19

THE SOYBEAN SPECIAL

A six coach train being operated by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in cooperation with the State Agricultural Extension Service and Experiment Station.

O. K. Quivey and R. L. Winklepleck, agricultural agents for the B. & O. Railroad, who are scheduled to speak when the six car Soybean Special stops at St. Joe on Wednesday, March 19 at 8:30 o'clock A. M. are the men behind the sponsorship of the educational train, according to County Agricultural Agent C. E. Baker.

The Soybean Special, which is visiting Indiana, has the endorsement of the American Soybean Association as well as the National Soybean Processors' Association, both of which are cooperating with the B. & O. Railroad in scheduling a visit of this traveling educational institution at St. Joe.

The train will include lecture and demonstration cars for both men and women as well as an exhibit car in which will be shown various ways in which soybeans are now being utilized as well as cultural methods which can be used to advantage.

Agronomists of the Purdue University Agricultural Extension Service will be on hand to tell about the latest developments in soybean production and a cooking school, to be held under the direction of Mrs. Aneta Beadle Vogler, former Purdue extension nutritionist, is scheduled for the women visitors.

"The visit of the Soybean Special will offer an opportunity to DeKalb County farmers and homemakers to learn more about soybans, which are an important cash crop as well as feed crop," said County Agent Baker. "Contrary to general opinion, soybeans are not just a 'poor land' crop, but can be made into one of the surer sources of cash income on highly fertile soil if proper cultural methods are used."

STOP! THINK! WRITE!

(Reading Time: 2½ minutes)

Dear Fellow Christians:

I address this open letter to you for one reason—to ask you to THINK. I ask you to consider seriously the food problem that faces the Small Democracies in Europe today. This is the only question I ask you as Christians, "Shall the innocent men, women, and children of the over-run and plundered countries die because the outside world permits them to face famine and sickness unaided?"

Many of you will remember far better than I can that during the last war, Americans came forward and provided the people of the Lowlands with food and supplies. Many of you contributed to the fund which made possible the purchase of vital food and medical supplies that saved millions of lives in Europe by 1918. This war is now only in name. There are still guns, parades, and hunger; hunger and the grim wake of warfare leaving disease and food rationing.

Millions of people in the Small Democracies of Europe are existing—I mean that word literally—are existing on HOPE. Yes, they are hoping that somewhere in the world that has once more gone mad and grown so dark around them, there is someone who will lift a voice and a hand to help body and soul together. They remember the United States,—for this is the nation which saved them in the last world conflict.

THESE NATIONS DO NOT APPEAL THIS TIME FOR FUNDS. The issue is moral, not monetary. These nations save their own funds. They would be able to purchase their own food and hire neutral ships to transport the food to their shores, IF arrangements can be made with Germany and Great Brittain that will guarantee passage and distribution of these supplies to those in need.

The National Committee on Food for the Small Democracies of Europe, the Hon. Herbert Hoover, Chairman, has long since recognized the coming danger of starvation. The desperate traces of disease have long been evident in these little countries that heretofore have been so dependent on the outside world for food commodities. Since the beginning of the Committee's activities, thousands and thousands of Americans have seen the swiftness of this danger along with them. Today there are over six hundred of the leading men and women of the American public life who are members of and who work for the principles of the Committee. There are 1500 communities who have active Sub-Committees. Over one thousand public bodies have,—in the last month

PENSION PLAN WOULD RAISE TWO BILLION DOLLARS

The following article is from Doctor Townsend who is in Washington contacting Congress about the Townsend bill H. R. 1036 providing for old age pensions on a pay as you go basis.

"There will be pension legislation at this session of Congress. The administration has sent up a trial balloon by suggesting $30 per month at age 60 without a means test. It is, however, of paramount importance to our cause that a set sum shall not be established. Retirement compensation must be geared to increasing prosperity.

"There is wide divergence of opinion in Washington at the present time as to whether there should be curtailment of private spending—or a greater expansion of consumer production with no artificially administered checks.

Noted economists assure me there is no possibility of inflation until all factories and men are employed. As loyal Americans we wish to be on the safe side. Therefore I am requesting all club secretaries to advise me immediately as to the wisdom of the following proposal.

"We realize that the establishing of the two per cent gross income tax as a means of financing national pensions is of first importance. We wish to meet the President and his advisers more than half way. Some of our friends in Congress make this suggestion for your comment. They propose that the two per cent gross income tax be established forthwith and—for the duration of the war—there be a minimum of $30 a month placed upon pensions for those past 60 with the balance raised by the gross income tax to BE APPLIED TO NATIONAL DEFENSE.

"At the present rate of production, this would add not less than two billion dollars per year to the national defense funds.

"When peace is once more established and the need for all out expenditures for defense has been ended, then the entire amount raised by the two per cent gross income tax shall be equally apportioned among all citizens past 60 who refrain from employment and spend their allotment within thirty days."

The fact that you are down isn't as important as whether or not you are satisfied in being there.

A woman will complain of hunger, then sit down and order a lettuce sandwich.

Most of us might worry about how we do it, than what we do.

HIP, HIP, HOORAY

Your editor hopes this is not taken too personally by any St. Joe woman who has been wearing some of the British insignia as patriotic costume jewelry. We think there are some pretty pieces and like to know that even fashion bows to the present emergency in display of sentimental fancywork. But we do feel that our own flag makes an attractive pin, our eagle as pretty a lapel piece and the stars and stripes lend as much charm and distinction to the feminine costume. American women have given, and are continuing to give, time and money for British relief. This will go on as long as the need demands it. But in decorating her costume, if she is going to wear patriotic pieces, we would like to see the eagle instead of the lion. It is only natural to feel that the insignia of our own land should be given preference on an American woman's outfit.

MAN'S BEST FRIEND

A lonely dog makes the front page and the photo section, a dog with no pedigree, no blue ribbons, no fame attached to him until he died because he loved with all his dog's heart. We are a people who have been criticized for being overly sentimental, that we are easy prey for emotionalism. That is the reason we gave such importance to the story of a dog who died of loneliness for his master who had left him to join an army and serve his country. The American press prints the last details of the case for newspaper space is not too scarce to overlook a human interest story when it comes their way. People all over the country were interested and followed the news of blood transfusions intravenous injections, a n airplane flight to see the master. Folks stood in a cold rain and shivering winds to see the plane as it made its stops from Kansas to California. Yes, we are sentimental, and so we are sad for the dog who couldn't win the fight, the soldier who lost his friend and for the basic reason that caused the separation in the first place!

IT WOULD DO IT

Business houses in St. Joe wouldn't do it to their customers but that doesn't mean that they wouldn't like to see how it would work! A London firm of military tailors had difficulty in collecting outstanding bills. Finally they decided a way to get action and to warn other tailors was to give publicity to the defaulters. So up on their front window they posted a list with the name, private address, unit and amount due the firm. As you know, it resulted in 50% settlement of the debts. When the neighborhood is to hear of it, when it becomes public conversation over town, the man will think twice before courting such widespread notice of his refusal to meet just obligations.

The use of the charge account should not be abused, but because it has been abused we must suffer an increase in cost on goods. If a merchant can carry charge accounts on his books and not lose on any of them at the end of the year, then he is fortunate and he will pass his good luck on to his trade. Of course in the London case only 50% of them paid their accounts. Probably the others had already established a reputation for themselves and didn't mind the additional advertising. The men who serve the people here in St. Joe have an investment in goods, an overhead to meet, but they are not making up lists to paste in their front windows. They are hoping their customers will read this article.

KEEP THEM BUSY

Every so often there comes an investigation by states into the prison labor working plan and they find, unfortunately for those inside the big house, that there is not enough work to keep the hands busy. Laws have been made to restrict certain labor in prisons, from doing jobs that would cause competition in the outside industry. Since prison labor is so cheap it would mean that the outside market would be harmed for the man who has abided by the law and remained free. There is the creation of the problem of idle prisoners. Prisoners should have to help the tax payer maintain them. They have a duty to this world which is clothing, feeding and sheltering them. Prisoners should not be idle. They should be in training for renewing life on the outside when they are discharged. State institutions have tried to keep the priosners busy with goods needed for state institutions, but this is not enough work.

Now that the defense industry is calling for skilled labor and such labor is hard to find to fill the bill, there might be sense to developing skilled labor within our prison walls. Could our national defense problem tie up with our national prison problem and a way found to assist both?

FIFTY YEARS OF PROGRESS

Private enterprise in the electrical industry has long been under political attack by those who would socialize the industry, in spite of the fact that it is giving the homes, farms and industries of America abundant, low-priced power—the best electric service in the world.

The electric industry is just about fifty years old. Half a century ago it started from scratch, and the skeptics of the day were certain that Thomas Edison's wild dream would amount to nothing. Today, it represents an investment of $14,000,000,000. It has 30,000,000 customers. It pays over $400,000,000 in taxes each year. It has 300,000 employes.

Electricity is the one and only item in the government's standard cost of living index which is cheaper now than before the last war.

Defense is today's big issue. Where shall we obtain the power defense production requires? The answer is plain—from the private industry. Government and municipal plants, despite the hundreds of millions of tax dollars that have been poured into them, account for only about 10 per cent of total power output. Private utilities provide 90 per cent of all power used in this country. In our principal manufacturing areas, where the bulk of defense orders must be filled, they provide close to 100 per cent.

Look at a power map of this country. The private utilities are marvels of integration. Each system is hooked up with other systems—steam plants stand ready to buttress hydro plants. Power failure, for more than very brief periods of time, is unknown. That is the result of fifty years of research—fifty years of pioneering—fifty years of private enterprise seeking to better serve the country. Government never made a single important contribution to electrical progress. Government only imitates.

There need be no fear of power shortages here—if we just let private enterprise continue to do the job. It asks no favor. It asks only the opportunity to serve.

LOG of the UNITED STATES MARINES

FIRST LOG OF MARINES

Battered and worn is an old day book that rests in the archives of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, yet within its covers are some of the most dissimilar entries ever included in a single volume. Its pages reveal records of Masonic meetings, tavern bills, hardware accounts and data comprising the first log of the Marines.

Flames of the Revolution had not yet begun to smolder in 1749, when a Quaker gentleman neatly inscribed in the leather-bound book the minutes of a Masonic meeting. For some six years thereafter accounts of similar meetings were faithfully entered in the ledger of Tun Tavern, formerly a riverside hostelry near the Delaware in old Philadelphia.

But the Masons moved to new quarters in 1755, leaving their ledger behind. A score of years later when the Marines were drumming up recruits for the new Continental Navy, they made their rendezvous at the tavern, and the book was used to jot down the names and records of the newly-recruited sea soldiers.

Almost as legible as when they were written the book reveals the muster roll, pay roll and other records of these early American Marines, the first of the entries beginning in 1776, and showing the various sums they paid in pounds, shillings and pence.

Soon after 1779 the Marines abandoned the book and the tavern proprietor found it handy to itemize the bar bills of his customers, these accounts running up until 1786. Nearly fifty years later a hardware merchant used the aging tome as a day book.

After serving so many purposes the forgotten book lay in an attic for another half-century until it became the property of the Historical Society in 1891.

Today is ours: what do we fear?
Today is ours; we have it here.
Let us treat it kindly, that it may Wish, at least, with us to stay.
Let's banish business, banish sorrow;
To the gods belong tomorrow.
—Crowley.

NOT ON YOUR LIFE, YOUNG MAN

You think your parents do all the work of keeping you safe. Well, sir, they do everything they can, but . . .

In that hospital where you were born, could your daddy have arranged to make danger from fire almost non-existent?

He's a big man, but all by himself could he have got the church where you were baptised and the school you're going to attend built under improved building codes?

And could your mother have fixed it that none of her electric appliances would be a threat to the safety of your home?

Needed for jobs like these are 200 capital stock* fire insurance companies, working together through their national organization, The National Board of Fire Underwriters. They can make your young life safer . . . and they have. You have 200 bodyguards you've never even seen.

Tell your dad you want your home and other family possessions protected with dependable, economical capital stock company fire insurance.

CAPITAL STOCK Standard protection COMPANY INSURANCE

*CAPITAL STOCK COMPANY FIRE INSURANCE provides sound protection at a predetermined price, without risk of further cost. In addition to legal reserves, its policies are backed by cash capital and surplus funds set aside to meet not merely normal claims but also the sweeping losses due to conflagrations and other catastrophes. GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

REAPPORTIONMENT: No change in the make-up of the Fourth Congressional District is provided for in the new Indiana Reapportionment Law, which will become effective in 1942. The district is to be continued as the Fourth Indiana District and is to be made up of the same counties—Adams, Allen, DeKalb, LaGrange, Noble, Steuben, Whitley and Wells.

Only two Fourth District counties were threatened in debate over the law in the state legislature. Efforts were made to add LaGrange County on the Third District and Whitley County on the Fifth. Both moves were promptly and effectively countered by District GOP Chairman Ralph F. Gates, working in close harmony with Congressman George W. Gillie and Fourth District legislators at Indianapolis.

The law eliminated the Eleventh District, represented by Congressman Larrabee, a Democrat, and provided for changes in the Second, Third, Fifth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth and Twelfth districts.

The present Fourth District was created ten years ago, after the 1930 census, when Wells and Adams counties were taken from the old Eighth District and added to the old Twelfth District.

SKIP ELECTION: Seven Republican and three Democratic mayors of cities in the Fourth District have had their terms of office extended for one year, under terms of a law enacted at the recent session of the Indiana Assembly. The law postpones municipal elections in Indiana from 1942 until 1943, and extends the terms of the following Fourth District mayors: Republicans—Edward D. Willis, Angola; L. E. Potter, Auburn; J. A. Brown, Columbia City; Forest Elsey, Decatur; Harry W. Baals, Fort Wayne; U. C. Brouse, Kendallville; G. D. Foster, Ligonier. Democrats—Franklin Buckner, Bluffton; Fred L. Feick, Garrett; H. J. Roemke, Shirley City (Woodburn.)

MILD CAMPAIGN: With municipal elections postponed, and with neither a president, governor or senator to be voted upon in Indiana, prospects are for a mild election in 1942. Candidates for Congress will head the ticket in the Fourth District. Various state, county and township officers also will be elected. No senatorial election is scheduled until 1944, when the term of Senator Van Nuys expires.

STATUE: Huey P. Long, Louisiana storm center in life, is still stirring up controversies. This time it is about his statue on Capitol Hill. Since last December the Huey Long statue has stood draped in white sheets, in Statuary Hall. It has never been dedicated. Meanwhile five members of the House who won their seats by unseating the Long machine in Louisiana and sending many of its members to jail, are ignoring the statue, and no date has been set for its dedication. Its white draperies are beginning to show signs of soil and unless the statuary is "loaned or leased" to Louisiana, or soon dedicated and accepted by Capitol officials it may have to be locked in a spare room while its protective raiments are laundered.

BIG BUSINESS: The Post Office Department has issued a brief history of the United States postal service. It says in part that "The Postal Service today comprises our largest savings bank, our largest express business, our largest system for the transfer of money our largest agency available to the people for the investment of their savings in Government bonds."

The complete historical pamphlet is available without cost and will be sent to anyone who addresses a postcard to Congressman Gillie requesting it.

FREE BOOKLETS: Other Government publications which citizens of the Fourth District may obtain free of charge through Congressman Gillie include: "Farm Fences," a helpful booklet for farmers; "Aunt Sammy's Radio Recipes," a cook book popular with housewives; "Prenatal Care" and "Infant Care," of special interest to young mothers; "How to Stop Farm Accidents," a safety publication, and "Practical Fish Cookery," a fine cook book on fish. Send in for them today. They will be mailed to you promptly.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

During the past eight months deaths in airplane accidents have totalled fifty-four. The injuries lately suffered by Eddie Rickenbacker probably had something to do with bringing the situation to a head in Congress. The House has ordered an investigation of airplane disasters among the craft of commercial lines.

Those who keep their feet upon the solid earth have not been neglected in favor of those who prefer the air. The House has placed almost nine hundred million dollars at the command of the Agricultural Department for the expenses of next year. The farmer is in need of help. The demand for war material has caused agricultural exports to drop to a figure not approximated in the last half-century at least.

Persons who like light opera will recall a song from the Mikado, the burden of which is: "Let the punishment fit the crime, I say, let the punishment fit the crime." If one prefers high brow literature, there is Mr. Shakespeare's remark about the engineer getting a hoist with his own petard. Readers were ruffled to learn of the closing by Italy of American consulates in Palermo and Naples. The State Department has shut the doors of Italian consulates in Newark, N. J. and Detroit, Michigan. Rome was shrewd enough to let the incident pass, for the time being, at least, on the theory that the closing of the Italian diplomatic offices was something that concerned the United States, rather than Italy.

A portion of the English navy slipped over to the Lofoten Islands of Norway, destroyed eleven enemy vessels, took more than two hundred prisoners, and went away without the loss of a man. In the darkest days of the American revolution, John Paul Jones raised the morale of his compatriots by similar expeditions to the British Isles. England is eager to receive material sinews of war from the United States. She is willing to adopt old time American tactics also, it seems. It is bad policy, by the way, to assume that anything has lost its effectiveness because it is old. A few days ago, a World War shell exploded in a Washington junk yard.

When Panama agreed to the establishment of air bases in that country, citizens of the Unites States released a sigh of relief. Bombing of the kind that London endures in a single night might be sufficient to close the canal. During the Spanish-American war, the skipper and crew of an American naval vessel won fame and praise for a dash round Cape Horn. Such an exploit in 1941 would confirm a good impression of American seamanship. It would have little value as an act of defensive warfare.

Praise and condemnation of statesmen and fighters may well be suspended for a moment, in favor of a word of comment upon the efforts of one who labored in the gentle arts of peace, Gutson Borglum is remembered by the multitude chiefly on account of his gigantic carvings of American historic figures on the face of Stone Mountain in Georgia. Mr. Borglum was called upon to lay down the tools of his craft with work unfinished. To that extent, his experience was commonplace and ordinary. The same observation does not hold true with respect to what he left behind.

Just a comment—March came in like a lion and has roared intermittently ever since. The more superstitious among us must be looking for the proverbial lamb. Has it ever occurred to you that if those who forecast six weeks more of Winter if the Ground Hog sees his shadow or Ground Hog Day were right in their predictions we should stand up and cheer if the day is sunshiny, for we have of late been having more than six weeks of Winter after the first of February.

STOP! THINK! WRITE!

and a half,—communicated with this Committee urging it to persist in its efforts to bring salvation to the starving millions in Europe's fallen democracies.

The appeal that has been voiced by the Committee is not based upon an emotional feeling for a distant people. EXPERIENCED field men, AMERICANS wise in the work of fighting famine, have reported on conditions in Belgium in the early part of February. THEY SAID THAT UNLESS FOOD SUPPLIES WERE MADE AVAILABLE SHORTLY, FAMINE WOULD BE INEVITABLE. Reports from Holland, Norway, Poland and Finland are not quite so pessimistic. However, it has been indicated that these small democracies cannot sustain themselves until the next harvest which is seven months away.

When the reports began to filter back from the observations of the field men, we began to realise what food rationing really means. They were made graphic by the following comparison: In Belgium, for example food rations mean the following diet to be eaten for ALL DAY, EVERY DAY! One half of a loaf of bread (4 oz.) made of 20% potato flour and the rest of grist flour; meat rations equal one third of a pork chop per day. Fats are increasingly precious. The daily allotment is ½ thimble full! And each person is allowed five sixths of a medium sized potato each day.

Now I ask you if these people are to be left facing these rations until even they are reduced to nothing. Should epidemic grow while the world provided no help THINK of this matter with a Christian outlook. Can we strengthen democracy in the world by starving these little democracies into the ground by our indifference? THINK this over—and then WRITE to: The National Committee of Food for the Small Democracies, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York, N. Y., and express your opinion on this matter. Help establish public support of this "Hoover Committee."

Sincerely,

Signed: Rev. Frank Stevenson.

P. S. I shall be glad to provide free literature concerning the work and principles of this committee and to any organization or individual interested in it.

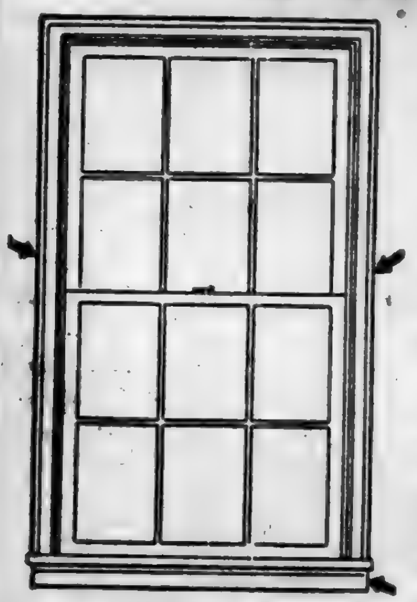
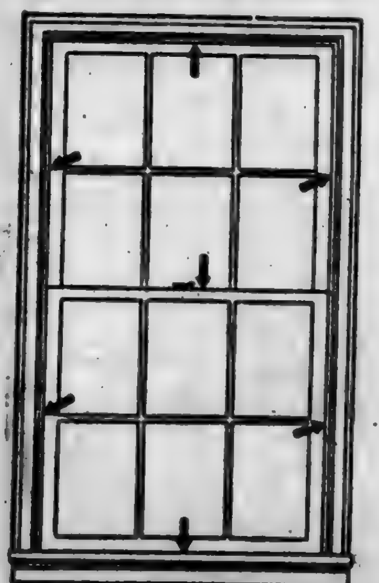
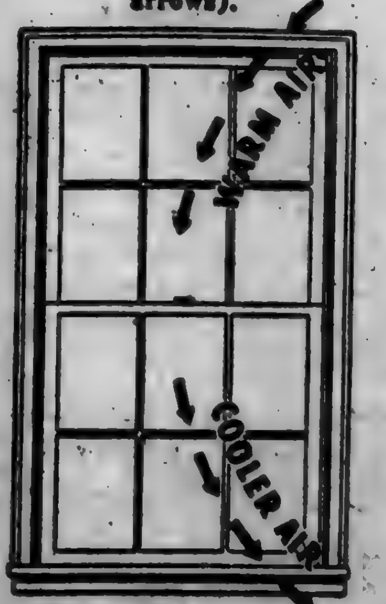
EASIEST TIME TO CURE DRAFTS IS WHEN YOU BUILD!



Poor wall joint between window frame and wall causes drafts (see arrows).



Poor fitting window sash allow cold air to leak in causing drafts (see arrows).



A single pane of glass cools warm air quickly. Cool air drops to floor causing drafts.

WATCH THESE THREE PLACES IF YOU WOULD STOP THEM

There is just no excuse for drafts in your new home, because drafts are definitely curable if you will watch just three places—and all three places are around your windows.

First and foremost offender in the making of drafts in your new home is the window frame. Now you've never bought window frames so you don't know anything about them and that is one reason why so many home builders have drafty windows, because they were careless about the window frame that went into their homes. Now, we aren't going to go into detail about window frames. We just want you to remember that the most important thing about a window frame is how it joins the wall. If it makes a permanent leakproof weathertight joint with the wall—fine and dandy. If it doesn't, you'll have drafts, no end of drafts. How can you make sure about a weathertight joint? Just specify that the window frames used in your new home have wide blind stop construction. This special construction should be familiar to your contractor.

Proper Fitting Necessary

Next in importance to window frame is the window sash (the part of the window that moves within the frame). Many home builders buy window frames in one place and sash in another with the result that the sash and frame never fit properly in spite of trimming and cutting on the job. And sash that don't fit properly cause drafts, and more drafts. The modern trend is towards what is known as complete window units that are delivered with frame and sash precision fitted to each other at the factory. Many of these window units are even complete with weatherstrip. In any event be sure that the window sash are fitted properly to the window frame and you'll eliminate another big source of drafts.

Glass Cools Air

Now here is the third cause of drafts. It's warm air being quickly cooled against a single pane of glass. The cold air then drops to the floor. This flow of air causes drafts. What's the cure? A double pane of glass. Some windows are made so that this double pane of glass fits on the inside of the window, while the most common is the ordinary storm windows which are hung on the outside. Whether your double glass is inside or outside, the result is the same. The glass that is within the heated room is kept warmer by the dead air space between the double panes. Result: Warm air is not cooled so fast: no cool air—no drafts.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVI (56 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY MARCH 20, 1941 NUMBER 12

ST. JOE NEWS OBSERVED OPEN HOUSE SATURDAY

Citizens called to inspect Installation of New Press and Remodeling of Printing Plant.

FORMER PUBLISHERS PRESENT

Present Publisher took Charge of St. Joe News on March 1, 1906, 35 Years Ago.

LLOYD W. YEISER GIVES HISTORY

The St. Joe News, one of a few remaining country newspapers that flourished in Northeastern Indiana there and four decades ago, celebrated the completion of an extensive improvement and remodeling program, last Saturday afternoon and evening.

Several of those who were formerly connected with the paper, were on hand to renew old friendships and celebrate the event with Editor and Mrs. Leighty. Lee O. Tustison, publisher of The Defiance Crescent-News, William Quance, connected with the Auburn Printing Company and L. W. Yeiser, who has abandoned newspaper work for the farm, were the ones present who had taken their turn at publishing the paper. Their wives were also present, as was Fred Quance, of Auburn.

A few local callers came in the afternoon to note the improvements. At six o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Leighty took their out-of-town guests to the Akins Tea Room, to enjoy one of the chicken dinners, which have become so popular in The St. Joe Valley.

Several hours of the evening were spent in greeting the many friends who called.

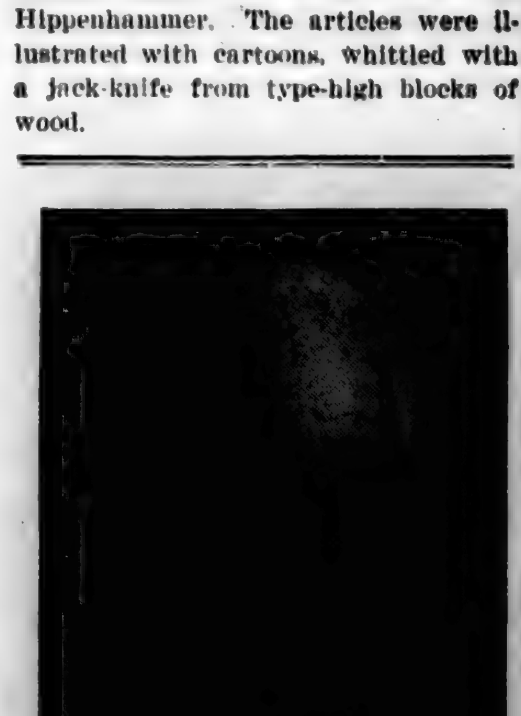
As the years have passed nearly all of the newspapers in towns the size of St. Joe have found it necessary to suspend publication due to the lack of patronage, but your local paper has gone forward and is today up-to-date with modern equipment and is housed in as neat printing rooms as you might desire to see.

A new pony Miehle press has just been added.

Mr. Leighty has asked the writer to give some of the early history of the paper and we are now serving notice to all those who are under fifty years of age and are not interested in the past history of St. Joe and the paper, to desist from reading this article right now.

The News was first issued by Mort E. Olds, in the 1880's, as an advertising sheet for the store with which he was connected. Items about local people were interspersed with the advertising to make it the more readable. It continued in this form until 1885, when it began regular publication with a subscription list. Mr. Olds continued at the helm until 1900 with the exception of two short periods, when the editorship was entrusted to others. For a short time Bert Bowman, now employed on The Chicago Tribune, was the editor.

Mr. Olds had a wide reputation as an original writer and the articles that brought his paper popularity were written under the name of Barcus Q. Hippenhammer. The articles were illustrated with cartoons, whittled with a jack-knife from type-high blocks of wood.



LLOYD W. YEISER
(Publisher from 1900 to 1906)

The writer appeared upon the scene, May 4, 1900 and spent six busy but happy years recording the joys and sorrows of the community. When we arrived the working force of the paper was one Delbert Meek, brother of Leslie Meek, now a local barber. Delbert is now engaged in the job printing business at Indianapolis. Within a very few weeks Mr. Meek discovered that if he and I were both to continue eating, he would have to resign and hunt a more lucrative position. This he did and Ray Sheffer, a crippled son of Dr. and Mrs. B. S. Sheffer, came into the office to set the body type for the paper. His physical condition rendered him incapable of other work about the shop. We continued this way for several years and then it became necessary to have more help. In looking around for a boy that would make a capable printer's devil we decided that Fred Leighty was to be the victim if he were willing. Fred didn't ask for the job. We just went down onto the street and got him and he has been here practically all the time to the present date—39 years.

FRED B. LEIGHTY

The Editor of 1906—Now having spent 39 Years in The News Office.

The newspaper publishers in the county in 1900 were: Henry Little, Garrett Clipper; George Gordon, Auburn Dispatch; Mr. Barnes, Auburn Courier; Frank Willis, Waterloo Press; L. H. Higley, Butler Record and we believe O. H. Downey was at the helm of the Butler Herald.

It might interest our older readers to recall about the way the town was made up in 1900.

Doctors Bowman and Sheffer were looking after the health of the populace, the latter being located in an office building just to the west of the present Bowman home and the second story was occupied by the I. O. O. F. lodge. The Hon. J. D. Leighty had served his time in Congress and was pension agent for Indiana with headquarters at Indianapolis. The bank was operated as a private bank with W. C. Patterson as cashier. The owners were J. D. Leighty, Emilus Case and Mr. Patterson.

The Big Four Store company operated the drug store and a general store, located to the west of the bank in a brick building that later burned and was replaced by the present structure now occupied by the Bowman drug store and the Lyon general store. The News occupied the second story over the drug and general store. W. C. DeLong conducted a lunch room and novelty store in a brick building located between the Lutheran Church and The persent printing office building. The latter building was then used as a grocery by Martin Tustison. August Kinsey was the hardware merchant and funeral director and held forth in the rooms still occupied by the Kinsey store.

Free Zeigler was the harness maker and his business was housed where Dr. DeMuth now holds forth.

Chris Sailer, one of two remaining in business at this time who were here in 1900, had a blacksmith shop at the rear of his residence lot a block south of the Lutheran Church. C. A. Patterson was a member of the Big Four Store and Henry Hathaway was employed in the drug department. A. B. Filley and Harry Kees operated a sawmill and Heatherington and Kiger had a handle factory, both concerns being located north of the B. & O tracks.

C. R. Price had arrived in St. Joe early in the Spring and had his dentist's office with Dr. Bowman. Dr. Price is still with us having had an extensive practice during this two score and one years.

The postoffice was located in the front room of a large frame building located where the Gerig Hatchery building now stands. Daniel Baker was a representative of the International Harvester Company out of Fort Wayne and Mrs. Baker had charge of the postoffice. She was assisted by her daughter, now Mrs. F. R. Bowman.

The Sol Barney general store, a large frame building, stood where the Zonker implement business is now operated.

Mr. Case and Richard Culbertson had a hardware where the Schondelmayer store now is and they were at this time closing out a lumber business. J. C. Hull who was with us up to within a very few yars ago, had his barber shop where the Sheffer store is now located. Z. T. Kagey and son, Charles, had a grocery and bakery in the building now owned by Harry Hursh, and just to the west of that was the Ben Leighty meat market.

Sam Openlander was the B. & O. agent and the depot was located east of the grain elevator. The Wabash railroad was not built until several years later.

Much more of interest might be recorded but this is a fair representation of St. Joe in 1900. The town was thriving and drew business from a wide section. Naturally the picture began to change with the advent of the automobile and improved means of transportation.

But back to The News and its history. Mr. and Mrs. Yeiser found it necessary to return to Avilla in 1906 and Fred took over the paper. He was only seventeen years of age and was probably the youngest editor in the state. For a short time several years later Lee O. Tustison was associated in the business but Fred got a new partner, the present Mrs. Leighty and they have continued as the publishers, with William Quance serving as editor for two years in the early twenties.

Some time there is an inclination to poke fun at the small town newspaper, but my observance is that in most cases the local paper is ahead of the other business interests of the town. With papers dropping out of circulation on all sides, don't you think that the present management of the St. Joe News is to be congratulated upon the fact that it has been able to progress during all of these years.

I am afraid I have wearied even your older readers, so will sign off, but with this admonition, that you visit your home newspaper and see one of the neatest and most up-to-the-minute print shops to be found in any small Indiana town.

L. W. YEISER.

State Wide Open Season on Red Fox Continued by Assembly

A two-year open season on red fox throughout Indiana, enacted by the General Assembly and approved by Governor Schricker, removes the temporary protection which these animals had enjoyed in the Southern part of the state after expiration of the previou sstatute on January 15.

This combined action of the legislatures and the Governor ends the confusion which resulted in some parts of the state after January 15. A previous law opened the season on red fox in the Southern part of Indiana until January 15, 1941. With the expiration of this law, the red fox was protected in the Southern counties until the new law, carrying an emergency clause, was signed and became effective.

Now there is no closed season on red fox in Indiana until March 15, 1943. The grey fox has not been protected in any part of the state in recent years. In other words there is no restriction on the killing of either red or grey fox at any time of the year and this open season continues until March 15, 1943.

The fox is regarded as an enemy by many farmers, who charge it with the killing of poultry, sheep and other small stock. In some counties fox are said to be numerous and a real nuisance, with the farmers planning united efforts against them. The red fox has been sought by many trappers as the pelts bring a good price and this species also furnishes sport for the hundreds of Hoosier "fox chasers" who thrill to the sound of their dogs on the trail.

HALL HERD GIVEN NATIONAL RECOGNITION

Three cows in the herd of F. A. Hall of Garrett, Indiana, have campleted official records in the Herd Improvement Division qualifying them for admission to the Advanced Register of The American Guernsey Cattle Club, according to Karl B. Musser, secretary.

A three and one-half year old cow in the Hall herd, Ilma of Bear Lake 474671 produced in 288 days 8764.0 pounds of milk and 505.9 pounds of butter fat in class DHI. Another Guernsey Malena of Bear Lake 424083 as a five year old made in 351 days 9968.6 pounds of milk and 506.6 pounds of butter fat in class AHI. Also three and one-half year old Shirley of Hall Acres 536380 produced in 343 days 10069.2 pounds of milk and 533.7 pounds of butter fat in class DHI.

NEW REPUBLICAN STATUTE RELIEVES PROPERTY TAXES

Local property taxpayers will be relieved of most of the cost of medical and hospital care for recipients of old age, blind, and dependent children assistance under provisions of senate bill 59, enacted by the 82nd General Assembly, it was pointed out.

The bill, which becomes effective January 1, 1942 increases the maximum monthly award from $30 to $40. The federal government will assume the major part of the cost of medical and hospital care, with state and county governments participating.

Under existing law township trustees paid approximately $500,000 to doctors and hospitals, it has been estimated. Under the new provisions, the townships will be relieved of this expense, with the federal government paying $200,000, the state $180,000, and the counties $120,000. Thus, it was explained, property taxpayers will be relieved of $380,000 of present costs.

MARCH 29 KNOWN AS RADIO MOVING DAY

March 29 will be Radio Moving Day throughout the nation, when 90 per cent of all broadcast stations will have a new spot on the dial. Of 883 broadcasters in the country, 795 are scheduled to change.

The governments of the United States, Canada, Mexico, Cuba and Haiti have been planning this reallocation for three years. It will bring better reception of programs and eliminate interference from stations broadcasting from outside the United States.

Persons with manual tuning radios will simply tune in their stations at their new places on the dial, but those owning push-button radios will have to have the buttons reset. There are ten million push button sets in use in the United States.

BLUE LAWS

Here is a thought for you next Sunday! In the state of Delaware there are 500 citizens answering court summons due to violating a 200-year old blue law that has been sleeping peacefully for many years and has just recently been brought to life and the notice of the public. This means that all activity must cease in the way of employment during the Sabbath, lest it concern charity and necessity. The law enforcing officer insists that the old edict either be followed or erased completely from the official records. This brought on the court summons that hit milkmen, motormen, delivery boys, employees of radio and gasoline stations, of restaurants, drug stores and newspapers. Even a minister was officially criticised for broadcasting over the radio on Sunday. It has been a goodly number of years since our country was covered by blue laws in certain cities and states. They never were very popular when in their prime and from the action in Delaware we judge they haven't gained in popularity through the years.

OF IMPORTANCE

The weekly newspaper gets its rating in the line-up of important factors in American homes. 49.6% of the families in this land subscribe to a weekly newspaper and that is mighty close to being half of the families of the United States! This is reason enough for the weekly newspaper to keep scoured and shined for the approval of its many readers. There aren't many editors of such papers who haven't a pretty good idea of what their subscribers like, the sort of news that covers the local field, the type of national copy that gives the most for the space. With interested subscribers taking time to be helpful in editing the news, of offering timely suggestions, of helpful hints for features, of scratching here and there, your News editor has the opportunity of getting close to the field he serves, to know what his public wants. We are glad that more people are becoming conscious of the part their weekly newspaper plays in the American scheme of things.

DURING LENT

We are in the midst of that period during the church calendar that is observed by Christians, for special thought to praying and fasting. This observance of Lent is in preparation for the glorification of Easter and perhaps more this year than ever should we pause during the six weeks period and give time to more earnest prayers and deeper reflection for those benefits that are ours. Though Lent has been observed from the earliest churches, it has not always been observed during the same dates nor in the same manner as today. There are many people who never observe Lent, who have never felt the need to give it consideration. Most of us fall short in giving it the important place in our lives that it deserves but before it is over, let us in St. Joe try to prepare ourselves to accept the understanding that the great religious awakening has in store for us on Easter morn.

SPRING TOPPERS

Dame Fashion insists upon shocking men to their depths by continuing to serve the ladies with a spring line of chapeau, termed hats by the more optimistic stylists that are many ridiculous and many grotesque. Man is continuously thunder-struck over fashion dictates and has been hopeful that this spring he might be treated to a return of attractive and modest head gear for American women. So heated is the comment that Mrs. Roosevelt comes forth with the insistence of the right of women to exercise ther individuality by feeling free to wear whatever design they might choose for their heads. A lot of those hats representing a soup ladle fastened to a sink strainer by means of a bunch of carrot tops, have to be explained. So does a picture painted by a surrealist artist where you can't figure if the picture is hanging upside down or inside out. Give us beauty in the work that doesn't need explaining. The hat can act as a frame for an attractive face is the picture of sky, water, sunlight and trees is framed by its simple outline that enhances the beauty contained within it.

Now that the supreme court has handed down a decision which outlaws agreements where women's dress and hat designers can register new creations and then penalize copy of these designs, it may be that these forward and drastic patterns which sold simply because of the "exclusive" label rather than of charm and beauty, might take a back seat in the fashion picture. Now that all such radical lines might be copied for rich and poor alike, perhaps men will be treated to a return of women in pleasing, personable and plausible hats.

CHANGES MADE IN DELINQUENT TAX SALE BY NEW LAW

Notice was received by County Auditor Burley Ensley Friday that the new law does not materially change the preparation of the notice for the 1941 delinquent tax sale.

However, the notice is not to classify delinquencies as classes 1, 2 and 3 and authority to sell to the highest bidder has been repealed. The sale to be held April 14, 1941, is still mandatory.

The letter also stated:

"Real estate shall not be offered for delinquent taxes unless there is a tax on such real estate fifteen months delinquent. The act carries an emergency clause repealing sections 222 and 261 of the tax law. These two sections deal with sale to the highest bidder at time of sale. Sales, at the April, 1941, tax sale, cannot be made for less than the advertised amount of delinquent tax.

"The remainder of the act will not be effective until promulgated by the governor.

"The regular sale is held at the time, and in the manner as now provided by law, with the period of redemption remaining two years and with the same added penalties on redemption.

"Within two years after passage of the act, the county auditor shall prepare a list of all real estate delinquent for five years. Notice of sale hall be given as for regular sale except the date of sale is to be fixed by the county auditor.

"Sale shall be for not less than all taxes which are then a lien. The owner or other person having an interest in such real estate may redeem from such sale within six months, 10 per cent to be added in case of redemption.

"The sale to continue from day to day until the first Monday in December, and if not sold the county auditor shall bid the same in for the county.

"The owner or other person having an interest in the real estate sold may redeem from the sale to the county within six months, 5 per cent is added; if redeemed from six months to twelve months, 7 per cent is added. If not redeemed within the year, the county would acquire title and would sell such real estate as other lands owned by the county are sold."

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

RECENT discussion on Capitol Hill of the problem of reapportioning Congressional districts brought to light many facts concerning the unequal representation of Southern poll tax states, which are extremely interesting when viewed in connection with the vote on the lease-lend bill.

These states — Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia—have a total population of around 20,000,000. Due to poll tax restrictions, and for other reasons, only 1,700,000 votes were cast here in the 1940 election.

More votes than this were cast in the state of Indiana, which has one-sixth the population. Nearly 1,800,000 Hoosier voters exercised their right to vote in this same election.

INDIANA is represented in Congress by two Senators and 12 members of Congress. The seven Southern poll tax states, with fewer voters, are represented in Congress by 14 Senators and 57 Congressmen.

What significance do these facts have in relation to the lease-lend bill? Simply this:

The lease-lend bill, which commits the United States to a policy of intervention in the European War, was passed largely with the votes of legislators from the Southern states, who voted solidly for the measure. It was pasesd over the opposition of a majority of the representatives from the Corn Belt region.

All 14 of the Senators, and 55 out of 57 of the Congressmen from the poll tax states voted in favor of the bill.

The Indiana delegation in Congress, representing more voters, could cast only one vote on the bill in the Senate (Van Nuys was absent,) and 12 in the House. The Senate vote and 9 of the 12 House votes were against the measure.

In other words, on a basis of voting population, Indiana was out-voted 14 to 1 in the Senate, and five to one in the House on the most important piece of legislation in a generation. The ratio was all in favor of intervention and war.

THIS unequal representation can be even more graphically illustrated in another way. An analysis of the Senate vote on the lease-lend bill reveals that 14 Senators from the following states voted against the bill:

Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Colorado.

The voting population of these states is approximately 22,000,000.

The votes of these Senators countea no more than the votes of the 14 Senators from the poll tax states, representing a total voting population of only 1,700,000.

It just doesn't make sense.

HERE ARE some other interesting facts about the poll tax states:

The average number of votes cast in each Congressional district in these states was only 20,000, in contrast with the 138,000 votes cast in the Fourth Indiana District.

Only 98,000 votes were cast in the entire state of South Carolina, which has six representatives in Congress and two Senators.

More Republican votes were cast for Congressman George W. Gillie in the Fourth District (80,000) than were cast for all the Republican Congressional candidates in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana and South Carolina combined.

Less than 15,000 votes were cast for Congressional candidates in five of South Carolina's six districts. This is smaller than the vote is many Indiana counties.

CITIZENS of Indiana, as a rule, do not get hold of much money, but when they do, they want it to be genuine. The Secret Service of the Treasury Department is carrying on an educational campaign to acquaint people with their own good money. There are thousands of "phony" bills and coins in circulation, and in order that you may tell the good from the bad, the Secret Service has issued a little phamplet entitled, "Know Your Money."

One of these little folders might save you real money at some time and would greatly assist Uncle Sam in apprehending counterfeiters and bad money passers. A postal card to Congressman Gillie will bring you this booklet free of charge.

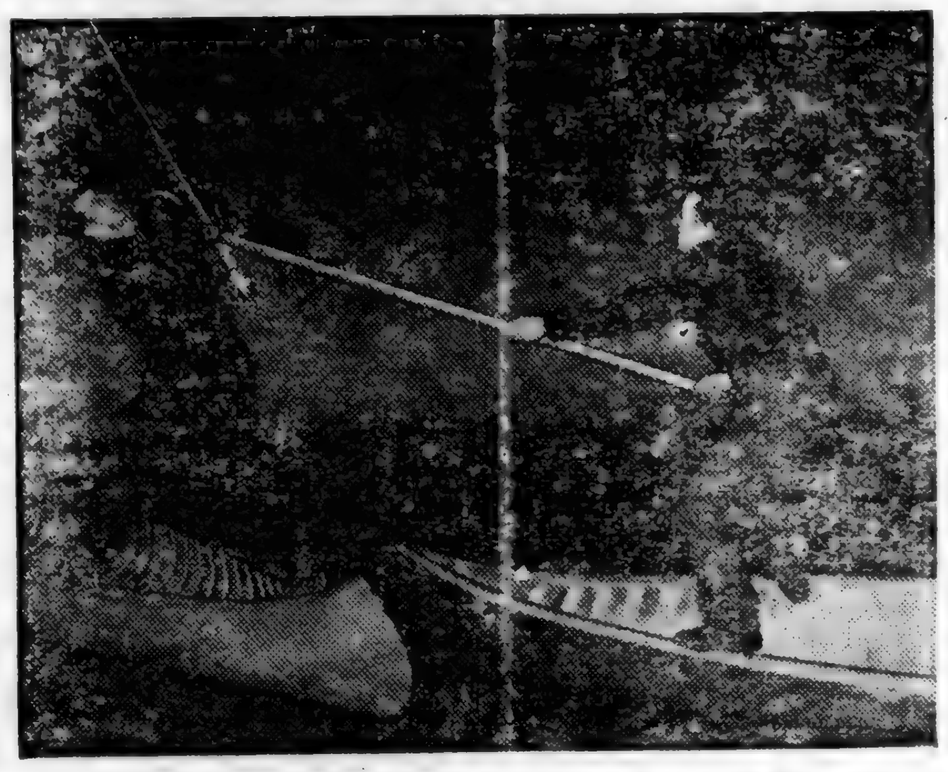
NORTH WOODS GUIDES IN THRILLING BATTLES AT IND. SPORTS SHOW



Joe King, Moosehead Lake guide, hits Jesse Scott of Pittsburgh, N. H., square on the "button" in a furious tilting contest.

INDIANAPOLIS.—When the Fourth Annual Sportsmen's Show is held at the State Fair Grounds, March 22 to 30, rugged north woods guides will provide many thrills and equally as many spills into the artificial lake in their canoe tilting battles.

A sock on the chin from the large rubber ball on the end of a tilting pole carries almost as much dynamite as in one of Joe Louis' driving punches. Anyone who doubts this is invited to enter a tilting contest with any one of the ten guides at the show.

There will be many new features in this year's Sportsmen's Show, including Ora Kale's ten springer spaniels, who will retrieve diving ducks in the lake; Warren Buck's African village, which will have a large group of mothers and cubs of lion, tiger, zebra, chimpanzee, llama and yak; Dave Irwin, the Arctic explorer, will be on hand with a new Eskimo family and Nee-Dah-Bah, the Penobscot Indian, will return as master of ceremonies.

The Indianapolis show opens on Saturday, March 22; a thousand additional seats will be installed for the artificial lake performances.

It takes eight acres of farm land to feed an average American. The census bureau, figuring it another way, found the average farm—174 acres at last count—supported 21.6 people as far as food output was concerned. This was some improvement since the first farm census in 1850, when it took 12.7 acres to feed a person. At that time the average farm was 203 acres and it raised food for sixteen persons. Just to show you we can still do better, the statisticians added that in Belgium the produce of a single acre feeds one and a half people.

It is with regret that we are called upon to note the passing of any of the old land marks of our community and especially when it applies to trees, because it requires so many years to produce trees of any great size. During the past year, one of the three giant elm trees in the "Case Acres" farm yard, owned by Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Ginther, was damaged by storm so that its greatest beauty was destroyed, when the large limbs were broken down and now the tree has been felled to the ground. A few days ago the Ginthers proceeded to cut the tree into furnace wood and the third cut from the bottom measured four feet in diameter, and the first limbs up the tree measured three feet in diameter. Of course, this tree furnished shade for many years to the near farm hands, and besides was a thing of real beauty in this lovely farm yard.

MUST SHOW WEIGHT TAX PLATES FOR 1941

Enforcement of the weight tax law affecting trucks and buses operating in Indiana will begin April 1, according to Don F. Stiver, superintendent of the Indiana State Police. Recent legislation repealing the weight tax law does not become effective until January 1, 1943 and commercial vehicle operators are being given two weeks in which to comply with the law. Enforcement has been withheld pending outcome of the legislation.

Weight tax plates, which must be prominently displayed on the vehicle, may be obtained at auto license branches, and at the main license bureau in the state house in Indianapolis. Superintendent Stiver will order arrests for failure to display the plates on and after April 1. Police chiefs in all cities and towns in Indiana have been asked for their cooperation in enforcing these provisions.

DEKALB COUNTY ASSESSORS URGED TO COLLECT ALL DOG TAXES

The DeKalb County Sheep Committee met with the Assessors Saturday afternoon March 8th urging the assessors to make a special effort to collect taxes on all dogs. The sheep committee is interested in the assessment of the dogs from the standpoint of having all dogs tagged and eliminate stray dogs which are, in the opinion of the committee, the chief offenders in causing sheep losses by dogs. Dogs over six months of age kept or harbored by a person should be assessed and this person should pay immediately to the Township assessor the sum of $1.00 per each male dog or spayed female dog and the sum of $3 for each unspayed female dog and a sum of $5.00 for each additional dog, male or female, so owned, harbored or kept on the same permises, whether owned by such property holder so assessed or by some other person.

Furthermore, dogs becoming 6 months of age after March 1, must have the dog tax paid when reaching 6 months of age.

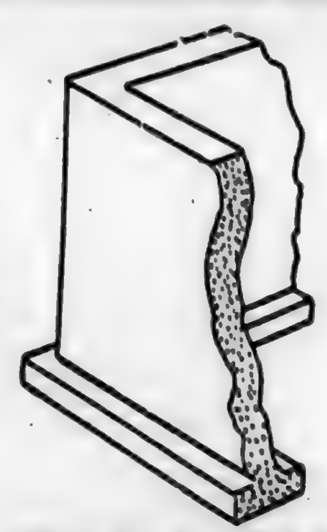
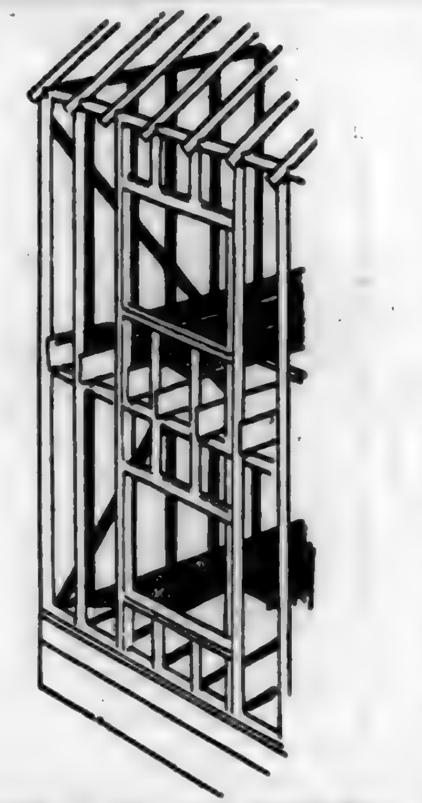
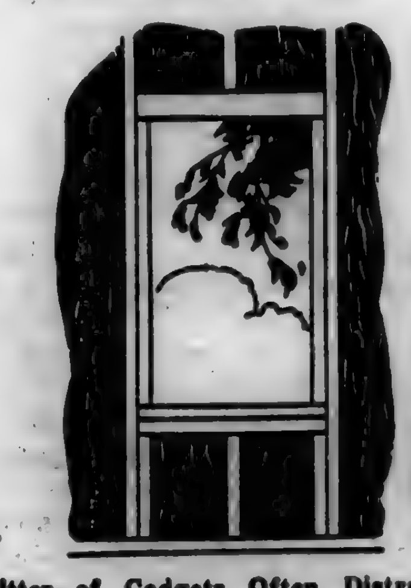
DON'T NEGLECT FUNDAMENTALS IN YOUR NEW HOME



1 This is a corner of the foundation and footings. Your whole house rests upon it. It can never be replaced.



2 This is the same foundation with timber skeleton now in place. Again here is a part of your home that can never be replaced.



3 Here is a rough window opening from the inside. Notice how the framing members are doubled all around the opening. Dark shaded portions show insulation in place between the studding.

Glitter of Gadgets Often Distracts Builder From Quality Where It's Needed Most

Are you building a house for the first time? Then chances are you are in kind of a daze. There are so many things to decide, so many things to buy, so many more things you want and can't buy because there is just so much money. Now there's nothing less glamorous than the concrete footings and foundation. One doesn't show them off to one's friends, but if you skimp on either, you'll be busy for years to come trying to cover up cracked walls that all your friends will see.

Don't Skimp on Framework

Likewise the timber skeleton or frame of your house is going to be all covered up, but if you skimp on it you'll have sagging floors that squeak at every step.

And how about those great big holes in the wall, the rough window openings. You can buy windows and window frames to fill these holes pretty cheap. And you'll pay for them for years to come in heat lost, drafty floors and wet walls. Or, you can buy carefully designed, precision built and factory fitted windows and window frames complete with weatherstrip that will be a joy and a comfort every year that you live in your house. Yes, and you'll find that the extra cost was money well spent because of heat bills, repair bills and redecorating bills saved.

Can't Replace Windows

Good windows are a permanent part of your walls. They protect your investment in insulation and quality construction. Any home without weathertight windows is only one-half insulated. So when you build, get down to fundamentals. Always remember—you can add the gadgets any time, but you can't replace footings or timbers or windows. They've got to be good right from the start.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When you break a glass, dampen cotton to pick up the broken fine particles......It is easy to keep the nickel faucets shining by each day rubbing them with cleansing tissues.. ....Potatoes will be more mealy when baked if the ends are cut off before putting them in the oven......Postage stamps, if stuck together, may be separated by laying a damp cloth over them and pressing with a hot iron... ...Shake salt on the syrup that runs out of the oven when baking the apple pie. It will burn crisp and be easy to remove......The orange juice will lose its valuable vitamin content if it is squeezed only just before serving.. ....Shoes should not be kept in boxes after they have been worn, as they require air to preserve them.

CLUB CONVENTION HELD AT GARRETT LAST WEEK

St. Joe Young Lady is Honored by Being Elected an Officer.

The annual convention of the DeKalb County Federation of Clubs was held last Thursday at the Garrett Presbyterian Church with the members of the Athene, Twentieth Century and Delphian Clubs of Garrett, as hostesses. Mrs. Fred W. Knott, of Auburn, president, presided at the meeting, which opened at 9 o'clock with sixty-seven women registering.

Greetings were extended by Mrs. Ray E. Geyer, of Garertt, and the response was given by Mrs. Kenneth Pickering of the Kenwig's club of Auburn. Mrs. Clinton Bloom, of Albion, district president, was the guest speaker at the morning session, her subject being "We the Women." Mrs. Bloom stressed the point of preparedness and said we are not pessimists nor are we ostriches to hide our heads in the sands and not know what is going on about us. "We should take an inventory of ourselves when we think of the many responsibilities that are thrust upon us.

"God created man, and later created a woman. Eve, who found that knowledge was the best food, and she at once fed Adam that food. One of the first things he learned was the responsibility of taking care of her, and her request was to be clothed. It was much more simple for him than for our present day husbands. Adam just picked leaves from a tree and she was clothed. Cooperate with your husbands.

"The hearts of the pioneer women were strong and they proved real helpmates. As we go through life we may find we are on the wrong highway. Go back to the crossroads and find which is the right way. Set a good example in your home for the uplift and moral character of your family. In these busy days we sometimes forget to commune with God How can we learn the road He wants us to travel if we don't know the way? The road ahead of us is steep and we will find many strange lands. Forget you are republicans and democrats and be real Americans. The pioneers made a great nation for us and it is worth the struggle for us to save it."

A short talk was made by Dr. Jessie Calvin, of Fort Wayne, state chairman of the cancer control work, who stated there are more than 19,000 members of the Cancer Cure club in the United States. Before one is eligible for this club he must have been cured five years Others who spoke were Mrs. W. A. Smith, of Howe, district first vice president; and Mrs. W. C. Allen, of Fort Wayne, state treasurer of the Federated Women's club and [illegible] president of the Allen County Federated clubs.

Proposed amendments to the constitution of the organization that were presented are that the officers shall be president, a first vice president, a second vice president, a third vice president, and a secretary-treasurer and such officers shall be elected for a one year term. The officers shall constitute the executive committee.

The officers may be chosen from any county federated club. (The constitution now says the president and vice president shall be from clubs in universal membership.) The delegates voted 16 to 8 for approval.

In the election of officers the following were chosen:

President, Mrs. Orris Wise, of Auburn.

First Vice President, Mrs. M. E Klingler, of Garrett.

Second Vice President, Mrs. Ralph Keeler, of St. Joe.

Third Vice President Miss Gladys Duguid, of Auburn.

Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Homer Robinson, of Waterloo.

A luncheon was served at the New Garrett hotel, with approximately seventy in attendance. Corsages were presented to Mrs. Bloom and to Mrs. Alice Lewis, of Auburn, pioneer club woman, who was introduced by Mrs George Beugnot, of Auburn. The title of "Pioneer Club Woman of DeKalb County" was conferred upon Mrs. Lewis, who celebrated her eighty-eighth birthday a few days ago.

Resolutions Adopted

At the afternoon session, resolutions declaring for peace, good citizenship and beautification of the highways were read and adopted. An interesting motion picture entitled "Your State Institutions" was presented by M. D. Wilson, state welfare extension agent. Life at the twenty-one state institutions and the work done by the inmates were illustrated.

Mrs. R. Wayne Smith, of Auburn, was the afternoon speaker, her subject being "New Harmony Memorial Movement." The history of New Harmony, which dates back before Indiana was a state, was read. Of the forty-three homes in New Harmony, one known as the Fauntleroy residence was purchased several years ago by the Federated Clubs of Indiana and in 1939 the club women presented it to the state. Constance Owen Fauntleroy, the mother of women's clubs, organized the first women's club in the state in this home. There were eight members and the club was known as the Minerva Society.

Mrs. Fauntleroy was the daughter of Robert Dale Owen, who came to this country from Scotland in 1814. The house is built of hickory, oak and walnut and the pictures of the first club members, along with various antiques are still in the house, which stands as a memorial to the Federated Clubs of Indiana.

Mrs. Rex Emerick, of Kendallville, exhibited some of her oil paintings, her subjects being the four covered bridges in DeKalb county. As she presented each painting a history was given. She told of sitting along the roadside with all her necessary equipment for hours each day, waiting for the sun to shine on the bridge so she could get the perfect picture. At night when she would arrive home her hat and clothes were covered with dust from passing cars, whose drivers never failed to stop and look over her shoulder at the work of art she was painting. The four bridges shown were the Spencerville bridge, the Houlton bridge just north of Butler, the Cedar Chapel bridge between state roads 27 and 427 and the Dills bridge south of St. Joe.

The bridges were built by the same man, George Woerntz, and the first one, the Spencerville bridge, was erected in 1874. Mrs. Emerick urged the women of DeKalb county to keep up the repairs on these old time structures and not let the state dismantle them. "There are few covered bridges in Indiana," Mrs. Emerick remarked, "and many visitors will come to view these old landmarks."

WARNINGS TO HEED IF YOU FLY A KITE

Go fly a kite if you want to, but keep it away from electric power lines and highways.

That was the springtime advice to boys and girls offered by the National Safety Council.

Pointing out that many deaths and injuries among youngsters are caused by flying kites the Council made these suggestions:

1. Fly a kite in a level open space, free from ditches or large stones, so you can get a good run. Stay away from wires and trees.
2. Don't fly a kite in a street or highway, and never run across a road to get a kite up.
3. Never use wire for a kite string, or a cord that has tinsel or wire in it. Be sure the cord isn't wet. Wire or wet cord will conduct electricity if it sags or falls across a high voltage line.
4. If the kite breaks loose and falls in electric wires or a tree, leave it there. To climb after it, or to try to dislodge it by throwing a weighted wire or string at it may cause a severe electric shock.
5. Remember that it's better to lose a kite than to lose your life.

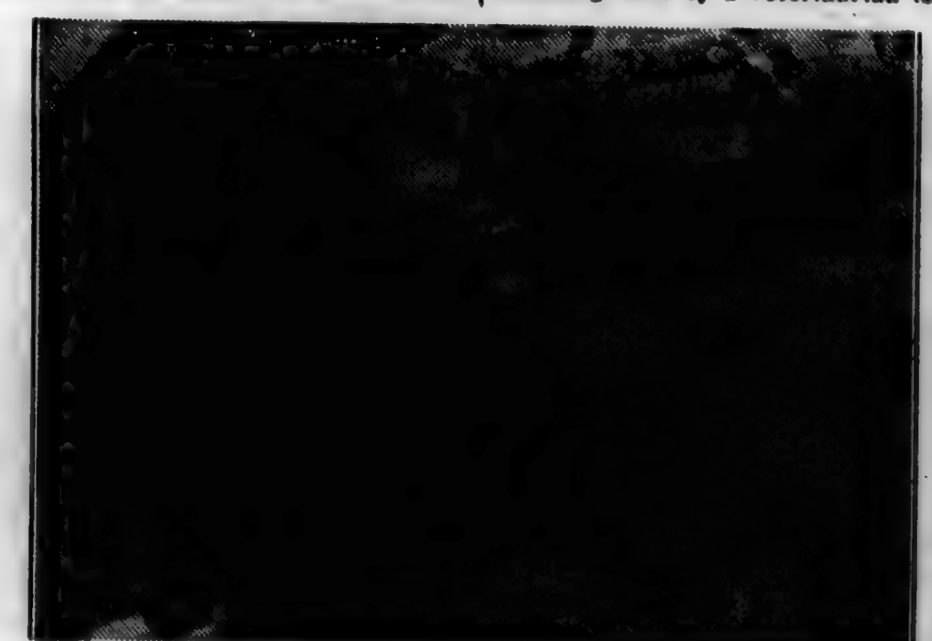
HEALTH HINTS for LIVESTOCK
PREPARED BY AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR ANIMAL HEALTH

CHOLERA IS ENEMY NO. 1 OF MODERN SWINE PRODUCER

There are two words which the American swine producer dreads more than all others—the words Hog Cholera. For, in spite of all modern practices and scientific methods of control, cholera still ranks as America's Number 1 swine destroyer. It strikes without warning, it travels swiftly from farm to farm, and it is a threat the year 'round.



These hogs have cholera. Notice the signs of weakness, marked prostration, and a tendency to pile up.

The first signs of cholera which a farmer sees may be one or two hogs in a herd showing unwillingness to leave their pens. When driven out, they may have their backs humped, may shiver a bit, or show slight weakness in their back legs. Next day a few more hogs show sluggishness. Eventually the whole herd is down and then it is probably too late to save them.

There is no cure for cholera. The only safeguard lies in vaccination. The best protection is the so-called "double treatment" administered by a veterinarian. This is best given about weaning time, while the pigs are young and well.

The importance of having the immunizing done by a veterinarian is due to the fact that the veterinarian can best tell if the pigs are in proper condition to be vaccinated, and through his knowledge can do an immunizing job which can be relied on.

According to statistics, there will be nearly $30,000,000 worth of hogs lost this year, through cholera. The wise farmer will take no chances with this disease, but will have his pigs immunized at the start of the season.

It's hard to grasp opportunity with both hands in your pockets.

IT'S OVERALLS

Not uniforms but overalls, is what England needs from us, she says. That means she needs the work of our hands, the materials of war that we produce by remaining in factories and sweating over the job. That is what we have been asked to do and we are trying to produce. A reader remarks that you plant corn one day but don't expect to eat roasting ears the next. We have been slow in getting under way to assist England by means of our nation's overalls. But a boat, a tank, an airplane, aren't built in a day. Time is valuable and it is a real task getting the defense materials turned out as rapidly as they are required. Gearing the machinery, oiling the wheels for a speedy output does take time. The problem of striking labor is not a minor issue. But we have donned the overall and we will produce as best we can and our best has been found to be successful in the past!

DEATH TO RATS

Communities have clean-up campaigns during the spring, certain cities have put on a campaign against vice others against dirty politics, some campaigning for civic projects for the building up of the town. Bue have we ever had a campaign against rats? He is a deadly enemy and through his efforts there is disease and great loss of food and property. Perhaps we have not considered the menace great enough to extinguish it and might not have thought of it seriously but for a London bombing which brought the matter to our attention. In London, where its hiding places were destroyed, the rats sought new shelters and added fresh horror to a desperate situation. So afraid was London of disease that she is undertaking a campaign against the rat. Already some cities in our country are making a fight against him and a word at this time might be of sense right here in our home town.

POLICY OF DESTRUCTION

In a recent Senate debate, Senator Wheeler made this observation: "Laws are not always construed as their authors intended. The Federal Communications Act was construed in a way absolutely contrary to the intent of those who drafted the law. I call attention to the fact that at times the Utility Holding Company Act has been construed contrary to the views of members of the Senate, expressed upon the floor of the Senate."

The recent legislative trend unfortunately, has been to write laws in vague and sweeping terms. Loopholes are left wide open. Ambiguous language is used. And the inevitable result is to give the administrators of these laws the chance to interpret them just about any way they please.

In theory, the Holding Company (death sentence) Act was designed to integrate the electric industry, to protect the utility security-holder, and to assure the consumer the best possible service. In fact the Act is now being administered in a manner which can produce nothing save waste and confusion, and the dissolution of companies whose standards of rates and service are beyond criticism. It has been held, for instance, that some of our finest holding companies, serving important areas, must divest themselves of large parts of their properties—and often these properties account for the bulk of the companies' revenues. If that policy prevails, and the utility industry is broken into small, more or less isolated units it should be obvious to anyone what will happen to electric service. It is the holding company principle of operation which is primarily responsible for providing small towns and rural areas with service as good, as cheap and as abundant as that enjoyed in great cities.

This crippling of the electric industry is particularly serious at this time. We must have a certain, unfailing and constantly growing supply of power for defense. The Holding Company Act must not be used as a weapon to destroy and disintegrate an industry which is a model of efficiency. Congress should overhaul all the blanket laws, with a view to making them precise and definite. And Congress could find no better starting point than the Holding Company Act.

EASY PICKING

In our great West they arrested a chap who was accused of robbing the farmers out that way, of many thousands of dollars. They invested in a machine that was called a "death-ray" contraption. There have been rumors many times that some foreign power had perfected this machine and would use it in the next war. So far there has been no indication that there was ever such a machine. But it seems that these farmers fell for the story. It caused the big business men of the financial centers to say something about 'hicks.' Of course we know that if such a death-ray machine had been invented it could have been disposed of to many a government. No sir you couldn't get away with this hoax on the fellow doing business in the big city and who runs up against promoters all the time! You can't sell city slickers gold bricks today, you bet. But what about the big business men in an eastern state who have been defrauded of about half a million dollars in a proposition that dealt in a heatless light that sounds like "bottled sunshine?" The promoter in this instance had been getting by since 1925 with a bit of selling of paintings supposedly by the old masters. So it goes with the farmer taking the death-ray and the city slicker the bottled sunshine. It is a laugh all around.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

The departure of the President on a ten day cruise in Florida waters and in the Gulf of Mexico, gives color to the statement that he is not exerting strong pressure on Congress for the passage of an appropriation made necessary by the British aid bill. Nevertheless, the action of the House on the appropriation measure of course is to his liking, and must be set down as something that pleased him greatly. His views on the subject are well known.

Acting upon the theory that Congress carries out the will of the electorate, the people must be behind the British aid appropriation. The vote stood 336 for, and 55 against. Party lines do not seem to have had much to do with the result, the Democratic poll being 231 to 6, and the Republican poll 104 to 45, the Farmer-Labor, American-Labor and Progressive representatives being divided in opinion. Opposition included more than a dozen proposed amendments upon which the axe descended so abruptly that the outcome could be prophesied to a practical certainty. It is expected that Senate endorsement of the House action will be reasonably prompt, although landslide approval and lack of dissenting voices are not looked for as characteristics of the action in the upper legislative body.

Seven billion dollars is a large sum of money. The list of ear-markings is too long to be quoted, but there seems to be many directions in which the expenditures may be directed legitimately. Some surprise will be caused by the fact that the sum set aside for ordinance, ammunition and armor is slightly less than that for agricultural, industrial and other commodities. Yet a soldier with a bare back and an empty stomach is not much good, and it is wise to supply beans and socks, as well as bullets and ships.

The Scripture is authority for the statement that affliction cometh not forth from the dust, neither doth trouble spring out of the ground. Likewise, it is not possible to plant nickels in the spring, and harvest dollars in the fall. So it happens that the Treasury Department has been casting about for an effective means to get the cash that will be necessary in connection with the defense system and the seven billion aid for England. The undertaking is the greatest of its kind since World War times. Fifteen billion in fifteen months is the goal that has been set.

The so-called Baby Bonds that will be supplanted by others of three different sorts, all subject to taxation by the Federal Government, and not capable of being negotiated. There will be Savings Bonds, sold at par and yielding a return of 2½ per cent. Another form of Savings Bond will be offered, to be sold for 74 per cent of maturity value and running for 12 years, without interest. This issue is intended primarily for the small investor. The third class is made up of the Defense Savings Bonds, due in ten years, offered at 75 per cent of maturity value, and to be redeemed at maturity at a value which will represent an interest of 2.9 per cent, compounded twice a year. Even the person having no more than a dime can do his part. The post offices will sell savings stamps ranging in price from a dime to five dollars, a full stamp book being subject to exchange for a bond of corresponding value.

After talking for years about the matter, the United States and Canada have reached the conclusion that the deepening of the St. Lawrence River, to provide a way from the Great Lakes to the sea, must proceed at once. Although intended primarily as an aid to commerce, the trend of current thought requires that a waterway to the Great Lakes, having the proportions of the Panama Canal, should be viewed in its military and naval aspects as well. If an American warship can be built in the inland security of Duluth and be floated to the sea, it is true offhand that an enemy vessel from abroad could make the trip up from the ocean to Chicago. Not much could be accomplished along that line, however, unless the alien enemy had first secured possession of a bordering land strip fifty miles or more in width and at least a thousand miles long.

Elder J. O. Rose, of Angola, is in a critical condition at the Health Center in Coldwater, Michigan, where he was taken about two weeks ago. Mr. Rose has been a Christian Church minister for many years, and is well known here and in every community of DeKalb county.

A runaway team of horses caused considerable excitement last Friday, something that is really rare nowadays. Lester Coburn had driven to the elevator, and the team started from there, running to the west end of town, where they were freed of the rack on the wagon, when they darted in between the trees at the Benninghoff corner. The wagon was a rubber tire affair and all that could be heard was the clatter of horses shoes on the pavement. People came running out to see what was up. No one was injured. Many remarked that they were reminded of olden days when runaways were a common thing.

A judgment of $5,118.04 has been entered in the DeKalb circuit court for the plaintiff in the suit of the Hubbart Milling Co., of Mankato, Minn., against Ralph and Virginia Kepler of Franklin Township. Judge Endicott also held that the plaintiff was entitled to a foreclosure of a chattel mortagge on a flock of turkeys and to possession of the turkeys. Sheriff Artus Coyle took possession of 300 turkeys when the suit was filed February 7. The turkeys were soon afterward sold and the court found that the defendants were entitled to credit for the sale price, $542.81. The balance remaining unpaid on the judgment is $4,575.23.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

LAMENT: Volumes have been written by agricultural experts and brain trusters, in Washington and elsewhere, concerning the sad lot of the American farmer under our present economic system, but it remained for a farmer himself, from the Fourth District of Indiana, to write the most sorrowful lament on this subject it has even been this correspondent's privilege to read.

The lament is contained in a letter received by Congressman George W. Gillie from a constituent Phenas Weaver, of Topeka, Indiana, in LaGrange County. The letter so impressed Congressman Gillie that he has shown it to several of his colleagues on the House Agriculture Committee.

Mr. Weaver points out that there are two entire families, in addition to his own, living off the production of his farm by collecting interest and processing and distributing the things he raises. He then proceeds to compare the way he lives with the way these other families live, as follows:

THEY work eight hours a day—I work eight hours twice a day.

Their wives drive limousines—Mine drives a sewing machine.

Their daughters go to 'Vassar'—Ours go to Pumpkin Hollar.

They have running water in the house—we have it in the creek.

They take their baths in a tub—I took mine in the creek in July.

They spend the Winter at Daytona Beach—We spend ours at Hickory Hill.

They wear thin clothes—We wear our clothes thin.

If he is an employee,

He has Social Security—I have Social Insecurity.

He gets vacation with pay—I often get neither vacation nor pay.

He gets pay when unemployed—I usually don't get pay when employed.

He retires at 60—I retire at 90, or death, whichever comes first.

When they pass on,

They leave a landed estate—I leave a worn-out land.

They bequeath a munificence—I bequeath a mortgage.

They praise Democracy as an accomplished fact—I long for it as a future hope.

MORE DONT'S: In a recent issue of this column, we mentioned a number of "do's" and "don'ts" for readers to observe in writing to their Congressman or Senator. To this list we would like to add the following:

Don't be like the prominent club woman who wrote to one of the women Members of Congress and asked her to round up the support of the other women Members of Congress behind a measure in which her club was interested. She enclosed a list of Congresswomen and included in the list the names of Francis Case, of South Dakota, who was a leatherneck in the last war, and Jesse Wolcott, of Michigan, who was a machine gun lieutenant.

And don't be like the woman who wrote her Congressman upon his appointment as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to a foreign capital saying that she had seen that he had been made "minister of the penitentiary" and hoped he could get a pardon for her son who was doing time as a moonshiner.

COAST GUARD: Fourth District young men between the ages of 17 and 22 might be interested in this announcement. On May 14, 1941, the United States Coast Guard will hold a competitive examination for appointment of cadets who have the required qualifications and education. Detailed information may be obtained by writing to Congressman Gillie or to: "Commandant, U. S. Coast Guard, Washington, D. C."

FREE BOOKLETS: With Spring now officially here, thoughts of many readers are turning to plans for flower or vegetable gardens, or improvements around the home. There are a number of free booklets on these subjects, with many helpful suggestions, which may be obtained through the office of Congressman Gillie. Among those which will be sent on request are: "The City Home Garden," "Planting and Care of Lawns," "Vegetable Seeds for the Home Market and Garden," and "Roses for the Home." Free seeds are no longer available from Members of Congress, but a postcard to Congressman Gillie will bring you these booklets within a short time.

FIVE NEW LAWS ON CONSERVATION ARE ALREADY IN EFFECT

Five of the ten laws on conservation enacted by the General Assembly and approved by Governor Schricker, carried emergency clauses and already are in effect, it was pointed out today by Frank N. Wallace, acting commissioner of the Department of Conservation.

These include: a series of amendments to the fish and game laws; the extension of the open season on red fox in the southern zone; the reforesting of areas where a coal has been mined by the stripping process; authorization for county clerks to retain ten cents of the fifty-cent fee for isuing women's fishing license; and provision for cleaning and improving the Little Calumet River.

The amendments to fish and game laws provide: that the designation "Game Warden" shall be changed to "Conservation Officer;" fixes a daily bag limit of two raccoon and prohibits use of pole climbers in the field or woods at night; makes it illegal to take channel catfish less than ten inches in length; eliminates the zoning of the state for trapping seasons and provides a statewide open season on raccoon, opossum, skunk, mink and muskrat from November 15 to January 31; makes it legal to take minnows from June 13 to April 30 instead of from June 16 to April 30, and requires possession of a hunting license to take frogs and sets a bag and possession limit of 25 frogs.

Five other laws affecting conservation in Indiana were enacted and approved. One, effective May 1, re-established the State Conservation Commissions. Four others become effective when the Acts of the General Assembly are promulgated. These include: extension of the closed season on prairie chickens; placing the Wilbur Wright Memorial in charge of the Department of Conservation; making it unlawful to lower water levels in lakes of 20 acres or more, and an amendment to the law regulating motor boats which bars motor boats of six horsepower or more from lakes of less than 100 acres, the waters of which are impounded by a dam constructed by use of federal funds.

A number of proposed laws affecting the Department of Conservation fish and game regulations, were killed by the General Assembly. Two enactments of the General Assembly—one setting up stricter requirements for the acquisition of land in Indiana by the Federal Government, and one making commercial fishing unlawful in the Wabash River where it is the Indiana-Illinois boundary, were "pocket" vetoed by Governor Schricker.

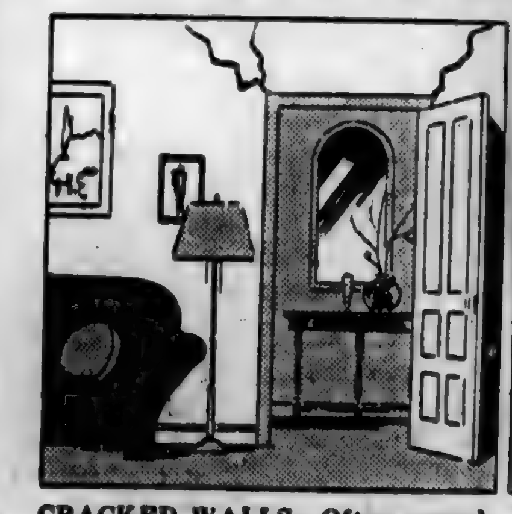
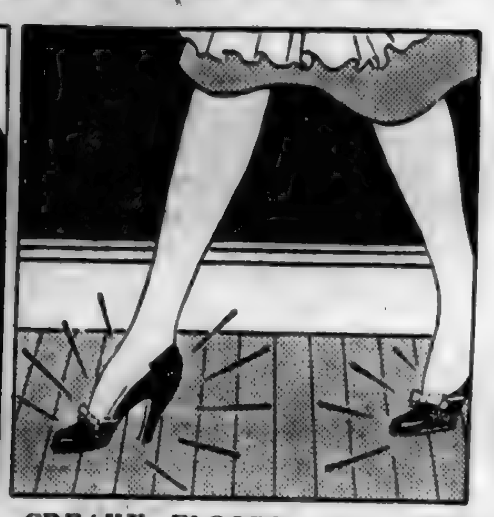
SKIMPING IN WRONG PLACES OFTEN COSTLY IN LONG RUN

CUTTING COSTS ON FUNDAMENTALS MEANS ENDLESS TROUBLE AND EXPENSE IN YEARS TO COME



CRACKED WALLS—Often caused by uneven settling of footings and foundation. Skimping on footings in either size or concrete mix is poor economy.



CREAKY FLOORS—Very often the result of skimping on size of floor joists. Another example of the wrong place to cut costs.

◆ ◆ ◆

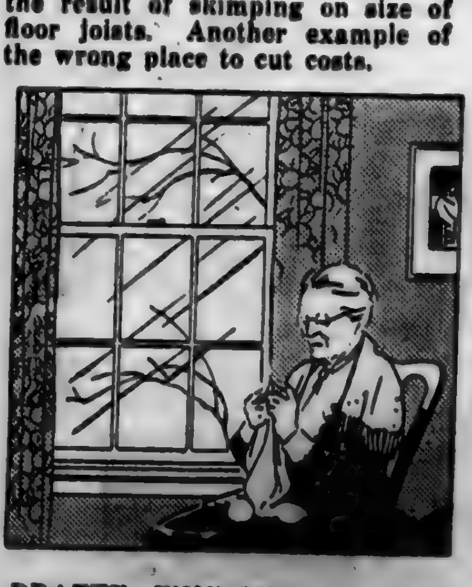
Where is it wise to cut costs in your new home and where is it wise to buy the best? This is a problem that most home builders face more than once during construction. And what is the answer? It is a problem that every home owner must settle to the best of his ability with the help of his contractor and architect.

Replacement Big Factor

There is one general principle that can be set down here, however. Briefly, it is this. Any part of your house that it is not practical to replace should have the best in construction and materials. By this we mean such items as footings and foundation, timber skeleton and frame work, windows and window frames, which are really part of the house frame, concealed ducts and wiring. All these things must last the life of the house.

Wiser to Wait

It is wiser to wait for some of the attractive furnishings and fixtures until more money is available, rather than to skimp on fundamental parts of a house which will only mean costly repairs, excessive heating bills and disgust and discomfort in years to come. Remember: if you can't replace them, make them good.



DRAFTY WINDOWS—Result of poor fitting and cheap construction. A few dollars extra spent for precision built windows and frames would save enough in fuel costs to pay for slight extra cost.

LOG of the UNITED STATES MARINES

SHARED PRIZE MONEY

Enemy vessels captured by our bluejackets and United States Marines in the days of wooden ships were called "prizes," and the joy of our naval forces in subduing the enemy was often considerably increased by the prospect of prize money.

This practice had been well-established abroad before it was adopted by the United States Navy. At first, prize money was awarded to naval officers and bluejackets alone, but early in January, 1776, Congress passed a law allowing marines a share in the proceeds obtained from captured enemy vessels.

During the War of 1812 the American warship President captured the packet Swallow which had about $168,000 in specie abroad. The money was brought ashore and deposited in the State Bank at Boston

It was customary at this time to allot one-half of the prize money to the United States Government; the remaining half was divided among officers and men, each member of the crew being allotted a certain proportion of the money according to his respective rank.

While this appeared to be a fairly liberal arrangement, in some cases it was urged that the entire proceeds of the capture be awarded to the victorious bluejacvket and marines.

It is probable that few of the vessels captured in the War of 1812 yielded as much as $168,000. Even if the President's crew received but one-half of that sum, it meant a substantial bonus for all hands.

Born in Steuben County, the Rev. Mr. Rose accepted his first pastorate at Metz in 1895. He was pastor of the Kendallville Christian Church for a number of years and then became state secretary of the Indiana Missionary society. He later became dean of the scripture course at Tri-State College when it was a normal school. YOUNGSTER HIT BY BICYCLE RESULTS IN BROKEN LEG

Max Wiers, age 6, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Wiers, lies in the Hicksville hospital with a broken left leg, caused by being run into with a bicycle ridden by Donald Yeiser, about 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

A group of youngsters were playing in the Wiers yard when Max was standing at the edge of the sidewalk, two bicycle riders came swiftly toward him down the walk, going east. The first rider Gene Walser passed and Donald Yeiser being closer to the edge of the walk, struck Max, breaking his leg and three teeth were knocked loose and one completely from his mouth. The youngsters did not realize what had hapened to him, because he attempted to go to the house several times, and then was carried in. In his attempt to walk, the leg bones, being broken at an angle, had slipped past each other for several inches.

Dr DeMuth, who was still in his office, was called and was unable to determine the nature of his injury because of the quick swelling. The little fellow was rushed to the Hicksville hospital, where he is having the doctor's special care, and the above facts were revealed by an Xray.

An effort is being made to get the bones in place so that they can then be set. Max is quite bashful and a home boy and this makes it necessary for his parents to be at his bedside constantly.

LOSS SUSTAINED IN BROODER HOUSE FIRE

Tuesday afternoon, fire was discovered in the George Walter brooder house, by two young men passing in an automobile. They stopped and began to fight the blaze, but seeing they would not be able to outen it, they hurriedly called the St. Joe Fire Department, who appeared on the scene and were able to save the frame of the building. The house contained 450 week old baby chicks and the loss will probably reach 300. It is thought the house caught on fire from the stove, which was being used in addition to the electric hover.

The loss was covered by insurance.

Thanks To Our Friends

Since leaving St. Joe community, we had the misfortune to loose one of our horses, and old neighbors hearing of this set out to raise money to replace the horse. When they completed their drive they had money enough to buy the horse, half ton of corn, a ton of hay, and 10 bushels of seed oats. This was indeed a great surprise, and yet is appreciated beyond expression by words, and they wish humbly to thank all the 53 persons who contributed.

YOUNG MOTHER DIES AT GARRETT HOSPITAL

Helen Vedith Wade, 37, daughter of Dr. Nelson Lake at Pleasant Lake, Indiana, died suddenly Monday evening at 7:30 at the Sacred Heart hospital in Garrett, where she had been for the past two weeks and a half taking treatments, and all plans had been made to return her to her home on Wednesday, at St. Joe, where she was to remain in bed and be prepared for an operation later.

Her condition on Monday was encouraging, having laughed and joked with nurses, and with Mrs. Hugh Neilland, who had shared her room during the two weeks, but suddenly became seriously ill and soon passed away.

The body was brought to the Kinsey funeral home, where it can be viewed by friends up to the funeral hour, Thursday at 2 o'clock.

Rev Frank Stevenson will officiate with burial in Riverside Cemetery.

On August 15, 1923 she was united in marriage to Russell Wade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wade of St. Joe, and on July 29, 1932, he was killed while working for the Ohio Power Co., in Ohio.

Three daughters were born to this union, Bernadine Amaden, Hicksville, Ima Lee and Carroll Lucille, both at home, all of whom survive besides one grandchild.

NEW STATE SUIT

Governor Schricker and the lawyers representing him in an attempt to nullify the reorganization acts of the assembly were on fairly firm ground until they gave their reasons for attacking the four key appointing boards. They made a good argument in the suit to keep the attorney-generalship as an appointment of the Governor. That bill got through the senate on a veto test by only one vote. Their contention, not yet filed with a court, that the state education board act is nullified by a mistake of the assembly certainly is well-sustained.

Now, however, they have rested their case against the general act to turn four principal departments over to committees controlled by Republicans on the contention that the assembly can not delegate executive powers of the Governor to another, and that the Lieutenant-Governor is not an executive officer but is a legislative officer and thus not eligible to hold a place on the appointing boards.

The fact is that the 1891 general assembly delegated the appointment of a health board with wide powers, to a committee of which the Governor was a minority and that law stood unchallenged for 41 years. It is also true that as Lieutenant-Governor, the present Governor served in an executive capacity in the last state administration. If the present contention is correct, the whole state health board structure is abolished and the Governor wrongfully collected his salary as an executive Lieutenant-Governor for four years.

This last step is on such questionable ground that the Governor and his associates may find that they are being suspected of splitting hairs at a time when the public welfare calls for a bipartisan working agreement and harmony in the state house.

DRAMATIC CLUB TO PRODUCE PLAY APRIL 24

Over one hundred years ago there was born a man who was destined to make his mark in the field of American literature. This man was Bret Harte. As a writer of thrilling, wholesome Western stories, he had no equal. He was to the West what Mark Twain was to the Mississippi country. Harte sprung into fame with a tale entitled, "The Luck of Roaring Camp." This was followed by many others with the flavor of the wide-open spaces and eventually some of his works reached the stage in dramatized form. One of the successful plays made from his stories was "Salomy Jane," which had an enormous vogue. But prehaps the longest-lived of any of his dramatized stories, was the famous "M'liss," which toured the entire United States for over three decades. Some of our famous theatrical stars of a past era have appeared in the title role of this great play. "M'liss" is a story that will never die because it contains all the elements of popular appeal: laughter, tears and thrills.

Recently Samuel French, of New York City, had a new and up-to-date version of the play prepared for use of non-professional players and it is this version that our local Dramatic Club will present on the night of April 24th. The play is sponsored by the St. Joe Lions Club.

Don't miss "M'liss." (My Western Miss.)

OUR SCHOOL NOTES IN GENERAL

To the accompaniment of rolling thunder and flashing lightning, shrills, chills and laughter galore, the Senior Class presented a "four-star" performance of Blood and Thunder at the high school Friday evening.

With a razor-wielding maniac (Frank Curie) and accomplice (Alice Richmond) on the loose in the home of absent-minded college professor (Jack Goodwin) and his wife (Sylvia Washler) there was never a dull moment from start to finish.

A touch of romance was supplied by the prof's two daughters, Elsie Hall and Evelyn George, sparked by gay-young-iceman Don Cook and amnesia-ridden Cecil Brown who doesn't decide whether he is suposed to be in love with Elsie or the husband of Wilma Culbertson until Act III.

Comedy-relief furnished by Ruth Keesler and her son, DuWayne Haynes fairly kept the audience in stitches while Police officer Richard Davis galloped about arresting first one and then another in an effort to solve the mystery.

The brilliant work of Bob Shoudel and Marcel Pugsley in charge of stage and sound effects did much to enhance the effectiveness of the play.

Entre acts were presented by the Concordiers, Myra Keeser, Betty Young, Leila Hurni, Dorothy Stewart Carol Reel, and Pat McBride, directed by Mrs. Kate Bowser.

The play was directed by Mrs Esther Arnold and sponsored by Mr Leslie Wilbern. Paul Keller acted as house manager.

Plans for the graduation exercises for the class of 1941 are nearing completion. The Junior-Senior banquet is to be held in the Old Fort Room of the Hotel Indiana on Saturday, April 12. Baccalaureate services will be at the Christian Church on Sunday, April 13, and the Commencement exercises will be held on Wednesday, April 16. Following is a tentative list of graduates: Cecil Brown, Donald C. Cook, Madge I. Cornell, Wilma Mae Culbertson, Frank Curie, Jr., Richard M. Davis, Evelyn E. George Jack D. Goodwin, Elsie M. Hall, DuWayne Haynes, Leila Mae Hurni, Myranella Keesler, Ruth E. Keesler, Paul L. Keller, Marcel Pugsley, Carol Elaine Reed, Alice Richmond, Robert A. Shoudel, Dorothy M. Stewart, Sylvia L. Washler, Betty L. Young.

Members of the business education classes will leave Friday afternoon for Central Normal College at Danville, Indiana where on Saturday they will participate in the commercial contest sponsored annually by that school. Teams will be entered in beginning and advanced typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, business law and business adjustibility. Mr. Garman, Mr. Wicoff and Mr. Wilbern are providing transportation and Mrs. Stanley Garman will act as chaperon for the girls.

Miss Eva Young, an alumna of St. Joe High School, plans to accompany the group and participate in the half hour amateur typing contest.

FRIENDLY CONTEST BETWEEN FOUR BIBLE SCHOOLS

A friendly contest is being "pulled off" between the four Churches of Christ being ministered to by Rev. Richard Key of St. Joe and Rev. William Nice of Butler, upon the percentage plan—with the following results for the first four weeks—the contest to end the last Sunday in May—running three months—and using the averages of the past three moths as a basis of contest—ATTENDANCE, only:—

Butler—Previous average was 64; Total attendance to date 327, 127%.

Coburn Corners—Previous average was 88; Total attendance to date 429, 122%.

Newville — Previous average was 111; Total attendance to date 515, 116%.

St. Joe—Previous average was 89; Total attendance to date 371, 104%.

Thus you see this has been a winner thus far for each one of the Bible Schools as each one has run ABOVE the last three months average. However, Butler is in the lead thus far—it may turn out as did the famous Tortoise and Hare race of the bygone days. The two winning schools are to be entertained by the two losing schools. Brother Key did the challenging but the "Nice" gang hope to give them a run for their money. EVERYONE in Bible School next Lord's Day—Come Bring Others.

W. D. NICE, Butler.

A fellow here in St. Joe was cautioned to save his time, wanted to know what he was saving it for.

Even with rose-colored glasses, you need to give yourself a pep talk to convince yourself that human nature isn't on the decline.

It is encourageing to know that the sale of clocks is on the increase. Folks must be eating pretty regularly.

You can't always be certain of keeping your good cook, even if you are married to her.

Weather in St. Joe didn't seem so bad when returning Florida visitors complain about their cool and cloudy Winter.

The song of Spring is sweeter when played more softly on the wind instruments.

The only good that will be said of some people will be what you will read on their tombstones.

Many a night-light burns to find out if the girl in the story ever does catch up with the hero.

A certain St. Joe fellow was heard to remark that he has been waiting a long time for the School of Experience to close for a vacation period.

Even if you could buy happiness, somebody would want to smack some kind of a tax on it.

Mussolini is so busy hiring generals he hasn't had much time to make speeches.

Importers say they are having a hard time getting lamps from Europe, and we didn't think there was much light shining from over that way.

MAPLE SUGAR

We do a lot of talking about Americanism, these days, and there is nothing more American than the making of maple sugar. It is about this time of year that the sap of the maple begins to drip, which not only indicates Spring thaws but that maple sugar is to be concocted. We were taught this process by the American Indians who had their sugar-making moon time, sugar making ceremonies for each Spring when they hacked the trees with an ax and collected the sweet sap in a hollow log. To preserve our trees there is great care taken of them in order to obtain the yearly syrup. So is the sap collected, boiled down and prepared for the outside markets in sugar or syrup form. Of the ten states that produce 97 per cent of the maple sap in our country, Vermont, New York and Ohio are the first three. Many hours go into the slow cooking in the big fat black pot which hangs over the crackling fire in the woods, where man waits for the sap to thicken to the right consistency. All hail to the old American custom!

FRESH ENOUGH FOR YOU

When we see the green groceries in our markets, we don't remember those days when it was practically impossible to buy fresh vegetables in a grocery during Winter months. It wasn't so long ago that your grocer had difficulty in obtaining radishes, cauliflower, brussel sprouts and strawberries at any time except when they were in season. When he did get them they carried quite a price on their heads! Today you can go into the neighborhood grocery stores and get almost the same fresh fruits and vegetables as when they reach your table in the Summer. This is especially due to improved refrigeration, quicker transportation and many hot-houses catering to Winter and early Spring trade. We know that the price is slightly higher when you buy vegetables that are out of season and when you will grow them later on in your own back yard but many housewives are willing to cut some place else so that now and then their family can have better health and better taste with fresh vegetables.

CANCER MOUTH

In the month of April each year we give special heed and publicize the nation's plea for special recognition of cancer. We dedicate this space to the importance of checking this dire disease in this country. They ask that you educate yourself to recognize cancer in its early stages that you might fight it more easily as it can be cured if found in time! Dr. Clarence Little, who heads the Society for the Control of Cancer says, "—impress upon the public the necessity for this program and the importance of constant vigilance in this fight for humanity, we shall be able to save many thousands of lives—."

"IF A MAN DIE"

If a man die, shall be live again?" Nature proves that death in the Autumn is not the end of beauty and loviliness, that there will be a springtime for the resurrection.

Christ lived among men, suffered upon a cross for men and passed his way in faith that this was only the beginning for men. His resurrection on the Easter morn brings the hope for eternal life, the greatest lesson today for Europe, Asia, Africa, in its truth that death has never won a lasting victory. Where death buries joy, faith and love beneath teachings of hate and selfishness, likewise does the stern winds of Autumn blow and toss to wither and kill the life that once bloomed in natural glory. But the sun and warmth of Spring brings to birth the new blooms that grace our lives and renew our vision. Comes the plant to show the vision of life after death.

The resurrection and the rebirth comes to all men and to all nations whether they have been stamped upon by the heel of dictatorship and withered by the cold breath of a beast who treds out their life. There is the crack of the big whip and the slave bows his back to the will of the master, he cringes and grovels with his spirit more crushed and beaten than his body. The citizen is perhaps bent under the burden of taxation, trouble between labor and capital, unrest among his neighbors, war between nations. But comes the lifting of the whip hand, the sting ceases while the wound heals. The man stands physically and mentally erect and plans his life anew. He triumphs after his death for he is resurrected and begins living again. He believes in life after darkness for he has come through to see the light and regained his spirit and aspires for the next day.

The prayer for peace and gentleness that falls on our community of St. Joe this Easter is our sign, our aim and an omen to the world's people. With the picture of Christ upon the cross comes the picture of a garden as proof indeed of rebirth in nature. There comes the picture of the mother Mary that typifies new life for mankind, and there shines the lily to illustrate glory and purity. This is our hope for Easter morn in St. Joe.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

For some time, the rule in Europe has been that when the big dog barks, the small dogs have to keep quiet. When the case of Poland is recalled, it must be admitted that a sad fate seems to be in store for small dogs who bark back. Notwithstanding the dismal recent history of minor nations who saw fit to stand in Mr. Hitler's way, Yugoslavia has concluded not to accede to Nazi demands.

Events move so rapidly that it is impossible to evaluate what is taking place in and about Belgrade. The Balkans have appeared heretofore to be somewhat responsive to Nazi pressure, militant patriotism giving place to prudence. Perhaps the most important result of the Yugoslavic revolt, up to the present date, is that it has been made plain to the world that the Balkan folk propose to be something other than mere chess pieces, shoved about as Mr. Hiter's system of play may suggest.

Whereas the pressure exerted by Germany has nothing more than greedy expediency behind it, opoition is grounded on an aroused patriotism, which sometimes bears fruit even under unfavorable conditions. In any event, the Nazi grip on the Balkans has been broken. A stumbling block has been thrown into the road of German advance upon Greece. Hitler can proceed only by dividing his forces in a way which brought down his condemnation on the tactics of the former World War. He is distinctly uncomfortable under the collar, and has reason to be.

Our domestic troubles seem to go no further than strikes, but with conditions as they are, that is quite far enough. It cannot be denied that the public at large looks askance at strikes when they tend to cripple national defense. The British Aid measure is part of the law of the land. The President's signature has been affixed to the seven billion dollar appropriation. These also must not suffer from strikes, if the trend of common opinion has been interpreted correctly.

Compulsory mediation in labor disputes has been growing in favor for many years. If, during the Stone Age, a discussion arose over the possession of a flint hatchet, the claimants beat each other over the head with clubs until one was willing to depart without the hatchet. Differences of opinion are not settled in that way now.

When Mr. Roosevelt founded a labor mediation board, he did something that increased his popularity, although popularity was not the fish his hook was baited to catch. Go where one will, outside of circles actively favorable to strikes, the view is voiced that an effective labor mediation board should be able to do more than say "Please." The time perhaps has arrived when it is necessary to announce to both parties: "This is the way. Walk ye in it." When any organization challenges the right of the federal government to reopen a plant in the interest of defense, a showdown is in order, and the dockets of the courts should be cleared for a decision that will not have to be awaited for years, or even for weeks.

Congress is upset chiefly about the welfare of defense industries, and a fiery Texas Representative, although not kindly disposed toward the forced settlement of strikes, suggests the electric chair, if need be, for genuine domestic enemies of the nation. Elderly gentlemen are fit for something beside the scrap heap, it appears. According to a bill introduced recently, the draft age should be raised to 65, so that even though white-haired might be unfit for vigorous campaigning, they could be busied with useful defense work that lay within the scope of their strength.

A conference between leaders in Congress, and the President, on the subject of taxation, will be held shortly after the Chief Executive returns from his southern trip. Toward its close, the Civil War was tapping the United States Treasury at the rate of a million dollars a day, a large sum for that period. England parts with sixty million every twenty-four hours, it is said. If we are to keep Engand in pocket money, and pay our own bills in addition the members of the conference will have to do some hard thinking.

A signed confession admitting the theft Friday night of a car belonging to James A. Hart, Route 1, St. Joe, was obtained Monday afternoon from Charles Chapman, 21, and his brother, Kenneth, 16, both of Auburn, according to Dan Kreamelmeyer, Auburn police chief. The youths were arraigned in the DeKalb Circuit Court Tuesday on charges of vehicle taking. The car was taken from the parking lot at the Auburn Rubber Co., where Hart is employed. He became suspicious when Mrs. Hutton, mother of the youths told him that Charles had started hitch hiking to Paulding to see his wife, and investigation led to the arrest.

HEALTH HINTS for LIVESTOCK

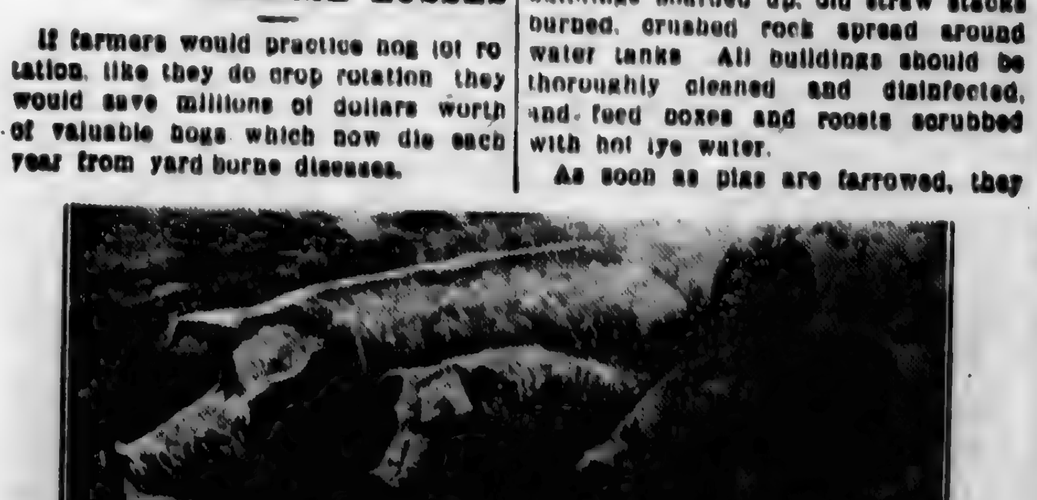
AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR ANIMAL HEALTH

CLEAN HOG LOTS WILL SAVE COSTLY DISEASE LOSSES

If farmers would practice hog lot rotation, like they do crop rotation they would save millions of dollars worth of valuable hogs which now die each year from yard borne diseases.



Old mud holes like this breed disease germs and parasites which kill many thousands of hogs annually.

Hog lots which have been used year after year are literally alive with germs and parasites. Some of the diseases found in these unsanitary lots are hog cholera, enteritis, "bull nose", navel ill, verminous pneumonia, scours, and lockjaw.

Two or three days spent in cleaning up livestock quarters and lots, at the start of the season, will repay any farmer handsomely in better livestock profits. Mudholes should be drained, manure piles fenced off, holes beneath buildings boarded up, old straw stacks burned, crushed rock spread around water tanks. All buildings should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, and feed boxes and roosts scrubbed with hot lye water.

As soon as pigs are farrowed, they should be moved out to clean, fresh pasture, away from any possible contamination of old lots and pens. About weaning time, the pigs should be vaccinated against cholera. They should be kept on clean pasture all summer. They will make 25 percent better growth and development under these conditions, and will be twice as safe from diseases and parasites.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

TRADE SECRETS: Although they are of no direct concern to citizens of the Fourth Indiana District, for whom this column is written, we are going to take Gilt Off the Dome readers into our confidence today and reveal, for their personal edification, a few of the intimate trade secrets of Members of Congress.

In so doing we are really not speaking out of turn, for these so-called secrets are fairly common knowledge on Capitol Hill. They might also be termed "Rules of Conduct for Members of Congress," or "A Code for Congressmen Who Wish to Remain in Congress."

Congressmen, generally speaking, are pretty much like the folks you meet every day on the Main Streets of America. The are of the people, elected by the people, and responsible to the people. They like their jobs, or they wouldn't be holding them, and they want to keep them as long as possible.

For this reason they have formulated among themselves certain fundamental rules, which have been proved sound by experience and which they usually follow. These rules until recently were unwritten. The other day, however, they were put on paper by Rep. Luther A. Patrick of Alabama, a humorist of sorts, for the benefit of new Members of Congress.

Space limitations will not pemit us to present all of them at this time, but we have selected a few which will give you a general idea what they are. Congressman Patrick now takes over:

AVOID the mistake of concluding that it is two years before you have to run for office again. A Congressman runs at all times and merely has his books balanced every two years to see if he is still in Congress. A schoolboy wrote on a civics examination, "The seats of Congressmen are vaccinated every two years."

THERE is no rule or reason against a new Congressman feeling free to take the floor and speak if he has something to say. However, it is easy to be mistaken on that point; also, do not try to say too much. When they beat a Congressman it usually involves something that he said. Some very clever Congressmen are able to talk and say very little, but to say it well.

DO NOT get tied up on either side of politics in our home State or home District. We want you to stay with us here as long as you can.

NO NOT promise ambitious young ladies to introduce them to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. It would just be your hard luck for them to be involved with engagements at the very time your young ladies come to Washington.

DO NOT prophesy too fully as to the outcome of this war. Wars usually turn out, but do not turn out as expected. As to the results and outcome of a war the unusual is so usual that the unusual is usually the usual. Skip it.

LET not your heart be troubled when those who oppose you begin to say: "He has been in Congress for blank years; what has he done?" That is the issue raised against every Congressman who is here, has been here, and who will be here.

MOST Congressmen, believe it or not, die of heart failure and overwork. A good idea is to learn to take it fairly easy from the jump. No man gets elected on account of the size of the load.

REMEMBER the folks back home who are so quick to send telegrams on issues are not so great in number as those who do not send telegrams at all.

DO NOT get up on the floor of the House and make any statement as to how the district you represent would vote on any given proposition. Gallup is waiting around the corner, and may strike you next.

LISTEN courteously when an older Congressman is talking to you. You can say what you please when he walks away.

ACT very respectfully toward any Congressman who has been here ten years or over. The chances are he is chairman of a committee.

BE extremely courteous, polite, and even chivalrous toward lady Members of Congress. Any district that wishes to do so may send a lady—besides, her husband probably was a very capable Member of this body.

DO NOT let the lobbyist problem enter your mind. No matter who starts crowding you, just let the same old strength come into your veins that has been saving the Nation for 150 years; that is, What do the folks back home think about this proposition?

TAKE your work here as seriously as a Russian takes his vodka; but do not take yourself too seriously. If you do, you will probably be the only Member who takes you so.

DO NOT come in with the idea of making faces at the other party. It is mighty weak service. You cannot remain here long without finding out that there are just as good guys on the other side as on your own. What we need is more good will and understanding and less of the spirit of revenge.

NEVER get snooty or hard to get along with the newpsaper boys. Not only do they get the last punch at you, but they do have a hard job. They have got to take what you say and do and send it back so it will piece together. And no matter how big a jackass a man in politics makes of himself, a newspaperman can always improve on it.

YOU CAN GET ALONG WITHOUT ELECTRICITY AND WITHOUT ADVERTISING — BUT WHY TRY?

GOing Places With Republican State Officials at the Hoosier Capitol

Economy, an almost forgotten word in the administration of state and national governmental operations during the past eight years, has been returned to Indiana by the Republicans as promised in their campaign last fall.

The first definite economy evidence came during the recent session of the Republican-controlled General Assembly when the G. O. P. reduced the state budget $5,500,000 despite objections from the minority.

Now comes more proof that the Republican economy pledges were more than campaign promises. Two of the state governmental departments are taking steps to reduce their operating expenses.

State Auditor Richard T. James has revealed that the state is being re-districted and the number of oil inspectors will be reduced from 40 to 24 and they will work full time. In addition the oil inspectors will assume the duties of the gasoline tax refund investigation department, which means a reduction of five or six employees.

Mr. James, who was one of the state officials asking for a decrease in budget appropriations, said: "This is the first of several economy steps planned in this department." His economy plea to the budget makers saved the taxpayers $100,000.

The state printing department, now Republican-controlled, is another example of the party's economy program. Cooper Clifton, director, estimates that "at least $5,000 will be saved annually in personnel salaries." He also expects to save several thousand dollars on printing through competitive bids.

Secretary of State James M. Tucker and his efficient corps of employees are being lauded for their quick work on the new acts, passed during the recent session of the General Assembly. There were 238 new acts and 15 resolutions and all of them are now in the hands of the printer, three weeks ahead of two years ago when Mr. Tucker's office shattered all previous records. There were 165 acts for publication in 1939.

Visitors at the state printing department are greeted at the information desk with a cheery "Hello" and a pleasing smile from Miss Lucille Miller, active young Republican from Portland, Jay county. Other new employes in the department include Miss Mabel Pumphrey, Greensburg, Decatur county, who has been engaged as secretary, and Miss Leona Riddle, Indianapolis, Marion county, stenographer and bookkeeper.

The efficient new notary clerk in the office of Secretary of State Tucker is Miss Marie Yoder, of Elkhart.

Job seekers throng the offices of the elective Republican officials from morning until night with the greater number seeking to visit Lieutenant-Governor Charles M. Dawson. His secretary, Paul Dunn, is beseiged on all corners and is a busy man.

Commenting on the recent session of the General Assembly, State Treasurer James M. Givens praised the $5,500,000 reduction in the budget. "We were elected on an economy program and we should keep our pledge to the citizens," he said.

The welcome sign is out. State house visitors say a new atmosphere prevails in the Republican-occupied offices. Visitors are promptly greeted by smiling clerks, who are accommodating and ready to look after their needs at once. "I walked into the office of Dr. C. T. Malan, superintendent of public instruction, and in ten minutes transacted some important business which on previous occasions required considerable longer," one individual stated.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVI (56 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, APRIL 10, 1941 NUMBER 15

OUR SCHOOL NOTES IN GENERAL

Returns from the Commercial Contest at Danville this year tell us that St. Joe's beginning typing team placed seventh in a group of four hundred and thirty contestants. There is now a lavender ribbon in St. Joe's collection of trophies. The typing team is composed of Dorothy Hook, Dorothy Maurer and Franklyn Sechler.

Marlene Cook, a third grade student, won a $1.00 prize in the Carrington National Valentine contest. Shortly before Valentine's Day the students of the third and fourth grades made home-made valentines, the best of which, according to their originality and neatness, were given prizes by their teacher, Mrs. Oberlin. Those chosen as best were entered in the Carrington National Valentine contest.

From March the twelfth to the twenty-second an Art Exhibit was held at South Bend, Indiana, in which southern Michigan and northern Indiana participated. Paul Keller from St. Joe won first prize in a textile design. Also he won twelfth in a pastel portrait and won honorable mention in charcoal drawing. Alice Strong won first in metal work; with Wilma Culbertson winning second in splatter work.

American Legion awards made at the American Legion meeting at Spencerville on Wednesday night, April 9, were as follows: Seniors—Sylvia Washler, first, and Carroll Reed, second. Eighth Grade—Bill Monroe, first and Jean Billow second.

Poppy posters were made and the winners were Alice Moore in high school and in the eighth grade Bill Billow received first and Carmen Freeburn, second.

Both scholarship awards annually given by Ball State Teachers College to the two highest ranking DeKalb County seniors were won this year by St. Joe High School, according to an announcement made by College Authorities last Tuesday. Sylvia Washler and Myranella Keesler, of the Concord class of '41, won the awards as the result of the examination taken on February 27. Both girls plan to be on hand for the orientation program which marks the opening of the Fall term at Ball State, September 8. It is at this time that they will be formally enrolled in the College.

The annual Junior-Senior banquet will be held Saturday night, April 12, at the Indiana Hotel, Ft. Wayne. The banquet is scheduled to begin at 6:30. The welcome address will be made by Russell Walter and the response will be given by Jack Goodwin, after which the prophecy will be read by Richard Reed and Elsie Hall will read the "Will." After a delicious and delightful dinner the group will be herded in to the Emboyd Theatre to see "Men in Boys Town."

Twenty-one seniors will be represented in the baccalaureate services to be held Sunday evening, April 13 at 7:30 in the Christian Church at St Joe The Reverend Key will deliver the sermon.

A goal has been reached by twenty-one Seniors of St. Joe High School. This is something everyone of them has looked forward to since they started in the first grade. All of them have been striving toward this end; to receive their diplomas. Frank Roberts, managing editor of the Journal-Gazette, of Fort Wayne, will speak on "Facing the Future." Commencement exercises will start at 8:00 in the St. Joe Gymnasium on April 16th.

DEKALB COUNTY TO INCREASE BLACK TOP ROADS

The DeKalb County highway department reports the receipt of $30,153.86 as its installment of gasoline tax from the state, covering the first quarter of this year.

This is $5,000 less than a year ago. However, the reduction is due to a new law passed by the recent general assembly by which the quarterly payments are equalised instead of being based on actual receipts for the quarter. The legislature also provided for larger percentages of gasoline tax to be distributed to the counties, cities and towns.

DeKalb county is to receive two more payments of $30,153.86 each this year These, added to $22,068.40 received in January for the last quarter of 1940 under the old law, will make a total of $112,530.07 in 1941, an increase of $5,000 over last year. The increase beginning in 1942 is expected to be about $13,000 anually.

At the present time the county highway department is engaged in maintenance of the roads and preparing for Summer activities. During the Winter the mechanical equipment was placed in condition and some of the machines were rebuilt. Hauling of gravel is now in progress to get in readiness to blacktop the following roads: 2.4 miles from Feagler's Corners to the Auburn-Ashley Road; one and a half miles northwest from the intersection of State Road 6 and the basket factory road west of Butler: one and a half miles of the Stafford Center road towards Newville; 4.2 miles in Troy township on the Bellefontaine Road and 3 miles of the Chas Dohner Road in Troy township. The cost is budgeted at about $1,700 a mile. The work will be started with the arrival of warm weather, probably in June.

The county now has 76 miles of blacktop, included in a total of 742 miles of highway. It was expected that this total would be reduced last January 1 by ten miles when the state took over the Waterloo-Hamilton road, but this transfer has not yet taken place, although the county completed the buying the right-of-way for widening of the road. Ward Jackman, engaged by the county commissioners for the purpose, has started negotiations with landowners for the purchase of right-of-way for State Road 205, starting at the intersection of U. S. 27 south of Garrett and extending southwest along the north side of the Vandalia branch of the Pennsylvania railroad. The mileage in De Kalb county is three and a half and owners of 18 tracts of land are involved. An 80-foot right-of-way is required and the total amount of land that will be taken over is between 11 and 12 acres. It will not be necessary to move any farm buildings. The state wants to build the road this year.

The number of regular employes of the county highway department at this time is 29, including Wayne VanAuken, superintendent, his assistant supervisors and office help. Some additional men will be hired during the Summer. Until last November, between 80 and 90 men were at work on county highway improvement as a WPA project. Mr. VanAuken set up a new WPA project that would keep 100 men employed for a year and it was approved, but the work has never been started. The WPA funds available were reduced and many men who worked on WPA are now in private industry.

PIONEER RESIDENT PASSES AT 89 YEARS

Josephus R. Shilling, son of Solomon and Esther Shilling, was born in DeKalb County, Indiana, November 4, 1851, and departed this life at his home in Saint Joe, Indiana, April 8, 1941, at the age of 89 years, 5 months, and 4 days.

He was next to the oldest child in a family of twelve children, six sons and six daughters, of whom only one sister, Mrs. John Doll and one brother, William, survive.

On March 4, 1879, he was united in marriage to Alice Josephine Gill. To this union were born one son, Cecil G. Shilling, of Saint Joe, and one daughter, Mrs Lela Northrup, Fort Waye, Indiana.

He first publicly confessed Christ in the Concord Methodist Church when he was eighteen years old and for the past forty years has been an ever-active member of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in Saint Joe, Indiana. He lived the faith he professed and departed this life with confident trust in the living Christ whom he served.

He was a faithful husband, a beloved father, and cherished grandfather. He was an obliging neighbor, clean, honest and upright in character, and held in esteem by all who knew him. His death is a loss felt by the whole community.

He leaves to mourn their loss, a faithful wife, their son and daughter, five grandchildren and one great granddaughter besides several nieces, nephews, and other relatives and friends.

He was active for many years in the public life of Concord Township, having taught school and served as trustee, besides his many connections with the religious activities of the township and county.

His body was removed to the Kinsey Funeral Home, where friends may call up to the time of the funeral, which will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Lutheran Church, conducted by Rev. Frank Stevenson, with burial in Riverside cemetery.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.

God in his wisdom has recalled
The man his love had given,
And though his body moulders here
The soul is safe in Heaven.

TOWN BOARD IN SESSION

The town board at its Monday night meeting had to consider numerous complaints on bad sidewalks in town and they first wanted the request made through this paper, that the property owners proceed to repair their walks before some accident occurs, and thus save legal action.

The drain north of the B. & O. railroad has been tiled to Bear Creek across the Ray Reasoner land.

A statement concerning the gas tax distribution for 1941 was received from the Auditor of State showing that St. Joe would share to the amount of $148.41 every three months, instead of $96.90, which will give the board $206.04 more for the year than previously.

Dear Friends:

Being the first of the month and time to pay bills, I thought of you folks and decided I had better pay you also. So I am enclosing $1.00 for The News. CHRIST is RISEN

While lingering twilight soft o'er the land lies,
Ere the red torch of morning rekindleth the skies,
All heaven and nature the glad truth decries—
That Chirst is risen, indeed!

While pale stars, as wardens, their soft beams bestow
From infinite stardom to earthland below,
'Mid stately white lilies we'll joyfully go—
To welcome this glad Easter day.

Why chime forth the joy-bells in anthems so long?
Why sing with such triumph this glad-hearted throng?
'Tis the old, old story in a new, new song—
That Christ is risen, indeed!

Those grim bonds are broken, death's pris'ner is free;
No more in yon shadowy tomb shall He be!
All join in a chorus of great jubilee—
For He is risen, indeed!

These white buds and blossoms as off'rings we bring,
These heaven-born anthems as praises we sing—
All hail to Messiah, our Saviour and King!
For He is risen, indeed!

Faint echoes of lyre-strings from yon starry dome,
Thrill hearts with the joy of triumph o'er the tomb—
While seraphs waft peace from His glory-crowned home,
For He is risen, indeed!

LEGISLATURE CHANGES WELFARE REGULATIONS

In announcing changes in eligibility requirements for old age assistance applicants, the Indiana State Board of Public Welfare said that the homestead will be exempted from consideration in determining eligibilty to receive assistance grants.

Prior to the repeal of the lien and recovery clause in the welfare act by the 1941 General Assembly, each aged applicant was required to give the welfare department a lien on all real property and an assignment on certain personal intangible property. Any assistace granted was recoverable from the estate of the recipient. Under the amended act there can be no recovery from new applicants, Fred Hoke, welfare board president, announced.

The new regulations do not apply to those who are already recipients of old age assistance, Mr. Hoke said. "In so far as property is concerned, these recipients will continue to receive assistance under the terms of the welfare act before it was amended by the legislature," he said.

Mr. Hoke stated that the welfare board continued an existing regulation providing for the establishment of a special fund of from $150 to $250 to be used by the recipient for burial expenses. The exact amount of this fund will be fixed by the individual county welfare boards. Mr. Hoke pointed out that this fund is the maximum amount of cash or cash value in other intangible property that an applicant may have and still be eligible for assistance.

In keeping with the provisions of the national social security act and the welfare act, the new rules for assistance provide that property owned by the applicant wil be considered by the welfare department as a resource available for his support. All applicants who own valuable real and personal intangible property in excess of certain exemptions established by the state welfare board will not be eligible to receive assistance, Mr. Hoke said.

These exemptions include the homestead and the special burial fund.

The state welfare board recognized the necessity of retaining the principle of need as the basic factor in eligibility because the program defined by the legislature is not a pension plan, but one of governmental aid only to those who do not have resources sufficient to provide "a reasonable subsistence compatible with decency and health," Mr. Hoke said.

In preparing the new rules and regulations the state welfare board felt that the General Assembly intended to liberalize the provisions of the welfare act and not to make it more restrictive so as to eliminate from the eligible group any aged individual receiving assistance as of March, 1941, or any aged person who might apply for assistance thereafter and who would have been eligible had the act not been amended. Mr. Hoke said.

GREAT WESTERN PLAY FOR LYONS CLUB GIVEN APRIL 24

When it came to the selection of a play for the Lion's Club, it was suggested to the Dramatic Club that a Western play would be something different from the comedies, dramas and farces previously produced. Now, everyone loves a good, thrilling Western story, as is proven by the immense popularity of Western movies and Western story magazines.

With this thought in mind the committee began the search for a good clean Western play. In the catalog of Samuel French, of New York City, the largest play publishers in the world they found listed a brand new version of the famous Bret Harte story, "M'liss." They purchased a copy and after reading they were convinced here was the play they were looking for. So on the night of April 24th in the H. S. Gym, our local players will present the play that has made theatrical history. Each member of the cast will do their best to depict this story which takes place in the lobby of the "Roarin' Dog" Hotel in Smith's Pocket, a mining village in the Sierras.

There is always one thing to keep a woman from being idle, and that is worry.

There has been a return of many old-fashioned customs, but no one has suggested a return to whiskers.

Folks are digging up their birth certificates today to prove they weren't found on the door-step.

It doesn't take long to be hit by an automobile, but it's the lying in bed waiting for repairs that occupies so much of your time.

We are never too old to appreciate the wisecrack about married men not being wanted in the army because they fight best at home.

NAMED TO DIE

If radios and newspapers around St. Joe were to blare forth the news that 100,000 children were marked to meet with an immediate death in a designated tragedy, consider the speed with which we would unite to fight the disaster so named. There is to be death for this number of children, only instead of hitting at once it will spread over a ten year period. Are we still so keen to come forth to battle or will we bide our time and take care of the matter later on? These 100,000 children are those headed for sudden death by traffic in the next ten years, and one of these children may be yours and one of the cars that strikes a child may be yours! The violent death visited upon Europe's children can be no worse. Our last year's record for auto deaths reached a total of over nine million. This is probably greater than the number of Britain's dead and injured from air raids. We pick them off here and there in our country, with motors instead of bombs. Traffic pours down the road regardless of the death-rate. A heartache is equally great, cruelty equally unforgivable, when it is able to be prevented.

YOUR PRIVILEGE

We like to be stopped on the street by a News reader who comments upon certain editorials which either appealed or else caused disapproval. This is the kind of a reader to have, who will be open-minded and line up his opinion with someone else and then weigh each. A subscriber remarked that so many editors wait until they see which way the Gallup poll goes before he will come out with his sentiments. It depends upon which side has the biggest majority. We haven't gone using the editorial page for free expression of campaigning for the home town, of citing other's beliefs. We may not see eye to eye and it is probably best that we don't. We don't mean that we are on the right side always, just because we have the advantage of expressing our side to the most people. But to be fair, to be free to discuss conditions as they seem, to get the facts right, to let the reader have his own opinion and judge for himself, that is the reason for the editorial.

FROM 40 ONWARD

Men of 40 and over become resigned to the fact that it seemed to be a young man's world, at least in the employment game. It was a sorry state for man and also for employment. But one good brought by the defense industry is to prove to the man of 40 and over that he is greatly needed in industry. We seem to lack artisans, the precision workers and skilled hands who have learned their business thru years of experience. They have acquired this precision by years of strain and patience, physical endurance to managing a delicate instrument with infinite care and painstaking effort. The call goes for toolmakers, and toolmaking is one of the arts! This has taken years to accomplish and the man is no youth who has spent his life at a white-colared job. So comes the swing to the older worker in industry who has the experience of years back of him. He is beginning to take some stock in the remark that perhaps after all, "life does begin at 40."

SPRING

A springtime of flowers, buds and bombs, but still a springtime! There lie those defeated nations burying sorrow beneath blooms. For though fire and shock and roar has wrecked the home and the spirit, still the earth throws up a bloom or two. Come to England the street vendor calling their wares, the blossoms. To horrified France will appear welcome loveliness. To lift hearts in Belgium, Norway and Holland springs the buds of scent and sweetness. A welcome sight is the bloom of Spring and a needed message to this sorry globe. If only the warm glow that flowers cast on hard hearts and sceptical minds, be shed to move a Hitler or a Mussolini. May the gentleness of spring make gentler the spirit of dictatorship. How can the earth stay cold and unwelcome to the breaking through of gold and rose and heaven's blue? The peacefulness of the growing bloom which sends its shoots through dark ground as it prepares itself for its new life! Comes the climb upward through darkness and dirt to sunshine and to add to the happiness and joy of a wary people. This is the new spring, the new lift, the new life and the new day. We should be grateful here in St. Joe for the small, unattractive seeds which will later burst into glory. Sad would we be for no planting, harrowing, sowing, digging and sweating. Unhappy if one's effort to assist in the rebirth were to no avail, if one's land was taken from him, his health prevented cultivation. Torn apart with war, the nations of the world still sing a song in the spring. If only the streets of Europe were flooded with folk-songs of the merry souls who weave garlands to celebrate the arrival of springtime.

IT SOUNDS GOOD

There have been many parents who have objected to the types of comic strips that are read by their young. Children were treated to a series of drawings and stories dealing with kidnappings, shootings, robbery, impossible situations and fantastically impossible characters. What could the parent do when the child insisted upon buying this sort of thing? One well-known newspaper eliminated such types of comics from its pages and substituted a strip dealing with historical events told in pictures and with a story-like interpretation. Then comes a new magazine for children called "True Comics." It is not like any of these 75 comic magazines that you have dreaded having your youngsters read. It is given a different editorial and subject treatment, to the delight of old and young. The first issue deals with history of past and present, the life of Churchill, adventures of Bolivar the liberator of South America, story of the conquest of yellow fever in Cuba, of George Rogers Clarke, of the first naval submarine, of fontier fighters, an adventure of Lowell Thomas. Parents and teachers are endorsing this magazine for its instructive and desirable reading for children. The advisory editors of the magazine include Virginia Weidler, Mickey Rooney, Shirley Temple, Gloria Jean. Another step we go in the right direction for worthwhile educational studies for young minds.

REMEMBER THE DAY?

How long has it been? One year, then two,
Of complete happiness prescribed by you.
To find each day you patiently awaiting,
The return of one I'll not be relating.
Many days and weeks, they seemed so long,
But you lightened your heart, remembering a song,
And divided your time in work and play,
When two hearts met—Remember the day?

A celebrated birthday too-a happy event,
To hold fast the memory a gift I'll present,
And you'll be toasted to health and happiness and success,
For you are surely worthy of all I possess.
I'll bet there are many who haven't forgot,
To turn through the page of a forget-me-not.
So you'll look at each other and faithfully say,
I'll love you forever—Remember the day?

For many it's been—a decade or so,
And the happiness they've seen, we may never know,
Their struggle was hard, frontiering for us,
So grateful should we be without a fuss.
They've shared and comforted our many tears,
And heroically shown themselves guarding our fears,
Let's pause in memory for they have guided the way,
No matter how old—They Will—Remember the day.

HERE IS TWO TIMELY RECIPES

Frozen Pineapple Cheese Salad

1 box lime jello dissolved in

With this you might serve party sandwiches open faced, ribbon or rolled and a nut bread sandwich would be especially tasty. HOG CHOLERA IS ON THE INCREASE

Hog Cholera still remains the greatest enemy of the swine raiser. Losses have amounted to as much as twenty million dollars yearly. Entire herds have been wiped out within a few days after the first signs of the sickness were noted.

Like many other virus diseases, hog cholera tends to follow a more or less definite cycle. The last peak of this cycle was the great nation-wide outbreak of 1926. Now the cholera occurrence cycle again seems to be in the ascendency. For example, the 4,861 major outbreaks listed in 1938 were a 30 percent increase over the preceding year. In 1939 there were 6,262 major outbreaks or an increase of 25 per cent over 1938. Then up to June 30, 1940, there were 7,023 listed major outbreaks or a 12 percent increase over the preceding year. And these increases do not include the untold thousands of minor outbreaks which were unreported.

A recent survey by the American Foundation for Animal Health in a representative midwest state revealed that there was an appreciable increase in autumn and midwinter outbreaks.

Many swine diseases can be prevented by good sanitation, careful feeding and common sense husbandry methods. With cholera, however, only proper immunization with serum and virus (simultaneous method) offers positive protection.

Livestock conservation and national defense both demand protection of the country's essential swine industry against a devastating 1941 outbreak of dreaded hog cholera. Insurance against such a disaster is possible if all swine raisers will have their spring pig crops properly vaccinated by a competent veterinarian around weaning time.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.—This is a month for Americans to watch, for April showers have often brought more than May flowers to the United States. History reveals that, beginning with the American Revolution the country has entered five of its six wars in the month that is characterized by cloudy skies. The one exception was the War of 1812. Today with a violent storm raging in Europe Americans will scan the skies of April anxiously. Following is a list of wars and disasters that have occurred during the month of April.

April 19, 1775—Beginning of the Revolutionary War.

April 24, 1846—The Mexican War began.

April 12, 1861—Firing of Fort Sumter and outbreak of Civil War.

April 25, 1898—The United States declared war on Spain.

April 14, 1865—The assassination of Lincoln.

April 18, 1906 — San Francisco Earthquake.

April 14, 1912—Sinking of the Titanic.

April 6, 1917—United States declared war on Germany.

THESE DATES may have been in the back of his mind last week when Congressman George W. Gillie introduced House Joint Resolution 158, to prohibit the use of the vessels and armed forces of the United States in convoying ships through belligerent waters. In introducing the legislation, Congressman Gillie declared:

"During debate on the lease-lend bill we heard repeatedly stated on the floor and in the Senate, that the President had no intention of convoying war materials. If this is true, why did he tell his press conference this week that the question of convoying has been under consideration for the past year and one-half?

"The President himself has stated that when we start to convoy war materials we will certainly see shooting—and shooting means war. Therefore, if Congress is determined to keep out of war—and the people of the United States definitely do not want war—it is up to us to ban convoying at this time."

The resolution was referred to the House Committee on Foreign Affairs with a request by Congressman Gillie that it be given prompt consideration. Copies will be sent to all readers on request.

PINK PALACE: The famous Pink Palace of Washington, sumptuous home of Hugh Auchincloss, has been torn down and the vacant lot sold to the Japanese Embassy. Reason—taxes—too high for the fat pocketbook of Mr. Auchincloss. The regal mansion, one of the show places of Washington, was in excellent condition when the wrecking crew began their work. Thus passes another one of the beauty spots of Washington.

SPEAKING OF TAXES, those of us who are just plain average American citizens won't lose much sleep over the above-mentioned Pink Palace because we have never owned one and never expect to. But we can well stay awake nights thinking about the National Debt and the taxes which each and every one of us must pay if we hope to maintain our form of Government and not be forced to turn it over to the wrecking crew.

Here is what the recent boost in the National Debt Limit from 49 billions to 65 billions means to you:

(1) A debt of $1,875 for every family in the United States.

(2) A mortgage of $34 on every acre of land in Continental United States.

(3) A debt of $161,250,000 on the eight counties of the Fourth Indiana District.

Add on top of this the estimated 40 billion dollars the national defense and aid-to-Britain program will cost us and you have a pretty sizeable sum. You figure it out.

A BILLION Dollars meant a vast amount of money to our frugal ancestors. In fact the total expenditures of the Federal Government for the first SIXTY YEARS, including the debts of the Revolution, War of 1812, and the Mexican War, amounted to only a trifle more than one billion dollars.

"What is a billion dollars?" people began to ask and the newspapers of the day used this simple illustration to satisfy the public.

"Suppose a person began to count dollars and was able to count 100 dollars an hour and continued to do so for ten hours a day, it would take him 53 years to count a billion."

The expenditures of the Federal Government for the past eight years, March 4, 1933, to March 4, 1941, total the sum of $71,171,514,919. On the basis of the above illustration it would take a man 3,762 years to count the dollar bills representing Federal expenditures during the past eight years —or until the year 5703 A. D!

STATUS OF INDIANA WELFARE ASSISTANCE FAMILY

County departments of public welfare opened 1285 and closed 1303 public assistance cases during the month of February, the statistical division of the State Department of Public Welfare announced today. A total of 87,275 public assistance cases were active with the county departments at the end of the month.

Death was the leading cause of withdrawals of the old age and blind assistance programs, while increased resources of parents and children reaching the maximum age limit accounted for the majority of aid to dependent children withdrawals.

Monthly grants averaged $18.23 for the 67,149 old age recipients, $28.58 for the 17,293 families receiving aid for dependent children, and $20.57 for the 2,403 persons receiving blind assistance.

Action of the recent legislature in removing the provisions of the 1936 Welfare Act which provided a lien should be placed upon the real property of old age assistance recipients is expected to add between six and seven thousand persons to that program.

Public assistance cases opened and closed during the month show 855 old age assistance, cases opened and 889 closed, 412 aid to dependent children cases added and 382 closed, and 18 blind assistance cases opened and 32 closed.

Total public assistance expenditures were $1,767,167, of which $1,224,364 went for old age assistance, $403,375 for aid to dependent children, and $40,428 for blind assistance.

Ralph Patterson Improved.

Merritt Sechler spent the week end at Springfield, Ohio, the guest of Ralph Patterson and found him much improved in health, so as to sit up a part of the time, and he has encouragement from his physician that by the end of April he will be able to be about. His many friends here are glad for this encouraging news.

LOG of the UNITED STATES MARINES

PLAYED FOR PRESIDENTS

Older than the National Capitol, the United States Marine Band can glimpse back over its stirring history of more than seven score years.

Established in 1798, the band was already two years old when it set out from Philadelphia to the new capital at Washington, traveling most of the way afoot, while its instruments and supplies were hauled in Conestoga wagons over deeply-rutted roads and dusty trails. The journey took two weeks.

Arriving in the capital in July, 1800, the band gave its first concert a few weeks later. In December of that year the tiny band could muster no more than two oboes, two clarinets, two French horns, a bassoon and a drum.

At that time our capital was hardly more than a sprawling group of log cabins in a wilderness. Today it is one of the show cities of America, while the band of sixty-seven musicians is the equal of any musical organization of its kind in the nation.

Thomas Jefferson, often called the godfather of the band, heard and appreciated its music. Its present leader is Captain William F. Santelmann U. S. M. C.

The band has played at scores of official functions. Beaus and belles of a bygone era danced to its stately minuets. White House weddings have been enlivened by its presence.

On more solemn occasions it played a final requiem for Presidents Harrison, Taylor, Garfield, McKinley and Harding. Today its versatile musicians are able to perform either as a band or as a symphony orchestra. The band has written its own harmonious page in the musical history of the country.

MARINES' APRIL CALENDAR SHOWS WORLD-WIDE ACTION

Many stirring highlights in Marine Corps history happened in April, according to the Corps' calendar of events, which shows the fourth month of the year to be an unusually active one for the sea soldiers.

April 1 marks the anniversary of a fight the Marines had with Samoans 'way back in 1899; the 2nd was the date that the Marquis de Lafayette witnessed a sea battle in which the Marines took an important part in 1781. On April 3, 1918, a dispatch bearer was severely wounded, marking one of the first Marine casualties in France.

The sea soldiers landed at Shanghai, China, April 4, 1854, to protect Americans; they fought a lively engagement in the Philippines on April 5, 1899, and on April 6, 1776, sea soldiers were wounded in a desperate sea fight. Thus goes the record, day by day, throughout the month.

Other events on the April calendar include such diversified happenings as battles with pirates in Cuban waters, a landing made at Vera Cruz, Mexico, a fight with Santo Dominican bandits, and the storming of a fortress in Tripoli. April also marks the entrance of the Marines, along with other branches of the service, into the first World War.

During April the Marines have taken part in such solemn affairs as the guarding of the body of President Lincoln, after he had been assassinated on the 15th of the month in 1865, and the unveiling of Grant's Tomb in New York City on April 27, 1897.

A painstaking historian has found some epochal event in which the Marines participated through the years, during each of the 30 days of April. Often there were two or three outstanding happenings on the same date, but in different years, adding still more variety to the record.

With Republican State Officials at the Hoosier Capitol

Refusal of Governor Henry F. Schricker to co-operate with Republican officials at the State House almost prevented distribution of pay checks at the end of last month to the 80-odd state-employed janitors, maintenance workers and other employes.

* * *

The 1941 General Assembly enacted a measure changing the personnel of the Department of Public Works and Property but left other provisions of the act as outlined by the 1933 legislature. The 1941 measure, signed by the Governor, carried an emergency clause and became effective immediately.

* * *

Despite the fact the measure is now a law the Governor is said to have refused to appoint a chief administrative officer as provided.

* * *

A standing rule in the auditor's office required that pay claims be approved by the chief administrative officer of the Department of Public Works and Property. When pay time arrived the middle of last month State Treasurer James M. Givens and Lieutenant-Governor Charles M. Dawson approved the pay claims of the Democratic workers but the Governor is said to have refused. Because of the action of the two Republican officials the checks were issued.

* * *

When the end of March arrived the Governor again refused to approve the pay claims, the two Republican officials declined to take any action. Auditor Richard T. James could not issue the checks and things looked blue as pay day approached for the employes.

* * *

Ross Teckemeyer, chief deputy state auditor, started an investigation and could not find any written order requiring the chief administrative officer of the Department of Public Works and Property to approve the pay claims. He conferred with Edward P. Brennan, chief examiner of the State Board of Accounts, and learned it was a verbal order issued in 1934.

* * *

The order was withdrawn with the Governor's approval and in the future the claims will be authorized by William Gill, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

* * *

Three Republicans have been named to posts in the Department of Public Instruction by Dr. Clement T. Malan, superintendent. Raymond Gladden of Indianapolis, high school teacher and coach at Charlestown, was appointed statistician. Gerhardt Ahrens of Booneville, assistant director of the state school relief department, was promoted to director. Roy Van Eddington of Shoals, was named assistant director.

* * *

Secretary of State James M. Tucker was the principal speaker at the State Convention of Ohio Young Republicans held in Columbus recently. Mr. Tucker formerly served as regional director of the Young Republicans. He was also president of the Indiana Young Republicans. A large delegation from Indiana attended the Ohio event, including Robert H. Loring, regional director, and Neland C. Wright, Indiana Young Republican chairman.

* * *

Mrs. Eleanor Barker Snodgrass of Nashville, vice-chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, has arranged a series of meetings throughout the state which will keep her busy until the state-wide rally in Indianapolis in October. One of the first of these meetings was held last Monday night at Sullivan when Mrs. Snodgrass and Lieutenant-Governor Charles M. Dawson spoke.

COUNTY SURVEY OF HISTORICAL MARKERS AND MONUMENTS

The Historical Bureau of Indiana, at Indianapolis, is engaged in preparing a catalogue of all historical markers (tablets, statues, monuments in bronze or stone) which have been erected in the various counties of the state.

A movement is under way to bring the record up to date and make the catalogue of these public memorials accurate and complete.

Persons knowing of such markers and memorials in DeKalb County are hereby requested to report them to Mr. Leon H. Kees, at City Hall, 2nd Floor, Auburn, Indiana, who represents this county in the survey now being conducted by the Historical Bureau.

It is intended that all permanent markers or monuments, in bronze or stone, which have been erected to commemorate historical personages, events of importance, sites of early buildings, forts, settlements, battles, treaties and the like, shall be reported Such markers have usually been erected and formally dedicated by some patriotic or civic organization, and are commonly on or near the spot connected with the person or event that is being commemorated.

Unmarked objects, even though they possess some historical interest, need not be reported, unless to recommend as suitable for being appropriately marked. Many such unmarked spots are known to exist throughout the state. The side-of-the-road or highway marker, with painted inscription need not be reported, as adequate records exist for all such markers.

By reporting these public memorials to your county repesentative, named above, you will help to make sure that your community's points of historical interest are listed in the state catalogue.

To avoid repetition, the following markers and monuments in this county are already known and recorded and need not be reported:

Soldiers' monument in Auburn.

Marker at Spencerville designating oldest settlement in DeKalb County, 1828.

Soldiers' mounment at St. Joe.

Soldiers' monument at Newville.

OUR WEEKLY LETTER FROM CONGRESSMAN GILLIE

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Winners of the recent competitive examination for candidates to the United States Naval Academy from the Fourth Indiana District have been announced by Rep. George W. Gillie.

Highest grade on the examination, conducted for Representative Gillie by the Civil Service Commission, was received by William Rhinesmith, a 17-year old senior at Ashley High School in Steuben County. His mark was 80.75 per cent.

Runner-ups were Eugene Jackson, of Bluffton; Lester C. Oppenlander, of Fort Wayne, and Richard Fuller, of Pleasant Lake.

On a basis of the examination, Representative Gillie has awarded the principal appointment to Rhinesmith, and has named Jackson, Oppenlander and Fuller as alternates.

All four boys have been authorized to take the Annapolis entrance examination on May 7. If Rhinesmith hurdles this barrier, he will enter Annapolis in July. If he fails, he will be replaced by an alternate.

THIS is the third year of Representative Gillie's experiment in removing Annapolis and West Point appointments from politics by substituting a merit system of competitive examinations.

Under this plan, every young man in the Fourth District has an equal opportunity of winning one of the coveted service school appointments. Politics have no influence over the selections, which are based entirely on the results of competitive examinations open to all aspirants.

The next examination for West Point and Annapolis candidates will be held in October. Three vacancies in the 1942 Annapolis class, and one vacancy at West Point will be filled from this examination.

If you are interested in competing for these appointments, it is not too early to begin preparations. A letter to Representative Gillie in Washington will bring full information about either service school, together with sample examinations.

Each Congressional District in the United States is entitled to have five midshipmen at Annapolis and four cadets at West Point. Vacancies are created from time to time by graduation or by failure.

REPRESENTATIVE GILLIE returned to Washington this week after a brief visit to the Fourth District made possible by the 10-day recess of Congress. During his visit, he was invited to address his constitutents over Station WOWO. Many of you may have heard his talk. For the benefit of those of you who did not, we present a few excerpts from his remarks:

"There were many questions troubling my mind when I left Washington to return to this welcome sojourn among my people. I left a Capitol laboring in the throes of war hysteria—ominously reminiscent of World War days. A Capitol verging on an extravaant 'war boom.' A Capitol seething with unrest and with loose talk about 'total victory,' about stopping Hitler at all costs, about steps no longer 'short of war.'

"War is in the air and talk of war was on the lips of everyone.

"And as I left the Capitol I wondered to myself: Is this hysteria limited to Washington or has it it already extended West across the Alleganies to the very heart of America—to Indiam and the Middle West? I could not believe that it had. This belief, I am happy to report, has been sustained since my arrival.

"The people of Indiana and the Fourth District do not want war. There is no question that our sympathies lie with Great Britain. But there also is no question that we do not want to permit our emotions to actively involve us in another shooting war.

"The will for peace is still strong, here in Indiana and throughout the Nation. Let us hope that it will spread from the people to their elected representatives, and through them to the leaders of our Government in Washington. * * *

"I AGREE—with President Roosevelt and Senator George—that convoyin is the surest, swiftest path towards war for America. And if this is what our leaders want they should be honest about it and ask for a declaration of war. They should not attempt to push us into this conflict through the back door.

"Recognizing—as everyone must—that shooting is inevitable if convoys are resorted to, and opposing as I do the participation of this country in a foreign war, I have introduced in the House of Representatives a resolution designed to prohibit the use of American warships and aircraft for the convoying of war supplies through belligerent waters. * * *

"IN CONCLUSION I wish to state that I owe allegiance to only one country. I intend to discharge my duties in Congress at this time on that basis.

"The highest duty I can perform in good faith to the people who have honored me by sending me to Washington is to preserve, protect, and defend my own country from enemies within or from without.

"I shall vote with enthusiasm and with all my heart and soul for every appropriation that will build up our own national defense on land, in the air, and on the sea. I will do that for my country, and gladly. I will vote and will act in every way to make our arms invincible from an invading enemy.

"I have pledged myself to my people that not with my vote will their sons be required to follow down the same bloody path of sacrifice that they did in the last war.

"This is my covenant to you. With divine help I intend to keep it."

"MY BABIES"

I have practiced my profession for forty years or more,
I have seen the babies coming, coming by the score.
Coming in the night time, coming in the day,
Coming on Sunday, coming any way;
Coming before breakfast, coming just at noon,
Coming in the evening, and sometimes much too soon.

Every little while the telephone would ring,
Telling me to hurry, the stork was on the wing.
I had to drive a horse before the auto came.
I made him run 'most all the way when he wasn't lame.
The dad would meet me at the door and take the horse in tow,
Saying they were most scared to death because I was so slow.

Sometimes, hurry as I would, I'd be a little late—
The stork would just be leaving as I went through the gate.
The helpers would be smiling, they had done everything
Except to cut that little cord and tie it with a string.

I have heard the babies yelling as soon as they were born,
And sometimes I couldn't make them cry, no matter what was done.
I'd put cold water on the chest and spat them on the back;
Sometimes I'd spat them hard enough to make an awful crack;
Oh! What a satisfaction when I'd see them take a breath
And I'd know that blue condition was not a sign of death.

Sometimes there would be two of them, the mother then would weep
And say that one was plenty and all that she could keep.
But in a little while she'd love the little things
And would not part with one of them for all that money brings.
But while she loved the babies and would not part with them for gold,
She would not have another one for all the wealth untold.

Some babies, I found, were very good and some were very bad,
And some cried 'most all the time, because they had no dad;
Some of them had light hair, and in some the hair was brown,
And some had no hair at all, when first they came to town.
I have often watched these babies and tried to speculate,
Of what they would do in life and what would be their fate.

But it's hard to tell what one will do, or be, at any age,
For you do not know what people they will meet upon life's stage.
But I am quite sure if they have had the proper training at home
They will come trooping back some time, no matter where they roam.

If our country is good enough to fight for, the labor unions should figure it is worth working for.

A record '40 and '41 orange crop will keep our vitamins up, and indicates we might be able to squeeze through.

It is usually not so much the greatness of our trouble as the littleness of our spirit which makes us complain.

GETTING THE WORM

Despite the sweetness of the thot, there isn't anyone in St. Joe who really arises with the song of the lark. Poets may write of it in sentimental vein but folks around here know that more depends upon their alarm clock than on the trill of a bird. Rising early, at a certain time each morning, year after year, becomes such a strong habit that even when it is not necessary the body refuses to remain still and up you get and start adoing without the call of a bird, the flash of sun or buzz of an alarm clock. That is habit at work again. It used to be that our family from way back arose far earlier than do we and made their tracks toward labor during the best hours of the day, so they felt. But as proof that we Americans are rising earlier than yesterday is the increase in the national sale of alarm clocks. Whether they are the kind you wind by hand or the kind that run by electricity, our alarm clocks are gaining in popularity. And so we may be reverting to the "early to bed, early to rise" slogan and no doubt it wouldn't hurt any of us by giving it a working chance!

MORE PROFITS IN SAVING PIGS

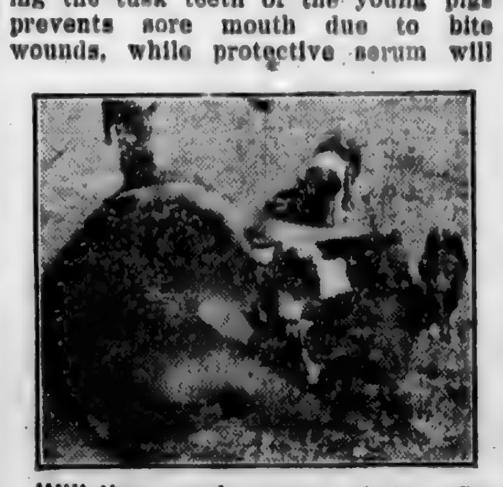
Did you know that approximately a third of all pigs that are farrowed never live to reach marketable age?

Most of these losses occur within the first few weeks of life and are largely preventable if farmers will take advantage of knowledge now available.

Among the common causes of losses are Brucellosis, scours, still births, chilling, pneumonia, crushing under sows, sore mouth, swine erysipelas, hog cholera, enteritis, and suckling anemia.

First step in prevention of such losses is healthy breeding stock that is properly immunized against cholera. All pigs should likewise be immunized around weaning time. Brood sows must not only have an ample supply of calcium, phosphorus and iodine in their rations while carrying their pigs but must also have plenty of feeds containing Vitamin A and Vitamin D. Lack of a proper intake of animal protein (tankage or meat scraps) may result in so-called "three day" deaths in baby pigs.

Scours and pneumonia while due to virulent germs are predisposed by wet, poorly ventilated or unsanitary hog houses as well as Vitamin A deficient sow rations. Crushing of newborn pigs may be avoided by use of guard rails in the farrowing pens. Suckling pig anemia, which usually occurs in the second to fourth week after birth, is prevented by tossing a square of clean sod into each pig pen or by painting the sow's udder with a mixture of iron and copper. Killing parasites may be largely avoided by scrubbing the sow's udder just before farrowing, keeping the house floors clean and trucking the pigs and sows to clean pastures. Dulling the tusk teeth of the young pigs prevents sore mouth due to bite wounds, while protective serum will block infection with erysipelas.



Will they survive necro, cholera, flu, erysipelas, and get to market?

With market hogs bringing better prices and the government calling for more pigs, it is possible to increase the pig crop at least 20 percent without use of more brood sows if all farmers will center their attention on prevention of baby pig losses. Immunization of all pigs at weaning time against hog cholera is, of course, one of the most important items to remember.

SPIC AND SPAN

How about us slicking up and making the town look prosperous this Summer? You are proud of St. Joe and it goes against the grain to have someone criticize the community even though it may be justified. Every town needs improvements and many towns can't afford the improvements but in many cases it wouldn't be expensive to correct a few of the things that cause complaint and show signs of neglect around our homes and our towns. We are told that a man's personal appearance has a lot to do with his standing in a financial way. He is judged, sometimes unfairly, by his appearance and this so affects his chances for his success in his community. We can figure that all of this holds true in regard to a town and that surroundings and living conditions affect the opinion of those on the outside who come to do business here. So it is up to us to go about a bit of energetic house-cleaning in the town. If the project calls for united effort this locality can get a group of public-spirited folks together to put the job across. We are going to make this town a place for drawing business and for favorable comment regarding local civic pride and enterprise.

REMEMBER CANADA

Business may keep many people from taking trips and lengthy vacations this Summer and perhaps it is too early to make any plans but as a suggestions for those who are going sight-seeing remember that Canada is not closed to tourist trade from our country. Too much propaganda was spread last year regarding hardships imposed upon visitors there. The rumors were unfounded. Canada welcomes you and has much to offer in the way of beauty in scenery. She needs your money and don't forget that helping her is helping America for much of this money spent will return to our country. Remember our Canadian neighbor if you travel North.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Regarding the strike situation, the conference between Mr. Murray, of the C. I. O., and the President, was held as scheduled, but neither had anything to say at its conclusion. Despite popular irritation, there are many willing to testify at Congressional investigations that anti-strike legislation is not needed at present, a view which has White House support. Secretary Perkins would have the government take over strike-locked plants only as a last resort and at the last moment. Director Knudsen, although introducing some of the last moment qualifications, may not be down as favorably inclined toward legislation of a curbing nature, whereas Secretary Perkins is markedly on the other side of the fence.

The Ford deadlock appears to have been broken, and 200,000 workmen soon will take up their tools again. The trouble in the soft coal mines brought the number of idle men up to more than half a million while the Ford strike was on. Approximately seventy-five per cent of the soft coal operators stand willing to accede to the demands of the United Mine Workers, but accord is being retarded by producers in the southern fields.

In spite of a furious bombing of the Midlands portion of Britain, and the none too encouraging reports that float across western Europe from the Balkans, the English population remains confidant and belligerent. Mr. Churchill seems quite determined, but in nowise inclined to minimize the gravity of the case. He casts an anxious glance seaward.

According to news by way of Japan the invasion of England will be in progress before these words can be set in type. Russia is quoted as believing that the seat of war has been shifted to the East, and that the British Isles are in no immediate danger. Be that as it may, Mr. Churchill is concerned about the Battle of the Atlantic. His clearly evident attitude is that although the United States has done much, she should not hesitate to do more, especially in the way of convoying.

Closely coupled in point of time with the Mexican absorption of a dozen Italian and German vesels, was President Roosevelt's request that Congress authorize the purchase of three times that many Danish ships, to give added force to the Lend-Lease law. Upon the theory that bombs are as bad now for Britain as beer used to be for this country, ten coast guard cutters, formerly engaged in enforcing prohibition, will go abroad. The delivery of ten small craft will not supress the submarine nuisance, but the effect on the morale of harassed Europe will be good.

It must take a mind of huge capacity, or many minds of that sort, to think up and work out all the schemes that endanger the welfare of the other fellow in time of conflict. The papers report that German firms in the United States are making ever increasing shipments of drugs and chemicals to South America. The alleged purpose is to leave the United States short of German-controlled products that would be useful in connection with war, and at the same time build up a money reserve here which, if not discovered speedily by Federal authorities and treated accordingly, would afford a Nazi bank roll capable of being employed for evil purpose.

Vice President Wallace's New York speech can be set down as a part of war propaganda in high places, or as a sound and patriotic utterance, depending upon the cast of mind of the hearer. He is quoted as saying that American aid must be of such nature that neither a mad man nor a mad nation will ever again have the opportunity to kill millions of men and destroy billions of dollars in property. It is to be feared that Mr. Wallace hopes for too much in that respect. He intimates that isolation on the part of the United States, following the first World War, is to blame for existing conditions abroad: which may or may not be correct. The address included a statement that the American people are ready to go to war if their rights are transgressed at any vital point, and that the Nazi philosophy is based on violence and deceit. That is what everybody thinks. Even a Vice President has the right to say as much.

THEN AND NOW

Only a few years ago those people who considered themselves "the better element of society" were horrified at the things done by Al Capone and his gang of highbinders operating in and around Chicago and similar organizations in other parts of the country. Of course they were after money and got a lot of it from the sale of illicit liquor, operation of gambling houses, pools of various kinds and brothels.

In order to control these rackets it was necessary for these gangs to control election of friendly public officers and defy those who were not friendly. The main thing of interest is the fact that they got away with it even though it meant murder of any one who interfered too much with their affairs and squelching lesser opposition by less drastic means.

This reign of terror wore itself out by the rival leaders killing each other off and by the prosecution of others, not for the crimes they had committed but because they had not divided up fairly with your Uncle Samuel the profits of their rackets.

We do not hear so much about these outmode rackets now because a very much more profitable one is in the lime light. Two or three things that have happened right here at home illustrates the trend and is much more intimate with us than the former gangster operations because they were not carried on in the small towns and rural districts, while the racket now in vogue operates every where that men and women work for a living.

A few days ago a man who has had only intermittent employment for a long while and only a little of that thought now since work was opening up for the season on the rebuilding of State Road No. 1 between Spencerville and Leo, he would at last get a job that he had been hoping for so long. He may get it BUT the first thing he had to do was to kick in twenty-five dollars for a so-called UNION CARD that got him as far as the waiting list for a job as a laborer. Another case where the victim had a little more luck was the one in which the applicant was a skilled worker and applied for a place and he got on without much delay by putting up one hundred and fifty dollars for his UNION CARD. He is O. K. if the job lasts long enough for him to get his money back and a reasonable rate of pay in addition.

There may be some doubt of this hundred and fifty being a safe investment though he is illustrated by the experience of the applicant for a job in a skilled position. Here the man had been out of work for a long time and did not have the cash to put up for the UNION CARD but they were very kind and sympathetic because he was broke and the union was organized to help those who could not help themselves, so they gave him a "permit" card which passed him until he could raise the money to pay the entrance fee. That was a fine thing to do and he could see the grocery bill being paid, his credit reestablished and maybe the wife could have a new hat for Easter. Any how the kids were going to get enough to eat again. But as it turned out he did not understand this great uplift movement sponsored by the professional uplifters now in power, before he had earned the ten dollars he had borrowed to buy his right to work, he was bumped off the job and his place given to some one who had a full membership in the society of brotherly love and economic aid to the downtrodden. Of course the fact that the more victims that join and get fired to make room for new victims the more profit to the uplift brother might have had something to do with the fast turn over. Maybe Not, your guess is as good as anybody's.

Is it possible that John Lewis was mistaken when he complained that the Labor Law the administration got him was "not the kind of a law we paid for" and it is really a better law than he thought because at the time he complained about being double crossed for his $450,000 campaign fund the full possibilities of the law had not been worked out. Lewis has been in the game so long that he seems to have become a back number and does not understand modern stream lined ways of getting money and power.

It certainly looks as though Capone and his kind were pikers when it comes to getting the money because they confined themselves to a limited field while this new racket reaches every person who works for wages. It also seems that Capone and his kind were rather superior morally, that is, they really were gentlemen compared to the present gang for they took money only from those who chose to patronize their unlawful activities while the person who honestly wants to work can hardly escape the present set up.

The important question now is whether these things are illegal extortion and punishable and if so why are they permitted or if they are now lawful why are they not outlawed.

It does not seem possible that either law makers or law enforcing officers agree with such incidents as these.

When it came to the selection of a play for the Lion's Club, it was suggested to the Dramatic Club that a Western play would be something different from the comedies, dramas and farces previously produced. Now, everyone loves a good, thrilling Western story, as is proven by the immense popularity of Western movies and Western story magazines.

With this thought in mind the committee began the search for a good, clean Western play. In the catalog of Samuel French, of New York City, the largest play publishers in the world, they found listed a brand new version of the famous Bret Harte story, "M'liss." They purchased a copy and after reading they were convinced here was the play they were looking for.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVI (56 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, APRIL 24, 1941 NUMBER 17

News Reader Writes of Early Days in this Community

Mrs. L. V. Dunn, now of Breedsville, Michigan, and reader of St. Joe News since 1896, writes interestingly of girlhood days in this section. We read her letters with geart interest, and we know our readers will too.

Here it is:

April 16, 1941.

Editor St. Joe News,
Dear Sir:

I am very sorry I couldn't send you the renewal for my St. Joe News sooner, but "Better Late than Never," they say, so I enclose $1.00.

When the March 20th issue came I wanted to write you at once and say how it took me back to the days of "Auld Lang Syne," many years before the St. Joe News was ever thought of or its editor was born. First of all I remember of being sent to Spencerville, around 1869 with horse and one horse wagon, through the "Old Covered Bridge" (is it still there?) Oh! I wish you would put a picture of it in "Our St. Joe News," to the Leighty Store in Spencerville, where a young man called "Jake Leighty" waited on me. I was sent by my brother-in-law, T. J. Royal, who lived (at the time) on the Tyndall farm east of Spencerville, near a family home "Lake," can not think now of first name. My mother, Mrs. Angeline Northrup at this time lived east of Coburntown Church about one-half mile on what we called the "Mose Perry place." Later we lived on the old Alton place, Cheesetown, from north end of which the Alton cemetery was taken. Here is where we lived when men came and bought the "Right of Way" for B. & O. Railroad of my mother, through that farm, but by time work began on railroad we lived a trifle over a mile east of Coburntown Church on Henry Milliman place.

First time I remember being at the B. & O. Station in St Joe, must have been in Summer of 1877 as we moved to Michigan in March, 1878 I with a girl friend (Jennie Abel, gone now) but then Jennie Thompson, went to St. Joe Station with a friend to take one of ear first passenger trains on the B. & O. One thing helped to remember, the engineer and one of train hands had a fight on train pltaform finally drew knives, and it frightened us so I expect we ran for home, I can not remember how we got across the river, must have been over the railroad bridge as there was no other at that time I am sure.

Well, well that was a long time ago and so few of the old schoolmates left now. And how many sleep in the Alton cemetery where we children of what was later called "Cheesetown School" used to play, as we had no other playground on that corner, and never stopped to think of the time we too, would sleep there.

When I read last Fall of an old schoolmate's 60th marriage anniversary I wanted to write that my 60th would have been November 18, 1940, and my oldest son, if living, would be 60 next October 19, died March 15, 1919.

Now I am 82 and ready to go and join the many schoolmates and relatives gone on before, and hope I may take my last long sleep in the dear old cemetery where I played as a child.

Excuse this long, rambling spiel, as this will probably be my last renewal to the paper I have never missed since 1896.

Sincerely,
Mrs. L. V. Dunn.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Vendrely, of Spencerville, moved to the Fred Jenkins farm home last Saturday. Mr. Vendrely is working at Fort Wayne.

478 PEOPLE VISITED SOYBEAN SPECIAL TRAIN HERE

The six-car educational B. & O. Soybean Special, operated last month through southern, central, and northern Indiana by the railroad and Purdue University's Agricultural Extension Service, attracted a total attendance of 5,331 persons or an average of 313 for each of the 17 stops, according to a report prepared this week by K. E. Beeson, M. O. Pence, and G. H. Enfield, all Purdue extension agronomists who presented lectures on soybean culture and harvest problems.

Attendance at each of the half-day stops not only included interested farm men and women and vocational agriculture and home economics students of the local community but also persons from surrounding counties. Before coming to Indiana the train operated in Ohio where full-day stops were made with an average daily attendance of 558 persons. The daily average attendance in Indiana was 626 persons.

Proper production methods, fertility relationships, utilization of soybeans and their products were the principal features presented by exhibits, pictures, and lectures. Short programs and inspection trips through the exhibit cars were arranged for high school students. Educational work for the men was presented by Purdue extension agronomists and for the ladies by Mrs. Aneta Beadle Vogler, former Purdue Extension Nutritionist, and Miss Mary Mowry, Indianapolis 4-H Club girl, who demonstrated preparation of foods containing soybean products and discussed the value and possibilities of soybeans in the human diet.

The attendance by stops follows: Vincennes, 87; Washington, 357; Shoals, 241; Brownstown, 510; North Vernon, 481; Osgood, 332; Liberty, 315; Rushville, 296; Fountaintown, 338; Roachdale, 550; Montezuma, 148; Dana, 159; Wellsboro, 114; Walkerton, 79; Bremen, 347; Milford Junction, 299, and St. Joe, 478.

Word was received in Auburn Saturday from United States Senator Frederick VanNuys that he had recommended the appointment of Don P. Sprott as permanent postmaster of Auburn. Mr. Sprott has been acting postmaster since April 1, supplanting Stanley P. Nelson. It is expected that when Mr. Sprott receives an appointment as permanent postmaster the term will be indefinite, the office coming under civil service. The salary is $3,300 a year.

St. Joe will change to fast time Saturday night. This is a step which is taken automatically as the result of town board action a couple years ago. No debating or arguing. St. Joe just turns ahead and no one knows the difference.

Mr. Sherd Hindenbaugh and Mr. Don McMillen, of Dunkirk, Ohio, Friends of the Mack Hatch family when living in Dunkirk, spent Sunday in the Hatch home at Butler and accompanied them to St. Joe Sunday morning, and attended Lutheran services.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curle, are now residents of the country, having moved to their farm purchased of Charles Thorpe at the Junction of Roads 1, 8, and 101. They will welcome St. Joe friends and if they know you're coming will probably have chicken, that is this Fall after they grow up.

After Anna Bachtel, of St. Joe, testified that Frank Bachtel did not support her, Judge W. P. Endicott Wednesday indicated that he would grant a divorce, but withheld judgment of court costs. The marriage of the couple took place July 8, 1911, and they separated June 13, 1936. The plaintiff is a telephone operator. She is represented by Attorney H. C. Springer, with Attorney W. W. Ketcham appearing for the defendant.

With frame work for the main building practically completed and with the roof and outer walls under way, indications are that the Studebaker Corporation's huge airplane motor gear factory at Fort Wayne will be ready for installation of some machinery before the end of June.

How many people know that the doctors who serve the local draft boards give their services absolutely free? This takes much of the time ot doctors in every part of the country. It has been granted generously, with no thought of reward. The young men who are being taken for the nation's defense have the satisfaction of knowing they are receiving the best medical examinations of any army recruits anywhere in the world. How striking is the contrast between the attitude of the doctors in giving this invaluable service, and the attitude of those crafts and trades that have endangered the defense program, through strikes and jurisdictional disputes.

"WAR"

Hark! In the distance I hear it,
The rat-a-tat-tat of the guns,
It's war with its hell approaching,
Bringing death to the nation's sons.
Hark! In the distance I hear it—
The shrieking, the wailing, the dart
Of the death-dealing bombs to their target,
Straight, straight to each mother's heart.

"Stop us not," say the great war-mongers,
"We care not for women's tears.
You have sons you can throw to the war-god."
"Stop us not," say the financiers,
"We'll rake in the red, red shekels,
With courage we'll play our part,
What matter to us if they're dripping red
With the blood of a mother's heart."

So noble the talk of statesmen
Who say we can do no less,
Than defend the shores of a foreign land
And add our bit to the mess.
"Let's get in the fight," they tell us,
"Let's share in the spoils and the kill,
I haven't a son myself to give,
But I'll give your's—if you will.

Hark! In the distance I hear it—
The fan-fare of trumpets and drums,
See the flying colors—the gay parade
That camouflage hell as it comes.
Comes a voice from the grave, do you hear it?
A voice that is freighted with pain,
"I went over the top in seventeen
I gave my life in vain."

"As then there is subtle wooing,
Propagandists are spreading hate,
Guard well thy heritage, U. S. A.,
America, guard thy state,
Don't trade for a mess of pottage
You'r God-given birthright of peace,
Don't fling your sons to the dogs of war,
For the honor of China or Greece."

"Hark! In the distance I hear it,
But ever closer it swells
'Till the beating of drums and marching feet,
Is drowned by the tolling of bells.
And through-out our peaceful nation,
As in Rama in days of yore,
Will Mother weep as did Rachel weep
For the sons that are no more.

—GERTRUDE BORTHWICK.

INCUBATORS STARTED AT STATE GAME FARMS

Electric incubators at the Jasper-Pulaski and Wells County State Game Farms have been set with pheasant eggs, starting on the record-breaking progam of turning out two hundred thousand game bird chicks during the next two months, C. R. Gutermuth, acting director of the Division of Fish and Game, reported today.

Each of the fourteen incubators has a capacity of 12,000 pheasant eggs or 21,000 quail eggs, and this equipment is supplemented by six electrically-operated hatchers. A 24-day period is required to produce the pheasant chicks—20 days in the incubator and four days in the hatcher. The battery of incubators and hatchers will be operating at capacity during the next few weeks as the laying season reaches its peak.

This year the Division of Fish and Game will supply nearly two hundred thousand quail and pheasant chicks to the conservation clubs operating brooders, in addition to maintaining the breeding stock at the two game farms. This will establish an all-time production record in Indiana and is considerably higher than the game bird propagation programs carried on in other states.

URGES CONSERVATION OF KITCHEN ALUMINUM

Since aluminum has become necessary in making vital defense equipment, its use for civilian purposes is being limited temporarily. Because this includes supplies of aluminum for kitchen utensils, Inez Kent, extension home management specialist of Purdue University, gives some points on conserving kitchen aluminum.

"Fortunately," says Miss Kent, "limiting the supply of aluminum that can be used in pots and pans works no great hardship on homemakers. For on the shelves of many stores is a good supply of aluminum utensils already made up. And, in addition, there are utensils of a number of other satisfactory materials available."

For top-of-the-stove cooking, there are utensils of porcelain-enamelware, cast iron, and flame-proof glass. For oven cooking, there are utensils of all these materials and in addition, tin, earthenware, heat-proof glass, sheet iron, and sheet steel.

"And as for aluminum utensils already in use in your kitchen, you can do your bit toward conservation by giving them good care day by day," says Miss Kent.

"Keep aluminum pots and pans clean and bright with steel wool or fine, smooth scouring powder. Remove discoloration on an aluminum pan by boiling it in water to which has been added vinegar or cream of tartar. Cooking acid foods such as tomatoes, applesauce, and rhubarb in the pan will be equally effective. Avoid strong soaps or scouring powders that contain alkaline salts, because alkali darkens aluminum."

Members of G. A. A. Make Pleasant Trip to Toledo.

Saturday morning at 6:30 eighteen members of the Girls' Athletic Association of the High School left in a school bus, driven by Roy Koch, on their long planned trip to Toledo, Ohio. Those who went on the trip were the Misses Betty and Becky Inlow, Beverly Swander, Leola Sechler, June Strong, Lillian Walters, Irene Hartranft, Rosemary Yeiser, Ima Lee Wade, Peggajo and Delores Chorpenning, Beverly Wade, Opal Kinsey, Marcia Guilford, Marjorie Haynes, Patricia Fluke, Doris Trenary, and Betty Smith.

Miss Kohler, the G. A. A. sponsor, chaperoned the trip. Money for the journey was earned by the girls through the sale of pencils last year and through a bake sale two weeks ago. Miss Kohler feels greatly indebted to Mr. Lyon for the privilege of using the store as headquarters for the sale and also wishes to thank the many parents who contributed cake, cookies, ets., to the sales and the townspeople, who co-operated with the girls in so many ways.

On the way to Toledo the girls had the opportunity of seeing the site of Fort Defiance and the Erie Canal. The bus arrived in Toledo about 10:00 o'clock and went immediately to the Zoo. Approximately three hours were spent visiting all the interesting buildings which were found there. The Aquarium, the Carnivoria (house of flesh eating animals,) the Reptilia (house of reptiles,) the Bird House, the Mammalia (house of mammals,) Bunnyville, and Babe, the largest elephant in captivity, were some of the more interesting things the Zoo had to offer. The girls left the Zoo at 1 P. M. and went to the Art Museum where they had the privilege of seeing many relics from the old Biblical countries, including mummy cases and stone tablest from Egypt. Also on display at the Museum were glass and china ware of all kinds colors, and makes. Besides the great number of famous statues and paintings that are always kept at the Musqum, the girls were particularly fortunate in having the opportunity of seeing a great many famous Spanish paintings which were on exhibit at the Museum on Saturday.

After leaving the Museum they went to visit the University of Toledo. Here the girls had the opportunity of seeing students working in the great chemistry laboratories and studying in the University library. The large and beautiful auditorium was opened so that the group might see it. The office of the president of the University offered the girls quite a thrill, especially, since some had the opportunity of sitting in the president's chair.

Upon leaving the University the group went to the Navaue Hotel where Miss Kohler made arrangements for them to stay all night. Arriving at the hotel at 5 P. M., the girls rested until 6:30 when they went to dinner. After looking the business section of the town over, the group went to a show.

Sunday morning, as had been planned, the girls went to Sunday School and church. The church decided upon was the Central Christian Church and they found the minister to be Rev. Grant W. Speer, who for many years was a minister in churches near St. Joe. Rev. Speer inquired about many of his friends who live in the vicinity of St. Joe and many of whom the girls knew.

After Sunday dinner the bus left Toledo and arrived in St. Joe at 4:30 P. M.

It is one thing to live in a country where what you want you take, and to live in a country where what you want you try to deserve getting.

We return to that famous out-of-door sport known in the vicinity of St. Joe as digging dandelions.

It is moer true that where a woman is placed there is home, than a woman's place is in the home.

It won't be long before women will be thinking in terms of lettuce sandwiches for noon and chocolate ice cream sundaes in the afternoon.

Every now and then the bones of the skeletons in closets do a little rattling around.

It doesn't count against you so much if you get in the mire and pull yourself out, but the black mark comes for lying in the mud and enjoying it.

We haven't heard an argument in a good long time over what nation owns the North Pole.

It's our opinion there isn't any European farmer who will ask the government for explosives to blow rain out of the sky this Summer.

The man who groaned all Winter when he had to get up at seven, is tickled pink to get up now at six to go fishing.

Whereas in the old days you wanted only a new hat for this season, today you think you can't go through the town without a new car.

A little nonsense now and then,

Don't worry because the rival imitates you. As long as he follows in your tracks he can't pass you.

Too many people itch for what they want without scratching for it.

OUR TOWN

Those of us who reside in the smaller towns become sentimental regarding the land right now. We think in terms of returns from our labor expended on the soil, be the tract large or small, for now is the growing time around St. Joe. We relish the thought that the streets are lined from end to end with homes of folks we have known for many years, where stand churches that have given us spiritual aid through the lean years, comes our children as they wing along, the housewife's nod and friendly greeting as she shakes the dust mop on the porch. Here is the home of our doctors and teachers, the chap who has been selling us shoes for years and our groceryman who knows our likes and allergies. We call folks by their first name for we have known them by no other since we grew up together.

There is the song of the city and we wouldn't want to do without it, but the sweetest words are spoken of the small towns like ours, our villages. The passing of Winter, the beauty of the growing season is more surely recognized in the smaller towns. This is St. Joe where we prosper in spirit. We are daily more aware of the glory of life here and go about our living and our planting as though nothing would disrupt this peace. To await the fruits of labor is the right answer of an orderly and tranquil life. "What my home town means to me" is to pass along the way with a greeting to our friends, to watch our neighbor's garden grow, to think our thouhts mid the shelter of comfortable homes, to shoulder the daily burdens that crops and weather ask us to bear—we still are going right ahead!

FOR MORE TREES

So closely related to man in its characteristics as it can sleep, breathe, grow, perspire, eat, digest food and have family characteristics as does man. That structure known as a tree, that growth that should be fostered and cherished as almost important to life as man himself. A tree should be replaced when removed. The tree which bears fruit for man's enjoyment and health should be nurtured and sheltered. The tree that offers shade for man's rest and pleasure should be doctored and blessed for its beauty and protection. The subject of the tree and its place in our life comes up seldom enough in our civic projects to enrich our town. We speak of many ways of polishing off the welcome mat on the front door step of St. Joe, but fail to figure that one way folks remember a place is because of lovely trees lining streets. They remark of the shade, the fruit orchards, of wooded tracts that are parks and recreation grounds. Let us remember the place of the tree here at home.

FEWER GIFTS

The bequests of benevolent minded citizens, who upon their death left vast fortunes for public welfare, has dropped off in the recent years, it seems. We realize that there is not the amassing of such huge fortunes as in the past, due to the heavy toll of inheritance taxes. The tremendous wealth garnered by famous families of bygone years is having a toning down in present day accumulation of wealth. The government puts the taxes to use for public service which is the common treasury enjoyed by all men within our boundaries. And from all indications there will be heavier taxation on private fortunes. So as there is increased taxation there is lessened the gifts of public-spirited individuals throuht their wills. Many of the bequests were not so large but there were so many of them that by a dropping off many privately endowed institutions will indeed suffer. What will be their future if the will fail to remember?

THE UNANSWERED QUESTION

In a thoughtful eidtorial, the Wall Street Journal brings up a number of important specific objections to the great St. Lawrence navigation and power project.

First, says the editorial, the estimate that the project can be completed by 1945, is too optimistic. Competent engineers are certain that a substantially longer time will be necessary. It is highly probable that the war will be over before the project can come into service.

Second, from the navigation point of view, the proposed 27-foot channel will not permit the construction in Great Lakes yards of important vessels, either naval or cargo.

Third, the supposed safety of Great Lakes shipyards from attack is offset by the high vulnerability of locks and dams to air bombing and sabotage.

Fourth, the estimates of cost—$266,170,000—will prove too low, as have the initial estimates for other comparable public undertakings.

Fifth, the project will absorb labor and materials which are needed elsewhere for vital defense work.

These are not carping criticisms. This country is running a race against time. It is working to perfect a great defense establishment by next year—not by 1945 or 1946. There is a definite shortage in many lines of skilled workers and basic materials. And last, but not least, the people are not willing to have one cent wasted or spent on projects not essential to defense.

There is plenty of transportation to serve this country. There is plenty of electric power, as the figures prove. Why, then, should we approve so dubious a project as the St. Lawrence when all our energies should be given to unavoidable and basic defense work? No proponent of the St. Lawrence project has answered this satisfactorily.

YOUTH FOR THE RIGHT

One of the most disheartening things that befell man, when the prominent paper-hanger entered the world's picture, was the fact that he had his greatest power invested in the body of that nation's youth. We heard reports of children turning against parents because of political beliefs, of the youth reporting life-long neighbors and friends, of their breaking faith with relatives. It was hard to understand that a force could be so great and so powerful that it could make the young forget all those lessons learned at a loving parent's knee. The youth of Germany terrorised the old of Germany for lust of power.

But comes the recent movement by the youth of Jugoslavia to bring us faith in youth under pressure! A 17-year old king upsets cabinets, edicts and tries by leading his country in the path of right-thinking though it meant bucking the older heads that were his country's leading statesmen. This young king stands as a symbol of the independence of youth against Germany instead of for it. Where their parents were cautious due to fear of the Axis powers, the youth feared not, as youth will! It is sad when such effort is expended on the side of pomp and persecution instead of the side of fact and humanity and brotherly respect. What will result in this dispiay of strong spirit against the outside forces that menace this small country, we don't know today. But all of us in St. Joe offer respect to the undaunted young king and a prayer for his country in its children's crusade against tyranny.

HEALTH HINTS for LIVESTOCK

PREPARED BY AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR ANIMAL HEALTH

HOG CHOLERA IS VERY DECEPTIVE

Unfortunately, most contagious diseases of animals do not follow a fixed course of symptoms. This is especially true of hog cholera, greatest disease enemy of America's swine industry.

For example, hogs of any age may die of acute cholera, with symptoms that resemble those of poisoning; others may fall in convulsions or fits that simulate a disorder of the brain; still others may linger for many days with dysentery as the outstanding sign of trouble.

Owners whose herds have been properly immunized against cholera are freed from the worry of constantly seeking suspicious symptoms in their pigs. But, for those whose herds have not been properly immunized the following danger signs of hog cholera should be watched for:

A tendancy to remain in the hog house and snuggle beneath bedding; gumming together of the eyelids by a sticky secretion; weakness as shown by a swaying or "wobbly" gait; a red discoloration of the belly surface; persistent scours usually yellow in color; sudden convulsions or fits; vomiting and extreme prostration. Very often one or two pigs in a herd die unexpectedly in from ten days to two weeks before appearance of sickness in the balance of the animals.

The all important thing is to find out just as early as possible the exact cause of any sickness involving herds of swine. At the first sign of trouble, the veterinarian should examine affected animals and, usually, subject one or more to a thorough post mortem study.

Although there is no cure for hog cholera, top heavy losses may sometimes be prevented if the unaffected animals in the herd are given increased doses of serum and virus according to the judgment of the veterinarian. The best safeguard, however, is vaccination before an outbreak occurs. In fact, all pigs should be so immunized, around weaning time, just as a matter of common-sense safety.

Typical hog cholera. Note prostration and tendancy to pile up.

The house that set itself on fire!

A few oily rags left in the corner of a kitchen closet . . . slowly storing up a self-generated heat . . . suddenly bursting into flames. But for the dog's alarm, this master would have lost his home.

This type of fire is not unusual. Plenty of other "self-starting" fires are among the 3000 losses reported daily to the national "Fire Clinic" established by 200 capital stock fire insurance companies. Study of such causes has led to the promotion of better building laws, better fire-fighting facilities, wider public concern about fire prevention.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It happens every Spring. We mean those letters to Congressmen asking for free garden seeds. Some are sent as a joke, others are written in all seriousness. They all read pretty much alike, to wit: "We heard the other day that free seeds may be obtained from our Congressman. If this is so, please send us some."

It therefore behooves us to advise readers that free seeds no longer are available from Members of Congress. As a matter of fact, this practice ended more than 15 years ago—although jokes on the subject crop up regularly. So if you want a garden, don't write your Congressman, go to your nearest seed store. The Government no longer is in the seed business.

CARTOON: A few days ago a Fort Wayne newspaper printed a cartoon showing two buxom Congressmen conversing in the House cloakroom. One said to the other:

"I ain't got the foggiest notion how I should vote on them defense bills—all the letters I get from my district request seeds!"

An old, old joke brought right up to date. But just another headache to Congressman George W. Gillie and his office staff. Soon after this appeared, letters began arriving from would-be gardeners asking for seed handouts. And they're still coming.

Congressman Gillie, a farmer from way back, doesn't like to disappoint a friend, so he has a small stock of spinach seeds and is attempting to fill all orders.

A record 1941 spinach crop is indicated for the Fourth District.

BULLETINS: Of course, if you want something for nothing there are always free farm bulletins—thousands of them. They are published by the Department of Agriculture on every subject under the sun, from "Sheep-Killing Dogs" to "Rat Control."

Every year, usually in the Fall, Congressman Gillie mails out lists of free Government publications to some 30,000 farmers in the Fourth District. The rest of the year is spent in filling orders.

There is always the chance, however, that errors will be made and you will receive the wrong bulletins. This happens in the best-regulated Congressional offices. Take the sad case of Senator Russell of Georgia, for example.

SENATOR RUSSELL has a constituent by the name of H. G. Peace, in Stone Mountain, Georgia, where the medicinal herd situation is mighty acute.

Only twice before in his life did Peace write a letter to a Congressman. The results were disastrous. But did he learn his lesson? He did not. The other day he weakened and wrote another letter.

Now there is no peace in the office of Senator Russell, or among the Stone Mountaineers.

Here is the letter:

"Dear Senator:

"I wrote to you for some information on medicinal herbs, and you have sent me a whole batch of bulletins on chicken raising. I know all I want to know about chickens. What has chickens got to do with medicinal herbs?

"On March 18, 1897, forty-four years ago I wrote to my Congressman for information on pecan trees and their care and he sent me bulletins on Belgian rabbits and guineapigs. What has rabbits and guieanpigs got to do with pecans?

"I am an old man 72 years old, old enough to know better than to write to a Senator or Congressman. But I heard such a nice talk over the radio during the Home and Farm hour that in a moment of weakness I sit down and wrote to you for which I most humbly beg your pardon for bothering you. I did not want bulletins about chickens. I am so disgusted and outdone. Two times 44 years apart I get the same kind of deal. Serves me right.

"Thank you? I haven't anything to thank you for. There are seven votes in this house and we have made it a rule not to miss a chance to vote on important Government and State elections. Respectfully.

(signed) H. G. Peace.

BY THE TIME this apears, Stone Mountain, Ga., will be flowing with more bulletins on medicinal herbs than the postman can carry or the State of Georgia can use. And, no doubt, another crisis will pass.

Blushingly, Senator Russell admits all letters addressed to Senators don't personally reach them. Most anxious of Senators to please his constituents, Senator Russell read this one and got busy. Now he's an authority on medicinal herbs. Peace, it's going to be wonderful!

"DEAR BILL:

"I don't think I care to go out with you again.

"Most of last evening was wonderful, Bill. But the drive home spoiled everything.

"You behaved so nicely and acted so considerately up till the minute you got your hands on the wheel and we headed home. Then you suddenly were transformed into what seemed to me a bad-mannered and irresponsible gorilla.

"You yelled at people who had just as much right on the road as you. You disregarded white lines and signs put there for your safety. You scared my wits out by going at an absurd speed.

"That might have been considered smart once upon a time, but I assure you it's silly and childish today. Call me stuffy and prudish if you like. But I don't relish dying quite yet.

"Nor do I want to get in one of those accidents where I am just hurt. I have sense enough to realize that you and the rest of the boys wouldn't be ringing my phone if my face and body were inexpertly rearranged by a smash-up in your automobile.

"So I don't think I'll go out with you again, Bill. At least not until you've grown up enough to behave decently as a driver, and not until you realize that you owe a certain responsibility to the person you ask to share your car with you."

With Republican State Officials at the Hoosier Capitol

Reapportionment by the 1941 Indiana General Assembly of the state's Congressional districts, eliminating the Eleventh district now represented by Dr. William H. Larrabee, Democrat, of New Palestine, does not seriously imperil any of the eight Republican representatives now in Congress, using the 1940 vote for comparison. Only five of the eight G. O. P. districts are affected by the reapportionment changes, made necessary as a result of the 1940 census.

* * *

The Eleventh district consisted of Madison and Hancock counties and the eastern section of Marion county. Under the changes made by the General Assembly, Democratic Madison county was absorbed by the Fifth district from which Congressman Forrest A. Harness, Republican, of Kokomo, was re-elected in 1940 by a plurality of 13,491 votes. Madison county would have cut this margin to 9,895 votes, still giving the Republicans a comfortable edge.

* * *

Hancock county, divided about equally politically, was added to the Tenth district, now represented in Congress by Raymond S. Springer, Republican, of Connersville, who was re-elected last fall by 9,247 votes. Under the new setup his plurality would have been 9,194 votes.

* * *

Other shifts removed Marshall county from the Second to the Third district. Charles Hallack, Republican, of Rensselaer, was returned to Congress by a margin of 24,342 votes and the removal of Marshall county would have cut his plurality less than 2,000 votes. If this shift had been in effect in 1940 Congressman Robert A. Grant, Republican, would have been elected by 5,813 votes instead of the 3,706 margin received. Likewise the shifting of Democratic Clark county from the Ninth district would have increased Republican Congressman Earl Wilson's plurality from 2,397 votes to 4,919 votes. Clark county went to the Eighth district, which is represented by John W. Boehne, Democrat.

* * *

The Republican Fourth, Sixth and Seventh districts, represented by George W. Gillie, Fort Wayne; Noble Johnson, Terre Haute, and Gerald W. Landis, Linton, respectively, are not affected by the reapportionment, which created a single district, the new Eleventh, out of Marion county.

* * *

Twenty-two Republican oil inspectors and three laboratory employes, completing the state oil inspection division staff except for three others to be named later, have been appointed by State Auditor Richard T. James. They are now participating in two weeks' training.

* * *

The Democrats had thirty-nine inspectors but this number was reduced by Mr. James in an economy move. The state has been redistricted and the inspectors appointed according to the counties doing the greatest volume of oil business.

* * *

The inspectors are James Swan, Fowler; Otto Nall, Indianapolis; Earl Hoffman, Bridgeport; Charles Offutt, Rushville; Dennis Hyslip, Vincennes; Ellis Kays, Petersburg; C. H. Fehrman, Dillsboro; B. H. Hartman, Mt. Vernon; Ernest Vizdamm, Evansville; Preston Wininger, West Baden; William Bothe, Hammond; Fred Rose, Hobart; Fred Minninger, Lowe; W. C. Ebersole, South Bend; N. J. Bowers, Elkhart; George Snyder, Fremont; C. M. Knauer, Avilla; E. M. Robbins, Peru; Wilbur Rodebaugh, Ft. Wayne; T. B. Moore, Otterbein; Wayne Hoover, Muncie, and W. R. Turner, Terre Haute. The laboratory workers are A. R. Stansfield, Willard Wilking and A. D. Thrasher, all of Indianapolis.

* * *

Another Republican office holder has termed his state-furnished automobile a "needless expense to the taxpayers" and it has been turned over to State Auditor James for sale under a new law enacted by the recent session of the Legislature. Maurice (Red) Robinson, Republican securities commissioner, was informed a state car was at his disposal. He immediately refused the car.

JURY ABSOLVES BEEBER OF DAMAGES IN ACCIDENT

A jury in the DeKalb Circuit Court Wednesday afternoon of last week turned its verdict in favor of Willis Beeber, defendant in a damage suit for $1,500 brought by LaVern Keener. The jury deliberated for only 25 minutes.

The plaintiff lives three miles east of Spencerville and the defendant three miles east of St. Joe. The plaintiff drove a team hitched to a manure spreader onto the gravel road near the Coburntown Church in October, 1939, and an automobile driven by the defendant approached from the rear and struck the spreader.

The horses jerked loose and ran away. The plaintiff said he was thrown backward into the load on the spreader and that his back was injured. He says he still suffers from the injury. He also claimed the horses were hurt and their value affected and that the harness was damaged. He said he did not see the automobile approaching when he drove onto the highway and that the defendant had plenty of room to pass him.

Mr. Beeber, who is 74 years of age, told the jury that he was only 150 or 200 feet from the driveway when the plaintiff drove onto the gravel road. He said he was going down a grade and applied his brakes, but could not stop in time to avoid a collision. Arthur Knop testified that he saw the plaintiff soon after the accident and that the plaintiff did not limp.

The plaintiff's wife told the jury that her husband seemed stiff in walking and that his legs were black and blue after the accident. She also stated that a lump appeared on his hip, corroborating a statement by her husband. Paul Miller, deputy sheriff, testified with reference to marks left on the highway.

Atkinson & Sanders represent the plaintiff and Capt. W. D. Stump the defendant.

The jury was composed of W. E. Aldrich, James W. Odenkirk, Joseph E. Sprott, Philip K. Fluke, Elmer E. Smith, S. B. Wagner, Mary L. Carpenter, Naomi B. Rench, Anna Ludwig, J. Glen Miller, Olive Meloy and J. R. Doll.

Saturday the plaintiff filed a motion for a new trial.

LIONS CLUB SHOW PROVED A FINANCIAL SUCCESS

With all the busy season, the play staged by the Dramatic Club last Thursday evening, drew a $75 crowd, which is considered fine, and the play was one of the outstanding plays ever presented by the group to a St. Joe audience. Every character showed wisdom on part of casting committee in their selection, and the audience was appreciative of their efforts in giving them everything they had. The play was interesting from the beginning.

The specialties between the acts were given by two of St. Joe's younger group, April Bowser in her acrobatic stunts and Jack Bowser in tap dancing, and they both made an unusual appearance on the stage, and the audience fully appreciated their part on the program as it was tops.

The Concordiers furnished a number of musical selections at the beginning of the program. The play being sponsored by the Lions Club for band promotion in the community, wishes to thank the members of the cast and the community for their support in this undertaking.

The band committee appointed at the Lions meeting Monday night is composed of Leslie Wilbern, Ralph Sechler, Dennis Gerig, Clyde Hart and Clyde Rectenwall.

The club will soon have been organized a year and in july officers will be elected to steer the club in its activities, and the nominating committee appointed is composed of Dale Wicoff, Claud Laub and F. B. Leighty.

The next meeting of the club will be May 12, at 7:00 o'clock.

ANOTHER CHICKEN BROODER FIRE LOSS

The prompt response of the St. Joe Fire Company saved the wood shed and home of Charles McCrory, just west of Spencerville, Friday, when they were preparing their brooder house for baby chicks, getting it warmed up.

Had help not arrived promptly the loss would have been complete, but only the brooder was burned. Mr. McCrory was excited over the affair and when the boys arrived said: "Where are you fellows from, and how did you know about the fire?" Two tanks of chemicals were used to put out the blaze and save the shed and home.

"My Dad"

In Memory of William Hamilton who passed away May 2, 1939

In the evening by the fireside
With his paper and his pipe,
Sat my Daddy drawing slowly
On the pipe—Jimmy used to swipe.

Seems I can see him yet
Poppin' corn most every night.
An' Mom a cleanin' up the mess
After him, It was always such a sight.

Then with his deck of cards
He'd haul out every Saturday night,
We'd all sit down with him and play
But we never won, much to his delight.

Oh, how well do I remember
How we used to fish in the Old St. Joe.
Why I believe we'd gone fishin' in December
If the cold and snow wouldn't have blown.

Then his farm was his pride and joy
He loved every inch of it 'till his race was run.
He knew every corner and crevice since he was a boy,
But at last his farming is done.

We tried, in our poor, feeble way,
We're such faulty creatures though,
To make his life happier, day by day
But we failed in lots of things, we know.

It seems if we could have him now,
Although we know he is at rest,
We might do more for him somehow,
His faith was tried—He stood the test.

OBSERVES SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Walter were the guests of their daughters, Margaret and Fara Lee, and son, Marion, and other relatives, at a three course dinner served at the Aulton House in Ft. Wayne, Sunday.

The occasion was in celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Walter's twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, which came on that day, and was in the nature of a surprise.

The table appointments and decorations were cleverly carried out in silver and pale pink—pastel pink was the color of Mrs. Walter's wedding gown. A beautiful wedding cake, monogrammed in the same colors, graced the center of the table.

The dinner was climaxed, when the honor guests were presented with a decorated gift box. Opening it, they found a lovely silver three piece dinner service.

Other guests at the dinner were Mrs. Cora Steward and daughter, Arminta and Miss Emma Fern Walter.

After the dinner, those in the party spent several hours on a sight seeing drive.

WARNING TO DOG OWNERS AND CYCLISTS

Willard Hurni, chairman of the town board, reports that numerous complaints are being made regarding dogs running free about town and tracking up gardens and that riding bicycles on the sidewalks has become a menace to pedestrians, and as both offenses are covered by a state law, he is asking for citizens to see that dogs in their possesion are kept tied and cyclists use the road or berm for riding. By complying with the request may save difficulties later on. All persons are asked to meet with the town board on the first Monday night of the month, and there make their complaints in the future.

AUBURN STORE ROBBERY NETS $522.18 IN CASH

The safe at the J. J. Newberry 5 and 10 cent store on North Main Street in Auburn was wrecked some time Sunday night and $522.18 in cash taken from it. A thorough investigation Monday by Auburn and state police failed to bring to light any clues concerning the guilty persons.

The crime was discovered around 8:30 A. M. Monday by Manager Paul Horst when he opened the store. Both doors of the safe were lying on the floor, having been removed by means of a sledge hammer, chisel and crow bar. The money bag, containing Saturday's receipts and the cash reserve kept on hand, was gone, but checks totalling $14.10 were left. The hinges of the heavy outer door of the safe had been removed and the combination dial had been beaten off, while the small inner door had been pried off. The safe is situated on a balcony at the store's rear and is partially hidden from the street by a low-hanging ceiling.

Collins in Mississippi

For the benefit of friends, we give the address of Dale Collins as follows: Private Dale Collins, Co. I. 152nd Infantry, 38th Division, Camp Shelby, Mississippi.

Harry Miesse, secretary of the Indiana Taxpayers Association, announced today that Indiana's property tax bill for 1941 amounts to $104,402,534.20, a reduction of $797,511.52 from the 1940 total of $105,200,045.72. He points out that the situation might have been worse for the taxpayers. Last year, when the budgets were perpared, officials asked for $113,167,192.96 of the people's money. Local boards of tax adjustment reduced the advertised levies to $106,048,304.04. Final action by the state board of tax commissioners brought the total down to $104,402,534.20. Thus the reduction from the advertised levies was $8,764,658.76. Forty-eight counties reduced their total taxes payable this year, DeKalb being $32,865.73 less, while the remaining forty-four counties have increases.

Mr. Miesse warns that with federal taxes certain to be increased enormously, the tax load will become unbearable and both home and farm ownership virtually impossible unless relief is obtained through reductions in local expenditures.

The decreases in taxes to be collected this year range from $384.39 in Hamilton county to $266,786.34 in Leports county. Increases vary from $203.97 in Clark county to $184,098.27 in Lake county. Marion county had a decrease of $192,971.32. Its advertised levies were slashed $1,370,472.83.

"In the face of rising governmental costs and innumerable demands for the spending of additional money, we have made some progress," Mr. Miesse declared. "Taxes on property are lower this year than they were last year. Whether we can continue this trend depends upon the vigor with which the people protect their own interests.

"There will be an election next year and that will cost the public about $1,500,000. This will go into the various budgets. An increase in the minimum pay for public school teachers means higher educational expenditures. Another increase is seen in the requirement that each township must have a minimum school tax rate of 75 cents in order to qualify for state aid. This will mean a jump of probably 25 cents in the tax rates of many townships. The general assembly raised the maximum old age assistance to $40 a month and there will be an attempt on the part of numerous pensioners to obtain this sum. Another increase in welfare costs is seen in the provision that persons who own property need not give the county a lien on it to qualify for assistance. These two provisions likely will mean more persons on the pension rolls and larger totals for their support. The organization of local defense councils is being advocated in each county, with the certainty that this activity will call for outlays that have not yet been estimated.

"Taxpayers absolutely know that federal taxes are to be much higher, in an effort to finance a certain part of the national defense program. Exemptions will be lowered and rates increased. Virtually nobody will escape. Even those who pay no direct federal income taxes will discover that many commodities they buy are carrying new federal imposts.

"Cuts in direct poor relief should be possible. Jobs are easy to get for skilled and unskilled workers. A searching investigation should be made to determine whether persons on relief rolls can find ways to support themselves. We believe that if these inquiries are made, many thousands of dollars can be cut from the relief outlays.

"Before long it will be budget time again. Certain mandatory expenditures can not be avoided. It is possible, however, to curtail some of the cost of government. No matter how desirable some governmental functions may be, the question now is whether we can do without them. Unless there is economy at home, the local and federal taxes will become a greater burden than most of us can carry. I strongly urge taxpayers of Indiana to begin thinking in terms of budgets and rates now and continue their interest in tax problems until they have won their fight against extravagance."

Today, few factors in our daily lives exert such profound influence upon our thoughts and actions as the newspapers, especially here in the United States where freedom of the press is a priceless heritage guaranteed by the Constitution. Through more than 10 thousand daily and weekly newspapers the world-wide march of events in government, in industry, in education, in social philosophy and in the arts and sciences is brought to 130 million people. And in these uncertain days, when events of vital importance occur with lightning speed and strike whole nations with terrific impact, the responsibilities of those who gather, edit, and publish the news have been greatly multiplied.

MORE FUN

There will probably be friends of ours in St. Joe who will put on a long, sad face and insist that, from the way things look now, they won't be having much fun this Summer. They insist the future won't hold much in the way of a good time, for they can't afford it. Perhaps we won't have the amount of pleasure we have had other years, but other years we had a billion dollar's worth of fun, and in round numbers that is a heap of enjoyment! Americans spent more than half this amount a year for movies. Of course it wasn't all fun for some of the movies we saw weren't worth the admission price. Bowling alleys come in for almost fifty million dollars a year and this pleasure is on the increase. Maybe you helped to spend some of the forty million at the race tracks and in the country's pool parlors. You no doubt added your bit to the fund for professional base ball which comes sixth in the lineup of pleasures. You are going to have some fun this Summer when last year you helped to make the figure a billion dollar's worth.

THE DIVORCE GAME

A divorce was granted yesterday to a woman who used the grounds that her husband of five weeks had married her under false pretenses. The lady was trusting and the bonds were severed when she discovered her error in judgment. This is one instance and there are hundreds given on equally as foolish grounds. Not all marriages are made in heaven and divorces are certainly proof that man enters the scene with poorly constructed laws. Of all the divorces that are granted for no level-headed reason, of marriages made while drink overcomes reason, vows drunkenly taken and regretted when the participants sober up. There should be a stop to hasty marriages, a halt to divorces granted on the flimsiest of causes. It is hard to convince News readers that marriages are made in heaven, that bonds are holy, when you find divorces handed out so freely and carelessly.

State Patronage Litigation

The ruling of the state Supreme court, made Tuesday, simply disposes of the right of Judge Cox of the Marion Circuit court to issue an injunction "if the facts support the finding and order of the trial court." There was no contention that they did not. The Republicans immediately filed an appeal and assigned error on three grounds. That will be heard by the higher court at the end of 25 days, it is expected. Meantime, three cases are pending in the Circuit court which go to the real merits of the case by attacking the constitutionality of the reorganization act passed at the recent session of the General Assembly.

The legislature, which was overwhelmingly Republican, undertook to unscramble the state departments and bureaus which had been unified and consolidated in the first McNutt administration. The machinery was so geared that the Governor practically dominated every state activity. He could hire and fire anyone on the state pay roll except elected officials. The office of Governor's "patronage secretary" was provided. The duties of the incumbent were to apportion jobs on the public pay roll, and it is reported that 95 per cent of those working for the state are Democrats.

The Republican lawmakers undertook to restore administrative function and supervision to the elected heads of the State Department. The fact that the one Democrat to survive in the election contest last November is the Governor prompts the legal battle. If the Governor were of the majority party, there would be no doubt about the scrapping of the McNutt program of concentrating authority in the hands of the chief executive. The real issue is whether the elected majority in the 1941 legislature had a right to undo what the elected majority did in 1933. Meantime, the public has learned for the first time in eight years that there are 13,632 on the state pay roll, 95 per cent of whom are on the anxious seat.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Expressing his opinions on Enoch Arden, the poet Tennyson said that things seen are mightier than things heard. Considering the time, place and attendant circumstances, the remark was probably correct. Radio transmission has changed matters considerably. The spoken word now can be poured into millions of ears at once. A person does not even have to be able to read, in order to keep fully posted as to what is going on. Moreover, the information passes from a speaker in New York to a hearer in London or San Francisco in less than a second, and there is no opportunity to undermine its force by contemporaneous argument or denial.

Thus it comes about that the talkers of the past few days have furnished plenty of material for comment, and Col. Lintbergh comes first in the order of delivery. He does not believe in war. Few do. The right to say as much should not be abridged. Yet it is no argument against war to insist that England cannot possibly win, that the United States is wasting her efforts on a lost cause, and that what has happened to nations who presumed to stand in the way of Nazi ambitions is an awful example to those who have a like degree of self respect, and love of liberty either in the abtract or the concrete.

Listening for a voice from the other side of the fence, Secretary of State Hull has made himself heard. As might have been expected, his utterances were somewhat guarded, but there was no doubt as to the trend of his thought, generally considered. No direct reference was made to convoying, but portions of the address were strongly suggestive. Since the Secretary believes that this is our fight, and that ways must be found to get quick and full aid to Britain, it can hardly be said that he considers a convoy system to be out of the question.

In any event, London sees much of encouragement in the address of Secretary Hull, and is confident that help will be enlarged, rather than reduced. The British may find even more comfort embodied in the words of Mayor La Guardia, Chairman of the Canadian and United States Joint Defense Board, who has let fall the hint that this country may find it necessary to extend marine protection within a boundary a thousand miles from our shores.

Perhaps the best practical asset possessed by the convoy advocates is the fact that as a nation, the United States has a sound business brain. Why stretch every nerve to supply war munitions, and then let them be sent to the bottom? Again, the Lend-Lease law is here and approved. Having set its hand to the plow, it will be hard for the United States to turn back. The Lend-Lease law will become a dead letter if the material furnished under its terms goes to the fishes, or worse yet, becomes the sinews of war in Axis hands.

So argue the friends of the convoy movement, whether right or wrong. There is a widespread diffidence about suggesting that we go the limit. Equally widespread is the conviction that the United States stand in the Valley of Decision. If anything is to be done, more effective than what is being done, it should be accomplished quickly. If the United States intends to maintain its present status, then that should be made manifest, and without delay.

G. O. P. MOVES TO HURRY RULING ON LEGALITY OF LAWS

INDIANAPOLIS. — Attorneys for Republican state officials, leading the legal battle to prevent Governor Henry F. Schricker from scuttling governmental reforms which would be accomplished by 1941 Republican legislative enactments, moved swiftly in three maneuvers during the past few days.

Motion for a change of venue was filed in the Marion Circuit court to remove from Marion county the hearing on three actions for declaratory judgment filed by the Democratic Governor on which it is hoped the question of constitutionality of the Republican laws may be decided.

In the Supreme court the Republican attorneys sought a rehearing on their petition for a writ of prohibition to prevent the Marion Circuit court from enforcing an injunction which prohibits Republican officials from making appointments under the 1941 decentralization act.

A second action filed in the Supreme court places responsibility for any delay in an early decision on the appeal from the lower court's action squarely up to the Governor and his attorneys. In a response to the Governor's motion that the appeal be heard on oral arguments and that the Supreme court, on the appeal, pass on the constitutionality of the 1941 decentralization statutes, the Republican attorneys said:

1. The G. O. P. appeal briefs will be filed within the 10-day period permitted.

2. The Republican defendant officials will not seek oral argument, as a means of expediting a decision on the appeal.

3. Issues in the appeal are limited to the questions:

(a) Whether the Marion Circuit court had jurisdiction and discretionary power to issue the temporary injunction for the temporary purpose of preserving the status quo until the Governor's three declaratory judgment suits can de decided, and

(b) Whether, if the lower court had such jurisdiction, there was abuse of discretion and error in granting the temporary injunction.

"The issues in this appeal (from the injunction) do not include any question of whether any part of any statute is constitutional, and this court cannot constitutionally, as a matter of its own limited jurisdiction in appealed cases, decide any issue that is not presented by the appeal itself," the response read.

"Transcending any public interest that may be involved due to alleged confusion (of the Democrats' own making by failing to show proper deference to the law-making body of the state and its acts) is the fast-growing public interest that the judicial department remain within the sphere assigned to it by the Constitution of the state. If the judicial department were now to give heed to the stampede request of appellees for extra-judicial expression of mere dictum on constitutionality of statutes, no decision would result, and an irreparable harm would result from such performance to the public interest that there be maintained orderly judicial procedure within the judicial power granted by the Constitution.

"The alleged harm to public interest referred to by appellees can be avoided by a simple act on their part — show proper regard for the acts of the law-making body of the state under the legal presumption of their constitutionality and follow orderly judicial procedure if they wish to litigate the constitutionality of those acts."

In their motion for a rehearing on the petition for a writ of prohibition, the Republican attorneys, Arthur L. Gilliom and Fred C. Gause, asserted: "This is the first time in the history of the entire United States where any such injunction has ever been allowed to stand by any court of last resort, and the decision herein is manifestly erroneous and a very dangerous precedent."

HEALTH HINTS for LIVESTOCK

ENTERITIS TAKES A VERY HEAVY TOLL

A quarter century ago we all thought that hog cholera was about the only swine disease capable of causing much trouble.

But times have changed, and while cholera is still the chief enemy of the swine producer, the condition called enteritis is easily the second most important swine disease problem.

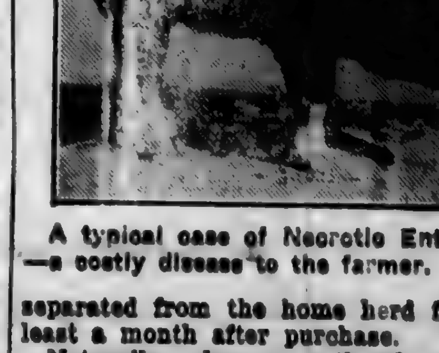
Enteritis simply means an inflammation of the intestine. It may be caused by a variety of factors, chief among which is infection by a group of germs closely related to the human typhoid organism. Another type of enteritis is caused by microscopic animal parasites called coccidia. Yet another form —the killing swine dysentery—has not been discovered.

Recent experimental work has been done on the question of whether "Necro" (necrotic enteritis), commonly known as shote typhoid, is predisposed by a lack of the Vitamin B complex in the rations, where the rations are low in the Vitamin B element called nicotinic acid.

But, regardless of the cause or type of swine enteritis, here are a few hints that are valuable in prevention:

Pigs should be run on clean pastures and kept away from old yards. The rations should be well balanced and contain the essential vitamins and nicotinic acid; growing pigs should be properly treated for round worms and other parasites; and feeding and watering equipment must be clean and sanitary.

Herds are frequently exposed to killing outbreaks of enteritis when newly-purchased pigs are allowed to mix with those on the home premises. New stock should first be inspected by a veterinarian and then should be separated from the home herd for at least a month after purchase.



A typical case of Necrotic Enteritis —a costly disease to the farmer.

Naturally, when an outbreak occurs the most important thing is to find out just what type and kind of enteritis has gained access to the herd. This means a herd survey and autopsies by the local veterinarian and, quite often, the assistance of a diagnostic laboratory, if proper steps are to be taken to curb losses.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Congressman Gillie has been host this week to a distinguished visitor, Louis Wehrle, of Fort Wayne, who returned recently from war-torn Europe, fresh from a three-month "vacation" as the guest of Adolph Hitler in a Nazi prison camp.

Mr. Wehrle, who went over to France with the A. E. F. in the last war and liked it so well that he stayed on, was operating a hotel in Paris when the Germans marched through Belgium a year ago. Volunteering for Red Cross relief work, he was sent to the Flanders front to assist in the evacuation of refugees, was captured by the Nazis and confined to an officers prison camp near the Polish border.

Relatives in Fort Wayne first believed that he had been killed, later learned that he was a prisoner. American Red Cross officials immediately began negotiations for his release thru the American embassy in Berlin. Three months later Mr. Wehrle was freed, half starved and 40 pounds lighter than when he was captured.

Returning to Paris he found his hotel in the hands of the Germans, who permitted him to occupy a room for a short time. His business lost and most of his friends gone, he decided that Nazi-occupied France was no place for him. With some difficulty he obtained passage to the United States, where he has resided since the first of the year.

Mr. Wehrle is in Washington attempting to obtain an assignment in Europe with the American Red Cross. As the guest of Congressman Gillie at a dinner the other evening, he held more than 30 Members of Congress spellbound with his first-hand account of life in a Nazi prison camp.

CONGRESSMAN Gillie and Senator Willis participated recently in one of the most unusual commencement ceremonies on record, when 17 members of the graduating class of Lynn High School, Randolph County, Indiana, received their diplomas on the floor of the House of Representatives. It is believed to be the first such ceremony ever conducted in the Halls of Congras.

Taking seats usually occupied by the nation's lawmakers, the graduating seniors heard Commencement talks by Congressman Gillie, Congressman Springer and Senator Willis—then marched to the well of the House and received their diplomas just below the Speaker's rostrum.

Included in the audience were members of the senior class of Hamilton High School, in Steuben County, who were here on their senior trip. The ceremony attracted the attention of press service photographers and reporters, and was written up in newspapers throughout the country.

THE GILLIE BILL, H. R. 2262, designed to bar from interstate commerce all anonymous magazines and leaflets, has received the formal approval of Postmaster General Frank C. Walker. Praising the measure in a letter to the House Post Office Committee, which has it under consideration, Mr. Walker urged its immediate passage.

The bill also has the support of the Department of Justice.

Congressman Gillie explained that his measure has three purposes. It would bar from the U. S. mails (1) all anonymous literature of a lewd and obscene nature, (2) anonymous propaganda publications of foreign countries, and (3) mysterious unsigned political campaign pamphlets of an abusive or extravagant character.

HUNDREDS of letters and petitions have been received by Congressman Gillie in support of his most recent measure, H. J. Res. 158, a bill "prohibiting the use of the armed forces of the United States and American vessels and aircraft for transporting, delivering, or convoying articles or materials to belligerent countries. One petition, with 1,000 signatures, was received from Fort Wayne alone.

The measure has taken on increased importance during the last few days in the light of an active Administration campaign for the use of convoys, although such action would inevitibly lead to direct U. S. participation in the war. Copies of the Gillie anti-convoy resolution will be sent to all readers on request.

DEWEY'S VICTORY
A FADING MEMORY

Startling events which are happening daily in a rapidly changing world, tend to dull the memory of historic episodes once vitally important to our country. Such was the battle of Manila Bay.

Forgotten is that May Day in 1898, when an American squadron, commanded by Commodore George Dewey, dared the mined channels leading into the bay to engage the Spanish fleet.

A few hours after the little armada of nine vessels had steamed past the threatening guns of Corregidor and entered the bay, the Spanish fleet of twelve or more vessels had been sunk or were afire.

U. S. Marines were landed at Cavite almost as soon as the smoke of battle had cleared way and, except for a brief interval, detachments of sea soldiers have been stationed there ever since.

In addition to those on duty at the naval station at Cavite, some U. S. Marines are stationed at Olongapo, about fifty miles to the northwest, while a few others are on duty at Manila or at radio and smaller stations nearby

Meanwhile, life has moved along tranquilly in the litte town. Some citizens of Cavite are employed in the navy yard there. Less active Filipinos enjoy their afternoon siestas and spend their evenings at the movies. They are a sober, sensitive, patriotic people with a passion for dancing and music and devout in their religious worship.

Although the herioc Dewey died in 1917, some of the veterans of the battle of Manila Bay still survive. Dewey's flagship, Olympia, still a rather trim-looking craft, rides peacefully at her dock in the Philadelphia Navy Yard, reminiscent of the morning when Dewey gave his famous battle order: "You may fire when you are ready, Gridley."

YES, LADY, we know you were well brought up. You say "Please" and "Thank you" and use the right fork and write the nicest bread-and-butter letters. But when it comes to your conduct while driving, you most definitely could learn manners from a truck driver.

Truck drivers are good drivers. They keep on their side of the road, they don't go at fantastic speeds, they practice that fundamental rule of democracy and good breeding: Give the other fellow a break.

Which is more than can be said for many of our nicest ladies and gentlemen. A strange transformation takes place when they sit behind a steering wheel. They ignore the comfort of friends riding with them. They disdain the rights of people on foot. They yell boorishly at drivers who displease them.

Many who wouldn't touch a nickel that belonged to someone else flaunt all law and order when behind a steering wheel, with the callousness of experienced criminals.

The serious part of this curious behavior is that bad manners make bad driving, and bad driving makes accidents and death.

So mend your manners and become a good citizen even when driving. It may save your life.

GOing Places
With Republican State Officials at the Hoosier Capitol

Commenting on the long-awaited address of Governor Henry F. Schricker at the recent meeting of the Indiana Democratic Editorial Association, Republican State Chairman Arch N. Bobbitt declared he was pleased with the chief executive's acknowledgement of "wreckage" by the Republican-controlled 1941 General Assembly.

* * *

"Yes, the General Assembly wrecked things," observed Mr. Bobbitt, "and the taxpayers will receive the benefits. That infamous Two Per Cent Club of Democratic politicians, which gave Indiana unpleasant national publicity, was smashed and the extravagant spending in the operation of state government was checked, saving the taxpayers $5,500,000."

* * *

"And a model merit law was enacted which will take state institutions out of politics. Also dictatorship was checked. We are confident the taxpayers of Indiana are pleased with these record achievements," Chairman Bobbitt stated.

* * *

Lieutenant-Governor Charles M. Dawson is receiving commendation on every hand for two excellent appointments made recently by him. They were the selection of Earl Beck of Indianapolis, and Paul R. Bausman, publisher of the Washington (Ind.) Herald, as the Republican members of the State Personnel Board, which will administer the merit system for the employes of state institutions and several state departments. Both men are prominent in civic work and admirably fitted for the public duty to which they have been called. Two Democratic members of the board are to be named by the Governor.

LOST—One Democratic State Chairman, with troupe of trained performers. Missing since November 5, 1940. No rewards offered.

* * *

The Fort Wayne News-Sentinel comments editorially that "there isn't much difference between Republicans seeking plums and Democrats seeking plums, except that by this time the Democrats are convinced that they have a vested right in them."

* * *

All employes of Mrs. Marjorie Roemler Kinnaird, reporter of the Supreme and Appellate courts, are members of the Indiana Young Republican organization—a tribute to this energetic organization. Other Republican state departments have employes from both the junior and senior organizations. Employes in the reporter's office include David R. Wilkinson, Indianapolis, chief deputy; Mrs. Virginia T. Kennedy, Fort Wayne, and Verne S. McClellan, Indianapolis, assistant deputies.

* * *

Books, containing specifications for state printing, have been issued by the State Printing Board and despite the fact that they contain ten more pages than last year's volumes, the cost of printing was $100 cheaper, it was revealed by Director Cooper C. Clifton.

* * *

Two more Republican employes will be added to the payroll at the State Printing Board on May 1, Mr. Clifton stated. They will be Mrs. Frances McMillen and Charles Stephen, both of Marion county. They will replace Democrats and are now taking two weeks' training.

* * *

State Auditor Richard James presented an interesting discussion on the Republican decentralization program at a recent meeting of the Irvington Republican club.

* * *

Secretary of State James Tucker has returned from a brief vacation during which he observed his thirty-third birthday anniversary.

* * *

The Indianapolis Star, commenting editorially on the recent ruling of the state Supreme court on the Republican petition for a writ of prohibition, said: "The real issue is whether the elected majority in the 1941 legislature had a right to undo what the elected majority did in 1933."

WELFARE LIST LOWERED BY MANY DEATHS

A slight decrease in the number of public assistance recipients was noted for the month of March, the State Department of Public Welfare announced today. County departments of public welfare opened 1,155 cases and closed 1,284, ending the month of March with a total of 87,146 active cases compared with 87,275 at the close of February.

The largest decrease in cases was made in the old age assistance program, which opened 768 cases and closed 863. Aid to dependent children opened 362 and closed 396 cases, while the blind assistance program opened 25 and closed 25.

Average monthly grants of $18.32 were paid to 67,110 old age assistance recipiens; $28.65 to 17,293 aid to dependent children families, and $20.59 to 2,401 persons receiving blind assistance.

Death accounted for the closing of 552 old age assistance cases, and was also the leading reason for withdrawals of blind assistance. Children reaching the maximum age for assistance was the greatest cause of aid to dependent children withdrawals, with increased resources of parents and support of relatives next in importance.

Total expenditures for the three public assistance programs was $1,774,022, of which $1,229,161 went for old age assistance, $495,415 for aid to dependent children, and $49,446 for blind assistance.

INDIANA BOARD OF AGRICULTURE MAKING PLANS FOR ANOTHER BIG FAIR

Lieutenant-Governor Chas. M. Dawson, who is also Commissioner of Agculture, states contracts are now being let for another big Fair this Fall.

The Fair will be held eight days starting Friday, August 29th and closing Friday, September 5th, including Labor Day, September 1st.

The Indiana State Fair is fortunate in following the week after such State Fairs as Ohio, New York, Minnesota and Iowa. This assures livestock exhibits from at least twenty states or more—the "cream of the country." This also gives the people of Indiana an opportunity to see the best agricultural and machinery displays as it is certain that every department will be overflowing with interesting exhibits.

The Commissioner of Agriculture also sates it will be a real educational program for the 4-H Club Boys and Girls and the entire family. In fact, whether you are a farmer or business man, it will be worth while for you to attend this great exposition as it will be both entertaining and educational. Plan now to make this your vacation and spend several days at the Fair!

DON'T THROW 'EM AWAY

After reading your newspapers put them to good use. Don't throw them away, that is if the neighbor who borrowed them to read has returned them home to you. Your neighbors might not borrow your paper but some subscribers can tell you about their neighbor who does.

During house cleaning time the old papers come in handy for lining shelves and drawers. When the fruit collar is cleaned the jars will be wrapped in pieces of newspapers so that light will not spoil the housewife's painstaking canning efforts. If the father of the house is wise he will keep newspapers tucked under the front seat of an auto so that when he is stuck in mud or sand and the wheels spin 'round and 'round, he gets out the newspapers, slips them under the rear auto wheels and off he goes! This goes for business, too. When you want to get out of the rut and your business doesn't move any more than the auto, stuck in the mud or sand, call on the newspaper and see if its advertising won't help you out of your difficulty. You say the word.

Mother
WHOSE HANDS ARE UNTIRING

(WNU Service)

AS A war-conscious nation pauses humbly to pay homage to the spirit of motherhood, thoughts of mankind drift emotionally to the name "Mother."

Beyond the name are the deeds and the actions, the unselfish life, devoted not alone to those of her own blood, but to all living things—it is to these that mankind gives praise.

Mother's hands are never idle, not until that last day when man carries them away from the home they have long loved. They represent her very spirit. They are tender, gentle, pathetic hands, possessed of some magical power to heal and comfort!

They have woven a little, shining needle in and out of sachet-scented baby garments, and softly caressed the tiny new head. The babe has ceased his crying and smiled.

They have, with tender firmness, guided the six-year-old's pink fingers to form "A."

They have compassionately wiped the teardrops from fat young cheeks, and proffered a sugar cookie.

They have, though weary, set the perfectly-appointed table for the evening meal, and cleaned the last speck from the best china.

They have, at sunset on Sabbath evenings, softly pressed the ivory keys to bring forth the appealing melodies of beloved hymns.

They have been tightly clasped in supplication when the darkness of midnight enveloped a tired world, and little ones dreamed.

They have carried trays to the room where you could have heard a pin drop, trays with brown-capped custards, and nourishing broths. They have stroked the fevered head, and smoothed the pillow.

They have made futile, fluttering motions in grief when toil-stained hands would never be warm again, but have courageously swept away the scalding tears that pelted downward like spring rain.

They have passed like a benediction over the golden fuzz on the new grandson's head, and he, too, under their magical charm, has ceased his crying.

They are not just hands. Rather, they're just a different way of saying MOTHER!

FARM HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE SATURDAY

The Isaac McDannell, farm tenant house, was completely destroyed by fire Saturday morning about 8 o'clock, starting from the roof.

Chester Harris and family were living there, and when Mrs. Harris discovered the fire she rushed to the McDannell home where her husband was hauling manure. The two men rushed to the house and proceeded to throw water on the roof but were unable to check the flames. Mr. McDannell rushed to summon the St. Joe and Butler fire departments, and while unable to save the home, did save two other service buildings and fifty cords of wood.

This farm home was erected fifty-six years ago by Mr. McDannell's father, all native timber used. Rebuilding will start in a few days. The property was covered with $1,300 insurance and the household goods had $400 coverage.

For the time being the Harris family is living with Mr. McDannell. The furniture on the first floor was most of it saved.

"IN LOVING MEMORY"

(A Memorial to Fanny Milliman Smith, who died May 13, 1926.)
Reprinted by request.

In all my recollections of the days of "Auld Lang Syne,"
The sweetest are my memories of that little Wife of mine;
And I look o'er her mementoes with a longing in my heart
To have their tales retold me, 'though I know each sacred part.
The lamp-light seems to glimmer, so I turn the wick down low
As I sit in silence, longing for the days of long ago;
And, as I sit here dreaming, in a reverence divine,
I think in adoration of that dear, sweet Wife of mine.

There's something seems to beckon me from out the days of yore,
As if they wished me to return and live that life once more,—
To wander thro' the fields again, or sit beneath the tree
Where so often, in the evening, sat my little Wife and me.
And visions pass before me of those places which are dear,
And I have a sudden feeling that my little Wife is near.
Ah, I have such consolations in these Reveries Divine,—
These blessed recollections of that Darling Wife of mine.

Ah, Sweet-heart, years have left the lines of sorrow in my face;
Tho' I've looked around I ne'er have found the one to take your place;
I've found girls good and sweet and true; I've found them young and fair;
I've found them good as can be found; yet something's lacking there!
They do not speak with the same sweet lips your words of love and praise;
They do not have the same dear eyes in which I loved to gaze;
They may have hearts as good and pure, they may be just as fine;
But still they are not just the same as that Darling Wife of mine.

And so I sit and dream again in lonely solitude
Of all the years that have gone by, which nothing can seclude.
I feel the flood of blessed love which of her was such a part;
I know the joys of worship from the bottom of my heart.
I know the pains of loneliness, when dreaming of the past;
I feel the aches of sorrow which the loss of Her has massed.
But there's blessed consolation in these Reveries Divine;
And I thank God for these Memories of that Dear Sweet Wife of mine.

DALE COLLINS WRITES INTERESTINGLY OF CAMP LIFE

Thirty-Eighth Division
Camp Shelby, Mississippi.
May 3, 1941.

Hello Fred:

We are located here now in a very nice camp. Shelby has a good staff of officers and a very nice bunch of men, our 152 is made up largely of Indiana men.

We have been in training for two weeks. Our time since leaving Fort Wayne induction station has been well filled with activity. We left Fort Wayne at 6:30 P. M., Tuesday, April 15th., and arrived at Fort Hayes at 11:30 P. M. There we were issued our equipment in the line of clothes, footwear, rain coats, and necessaries. We were there until 6:20 Saturday morning, then boarding the train for Camp Shelby, a train of 18 coaches in all, 9 of them were picked up at Louisville. We came through Cincinatti, Louisville Kentucky, Memphis, Tenn., and Jackson, Miss., arriving here at 12:30 on Sunday afternoon. We were placed in our divisions and companies Sunday afternoon and we made a circuit of Camp Shelby in army trucks. There were 500 men on our train on Sunday and 600 more men from Indiana came in on Tuesday.

Our Lieutenant is Lt. Vonderoll and from Fort Wayne, a swell guy. He was on Journal-Gazette payroll before he came into the army.

We of the 38th Division, about 19,000 men, paraded for the retiring General, Robert H. Tyndall of Indiana.

There is over 50,000 men in camp now, approximaely 6 to 8 men in each tent, so you can see we have a fair sized city here. The country is rolling and temperature very hot.

We have access to most anything we want. A canteen across the street and up one block, next door is the recreation hall, also used for Sunday services, a picture show, service club where they box and wrestle, and our company mess hall is right at the end of the row of tents that I live in.

We are starting to get into our respective squads and platoons more for regular practice. It so happens that if all goes well, this soldier will be in the machine gun squad.

Nothing in the canteen is advanced in price. Cigarettes are 2 packs for 25c, soap, stationery and all such articles are in line with any general store, and this store is run by civilians.

Our nearest town is Hattiesburg, approximately 25,000 populaion, Mobile, Alabama is about 100 miles from camp, and New Orleans is just a little more. Our tent leader is in Mobile this week end and he is a Newcastle National Guardsmen and has been here since in January.

Army life is considerably different from civilian life, and I wouldn't say it was for the worse personally. I've lost a rather precious three inches on my waist, it gives me plaits in my slacks, but I've gained ten pounds, I'm walking it on I guess.

I live with two Fort Wayne boys, one Indianapolis boy and the N. G. from Newcastle, have received The News twice and am hoping some one will notice my army address printed there.

At the end of the day our cot is plenty welcome. For an eye opener we make our own bed and can be proud of it regardless of who looks the job over.

We go on the firing range Monday for practice with our guns, the machine gunners carry pistols as regualr equipment, and if you would like to see some rosy cheeks and necks, come down, but we have got a lot of good healthy tan, from the reports we get, 110 to 113 degrees here isn't abnormal. Our parade grounds where we drill have plenty of sand and no shade and yours truly is turning more the color of his shoes every day.

We have good cooks and good mail service, if letters, etc., are properly addressed. To hear from anyone from home is indeed a pleasure, so any letters from home will receive and answer some time, we really are busy through the day on the drill and in the evening we clean up our surroundings and our clothes and equipment.

So long Fred.
From a small part of the 38th Division.
Respectfully,
Dale Collins

AMERICAN LEGION TO SPONSOR M'LISS PRODUCTION

Those of you who enjoy a real, red-blooded Western story do not have to wait until your favorite Western movie star arrives in his latest picture, for at the Spencerville Community Hall on the night of Thursday, May 15, the St. Joe Dramatic Club will present a thrilling comedy which contains all the elements dear to the hearts of Western movie fans and fiction lovers. The title of this comedy is "M'liss" and it is taken from Bret Harte's thrilling story of the West. In various play forms, "M'liss" has thrilled theatre-goers for over fifty years and this new and up-to-date version of the famous old tale retains all the flavour and excitement of previous play-versions, combined with many modern touches.

The title role of M'liss will be in the capable hands of Mrs. Kathryn Bowser, and the part of the wild, unutored, lovable littte tomboy of the West is said to be splendidly suited to her talents. It is a role that many famous stage stars of the past have played and reveled in, for it brings into play all the human emotions, jumping from laughter to tears in the twinkling of an eye. But those who saw the play at St. Joe a few weeks ago given by our splendid local group declare that Mrs. Bowser will do the part full justice just as she did here.

An evening of fun and excitement awaits all who love to see local plays, so secure your seats early, which can be purchased from any member of the local American Legion and at the Reed Service Station and Roy Bowser Store at Spencerville.

The price of 15c for all school children and 25c for adults, brings this unusual production within the range of everyone's purse, so don't miss M'liss.

The proceeds of M'liss will be used by Walter Whitehurst Post 283 of the American Legion for the purchase of school award medals and also for sending of a local boy to "Boys State" and this year it will be one of the Harlan Boy Scounts who will go.

The Post has a coverage of St. Joe, Spencerville, Newville, Concord, Harlan and communities. This play given at Spencerville Community Hall, Thursday evening, May 15, at 8 o'clock is for all of you, and of course all of you are expected.

NOT SO DUMB

During the first World War there were thousands of drafted men in our army who did not know the proper use of the English language. Many spoke foreign tongues and it proved necessary to have officers men who could make the orders understood in the language of these soldiers. Today this no longer is necessary for the rating of education is higher in our army. However, there are a few camps holding classes in English for soldiers. An American writer who returned from Russia some time ago told of the well educated army there. He spoke of the men not only splendid technicians but trained efficiently in many other lines that showed their basic education. The latter part of 1940 shows that in the U. S. army only a little over 60,000 of the 180,152 recruits were not educated is our national school system. Over 8,000 boys had from one year in college and over. This would indicate to the News reader that our own army isn't illiterate!

HERE AT HAND

Whatever befalls us, famine, flood or fire, comes forth the support of the Red Cross to relieve all races, colors and creeds. There have been hands all over this land engaged in assisting the Red Cross in their enormous task of caring for the refugees of the stricken countries overseas. All chapters, large and small have devoted many hours labor for foreign relief. But along comes a sweeping series of forest fires in the homeland to damage property and bring hardship and who is the first to answer the call for help? You guessed it—the Red Cross! Any work you do for Britain is right and just but while you are engaged in it remember that if trouble should hit this county or right here in St. Joe, it would be the Red Cross who would supply bandages, sweaters, food and money. Their work covers peacetime and cares for the problems of society through rehabilitation classes, nutrition instruction, first-aid courses and stations, life-saving classes. Don't forget the Red Cross.

SIGHS FOR SIGNS

Most of ous feel at times that we are really over-burdened with laws, that they should stop making new ones until we can catch up with the old ones. But we can usually find reasoning behind a law that prohibits the erection of billboards along the highways and in the city which obstruct the view of traffic and are eyesores to mar the beauty of nature. Perhaps the beauty of nature isn't as important as protecting the life and property for we can blame the billboard for many an accident. Roads should be kept clear so the driver's range of vision is not impaired by a refreshing drink or a soap advertisement. Many places restrict this advertising and a few places won't permit it at all. Here in St. Joe we want to keep down motor accidents and we also want our countryside to be more attractive to the passer-by.

PAYMENT FOR MOTHER

There is none who has built better, sacrificed more, struggled harder than she whose name we praise publicly this Mother's Day. In our attempt to live a useful existence, have acquired so many gains and prizes for success, that we finger our rewards and admire our riches with deep intentness and ofen mistake this compensation as what should have been coming in payment for endeavor. We sit mid the gains and tell ourselves it is what we deserve, paymest in part mid the gains and tell ourselves it is what we dedeserve, payment in part for aims, ambitions, opportunities and dreams. If this is ndeed our just desserts, then what is the payment due the universal mothers who have been the power and strength behind the man, who has through her self-sacrifice and devotion given him his first taste of gifts and instilled in him the idea that for such inspirations and service there is no need for payment. We have accepted the worldly belongings and felt we earned them for it is the time and trouble put into the business of living. But what will a mother ask in return as her payment?

There has never been a period in history when mothers declare a strike against love, a war on devotion, where they refused to dedicate their patience to motherhood, where they aimed only for the return payment from their families in appreciation. Of all the victories and tributes to be paid no Mother today demands your loyalty. To enter into the spirit of the day one must come willingly and understandingly, with peace of mind that such devotion will triumph over the world. We wear a flower for her, we send her our love, we pay tribute in the hope that we have made ourselves worthy of such loyalty and affection. This is her payment.

HEALTH HINTS for LIVESTOCK

PREPARED BY AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR ANIMAL HEALTH

FARM CLEANUP IS AN AID TO PROFITS

Did you know that if the round worm eggs in the average 40 year old hog lot were as big as hen eggs, they would cover the lot in a pile eight miles high?

In other words we must not discount the dollar-robbing abilities of parasites and bacteria simply because they are invisible.

There are a number of steps that every farmer can take to cut down the ravages of animal diseases and parasites. Rotation of animal pastures is just as important as rotating grain fields. Raise young livestock on upland pastures to avoid the worm eggs and bacteria more common to bottom lands that are poorly drained.

Proper disposal of all manure is one of the most important links in farm sanitation. It should be spread on fields not soon grazed by livestock, and plowed under.

Thorough cleaning, sweeping and disinfection of all quarters where young livestock are to be born always pays big dividends. So does filling in mud holes, fencing off springy spots and seep holes and nailing up openings under the floors of farm buildings. Old straw stacks are a common source of thornhead worms in swine, and should be burned.

The best of all known disinfectants is also the cheapest. This is simply sunshine and lots of it. Millions of dollars are spent each year on non-approved disinfectants. Common lye and saponified cresol are among the best and cheapest of the chemical disinfectants. Whenever possible they should be used in hot water and followed by a coat of white wash.

A clean hog lot like this pays real dividends in avoidance of swine diseases.

Problems involving farm sanitation are best answered by local veterinarians, for different disease problems often require a different line of approach.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

Many years ago, in one of his popular novels, Mark Twain presented a "Formula for War" which, read in the light of present-day events, qualifies him as a prophet with almost supernatural powers. It explains, in our opinion, the bitter controversy centering around Charles A. Lindbergh and other anti-war leaders, and gives a hint of what the future holds for America.

Here is what Mark Twain wrote:

"I can see a million years ahead, and this rule will never change in so many as half a dozen instances. The loud little handful—as usual—will shout for war.

"The pulpit will warily object, at first; the great, big, dull bulk of the Nation will rub its sleepy eyes and try to make out why there should be a war, and will say, earnestly and indignantly, 'It is unjust and dishonorable, and there is no necessity for it.' Then the handful will shout louder.

"A few fair men on the other side will argue and reason against the war with speech and pen, and at first will have a hearing and be applauded; but it will not last long; those others will outshout them, and presently the anti-war audiences will thin out and lose popularity.

"Before long you will see this curious thing: The speakers stoned from the platform, and free speech strangled by hordes of furious men who in their secret hearts are still at one with those stoned speakers—as earlier—but dare not say so. And not the whole Nation—pulpit and all—will take up the war cry, and shout itself hoarse, and mob any honest man who ventures to open his mouth; and presently such mouths will cease to open.

"Next the statesmen will invent cheap lies, putting the blame upon the nation that is attacked, and every man will be glad of those conscience-soothing falsities, and will diligently study them, and refuse to examine any refutations of them; and thus will by and by convince himself that the war is just, and will thank God for the better sleep he enjoys after this process of grotesque self-deception."

CHANCES of favorable action being taken on the Gillie anti-convoy resolution, pending before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, appeared slim this week in view of the refusal of Administration leaders to permit consideration in the Senate of a similar resolution, sponsored by Senator Tobey. The Tobey Resolution was voted down in committee, 13 to 10, at the request of Secretary of State Hull, although informal surveys revealed the Senate to be evenly divided on the convoy issue. The Gillie resolution would prohibit "the use of the armed forces of the United States and American vessels and aircraft for transporting, delivering, or convoying articles or mateials to belligerent countries.

MEMBERS of Congress have settled down to a steady legislative grind, apparently reconciled to the fact that they probably will have to remain on the job in Washington for the entire year. In normal times Congress would be preparing to adjourn for the Summer. But not so in 1941. An occasional short recess may break the monotony of a continuous session, but most Members of Congress expect to be in Washington regularly until the 1942 elections. You can't blame them, however, for remembering longingly the good old days when they worked for four or five months and loafed the rest of the day.

A YEAR AGO Indiana, one of the leading farm states in America, was completely without recognition or representation in the agricultural councils of the government. Indiana did not even have representatives on the House or Senate agriculture committees. But today the picture is different. A Hoosier—Claude Wickard—is Secretary of Agriculture in the President's Cabinet. Another Hoosier—George W. Gillie—is a member of the House Committee on Agriculture. And a third native of Indiana—Senator Raymond E. Willis—is an active member of the Senate Agricultural Committee. All three were guests of honor at a dinner the other evening given for Secretary Wickard.

CONGRESSMAN Gillie has arranged to secure a supply of Government bulletins of special interest to poultry risers including the following: "Farm Poultry Raising," "Poultry Houses and Fixtures," "Diseases and Parasites of Poultry," and "Duck Raising." Any or all of these bulletins will be sent to anyone desiring them who will simply drop a postcard to: Hon. George W. Gillie, 1522 House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

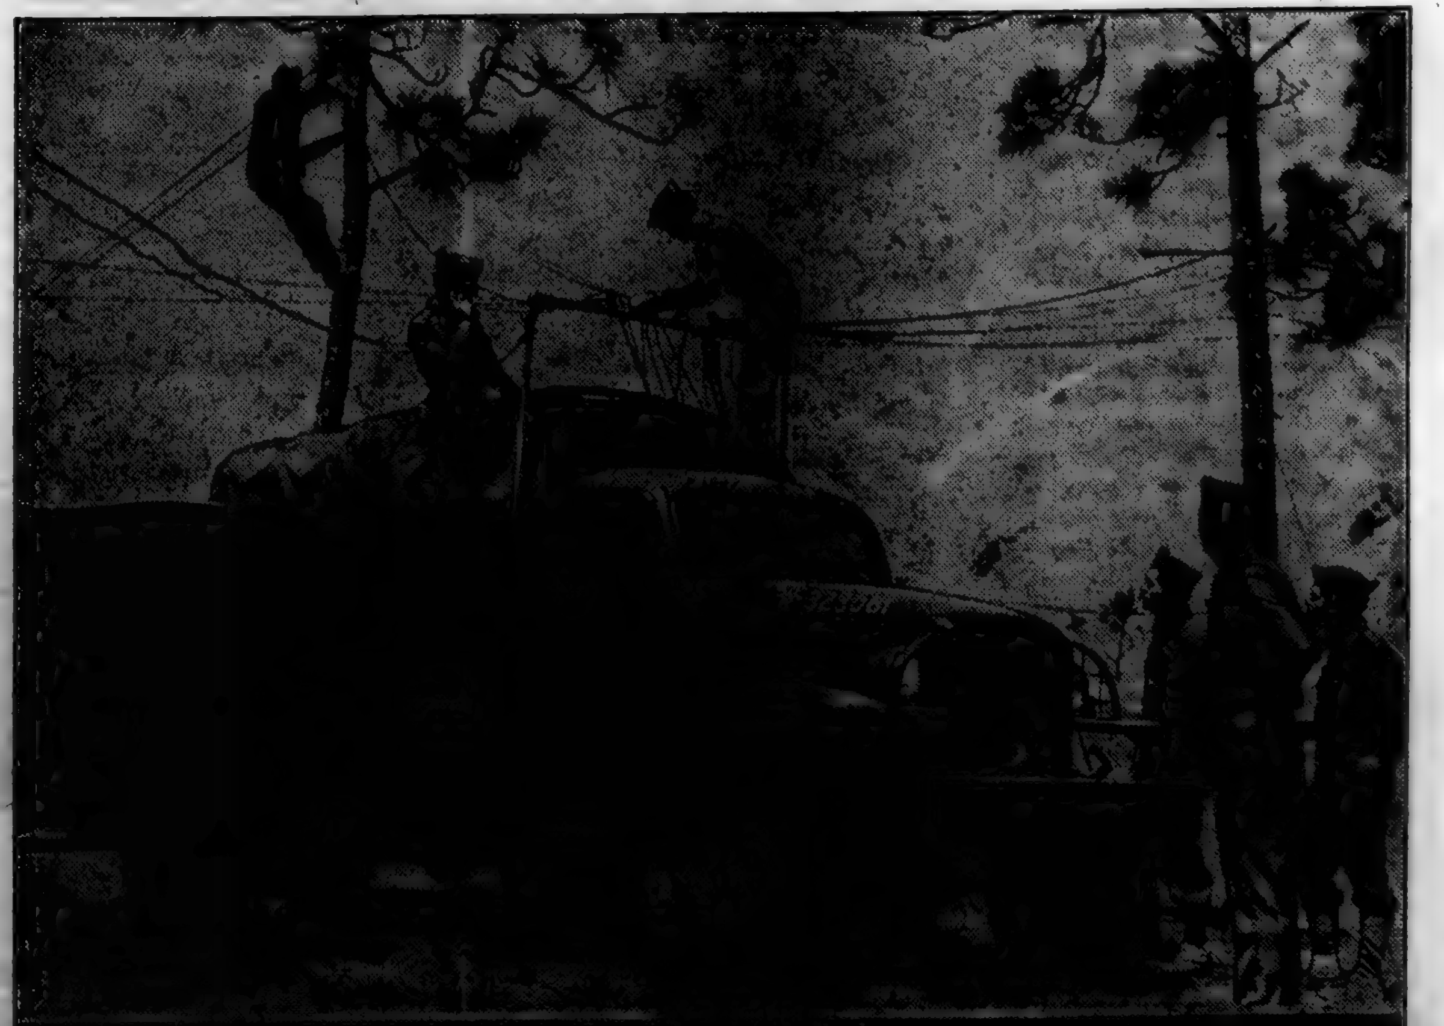
Men and Motors—The New Army on Wheels



Uncle Sam's motorized force—the new army on wheels—is symbolized by the "dawn patrol" of Chevrolet 4 x 4 army trucks shown across the bottom of the photo. The Chevrolet four-wheel-drive army truck, above, carries a complete telephone switchboard. Within a few minutes after the Fourth Division's motorized units completed a 235-mile trek from Fort Benning, Ga., on a practice mass movement, Major-General Lloyd R. Fredendall could communicate with every part of the vast encampment. The Fourth, moving in three columns, each 45 miles long, made the trip in 10 hours as compared with nearly 10 days before motorization.

LEGAL AIDS FILE LAST BRIEFS TO GET EARLY RULE

INDIANAPOLIS — Reorganization acts passed by the 1941 General Assembly are "in every respect constitutional and valid beyond peradventure of doubt," on the basis of the plain wording and intent of the Constitution and of decisions of the Indiana Supreme court itself, it was asserted in a supplement to briefs filed by attorneys for Republican elective officials in their appeal from a Marion Circuit court injunction.

The appeal was taken from the injunction issued by Judge Earl R. Cox preventing the G. O. P. elective officials from making appointments under the 1941 acts as boards of departments created to decentralize Indiana state government.

Filing of the supplement to the briefs is the last step for the Republican state officials, Lieutenant Governor Charles M. Dawson, Treasurer James M. Givens, Auditor Richard T. James and Secretary James M. Tucker, who are defendants in the action brought by Governor Henry F. Schricker in an effort to retain for himself all the patronage power granted the Governor under the 1933 McNutt reorganization act. Date for oral argument on the appeal from the injunction will follow filing of briefs by attorneys for the Governor.

"When the people elected the 1933 legislature and the state-executive-administrative act of 1933 was passed, they did not surrender the power of their legislative department to undo what the legislature did in 1933," the brief asserted.

Any power of which the Governor is being "stripped," the brief said, is only the power which was heaped on him by the 1933 General Assembly.

The Republican attorneys cited a decision of Judge Robert C. Baltzell in Federal district court in Indianapolis in which the court held that the Lieutenant Governor is not a legislative officer and could be given administrative powers and duties.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

At this season, a hundred and fifty-two years ago, General George Washington was going through the trying experience of getting broken in on a new job, having been inaugurated President of the United States, in New York City, on April 30, 1789. The area now occupied by the city that bears his name was forest and farm land, terminating in a marsh at the Potomac River. The journey from Mt. Vernon to New York was made in a coach, which bumped along over none too good roads.

If General Washington could resume the flesh, he would see and hear much that would startle him. Not the least of shocks would come with the knowledge that his theory about minding our own business in connection with European affairs has gone into the discard. The long reaches of time ahead alone can determine the soundness of his doctrine. The years make Ancient good appear uncouth. He knew nothing about a world-wide Nazi menace. Per contra, Washington seldom went wrong.

Within eighteen months, about two hundred American vessels have been turned over to war-harassed democracies, most of them going to Britain. It is expected that the House shortly will enact legislation which will enable the Federal government to acquire such ships of the United States as it chooses, or foreign craft harbored in his country. The Battle of the Atlantic is on, and is destined to move closer to our shores.

Although defense production has not gone forward so rapidly as was at first hoped, it has been active enough to result in the accumulation of large quantities of material on wharves and in warehouses, awaiting shipment abroad. Some relief will result from the execution of the President's order making shipping available to the extent of two million tons, comprising craft to the number of more than two hundred. Less immediately serviceable, but not to be overlooked, are four hundred vessels to be constructed under the emergency building program. The government is not splitting hairs over the boats that it intends to buy or charter. The small and the large, and the new and the old, will be thankfully received.

While it is true that conquered nations may be made to serve as feeders, it is hard to understand how Nazi efforts can be spread over so much territory and still maintain their efficiency. Surely the supply of Germans must have a limit. Hitler is convinced that there is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at its flood, leads on to fortune, and is governing himself accordingly. There is comfort in the thought that tides have their ebb as well as their flow.

Changing the figure of speech, waiting for the cord to be stretched until it breaks is a negative way of preserving Democracy. The papers have something of a more positive nature to offer. The massing of Russian forces in Poland is not for the mere purpose of keeping that country in a state of obedience, or in order that Russia may be ready to fall in line behind Germany, upon call. The President of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce says that half of our plane output, added to that of England, reaches a total that is larger than that of the Axis powers. Success in warfare, by the way, seems to depend to an astonishing degree nowadays, on ways and means of transportation.

Successful fighting is the chief concern of an army, but there is considerable virtue in being able to get out of a tight place. The British evacuation of Greece was not quite so satisfactory as the departure from Dunkirk, but salving fifty thousand out of an army of eighty thousand is not bad. Much heavy equipment had to be left behind, probably with no opportunity to sabotage it. The Nazis allege the capture of five thousand Allied troops during the Greek campaign, and the British report three thousand casualties. It is said that "normal" life is being restored in Greece, but it would be interesting to read a Greek report and opinion on the "normalcy" that has been attained. The Greeks showed themselves to be real men, in that they advised the English to head for home while the way was open.

LOG
of the
UNITED STATES
MARINES

EARLY AMERICAN FLAG

Rattlesnakes bedecked the drums of the American Marines who were rallying recruits to fight in the Revolution. Sometimes these snakes were shown undulating across the striped flags of the period.

Occasionally they appeared coiled on a yellow banner or encircling the trunk of a pine tree. Beneath the coiled serpent was lettered the ominous warning, "Don't tread on me!"

Startled citizens of Philadelphia noted the odd device as the sea soldiers paraded the streets. Even Benjamin Franklin admitted he was puzzled by the insignia as the marine drummers thumped a staccato tattoo to the shrill accompaniment of fifes.

Just when and where the rattlesnake motif first won favor during the Revolution is somewhat of a mystery. The fact that the device appeared on early continental flags used in Virginia and on vessels of the South Carolina Navy indicates that is was of Southern origin.

Colonel Gadsden, of South Carolina, was appointed a delegate to the Continental Congress late in 1775 at just about the same time the rattlesnake device appeared on the drums of the Marines. Colonel Gadsden presented a flag of this type to Commodore Esek Hopkins, commanding the Continental Fleet.

The rattlesnake flag, or one of similar design was carried ashore by Marines and sailors who landed at New Providence in the Bahamas in March, 1776, on one of our Navy's first expeditions. The flag's popularity was waning even before the Stars and Stripes was adopted in 1777.

Opinions as to the symbolism of the rattlesnake differed. Apparently it pointed to the union of the thirteen original colonies. A writer of the time remarked: "One of the rattles, singly, is incapable of producing a sound, but the ringing of thirteen together is sufficient to alarm the boldest man living."

The measure requires that all employes of the division be equally divided politically. Members of the excise police will be placed under a merit system and all other employes will be given a merit rating.

Employment of all of the present 80 job-holders in the department terminates at midnight May 31 and the commission will rehire present employes or engage new ones on the basis of examination grades. TOWNSEND PLAN TOLD IN THE BIBLE

The Townsend Plan, according to Rep. Paul Cunningham, Iowa's new Congressman, is to be found in the Bible, in Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, and Deuteronomy. We find that in the setting up of the Israel nation, the tribe of Levi taxed themselves ten per cent of their income which went into the general tribal fund and then when the individual reached 50, the tribe put him on a pension. The pension was so adequate that he could live at his previous economic level. The pension instead of diminishing the wealth of the tribe was found to increase it.

Even in Bible days when they applied the Townsend Plan it worked.

"Now put that in your pipe and smoke it," said Cunningham, "and remember we propose to do something about it in America."—From the Washington Flash.

We have been writing for a speaker that would be able to convince the most skeptic, of the Townsend Plan, that it is a God sent plan.

Headquarters sent a minister here last week to call on the president of St. Joe Club, Mr. Frank Akins, also the secretary to arrange for a meeting here in the near future.

New books, representing an increase in price over the old ranging from 10 to 43 cents, will affect the following subjects and grades:

English grammar — third, fourth fifth and sixth grades.

Spelling—fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

Health and hygiene—third and fourth grades.

U. S. history—seventh and eighth grades.

Home economics—seventh and eighth grades.

LEST WE FORGET

There are many who die but can never be forgotten.

To restore life and love, to our dear ones through the simple miracle of remembering.

The poet, teacher, artist, writer and the singer leave works behind to ever be alive and be respected by the younger generation.

Most men go to their graves to be soon forgotten, even in a few weeks, forgotten by friends and neighbors even by relatives.

When life is at its peak, fresh, and friendship is in flower, when the love of parents and children, of sisters brothers, wives and husbands is at its best. Then there is no sacrifice, too costly, to keep the love burning for ever.

All who have gone to their graves can still live—if only we remember.

Great and small are not forgotten if we do not forget.

So this "Memorial Day" let's let our DEAD live, by just remembering.

Take a trip to the cemetery, say a "prayer". Their "lives" are not gone—if we still remember.

EMPLOYMENT, PAY ROLLS CONTINUE UPWARD TREND

Employment and pay rolls in Indiana manufacturing plants continued the upward trend from mid-March to mid-April, according to a preliminary tabulation of reports submitted to the Indiana Employment Security Division.

These estimates showed that employment in Indiana factories reached a level of 342,000 in April, only 8,000 below the all-time high of September, 1937. The April level was 6,000, or 1.8 per cent, above March and 66,000, or 23.9 per cent, above April, 1940.

Factory pay rolls hit a new high of $10,275,000 a week, an increase of $350,000, or 3.6 per cent, over March. In comparison with April a year ago, weekly pay rolls have increased $3,180,000, or 44.9 per cent.

These estimates were compiled from reports submitted to the Employment Security Division by 797 manufacturing plants employing 185,990 wage earners in April.

April was the third consecutive month in which manufacturing employment and pay rolls advanced.

Improvement in the manufacturing industries was very general from March to April. Only two of the 14 major groups of manufacturers lost in employment and only three showed pay roll reductions. In the tobacco manufactures group, employment was off 2.5 per cent and pay rolls dropped 16.7 per cent. The textile products group decreased employment 0.2 per cent and pay rolls 3.8 per cent. Pay rolls in transportation equipment manufacturers declined 4.2 per cent even though employment increased 1.3 per cent.

Employment increases were small, ranging from 0.9 per cent in the chemicals manufacturing group to 3.4 per cent in the machinery group.

The 10 cents per hour increase for a large majority of steel mill workers, which went into effect April 1, accounted for approximately one-half of the increase in factory pay rolls from March to April.

Seven of the eight groups of nonmanufacturing industries studied increased employment and pay rolls from mid-March to mid-April. However, the almost complete stoppage of coal mining activity caused losses in the totals of 0.6 per cent in employment and 8.2 per cent in pay rolls.

Nonmanufacturing estimates were based on reports from 1475 establishments employing 44,883 wage earners in April.

The Bitter and Sweet of War

A Finger of Fate? The touch seems a blight,
To wither and darken where e'er it may fall.
Yet offers our nation vast power and might—
But to our hearts that are broken—an ebon-hued pall.

THE BITTER

Shall the rythmic tread of a million feet,
Of our laddies again go marching by?
Shall a million hearts stifle each anguished beat,
And crush back the woe from each tearless eye?
Shall these mothers of men who smile thro' their tears,
Till the crucial pain of the parting o'er—
Find sweet, gilded hope fondly cherished for years,
All lost in the pitiless sweep of War?

THE SWEET

Dark days pass—till thro' shrouded gloom,
Steals a LIGHT, as sweet as the glow of dawn—
And hearts held enthralled by this fateful doom,
Are chastened and softened—the bitterness gone.
Faith and Prayer conquers. Keep that LIGHT aglow,
For the peace no war-riven future can mar,
"Peace of the Soul!" Lift others to know!—
This is the Sweet in the Bitter of war.

I AM AN AMERICAN

By the President's proclamation, the third Sunday in May, this year, and in the years to follow, will be set aside as Citizen's Day, in which we are to take an inventory, as it were, as toward our progress along those lines mapped out by the founding fathers of our republic.

If we should propound the question to all the citizens of this country: What is an American, we might be surprised at some of the answers: the one that we would find leading the list, perhaps, would be this: One who was born or is living in The United States. This would be true enough, but not all conclusive; for, even the feathered or furry tribe, could they speak, could claim, and rightfully too, all this. No; the words convey a deeper meaning than this; there is more involved than the place of our habitat. No purely materialistic concept is adequate to define I am an American. There is the Spiritual element, that must be given recognition. America is a principle, America has, or is, a soul!

It was on September 5, 1774, that in Philadelphia, was held the first Continental Congress. It was then, that the United States began to find that soul. Later on, in 1776; under the guidance of as far seeing a group of patriots, as were ever assembled, in any part of the world, was born that Magna Charta of human rights: the Declaration of Independence and The United States Constitution: documents that were unique in the world's annals, as regards government in it's conceptions of rights and duties, of rulers and the ruled.

This was an ideology totally foreign to that which had ruled the world for centuries.

Today, this idea is being challenged by sinister forces, whose conception of government is one of mere-brute force, might opposed to right, with all power vested in one individual; totalitarianism.

Lincoln, in his Gettysburg address, speaking of our form of government, said, in substance; "We are now engaged in a struggle, to see if a government as formed, so conceived, shall endure."

Our founders of our Constitution, wisely provided safeguards, in that they did not invest all power in one individual, but gave us three departments, the legislative, the executive, and the judicial. Now, we are not only assailed by the totalitarian opposers of government by the people, as provided by our Constitution; but we are threatened by internal forces, that manifest a distrust of these same principles, which have guided us successfully through severe trials, that have tried men's souls. War hysteria has caused much loose thinking among our people.

We must fear that anarchy from within, as well as from that which lies without our borders. Any departure from the basic law of the land, must be resisted to the death, or our Republic will fall, just as surely as if assailed by a foreign assassin.

There is much reason to believe, that such forces are now at work, and that too, in the highest governmental circles. A bank may be robbed from within, as well as from without. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." List not to the voice of the siren, which is oily and smooth, but, rather to the wise counsel of Washington, Lincoln, Webster and a host of others, who lived in an age, when men were men.

Let us not accept the words of those whose motivation is force; brute force. Let's frown down men of the Stephen Decatur type, who say: "America: may she always be in the right, but, right or wrong, America first." Only a deep dyed cynic could say this: place loyalty to country before* loyalty to God. Lincoln said: "this country under God."

Let us render tribute to both God and Caesar; each in his sphere; then, when we have done this, we may implore, without insult to Deity. His blessings upon America. Our blessings have been already greater than our deserts.

So far as we measure up to the standard of government, as set by its founders. I thank God I am an American. Insofar as we fall short of these principles I tremble for her safety.

Let me close with a stanza from Longfellow's beautiful poem: "The Building of the Ship."

"Thou, too, sail on, O Ship of State!
Sail on, O UNION strong and great
Humanity with all its fears,
With all its hope of future years
Is hanging breathless on thy fate!"

A. E. Coburn.

America is trying to improve her arithmetic, it is a case of figuring two oceans and one navy.

Don't do anything and you are criticized. Do something and there is always someone to criticize, so they get you going and coming.

It is hard for some fellows to die and know that they won't have a chance to kick about the inheritance tax their family is going to have to pay.

Democracy won't fail because we didn't put up a fight for it, but it may be slightly dented because we didn't start fighting for it sooner.

TELL HER HERE

With the great expanse in business there comes the wider expanse in advertising. The firm who does the most in business does the most in advertising. The consumer knows that a competitive price calls for advertising reading and the business man knows that in order to sell the consumer he must first inform him. Advertising has brought about a large scale buying power and meant lower prices to us because it has meant production in a big way! Civilization owes a great deal to advertising and housewives in our community appreciate this.

America has a great store of commodities on hand that is laid up within our country because of no outlet to foreign markets. We must utilize these goods and decide where our added money should be spent. Local merchants want to get in line and advertise to show what they have to offer in this increased market.

GOING AND COMING

In society we lay much stress on forethought, planning ahead, preparing for an emergency, using brain-work. All of it seems to be covered by the North Carolina farmer who tried out a new way of planting his cotton. It may be that his neighbors thought him foolish or felt he was wasteful but he went on about his work. He planted one cotton seedling deep and made another planting of seeds which was shallow. One was for wet weather and the other for a late and dry year. The former won and so did the farmer while the crops in the neighborhood were burned out. The deep planting came through and so the difference in cost was made up in the production. It was cheap insurance. And as the planter says he has to thin out the cotton anyway, he wasn't out much in labor. Perhaps he has started something.

TRAVELING LIGHT

Is it our imagination or is it a fact that there aren't as many hobos riding the railroad rods as there used to be? This is the time of year when that sort of travel was quite popular with some of the fellows. They stopped off at jerk-water towns to do a bit of "panhandling" before they caught another train out. The housewife would get a call for coffee, sandwiches, and old clothes before the hobo would move on to another town close by. They tell us that the newer edition of professional hobo carries baggage as the regulation train traveller, they carry food and quite often their blankets. This is a more up-to-date bumming. Whatever their classification of hobo we still find a few of them stopping at the Town Hall as they wander from place to place seeking work, or in most cases running from it. We all wish we might be wise enough to distinguish between the deserving chap and the one who is unworthy and just wants to be a hobo.

LOG of the UNITED STATES MARINES

MARINES ARE SKY TROOPS

Dropping down to earth in parachutes is not entirely new to the U. S. Marines, but developments in Europe have led the sea soldiers to devote more attention to this means of landing and getting the "situation well in hand."

In recent weeks groups of Marines have been practicing the gentle art of parachute descending at Lakehurst, N. J. The course includes special gymnastic training for the students as well as the packing, manipulation, collapsing and handling of the chute, method of making the jump and landing.

Jumps froma training tower are followed by the first "live" leap from a plane at about 1200 feet, and then a gradual lowering of the altitude until the 'chutist jumps from 750 to 700 feet. Leaps from a lower altitude are considered unsafe.

It takes six weeks of steady training to make a parachute jumper. The technical problems they might have to solve under actual cambat conditions will be taught them later.

About twenty years ago the Army Air Service established a parachute school at Rantoul, Illinois, and a number of U. S. Navy and Marine Corps jumpers were trained there. Later many training jumps were made by marines at Quantico, Va., and at San Diego, Calif.

Alhough in recent years this type of training has not been especially stressed, parachute troops are now considered by some experts as essential to the success of certain military operations.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With the purpose of both entertaining and enlightening Gilt off the Dome readers, we are inaugurating today a new "Capitol Quiz" department, based on questions and answers contained in an official Congressional publication: "Our American Government. What Is It? How Does It Function?"

The booklet, which has just come off the press, contains 252 questions and answers concerning the history and functions of the Federal Government, compiled by Congressman Patman of Texas.

Congressman Gillie has a limited supply and will send them to constituents, without charge, on a first come, first served basis. If you want one, drop a post card to: Hon. George W. Gillie, 1522 House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

QUESTION: Is Abraham Lincoln the only President to have been born in a log cabin?

Answer. No. Presidents Jefferson, Jackson, Fillmore, Buchanan, Garfield, and Arthur were all born in log cabins.

QUESTION: Which Presidents were bachelors when elected?

Answer. Only two—James Buchanan and Grover Cleveland. During his first term, however, the latter was married to Frances Folsom, daughter of his former law partner in Buffalo. Therefore Buchanan, the only President who was never married is known as the Bachelor President.

QUESTION: Which Presidents were related?

Answer. John Quincy Adams, the sixth President, was a son of John Adams, the second President. Benjamin Harrison, the twenty-third President, was a grandson of William Henry Harrison, the ninth president. Zachary Taylor, the twelfth President, was a second cousin of James Madison, the fourth President. President Franklin D. Roosevelt is a fifth cousin, and his wife a niece, of former President Theodore Roosevelt.

QUESTION: How many Presidents were slave owners?

Answer: Ten. They were Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Tyler, Polk, Taylor, Johnson, and Grant.

QUESTION: Has there ever been a President from a State west of the Mississippi River?

Answer. So far, only one—Herbert C. Hoover, who was born in Iowa and elected to the Presidency from California.

QUESTION: Why is the President's wife called the First Lady?

Answer. Because the Presidency is regarded as the highest position any man can attain in this country, and his wife is given social precedence over all other women. When the President is not married, the woman who presides socially over the White House is called the First Lady of the Land.

QUESTION: What state has supplied the most Presidents?

Answer. Virginia has been the birthplace of eight Presidents—Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, William Henry Harrison, Tyler, Taylor and Wilson. Ohio is second, as the birthplace of seven.

QUESTION: Does the President ever wear a uniform?

Answer. Although the President is Commander in Chief of both the Army and Navy, he is a civilian. American tradition does not permit him to wear a uniform representing any branch of the military or naval service.

QUESTION: Has a President ever been married in the White House?

Answer. Grover Cleveland married his ward, Frances Folsom, in the White House on June 4, 1886. President Wilson married Mrs. Norman Galt for his second wife at her residence in Washington, D. C.

QUESTION: Has an ex-President ever served in Congress?

Answer. John Quincy Adams, after his term as President (1825-29) was elected to the House of Representatives for nine terms, serving from 1831 to his death in 1848. Andrew Johnson, President from 1865 to 1869, was elected to the Senate from Tennessee, and served from March 5, 1875, to his death on July 31, 1875. Eighteen of the 31 Presidents served in one or the other House of Congress prior to election as President.

QUESTION: What President first had an automobile?

Answer. William Howard Taft. It was purchased in 1909. Harding was the first man elected President who had driven a car himself.

SHAW AND MAYS HAVE 'UNFINISHED BUSINESS' TO SETTLE IN INDIANAPOLIS '500' MAY 30

REX MAYS
WILBUR SHAW

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — "Unfinished business" is on the books as an extra bonus for the fans when Wilbur Shaw and Rex Mays meet again in the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on May 30.

Shaw, three-time winner of the great speed meet, ran off with first place last year but a lot of fans weren't satisfied that Shaw was the best in the field. Some believed that Mays, the California go-devil, would have beaten out Shaw had not a drizzle slowed the race down for 125 miles and prevented a last-stage battle between the two. The duel is expected to be finished this year.

No driver in the game has a heavier foot than Mays. He is one of the best pilots. But he drives hard, sparing his motor nothing and himself less. No one goes into the turns with greater abandon and no one shows more daring on the straightaways. Last year, just as in previous years, he was just about the hottest thing on the track in qualifying rounds. He won the pole position for the start and he was confident that his car had the stuff to step away from the field.

He took the lead early in the race and even when Shaw snatched it away he felt confident that when it came to a two-man battle in the final stages he would be the victor. And then, with Shaw leading by two laps, it began to rain. Out came the yellow flag telling the drivers not to better their positions. That went on for 125 miles, with Mays fuming impatiently. And that was how the race ended. Mays never did get a chance to battle it out with Shaw.

Shaw won the race for the third time, joining Lou Meyer as the only three-time winner in history. Mays was second, the first time in six tries he ever completed the race, although he has been the fastest qualifier three of those six times. Mays feels that circumstance cheated him of victory and he intends to go all out for the winner's pot of gold this time.

While Mays has his plans, Shaw, the Dapper Dan of the track, a true champ, has before him the golden opportunity of becoming the first four-time winner in the history of the Indianapolis "500." Needless to say, both men will be out there gunning for all they're worth to realize their respective ambitions.

ERYSIPELAS OF SWINE A DANGER TO MAN ALSO

For many years swine raisers of Europe have suffered heavy losses from a blood disease of swine called mal rouge or red sickness, a disease due to the bacillus of swine erysipelas.

Some ten years ago, this trouble appeared in a virulent form in South Dakota. Since then it has spread with surprising rapidity over the hog belt until, by the end of last year, it had been diagnosed in 41 states.

Closely resembling hog cholera, the disease affects swine of all ages but is especially bad in baby pigs and growing shotes. Death losses are not always heavy—perhaps a fifth of the herd in a season—but many of the affected animals become chronic cases and cannot be fed out at a profit. Further, a great many of the pigs which do not die of the disease remain as carriers and may spread the disease to other animals.

One very serious feature of swine erysipelas is that the germ will thrive in the soil of hog lots and pastures. This means that once the disease gains access to a herd, the farm may remain permanently contaminated and losses will occur from year to year.

Arthritis or "big joints" are one of the most common symptoms of the disease. Any herd where pigs show ruby red ears, sloughing of the ear tips or tails, lameness and enlarged joints should immediately receive a veterinary inspection for erysipelas.

The swine erysipelas germ is a most versatile organism and the disease has been reported in turkeys and lambs as well as in swine. Human beings readily contract the disease if they handle the tissues of sick animals and the result is a painful, semi-chronic infection called erysipeloid, affecting the fingers and hands.

A potent curative serum is now available for controlling erysipelas in swine. Also a new experimental method of giving permanent protection through use of serum and cultures of the live germ is being tried in some of the worst infected areas. Veterinarians are doing splendid work in this fight to reduce erysipelas losses.

A bad case of swine erysipelas showing skin infection.

Because erysipelas and hog cholera resemble each other so closely, it is all important that young pigs be immunised against cholera, so that this disease can be ruled out of the confusing erysipelas and cholera picture.

All pigs bought at sales or shipped long distances should be widely separated from home raised pigs to avoid possible erysipelas outbreaks.

SOLDIER BOYS TO BIVOUAC NEAR AUBURN

Fort Custer, Michigan.—The fruits of long Winter months of intensive training will be harvested May 20 when the 18,000 men of the Army's 5th Division and attached units move out from Fort Custer on a southward march which will not bring them back to the home station until July.

During the six weeks the Division is away, the troops will get as realistic a dose of simulated warfare as has ever been poured out for American soldiers in peacetime. During this period the Division will have a chance to discover how much it has learned in the past few months—and how much remains to be learned. Short of actual shot and shell and a real enemy, the field exercises of the Division will be genuine.

The maneuvers are planned for southeastern Tennessee, and the Division will function as a part of the VII Army Corps, which also will include the 27th and 30th Divisions. The march from Fort Custer to the maneuver area and from the maneuver area back to Fort Custer will account for more than 1,000 miles alone, and while in Tennessee, the Division will be on the march a great deal of the time.

When Major General Joseph M. Cummins' command takes to the roads May 20 it will be virtually at war strength, its ranks swelled by the addition of thousands of Selective Service soldiers who will be getting their first taste of field duty. These Selectees have completed their basic training and are now filling important places in the various units of the Division. By the time they return to Fort Custer they will be seasoned campaigners.

The march to and from Tennessee will be a severe test of men and equipmen alike. Staff officers of the Division have planned the march in easy stages, covering approximately 75 miles a day. Even these "easy stages," however, would have caused a Civil War staff officer's eyes to bulge with astonishment.

The march to and from Tennessee is described by staff officers as a "shuttle movement," which means that motorized elements will go in one "shuttle" and foot troops in another. The latter will march increasingly greater distances each day and will cover the differences between the amounts they have travelled afoot and the prescribed length of the day's march in trucks. Nine days will be consumed in the march, and the Division will make the movement in two columns following roughly parallel routes.

The period of the maneuvers is from June 2 to June 28, and calls for both day and night operations, frequent movement of bivouacs and all the other stringent requirements of modern, accelerated warfare. The various field exercises are aranged so as to work up progressively to the final problems at the end, which will be prepared and conducted by Lieutenant General Ben Lear, commander of the Second Army.

Several units have been attached to the 5th Division for the maneuvers, including various Quartermaster and Engineer troops which have been undergoing training at Fort Custer.

The Tennessee maneuvers will stress just as have others held elsewhere in the United States in recent months, the vital importance of quick movement, quick decisions, careful planning, and instant readiness for combat. All of these lessons have been dinned into the ears of the officers and men of the Division during their training at Fort Custer.

The east division will bivouac the first night, May 20, near Auburn and the west division at Union, Michigan.

Indiana selective service headquarters announced at Indianapolis Friday that a little more than 11 out of every 100 Hoosier registrants are available and fit for service. Figures collected from the 152 local boards of the state disclosed that 140,605 registrants have been classified to date. Another 7,072 have been tentatively placed in class 1 and are awaiting physical examintion to determine their fitness. Almost 14,000—or about 11.5 per cent—of those classified thus far have been placed in class 1-A. Most of this group is already in service. Headquarters reported that dependency has been the greatest reason for deferments. More than 100,000 registrants, or 72 per cent, have been put in class 3-A because of dependents.

Rex Mays Overdue For Race Victory

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Rex Mays the "California Cannonball," is out to keep a date with Dame Victory in the 500-mile Indianapolis race on May 30. He feels she's stood him up long enough. A lanky, likeable lad, Rex has been for years just about the hottest driver on the track but he just somehow never seemed able to get under the wire first. For three years out of six he has been the fastest qualified and holds the unofficial lap record for the two-and-a-half-mile oval. Last year he finished second after rain had slowed the race down and prevented him from engaging in a final-stage duel with Wilbur Shaw, the eventual winner.

This year he has again been named to drive the speedster entered by Robert M. Bowes and engineered, built and managed by Lou Meyer, retired veteran of the track. The car's motor has been revamped to increase its speed and Mays is confidently looking forword to the Decoration Day classic.

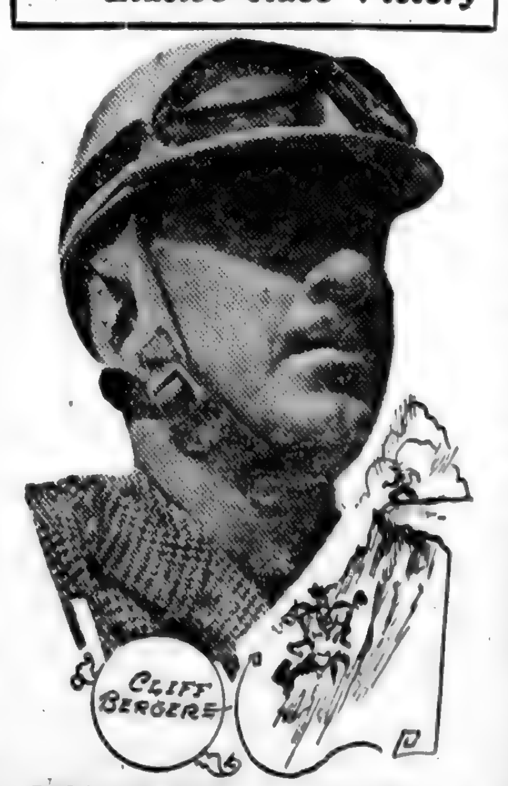
Film Stunt Ace Seeks Elusive Race Victory



INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Cliff Bergere, movie stunt ace, knows all the tricks except one—how to win the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Cliff has come close a number of times but he has never been able to flash under the wire a winner. He has finished in the money seven times, annd came as close as third place in 1939.

If physical condition alone made a winner, Bergere would be almost a sure thing. Nobody in the game trains more faithfully for the annual Decoration Day grind than Bergere. He does road work and gymnastics constantly and if there's any slack he takes it up in his daily chores of overturning autos, crashing airplanes and diving of precipices.

This year Bergere will try again for that tantalizing first place in the "500." Winning it is the one trick above all others he'd like to accomplish.

Clifford Townsend, Sherman "Shay" Minton, Wayne Coy, Tristram Coffin, T. A. Dicus and James Penman, former secretary to Minton.
